JURY DEBATES FATE OF MURDER SUSPECT

CALIFORNIA EAGLE

VOL. 60 — NO. 19 LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 17, 1939 PRICE 5 CENTS

HUNG JURY, LOCKED UP IN HOTEL, MAY DECIDE FATE TODAY

20-Year Old Youth Tried on 9 Counts in One of Speediest Trials on Record

Hung on the fate of slim, youthful Benjamin A. Jones, accused murderer of a white woman, an all-white jury was locked up in a downtown hotel shortly after 8 o'clock last night and will resume deliberation today.

Handed the case, in which the death penalty has been asked, at three o'clock yesterday, the jurors, four men and 8 women, wrangled five hours before Judge Arthur Crum called an adjournment until this morning at 9:30.

In one of the speediest death trials on Los Angeles county records, Jones, 20-year old Central Avenue Gardens youth, was brought to trial Monday. Attorneys for his defense and the prosecution argued less than 12 hours before presenting their final pleas to the jury. The youth was tried on 9 counts, including murder, rape, attempted murder, robbery and burglary.

COURT CROWDED

A courtroom, crowded by friends of the boy's parents and his asserted victims, heard Jones accused and defended of the murder and rape last March 14 of 21-year old Mrs. Maxine Varnell, the rape and robbery of another white woman, Mrs. A. Bolin, the shooting of an Eastside gas station attendant and numerous robberies and burglaries.

Jones, son of a city garbage truck driver, took the stand once, testifying that officers to whom he assertedly confessed when arrested June 21, beat him and forced the statement. Arresting officers, Lieutenants Thad Brown and L. J. Hurst of Central Homicide squad, were cross-examined by Defense Attorney David Berniker in an attempt to break down their claim that the boy had volunteered a confession after his fingerprints were matched to those found in the victims' homes.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jones, mother of the accused youth, was questioned by both attorneys. She testified that she had never seen the radios, assertedly stolen by the youth, and cached under his bed.

Six-Count Indictment Returned Against Dennis Chatman jr.; Child, 6, Describes Attack By "Uncle Buddy" on His Niece

Dennis Chatman jr., 20-year old Compton Junior college star athlete, was arrested this week by Newton Street police and charged with suspicion of rape and incest, on the complaint of his sister, the mother of his 8-year old victim.

A six-count indictment was returned against the youth by the District Attorney's office Tuesday. Bail was set at $1500.

Chatman was arrested after a six-year old child, in whose presence he had raped his small niece, described the scene to her mother. Police said he confessed to the act and signed a statement.

FREQUENT ABUSE

Eight-year old Charlene White, second grade pupil, with whose parents Chatman made his home at 748 E. 31st street, freely decribed to juvenile authorities the frequent abuse she had submitted to in the past few months. She said the attacks took place in the rear of Chatman's automobile, in the garage of their home.

The last one, she said, occurred on August 3.

After examination by medical authorities, the youngster was placed in juvenile hall. She also told police that her mother, Mrs. Charles White, had caught the boy in an attempted assault on her on a previous occasion, but had only given him a rebuke. Police said Mrs. White obviously had not reported Chatman because he was her brother and their mother had died only a short time before.

Both little girls stated that Chatman, whom they called "Uncle Buddy," had imposed himself on other youngsters, who are being sought by juvenile authorities.

Chatman graduated with a brilliant athletic record from Jefferson High school. At Compton, he played on the football team and was a champion discus thrower.

The One-Man Truck

BY BABA

The "idle" time of loaders on the city refuse trucks which is defined as—the time spent on the trucks going to and from the route and point of disposal—is the big saving to be effected by the city engineers if their proposed one-man truck proposition is adopted.

The city engineers it seems, are getting up on their "P's and Q's;" the time spent by the garbage and can collectors going after the garbage and cans is costing the city money. What next? One is wondering if this fine collection of engineers will next take one of the policemen out of the cars that spend their time cruising around the city streets or pursuing a "lead" of a crime being enacted or a place being burglarized—there is a lot of time spent in "idleness" by firemen and policemen going to and from the scene of action. A saving equal to many times that to be had by cutting off the meager existence of a loader on a garbage truck could be effected. Perhaps too, some of the inspectors who duplicate each other in their work of inspection out of the different departments; the time lost by the city when they commute back and forth might be added to the list of "idle" time for which the city pays. Then there is a whole gang of commissioners, a whole raft of investigators, a whole colony of white-collar job men with city cars bearing the city seal using city money to ride up and down city streets at the city's expense—men earning ten times as much as the existence money being paid to the poor loader on a rubbish or garbage wagon who must support a large family and pay taxes in order that others more in the power will have money enough for their "idleness."

The waste of taxpayers money thru "idleness" by high-powered, high-salaried men in official capacity, is so evident in the City Hall that Mayor Bowron, fed up on the "idle" conditions there, issued a statement this week decrying them. Men paid thousands of dollars per month, entrusted with the duty of opening their offices, starting the business of the city on time, are said to be from one-half to one hour late at their post of duty. It is somewhat strange, that the city engineers have not checked up on this waste of city funds. Too, what about all of that time the city paid those engineers whose salaries run into four figures, to check on the meager earnings of a helpless lot of poor loaders in order that they may keep on drawing those fat pay checks???

Memphis Elks to Treat N.Y. to "Blues"

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—When the Memphis delegation to the Elks' convention hits Harlem August 21 it will boast that history definitely will be made, for Harlem swing supremacy, hitherto unquestioned, will vanish before the warbling of the blues.

Long noted for "doing up brown" whatever it undertakes, Beale Street is not only sending the biggest delegation, as befits the largest Negro Elks' lodge in the South, but with it will be the famed Booker T. Washington High School Drum and Bugle Corps. Considered the finest all-girl aggregation of its kind and composed of 60 of the prettiest brown misses along the Mississippi, it symbolizes the spirit of Beale Street and its glamorous and melodramatic past. These 60 dusky debutantes will "send" New York by singing and playing along the line of march the Blues that have made Memphis more famous than its namesake on the Nile . . .

"Father of the Blues" to Lead

Heading the huge Memphis delegation, with its blues-chanting choir and the celebrated Beale Street Marching Club, will be the patriarch of jitterbugs, famed W. C. Handy, composer of "Memphis Blues", "Beale Street Blues", "St. Louis Blues", etc., who started America on its way to syncopated supremacy. Robert R. "Bob" Church, millionaire Negro political leader of Memphis will ride in the limousine with Handy, as will Lieut. George W. Lee, Memphis insurance man and author of "Beale Street: Where the Blues Began" and "River George".

Colorfully uniformed delegations representing Elks from 43 states will be in the line of march, but Beale Street swears that neither the lilies of the field, the jungle birds with their gorgeous plumage nor Solomon in all his glory will compare with its chanting girls and colorful uniforms. Even Mr. Whalen's boys at The World of Tomorrow will be eclipsed, it is said.

So proud is Memphis of its gorgeous, all-girl drum and bugle corps that white and colored citizens joined in raising $2,800 to pay the brown misses' way to Gotham. E. H. Crump, Congressman and Memphis political boss for whose early campaign Handy wrote the famous "Memphis Blues" has donated $500.

by c. a. b.

I NEVER TIRE of seeing the sights of New York City. Last week I mentioned some few things I saw and heard in Harlem. This week I'd like to take you on a little jaunt through the Latin quarter, adjacent to Harlem. I had heard so much about going "Under the Bridge" for bargains, hence when my opportunity came last week and I had a chance to choose between attending a brilliant social affair or going to the Latin quarter on a shopping expedition, I chose the latter.

It was about ten A. M. when we started on the journey. The "Under the Bridge" section starts just a short distance before 116th Street, runs into Park Avenue. Persons who have never lived in New York or only visited it for a short time, think of the Park Ave. district as the ultra aristocratis neighborhood. Hence the mention of Park Ave. in connection with this peculiar market bargaining section strikes one, I imagine, as it did me, in the manner of a very strange arrangement. Nevertheless, this heterogeneous conglomeration of human beings from all parts of Europe, Panama, Puerto Rico, South America, and the West and East Indies make up the American population of "Under the Bridge." And in this quarter of the World's greatest metropolis, life, apparently, begins and ends on the sidewalk. The street merchants seem to sense one's needs, and they flaunt their goods in your face, quoting prices as they do so. Evidently, this area is not only the business section for merchandise, but also the residential section for the people. Standing back of the overstocked shops are dingy five and six story houses. An occasional glance reveals the emaciated form of an old man or woman, too time worn to longer ply their trade, partly hanging from the windows as they desperately seek escape from the intense heat within their small, ramshackled quarters.

There were two things in particular that attracted my attention "Under the Bridge". First, the riotous colors—there was no mourning at the counters. The Jew competed with the Scandinavian; and the Spaniard, because his language or some Spanish brogue is often spoken in the district, assumes a priority over both in offering his bright colors to the human stream that flows through the section daily. And the second attraction that claimed my close attention was the race question. In the United States, national and racial connections seemingly are predicated on color. This is not the case "Under the Bridge." Here one sees every color among humans mixing and mingling. I did not ask about intermarriage among those various groups, for there in the slimy, stinking gutters, and narrow alleys, receptacles for rotten fruits and vegetables, played their offspring.

The one thing that is definitely missing in this section is American English. Black, white, bronze and yellow, even the tiny tots, spoke foreign tongues when addressing one another that I did not understand.

As I watched this melting pot "Under the Bridge", I wondered whether Greater New York was just marching on taking little thought of what is happening in such picturesque settlements. It is interesting to note that a body of exiled white Russians have also taken up residence "Under the Bridge."

Bigamy Suspect Jailed on Wife No. 1's Complaint

Milan Drew, 25-year old chauffeur of 5517 Hooper avenue, whose wife read of his marriage to another woman in the vital statistics columns of the EAGLE, was nailed this week on suspicion of bigamy, following a complaint made last week by Mrs. Vernell Drew.

Faced by Mrs. Drew No. 1 and "Mrs. Drew No. 2," who is Robbie Lee Yates, both prepared to testify that "Lothario" had said "I do" to each of them. Drew admitted the marriages, but claimed he thought his wife had divorced him.

Police dug up a previous arrest of the suspected bigamist, for non-support of his child in 1937. He served a year, following conviction, in the County Jail. Ordered to support the child when he and the legal Mrs. Drew separated in 1936, he has avoided his obligations, his wife said, and she and the child have been forced on relief.

Sleeping Powder All Right, But Too Much Isn't

An aged woman, suffering from rheumatism, narrowly escaped death this week from an overdose of sleeping powder. Mrs. Emma Reed, 1151 E. 43rd street, is slowly recovering in the General hospital today after a too-lavish dose of morphine which completely knocked her out.

Her son, Ernest Taylor, told ambulance doctors who rendered first aid, that he had taken his mother to the office of a Japanese doctor on W. 45th street and when he returned, found her sitting on the floor, supported from behind by the doctor.

Carrying her to the car, the young man said he took her home and when she remained unconscious, called the ambulance.

Now De Scripture Sez:

"Thou shalt not vex a stranger." But my Aunt was always saying, "Well, I don't like to disobey the Scripture, but the way a lot of strangers do behave when they board a crowded trolley car is enough to vex the Arch-Angels, let alone a poor body that is being buffeted about this mundane plane.

Yours until trolley riders won't be quite so sort of ornery-like, Eugene Henry Huffman.

Wife Divorces Avenue Figure

Thomas Bowens, popular figure on the Avenue, was divorced by his pretty wife, Nora Bowens, in Department 17 of the Superior Court before Carl A. Stutsman, presiding judge. Mrs. Bowens charged her husband with extreme cruelty.

Bowens is alleged to have kidnapped the woman in his car after the divorce suit was filed and carried her to the mountains where he beat her unmercifully and threatened to kill her. Mrs. Bowens escaped ond later had Bowens arrested and held for trial in the Municipal Court. Miss Pudene Collins, 2721 Stanford avenue, was Mrs. Bowens corroborating witness.

KANSAS CITY (Kas.) Aug. 17—Miss Ruth Payne, 22, niece of Mrs. Edna Whitley of Los Angeles, was dead here today, a suicide. In the presence of her sweetheart and friends, the young woman drank a double dose of a deadly poison.

Catholic School for Girls to Be Built in Harlem.

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—For the first time in the history of the Archiocese of New York, a Catholic High school for Negro girls will be established this Fall, if a present scheme is carried thru. Plans are now being perfected to have the school, All Saints academy, located in Harlem, will be ready for the next term.

All the students of the 75-year old High school for Catholic girls, one of the oldest academies in the city, have been transferred to other Catholic schools in New York as the first step in the project.

Although Negroes have studied at other Catholic schools in the city, this would be the first time a school has been strictly limited to Negro enrollment. Non-Catholic as well as Catholic girls would be admitted.

Reporter Aids in Capture of Kidnap - Robbery Suspect

In a fiction-like manner, a reporter early Sunday morning participated in the capture of a kidnap-robbery suspect that was effected 30 minutes after a police radio broadcast had radioed his description. Earl Morris, well-known newspaper correspondent for an Eastern paper, captured the suspect, in company with Robert "Bob" Manley, a special officer.

The newsman was reported standing at the corner of Olympic Boulevard and Central avenue conversing with the special officer when a radio car relayed the message, giving details of a kidnapping and gas station holdup and descriptions of the suspects. A half hour later, the pair saw a man in a chauffeur's uniform who answered the description of one of the suspects.

The reporter, who reportedly was once a police officer in an Eastern city, walked toward the suspect at 11th and Central without arousing his suspicion. Covering the man, they found him armed with a .38 calibre revolver. Taken to Newton street jail, the man gave his name as Lawrence Benjamin Colly, 2702 Paloma street.

CLARENCE MUSE A-TALKIN' TO YOU . . .

CLARENCE MUSE

I HEAR SO MUCH talk about "Good Government" and cleaning up the City of Los Angeles that I am almost ready to accept it as a valid decision. Now comes to my notice that in order to keep the city cleaner, we must cut down on garbage men. The men who drive the city garbage trucks must now hop down off the truck, pick up the garbage, load it, and then drive to the next stop. In other words, it doesn't make any difference if the garbage collector is two hours or two days late in picking up the waste of the kitchen, that must sit in most cases, on the front sidewalk. This doesn't make sense in regards to "Good Government" or cleaning up the city. The other important factor is that it is a serious economic blow to the colored citizens of this city. The group who is seldom considered on white collar jobs, must now accept a cut in a job that most men would refuse to do. Mr. Aldridge, the city engineer and our Mayor, chief exponent for "Good Government," are straining backwards to impress the citizens of their zealousness to save money, with no regard to human needs or the fact that a group of citizens who pay taxes have a right to employment in the city government. I am sure that the thinking citizens will resent this political move, and demand a little fair play. The amount of money this would save the city as compared to the financial harm to a group of under-paid employees, is ridiculous. It would not take a genius to look at the daily papers and see the expensive investigations and court cases we are engaged in daily for no purpose, to readily note where the waste is. Surely it is no waste to keep the garbage from the front door, but more than it is a waste to have a janitor clean the Mayor's office after a busy day. I would like Mr. Aldridge to tell me another funny one. I still have a sense of humor. He should laugh, also. Forget it, Mr. Aldridge and we can all enjoy the joke. Let us have Negroes keep picking up the garbage while other men receive lucrative appointments. Let those poor drain men [illegible] their wives and children.

BAN ON POLL TAX TO FACE '40 CONGRESS SESSION

Stage Set for Elks; 'World of Tomorrow' is Background

NEW YORK, Aug. 10—With the "World of Tomorrow" as a background, the stage is all set for the 40th Annual Grand Lodge convention of Elks, the Improved Benevolent Order of Elks of the World. . . (as distinguished from the white body). A week-long session, mixing business and cultural activities with gay frolicking, as only Finley Wilson's Antlered Herd know how to stage, will open Sunday morning at 11 a. m. with solemn baccalaureate services at dignified St. Marks' M. E. church, and close the following Saturday morning with a farewell ball and promenade in Park Palace.

For the week, Harlem will go to the Elks! . . . and love it. Harlem has literally moved out of its homes, letting all available accomodations to the Housing committee, in charge of the difficult task of housing the throng of men and women from California to New England; Florida to Canada.

New York officialdom is prepared to shout "Hello Bill", as heartily as Harlem. Mayor LeGuardia has loaned the Convention tax commissioner Hubert T. Delany of the Elks' Civil Liberties unit. for the duration of the confab. Lieut. Samuel Battle, Harlem police favorite and Elk leader, is head of a squad of "coppers", detailed to protect conventioners from the wiles of Big City slickers.

World famous Duke Ellington and equally famous Cab Calloway have been engaged to play hit tunes for the "Bills" and their ladies at the high point of the Convention, the Grand Ball, at the 369th Armory, expected to accomodate 20,000 dancers. Henry Armstrong will be presented, a Queen of Elkdom crowned, winners of the $1,000 oratorical contest announced and Finley Wilson and Mrs. Abbie Johnson, Grand Exalted and Grand Daughter Rulers, respectively, will lead the Grand March in, to use the words of the "Little Napoleon", the biggest ball, in the biggest city, of the biggest and greatest nation on earth".

THE PROGRAM

Dr. Emmett J. Scott, recent Republican appointee, will deliver the baccalaureate address, to be followed that afternoon by the economic session of the Educational Unit, and the annual sermon in the evening, delivered by Grand Chaplain, Rev. George Avant.

Samuel S. Liebowitz, famed Scottsboro attorney, will speak Monday afternoon at the Civil Liberties session. The oratorical contest will be held in the evening and a reception for the victorious youngsters will follow at Harlem's Renaissance Hall.

The Grand Lodge sessions will open Tuesday morning at the Abyssinia Baptist church and the Grand Temple at St. Marks'. With addresses of welcome from Mayor LaGuardia and Governor Lehman, the Temple and Lodge will convene in a public session at 11:00 o'clock at Abyssinia.

Divine's Kingdom May Include British Isles

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—Father Divine's kingdom may take in the British Isles, it was rumored here today. Mrs. Joyce Newton, disciple of the Harlem God, arrived here this week and told of the rapid spread of the Divine movement throughout the British Isles and predicted there would soon be many "heavens' over there.

The under-privileged British working class is fertile soil for the Divine doctrines, it was said.

"Everyone in England knows who he is," Mrs. Newton said.

"There is not so much antaganism there as here, because England is in a bad state and is calling out for some solution."

Rivaling the Grand Ball for the high point of the Convention is the Grand Parade through Harlem Tuesday afternoon. Elks, in traditional regalia, augmented by military units, floats and features, make it annually, in whatever city, a show to be envied by the great showman, P. T. Barnum, himself.

The World's Fair will be turned into picnic grounds for the Elks on Wednesday afternoon. A Golden Gloves boxing show, a theatre party, and banquet for the Grands will close the festivities.

Californian Introduces Measure

Geyer's Bill Would Outlaw Poll Tax in Federal Elections

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17. (Special to CNA)—Overlooked in the closing hours of the past Congress, but on the calendar for action when the session reconvenes in January was a bill directly attacking restrictions upon the right to vote of millions of Americans, particularly the Negro of the South now disfranchised by local discrimination.

The bill, introduced an hour before adicurnment by Rep. Lee E. Geyer, California New Dealer, would outlaw the poll tax in federal elections. It is sponsored by the Southern Conference for Human Welfare's Civil Rights Committee.

The measure proposes an amendment to the Corrupt Practices Act, pointing out that the Poll Tax is frequently paid for whole blocks of voters by unscrupulous politicians and thus furthers corrupt elections. If passed, the law would make it "unlawful for any person, whether or not acting under the authority of the laws of a state or sub-division thereof, to require the payment of a poll tax as a prerequisite for voting, or registering to vote, at any election for a President of Vice President or presidential elector or Senate or member of the House of Representatives of the United States."

Laws making payment of poll taxes a condition to voting in national and local elections are in force in eight states—Virginia, South Carolina, Tennessee, Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama and Texas.

CALIFORNIA ELKS WILL SEEK 1940 MEET FOR L. A.

Dr. W. R. Carter Returns from Trip Thru East, South

Dr. William R. Carter general missionary to the Baptists of Southern California returned a few days ago fom an extensive trip in the East and South. Primarily, Dr. Carter's chief point of interest was the Baptist World's Alliance held in Atlanta, Georgia, where representatives of every race and from 60 nations were in attendance.

Dr. Carter said in an interview

DR. W. R. CARTER . . . Returns

this week, "It was the largest and most potent religious gathering ever held in America. Negroes were accorded the fullest recognition. Negro Baptists were given 21 places on the Convention Program. Dr. L. K. Williams was elected First Vice-President of the Baptist World Alliance, and five other Negroes were elected to its Executive Committee. Locally 8 Negroes served on the executive committee of Georgia and Atlanta Baptists. The color line was completely smashed. There was no segregation. Negroes enjoyed the fullest liberty wherever their duties and services took them. It was a new day in the heart of the South."

Two days were spent by the religious leader in Tuskegee, Alabama as the guest of President Frederick Patterson, Tuskegee Institute.

Tuskegee is still America's leading institution for the correlation of literary and vocational training for Negro Youth. The Federal Hospital, located on the grounds of Tuskegee Institute, managed entirely by Negroes, is the inspiration of the Negro South. Dr. Carter was the evening guest of the great scientist, Dr. George W. Carver. Dr. Carver appreciates the interest manifested in him by all Californians', especially the Tuskegee Alumni and the George Washington Carver club.

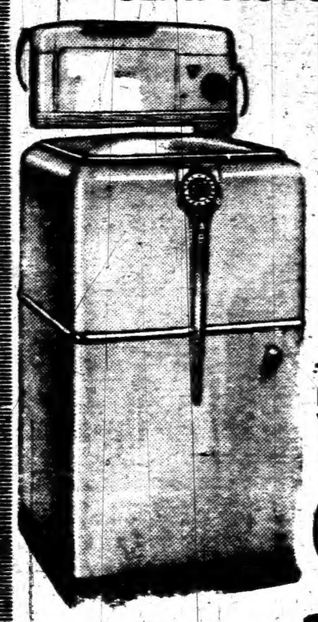
Active in the Baptist work of the Coast, Mr. Payne attended the Baptist State convention which held forth at Second Baptist church here last week.

While East he will visit his birthplace, West Virginia and also Ohio, where he was reared and educated. Granville, Ohio, the home of his Alma Mater, Denison university, will claim some of his time.

Intensely interested in the problems of education as the only Negro principal of a High school in California, Mr. Payne will make a study of schools thruout the East in an effort to take back to the Douglas High school of El Centro the various methods that spell improvement.



For 23 years, W. A. Payne has labored to bring the standard of education for the people of the valley on an equal to that of other parts of the State. He has been the guiding influence in bringing about a condition of living there that is rapidly approaching that to be found in any California town.

El Centro is a town of about 1500 persons. Quite a number of modern homes are being built. "We are trying to get the Federal Housing Project for the district; it is one of the things El Centro needs," said Payne in an interview with an EAGLE reporter.

Young Angelenos seem to find Santa Barbara a great spot for a vacation, especially during the days of the annual fiesta in honor of Saint Barbara. Pretty little Barbara Hopper, recent Jefferson High school graduate; Iotha Johnson, vivacious and versatile UCLA co-ed; Ereatha Allen, attractive LACC student; and Consuelo Sims, lovely young High school student; are just a few of those who are helping to make Santa Barbara's fiesta gayer.

The ensemble on the left can look very charming on practically anyone who has a flare for youthful clothes. The scotch-plaid effect of the bolero should be worn loosely, with a matching belt or band of the same material. Note that the belt is extremely wide. The dress is of contrasting color and would look especially well in deep blue crepe or rayon shark skin. The front is tailored, and the skirt is quite full.

The young lady in white is wearing just the thing for a hot day—simple and sweet. Made up in cotton or linen, the coat has slightly puffed leg-o-mutton sleeves and simple collar. Note the unusual pocket effect with the flap buttoning from the bottom—simple, but very effective. The skirt is very plain except for the flare bottom for comfort and freedom of movement. It should prove becoming, no matter what your complexion.

CHATTER & SOME NEWS

By HELEN F. CHAPPELL, Society Editor

If Angelenos have ever really wished for visitors. . . then "Wishing makes it So". There is a veritable deluge of them on hand or coming or going.

By far the most outstanding visitors of the current fortnight are Judge and Mrs. Armond W. Scott of Washington, D. C. They have been the motif of one round after another of entertainments. Among them a banquet by local barristers of the Langston Law Club and one by the Kappas (for the judge only). At the former, Clarence Jones held the emcee chair at 2130 W. 29th St. . . . For the latter, Atty. David Williams, Regional vice polemarch, took over duties of the toastmaster in the Clark Hotel last Thursday night. . . and the Kappa fraters received greetings from their national officers and the East through the famed jurist.

MORE ENTERTAINMENT:

Judge Scott was honored Saturday evening with a banquet in the Clark Hotel hosted by the United Democratic Luncheon Club of which Robert B. Strather is president and Jay Moss, executive secretary. Entertainment reached a high point in the singing of Buddy Williams and Ruby Elzy. . . and the judge was magnificent in a brief eloquent un-political address on Negroes in the making of America declaring that "We have never given birth to a traitor. . . and never will." Also honored by felicitations at the banquet was his wife gowned in black and silver fox fur. . . She is a favorite in Washington's social circles and known for her distinct style in dress.

Among notables at the banquet were: John P. Davis, executive secretary of the National Negro Congress here for a week-end with the local branch, Earl B. Dickerson, alderman from Chicago; Mrs. Fay E. Allen, L. A. school board member. . . and first Negro to win such an elective position. Outstanding local persons included: Judges Newcomb Condee and Minor Moore; Chief of Police Hellener; W. A. Easter, Mrs. Faustina Johnson, Mrs. Jessie Terry, Atty. and Mrs. Loren Miller; Attys. Hugh MacBeth and Charles Matthews, Assemblyman Augustus Hawkins. . . and scores of others.

Sunday morning, the Women's Breakfast Club held forth with 150 guests and Blanche Wiley, USC co-ed presiding. . . with Judge Scott again featured as the speaker. . . who had to leave early to make the Kappa Mothers' picnic over in South Park.

Fully a third of the breakfast club's guests were out-of-towners and among them such notables as "Ukelele Joe" Thompson of Omaha, Nebraska who answered the clamor for a selection on one of the fifty-four types of ukeleles he makes in his own workshop. . . and Dr. and Mrs. Gordon of the British West Indies, guests of the local Dr. and Mrs. Gordon in the East Twenties. A gala spirit prevaded the gathering with Clarence Muse leading assistance to the emceeing and entertainment. . . and Lorenzo Jordan Cole and Katharine Brooks volunteering to serve at the piano.

Also present were: Dr. and Mrs. H. Claude Hudson. L. G. Robinson, Titus Alexander, Dr. A. J. Booker. . . in a new bow tie (of blue!) but with red dots. . his charming spouse who has just returned from a jaunt abroad brought it back for him. At the close of the breakfast, Percy Buck just about stole the show with his booming oratory complimenting the work of the organization and calling for other forces to follow their example. Victor Nickerson was there with his bride of a month (Ernestine Beasley) who drew plenty of compliments on her smart print and white hat with generous brim. . . and my friend, Miss Lulu Boswell, R. N. and faculty member of Wilberforce University.

AND THIS ISN'T ALL:

Sunday morning Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Russ (Calme Ellsworth) presented their lovely new baby at Lincoln Memorial Congregational church for christening by Rev. E. E. Lightner. The little lass's name is Lois Anita. . . and proud godparents are Prof. and Mrs Mack Greene of Wilberforce University, Ohio (who visited the Norman Hopkinses in W. 27th St. for a week); Mrs. Louise Mounts and Rudy Thomas. With two sets of godparents little Lois will probably fare very very well. . . and such nice ones too.

Out-of-towners of the week that have been especially refreshing to meet. . . and see the town include: Lydia Shane, of Evansville, Ind.; Mae Wood of St. Louis who's here attending USC; Mrs. Ione Trice of Chicago. . . music instructor at Southern University, and her sister. Mrs. Mary Edwards, mortician of Savannah, Ga., and niece, Miss Earnestine Curtwright, French instructor at Florida State college. . . all have traveled abroad and in the U. S. . . Also, Mrs. Mary Gould and cousin, Miss Earnestine Gould, Philadelphia school teachers; and Bob Hazelwood who teaches problem boys in Camden, N. J. . . knows so many of our friends. . . He's interested in meeting local Omegas. . . is stopping at the Dunbar.

Norman O. Houston week-ended and began this week in Oakland attending the state convention of the Legionnaires. . . with him went J. Howard Scott. . . Trailing them was Bige Wyatt of St. Louis with friends John ny Walker and Mr. Lowe. Mr. Wyatt owns a fleet of thirty taxis in the "Show Me" state.

Petite Bernardine Lyons and her mother left Tuesday morning for Chicago and New York. . . Miss Thelma Hill, Kansas guest of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Beavers Jr., left Monday night after a fortnight's stay . . . and her hosts hied out for Yosemite Tuesday morning with the Dee Hodges (Helen Beavers). . . The Sam Browns (Virgil Johnson) went to the GGIE. . . and. . . Sorry, it has to end here. . . Bye now. . .

P. S.—For a real treat tonight, tune in on KGFJ at 6:30 (The Gold Hour) and here the second drama in the series "Between the Lines of American History" by Almena Davis. Tonight's sketch is concerned with Sojourner Truth with Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew in the title role. Both the author and players apparently 'know their stuff.'

HIGHER EDUCATION LARGELY A FAILURE--MORRIS

EDUCATOR TO SPEAK AT FIRST A. M. E., 8TH & TOWNE SUNDAY

Tennessee State Professor Heard By Austin Throng; Guest Preacher Here

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 17.—Dr. Charles Satchell Morris, professor of English and director of publicity at Tennessee A. and I. State college, Nashville, stunned this conservative college city Sunday when he declared in an address before hundreds at the Ebenezer Tabernacle that higher education among Negroes had been very largely a failure.

Instead of producing the kind of men and women who would sacrifice for the general good and promote the welfare of the group as a whole, Dr. Morris asserted that the average college student and graduate alike was selfish, egotistic, untrained and anxious to get away from his people.

He claimed that the business men of the group who are giving employment to young people have themselves never been to college.

Whether the rising generation would be able to "live down" the fact that they had matriculated at institutions of higher learning was open to serious question, declared Dr. Morris who pointed out that in the five colleges where he had professorships he found the students lazy intellectually, seeking ease, and majoring in football or other athletic activities. When questioned as to remedies he would propose to correct the situation, he maintained that it is erroneous to assume that mere graduation from college will automatically solve the problems of a race for thereby they are often increased rather; that the colleges must place a new emphasis upon the practical and creative.

Will Speak on The Pacific Coast

Dr. Morris came to Austin from Marshall where he had been a guest last Friday at the annual summer convocation held at Bishop College. He is at present engaged on an 3000 mile transcontinental tour which will take him to California and the far West. After speaking at San Antonio Tuesday, El Paso Thursday and Phoenix, Arizona Friday, he will be the guest preacher Sunday at the 67th anniversary exercises of the First A. M. E. church, 8th and Towne streets, Los Angeles. He will speak at more than a score of cities in California alone.

The graduating class of the Henrietta School of Beauty of 32 young women, were guests at the morning worship. Dr. E. W. The afternoon musical, in which five outstanding choirs participated, was a success. Evening worship was well attended.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

Paul's words to the Romans, "Who hath known the mind of the Lord? or who hath been his counsellor? . . . For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: to whom be glory for ever." are the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Mind" on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

Among the Scriptural citations are these passages about Jesus from Matthew: "And when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a certain man, kneeling down to him, and saying, Lord, have mercy on my son: for he is lunatick, and sore vexed: . . . And Jesus rebuked the devil; and he departed out of him: and the child was cured from that very hour. Then came the disciples to Jesus apart, and said, Why could not we cast him out? And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you, If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you."

A selection from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, includes the statements: "Jesus never spoke of disease as dangerous or as difficult to heal. When his students brought to him a case they had failed to heal, he said to them, 'O faithless generation,' implying that the requisite power to heal was in Mind."

8th & Towne Celebrates 67 Years

Holds Distinction of Being Oldest Negro Institution in City

Historic 8th and Towne AME church will begin its 67th Anniversary Celebration Sunday. The historic Church has been one of the land-marks and leaders in religious and civic affairs since its founding in 1873, holding the distinction of being the oldest Negro institution in Los Angeles.

For the past 39 years, First AME has been located at the corner that has become known throughout America, because of it, as, "8th and wne." This edifice was erected by the late Rev. J. E. Edwards who, while attending the Ecumenical Council in Edinburg, Scotland, secured the plans for the building of the stately Gothic building, one of the most beautiful owned by the AME connection.

At present the building is being turned into a stucco structure. During the anniversary celebration, it will re-dedicated with many additions; new lights, new approaches, an electric drinking fountain, and a painting of builder, Dr. Edwards and of Bishop Allen will be unveiled. A stone pulpit with an open Bible under glass, is being placed on 8th street "that those who run may have daily readings as they pass by," stated Rev. Mansfield Collins, pastor.

The work of unveiling will be done in a pageant by "Miss Towne" to be chosen from a group of young women in a popularity contest, August 23. The services of re-dedication and special installation will be held Sunday, August 27, at two o'clock with the Ben Bowie Post of the American Legion participating.

A banquet will be held next Thursday in the Banquet Hall of the Avalon Christian church.

Central Ave. District Realty Board

We have come a long way in our search for the secret of building good will for Real Estate. I hope it is less of a secret than it was before. The one thought above all other, that I should like to leave with you this afternoon, is a very cheerful one. It embodies the kernel of everything I have said. In this days' gneration, service pays; the more you do for your customers, the more you will do for yourself, for of necessity, if you render service, you will put your business on a scientific and a truly professional basis, you will render more service and you will have more good will. And good will is the asset of your business that brings the greatest total profit and the highest price in case of a sale.

These are the ambitions and requirements of the following members of the Central Ave. District Realty Board.
Members as follows:

GLOBE NEWS & GOSSIP

By Jay Gould

Jay Gould Remembers—from 1920 to the Present:

1920

When there was more betting on ball games than on racing . . . Carpentier prepared to come over and box Dempsey . . . Harry Frazee peddled Babe Ruth for 125 G's to Colonel Jake Ruppert . . . Sam Riddle's remarkable colt, "Man o' War", tabbed as the world's greatest racehorse at the beginning of his three-year old campaign, sold for the best buy of all times, $5,000.

1921

Dick and Pete Williams, famous horsemen and trainers, investigated by Kentucky racing commission . . . Dempsey and Carpentier fought in Jersey.

1922

Babe Ruth offered contract for 50 G's with $500 bonus for each home run . . . Prominent horsemen, jockeys, and film celebrities accused of being in on Williams' melon . . . Hawthorne park held brief and troublesome meeting . . . Kid North and Bob Rowe shipped stable of horses East from Tia Juana.

1923

Financial bigwigs fought to restore Illinois racing . . . Tia Juana refused Williams brothers' entries because it was said horses had false registration . . . Curley Brown takes run-out powder and stops promoting . . . Earl Sande credited with being world's greatest jockey.

1924

Hawthorne holds 25-day meeting against the law as two prominent gamblers are revealed as backers . . . Fair Grounds, New Orleans, had very disastrous meeting . . . Joseph M. Smoot built million dollar track in Miami.

1925

Pat Knebelkamp takes down 500 G's on Kentucky season . . . Pacific Coast baseball league hotbed of gamblers with "Nick the Greek" said to be the biggest money angle . . . Mooney-Mergler jockey "ring" blasted wide open at Coney Island and Latonia.

1926

Jockey Harry Stutts, one of the country's greatest riders . . . Confesses pulling horses for a syndicate . . . Jockey Jimmy Wallace goes to the track and is denied all privileges and riding licenses and is asked to take a rest for the rest of his life . . . Jockeys getting $1,000 for each pulling.

1927

Rogers Hornsby, big league pilot, leaves 87 G's worth of IOU's with Frank Moore, Cincinnati betting commissioner . . . Fifty fake tipsters located at one address in New York City, but beat the rap.

1928

Curley Brown unloads Arlington Park on John Hertz, Warren Wright and Roy Carruthers . . . Jockey Stutts seeks reinstatement . . . Arnold Rothstein nicked for 36 G's betting on credit . . . Harry Fink rounds in as big operator on Main street, which is Broadway, the biggest street in the world.

Jack Dempsey buys share in Tia Juana . . . Tom Cheek, veteran turfman, 104 years old, dies in racehorse stall at Hawthorne . . . Sam Hildreth passes away . . . Raid and close Dick Williams' famous Log Cabin Casino at Evansville, Indiana.

Los Angeles boys are having a tough time and are strictly on the slip and slide trying to get results from different race tracks.

Jim Nelson, Guy Hart, Benny Ayers say they haven't been short since the races left but they will be at the gait they are going.

Ed Bryant, well known wealthy sport of Chicago, had a swell time on each side of the border which is in San Diego and Mexico, wined and dined a group of show cuties in the Creole Palace grill, and motored back to Los Angeles, complaining that San Diego was so dull that he was greatly disappointed in the pleasure spots.

Del Mar gets a big play from the Los Angeles bunch, including John Levy, his charming wife, May Levy; Paul Lauderdale and Frankie Coleman, with her gorgeous eyes; Tommy Glass and his wife, Flo Washington, Bernice Ayers and her sister, Ada Mexico, formerly of New York; Joe Hollifield and Mrs. Horace Clark, with four Tylers and several other friends, playing with five and ten dollar winners each race. Easy come, easy go.

Miss Eleanor Ramsey, under her big sun bonnet, tanned from the hot sun and the beach, can be seen ankling in and out of the beach stores, shopping on Broadway in San Diego.

Marquis Neal is on the ailing list at the Dunbar hotel. Mrs. Marie Penniston, saleslady at the Dunbar liquor story, passed away after a short illness.

Eddie South and his wife took a run-out powder for Chicago after a very prosperous trip.

Fletcher Henderson and Louie Armstrong's bands are headed for Los Angeles.

Herbert and Donald, of the Mills brothers quartet, were slightly injured in an auto accident in Liverpool, England.

He is the happiest, be he king or peasant, who finds peace in his home.—Goethe.

People's Funeral Home Completes First Year

On Monday of this week, August 14, the People's Funeral Home completed its first year of business as the latest establishment of its kind on the Eastside.

Following a policy of high class service at a moderate cost for the average family, the new firm has gradually grown in popularity, and is rapidly becoming one of the outstanding mortuaries on the Coast.

The property at 4250 S. Central avenue was purchased by the People's Funeral Home before the institution opened. It was completely renovated and redecorated, including the grounds, and equipped with all modern conveniences and apparatus for the business, with a rolling stock of Packard cars.

With an exceptionally well trained staff, the details of every service are carefully and conscientiously worked out. William Gillespie, formerly featured with the famous Hall Johnson choir, is soloist for services held in their attractively appointed Memorial Chapel.

During their first year of business, the People's Funeral Home served a large number of families in the community, and has made hundreds of new friends through the activities of members of the firm in the civic and religious life of the city. Recently, People's Funeral Home began sponsoring a Saturday evening broadcast of the service from the Church of God in Christ, of which Rev. Samuel Crouch is pastor. The program is from 10:15 to 10:45 over KGER.

Officers and directors of the new institution are: A. A. Robinson, president, a former chairman of the Trustee board of People's Independent Church of Christ; Norman W. Hopkins, vice president and manager; J. C. Blackwell, secy.-treas., contractor, also a former chairman of the Trustee board of Independent; Jesse J. Overstreet, city employe for 14 years.

The People's Funeral Home looks forward to their second year of business with hopes for great success, based upon their friendly, understanding service equally to all families; and their willingness to make every reasonable consideration for the convenience and goodwill of their patrons. (Adv.)

Auto Registration Gained Last Year

While the rest of the nation showed a decrease of 0.7 per cent in total motor vehicle registration in 1938, California ended the year with a 1.1 per cent increase, reports the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Even though the gain was small, the numerical increase of 26,214 units led the entire country. California's total registration at the end of 1938 was 2,510,887.

The Movies and the Stage

WE LIKE the theatre, be it motion pictures or stage plays. In the latter category, we saw Earl Carroll's "White Cargo" the other night at the Beaux Arts theatre and enjoyed it very much.

Being of a minority group, we saw in "White Cargo" something the movies could use to their advantage, at the same time furthering the cause of interracial relationships in the human family.

We believe the movies and the stage exert a powerful influence on the public conscience.

"White Cargo" hid nothing. It was stark realism. And because it was, it had a packed audience singing its praises. "White Cargo" has been playing at the Beaux Arts for sometime. It was not difficult to imagine why. Here was the stuff of which humans are made.

The locale of the play was laid in a bungalow outpost on the West Coast of Africa. When we say Africa, we might naturally expect the people of that continent to figure in the story. Well, they do.

In fact, a girl, born of an African mother and a French father, makes the play the powerful drama that it is.

There are nine in the cast. Rubber interests established the lonely outpost, which had news of the outside world every three months, by way of a boat from England.

Dominating the action is rubber representative Harry Witzel, played by Brady Kline. Used to the ways of the African coast and experienced in human nature, it is Witzel who paces the story. When a new partner, Allen Langford, is sent him by his company he prophesies that Langford will do the same things and feel the same way that the rest of the white men in the vicinity do, and feel.

Langford, played by Peter Cookson, replaces the story's Fred Ashley who, because of the heat, is only too glad to return home. When Langford arrives at the outpost he advises Witzel he is going to remain "white" and not do the things the rest of them have done. Witzel, on the other hand, prophesies he will.

The mixed blooded native girl, Tondeleyo, played by Jerry Lynn, enters the picture (or play) at this point. A beautiful womna, Tondeleyo makes advances to the newcomer, as she has all the other white men who have come to that locality. But, because of Witzel's prophecy, Langford remains aloof and undisturbed. As time passes, with loneliness and monotony taking its effect, Langford weakens but, rather than make the prophecy come true, marries Tondeleyo. This, of course, brings down the wrath of the other white men upon Langford's head. They advise him to do as they have done, buy the native girl jewelry and silks but don't marry her. For, as Witzel put it, Langford wouldn't even be respected by the natives.

Tondeleyo, dissatisfied with her mate and disillusioned by the institution of marriage, subsequently tries to poison him because she had been told that she was married "until death do us part".

It is Witzel, the man who understood human nature, who supplied the line that stood out in the play. The line: "Color is nothing but a point of geography".

AFTERWARDS, WE wondered why the movies continued to ignore the stuff of which "White Cargo" is made. The American Negro, his story and his contributions to American culture, interwoven as they are in the growth of this nation and its peoples, possesses those qualities which would make the movies a powerful instrument for better understanding between its people and make for a much quicker and happier solution of some of this country's social and economic problems.

The movies, to our notion, is missing its biggest bet. Not so much BECAUSE of the Negro angle, but inasmuch as this minority represents the crux of our so-called ills it represents a definite point of attack, as it were, in a more concentrated war on needless and nonprogressive prejudices which tend, more than anything else, to hold this nation and its peoples in the tentacles of barbarism.

To William D. Swanson, who presented "White Cargo", and all others of his kind who have what is often referred to as courage in presenting for public consumption the material which makes for better human relationships, this pillar tenders its respects.

Misplaced rails caused the death of 20 with more than 50 passengers injured of the 149 persons on the City of San Francisco at the time of its derailing in Nevada August 13. An "earless" man is sought as suspect of having tampered with the rails. The S. P. train was eastbound.

Two men were killed and fifty-four injured when trains of the Santa Fe and Denver and Rio Grande Western Lines clashed. Testmiony is given that the Santa Fe had the right of way, the red light was set against the Rio Grande train.

Sketch Subject: DR. FRANK B. HUGHES . . . Graduate Chiropodist, Owner and Manager of Hughes' Funeral Escort Service.

By THELMA O. DAVIS

Operating the only Negro business of its kind in the United States, Dr. F. B. Hughes has made Los Angeles THE metropolis, so far as funeral service for the Negro is concerned.

Born in 1884, when the Negro had just begun to shake the dust of slavery from his feet, Hughes was destined to blaze the trail for the 20th century Negro.

After completing grammar school in Kansas City, Mo., the city of his birth, Hughes realized that the North presented greater opportunities. He went to Chicago where he completed high school.

Not having money to pursue a college education, Hughes found it necessary to seek employment before he could progress further. Since railroading gave him an opportunity to see the country and save money, Hughes secured a job as a dining-car waiter. His record of capable service and dependability made it possible for him to continue this work for 25 years.

Married in 1907, our subject was a widower four years later.

FOOT-DOCTOR

Between "runs", Hughes was a "foot-doctor". It was not unlawful then to practice without a license. As laws changed, so did Hughes. In 1922 he received his degree in chiropody from the Illinois School of Chiropody in Chicago and returned to Kansas City, a licensed practitioner. Back in the "old home town", he found a second mate and married in 1924.

After six years of success in Kansas City, Dr. Hughes moved to Phoenix, Arizona, where he established an office and enjoyed a flourishing practice for five years. But fate has queer ways of shaping our lives. Faulty vision made it advisable for the doctor to abandon his profession and seek something less hard on the eyes.

In 1933, Dr. Hughes came to Los Angeles with the idea of investing his capital in some paying business. It is not easy to make a decision where one's lifetime savings are involved, so instead of immediate action Hughes worked around for a few years until the idea of his present business was clearly formulated in his mind.

Once the negotiations were begun, Dr. Hughes discovered that securing a license as funeral escort was no easy matter.

There seemed no end of communicating with Washington, finger-printing, investigation and "red tape" in general. He met with opposition at every turn. But Dr. Hughes persevered and disproved one of our oldest adages — "virtue", says he, "is not its own reward". After all investigations were completed and he had deposited a $2,000 bond, the license was forthcoming.

The law requires that men eligible for escorting funerals, among many other qualifications, must have sound judgment. Their duties are to escort funerals to the cemetery, maintaining an unbroken procession.

The Hughes Funeral Escort Service contributes to the support of two other men of the Negro race, Leslie (Red) Meeks and Willie (Hop) Miller. Dr. Hughes is president, manager and sole owner.

POINTS

The danger zone of Takeout Doubles are: (a) Those made on less than 3 H. T. (b) Responses with hands containing from zero to a half of an Honor trick. It is in these two situations so many cue bids are lost, and its attendant evils—"Valuable Points."

Example of Takeout Doubles on less than 3 H. T. The opener has bid one spade. You hold the following hand: S. 9X H. O510 XX D. K0J C. J98 with the above hand in the fourth position, double for a takeout. This is permissable in the fourth position, when there has not been a response by opener partner, with as little as two Honor-tricks distributed in two suits.

Response to Takeout Doubles with from zero to one-half of an Honor-Trick.

Examples: The doubled bid is one diamond. Holding: S. 84 H. 9832 D. 1052 C. 0753. Bid one heart. The doubled bid is one heart. Holding: S. 53 H. 1062 D. O1063 C. 9764. Bid two clubs. The doubled bid is one club. Holding: S. 9542 H .109 D. J832 C. 743. Bid one diamond.

Without a four or five card suit and no more than the aforementioned Honor-Tricks you must bid your three card suit—if holding two or more three card suits always bid the lower ranking ;the above also applies to four or five card suits when the hand has no additional Honor-Tricks. Example: The doubled bid is one heart. Holding: S. 852 H. J742 D. 652 C. 864. Bid two clubs. This is not an artificial bid, for if the hand contained a four card unbid suit, you should bid it; or if it held 3 diamonds and two clubs, the diamond bid would be correct, this however rarely happens, if so, usually this is the hand patters—The doubled bid is one spade, holding in responder hand: S. 86543 H. 872 D. 962 C. 54. Bid two diamonds.

Climaxing three days of meetings, John P. Davis, National Secretary of the Negro Congress, was the principal speaker at a public meeting on the housing program Sunday. Bilbrew, choral director; Rube Borough, representative of Mayor Fletcher Bowron; Mrs. Jessie Terry, housing authority; Mrs. Fay E. Allen ,executive chairman; John P. DAVIS CITES VALUE OF MASS PRESSURE IN HAMILTON TALK

Audience Approves Four-Point Program; Congress Official Leaves for Mexico City

Opening guns of a campaign to improve housing conditions for residents of the Central Avenue district were fired last week-end at meetings and conferences largely attended by community leaders, interested in the district and the affairs of its people. John P. Davis, National Secretary of the National Negro Congress, on tour of the nation, in a movement to obtain for Negro citizens larger benefits from established Federal agencies, was leader of these assemblies. Meetings were held at the Hamilton Methodist Church, at the 28th St. YMCA and at the residence of Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins.

Sunday's public meeting at Hamilton featured Secretary Davis as the principal speaker. Making concrete the meeting's theme "What a Housing Project Would Mean for Your Community", the audience approved a four point program including: obtaining extension of the housing survey to cover the whole of the Central Avenue District and Watts; obtaining an immediate and definite committment from the Los Angeles Authority that a housing project will be constructed for the Central Avenue District; establishing guarantees that the local authority will follow the policy established by the USHA in assuring a specific percentage of jobs for Negro workers in all projects constructed; and opposing attempts of the Los Angeles Housing Authority to promote racial segregation by earmarking certain projects for specified races, thus drastically limiting the participation of minority groups in the benefits of the housing program.

In his discussion of the subject, Secretary Davis showed how the program of benefits, established by New Deal legislation to help low-income groups has been undermined by the so-called economy bloc, of Congressman and Senators.

Citing the value of mass pressure by Negro citizens and other progressive groups Davis illustrated the experience in San Antonio, Texas where such groups were able to obtain a well equipped health center for Negroes; in Chicago where they secured a housing project in the Negro community.

Secretary Davis said: "There is no force in the community which can prevent Negro citizens from securing the widest benefits from all governmental agencies, if they are well organized and united in their efforts."

Other Speakers

Other speakers at Sunday's meeting were Mrs. Jessie Terry, member of the L. A. Housing Authority; Dr. Ruth Temple of the Temple Health Institute; Mrs. Josephine Bright, secretary of the Spanish-American Congress. Reuben Borough, personally representing Mayor Fletcher Bowron, and Councilman G. Vernon Bennett. Mrs. Fay E. Allen presided.

Music for this session was furnished by the Wilkins Celestial Choir and the Mayfield Brothers Quartet, through the courtesy of Mrs. A. C. Bilbrew of the Gold Radio Hour.

A conference attended by over 75 leaders of labor, civic, political, professional and church groups in the city was held Friday at the 28th St. YMCA.

Consultants were Mrs. Jessie Terry on the United States Housing Authority; Coley W. Stafford on the Work Projects Administration; C. Eugene Houston on the Home Owners Loan Corporation; Edward Burch on the U. S. Employment Service; Miss Mabel Eldridge on the State Relief Administration; and Prof. Wm. A. Easter on the Emergency Education Program.

Saturday evening executives of the Los Angeles Negro Congress Council met with Secretary Davis at the home of Assemblyman Hawkins. Davis emphasized the importance of the Congress as a unifying agency among organizations of Negroes.

Davis left Los Angeles Sunday evening for Mexico City, Mexico, where he will join a group of prominent Americans who at the invitation of President Cardenas are visiting Mexico to confer regarding problems affecting minority groups in the United States, especially the South and their relationship to Mexico.

• LIBRARY BOOK NOTES

BY MIRIAM MATTHEWS

Everyone who has read Walter B. Pitkin's "Life Begins at Forty," and almost everyone has, will be convinced at first glance that his newest book, "Making Good Before Forty" is one in which he reverses himself. A closer view, however, will reveal that he is simply explaining how to build a good foundation for real enjoyment after forty. He divides life into three phases: the first twenty years for growing up and getting our bearings; the second twenty years for making a living, saving, making a place for ourselves in our community and getting ready to live; and the balance after forty for giving rein to our personal interests and enjoying the earlier years of toil and thrift and planning. "How long we live our lives after forty, and how well we live them," says Mr. Pitkin, "depends chiefly on our health, on our fund of energy and on our self-discipline."

In this book however, the author's chief interest is the second phase of normal life, the years between twenty and forty. After stating the two precepts necessary for the regulation of a well-rounded life (use what you know—do what you can), he warns his readers against the to great destroyers of a well-rounded life, overstrain and underwork. Making good involves more than getting a job or saving money, according to Mr. Pitkin. It extends far beyond there. Read "Making Good Before Forty" and find out what he has to say.

JOHN DOS PASOS

A new book by another well-known author which will probably arouse considerable interest is John Dos Pasos' "Adventures of a Young Man." It is the portrait of a young man growing up in the America of the 20's and 30's who could not settle down to a comfortable life selling bonds after he finished college. He had been raised in the traditions of American idealism and wanted to do something worthwhile. As a consequence, he has a varied career trying to make a living which takes him about the world and results in a tough but exciting life.

"The Woman in the Hall," by G. B. Stern is the story of a woman who could not be honest. Getting money out of people with a hard luck story was a grand game with her which she played with the skill of an accomplished actress and psychologist. She married a wealthy baronet but found easy living dull and went back to playing her old game with new success. Miss Stern is the author of "The Matriarch" and other popular favorites.

actors guild upsets gotham as throngs take joyride

By FAY M. JACKSON
(Special)

NEW YORK, Aug 17,—Many a theatre in Harlem was dark and cabarets that did not close down temporarily found scanty hoofers in their shows when the Negro Actors Guild staged its second annual boatride down the Hudson last week.

There were great "Names" that have made recent stage history on Broadway. There were the oldsters who pioneered in every phase of stage production—from medicine show, the T. O. B. A. circuit, through vaudeville and early colored musical comedies, to the contemporary Masters of the shag and susique.

They brought box lunches and refreshments of every vintage from Epernay Champagne to something strangely reminiscent of the worst of the prohi home brew.

As the guest of Georgette Harvey, I saw among the stars: Ethel Waters, Edna Thomas, who achieved first fame as co-star with Lenore Ulric in "Lula Belle;" Jack Carter, original Crown, of "Porgy", who flies to Jamaica today for a screen production of native life; Eddie Green, just finished a starring role in "Hot Mikado"; Daniel Haynes, lead in "Hallelujah," first of the major film productions with all-Negro cast.

Eddie Hunter of "How Come" fame; Trixie Smith, one of the original blues singers; Eubie Blake, co-author with Noble Sisle of "Shuffle Along;" Will Vodrey, noted for his musical arrangements of Ziegfield productions; Laura Bowman, an original member of Lafayette Players.

Cecil McPherson, who furnished the famed choir for Lew Leslie's "Blackbirds"; W. C. Handy, father of the Blues; Fannie Robinson, wife of Bojangles; Percival Verwayne, original "Sportin' Life" of "Porgy"; Susie Sutton, known for the introduction of one-act Negro plays at the Alhambra Theatre;

Ollie Burgoyne, once the toast of royalty in Russia and a member of the renowned (Bert) Williams and (George) Walker company; Hilda Ofley, of J. Hill's "Darktown Strutters;" Tom Fletcher, Slim Thompson, Alex Lovejoy; Pop Watts, Ida Forsyne, and Muriel Ringold of "Black Patti" fame.

Some of the younger celebrities included: Maude Russell, Alberta Prine, Maude Williams, Edna Mae Harris, Leonidas Simmons, Phil Thomas, Chick McKinney, Arthur McClain, Willie Bryant, Fredi Washington, Donald Heywood, Reginald Beane, Canada Lee and scores of others.

Henry Starr and Harold Browning got off the Ile de France to board the S. S. Delaware and get the first rousing welcome to their homeland. Mrs. Browning and the charming little Miss Heroldine, accompanied them.

Proceeds from the boatride are to be used for the welfare of disabled Negro Actors. A reserve of more than $5,000 was reported in the treasury at a meeting last week.

An affiliate with Theatre Authority, Inc., the N. A. G., also maintains an employment division, mailing service, legal services for members, headed by Hubert Delany, and numerous aids to actors.

trial bondage, but no solution to the problem of race discrimination that denies certain citizens in sections of this country the enjoyment of their rights and full educational opportunities is offered in this great pageant of progress.

At the Lutheran Day celebration at the World's Fair recently the Rev. Dr. Walter A. Maier, Professor of Biblical Interpretation at Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, said "The Fair is the Century's most magnificent spectacle of human achievement. It ought to have a vast diorama featuring the terrors of the last war and the incomparably more shocking inferno of the next international slaughter."

"The exposition", he added, "should also present the spectacle of America under the sway of communistic terror, with home life destroyed, the family socialized and the churches closed."

Well alright! The rhythm was really jumping Sunday night when Benny Goodman, world famous band leader "Boogie Woogied" with the Harlem Band. Mr. Goodman proved himself regular in every way and won the hearts of the big crowd that was there to greet him.

"T-Bone" Walker, the very popular master of ceremonies and blues singer, has returned from Dallas, Texas full of the "jumping jive." He conducted the floor show very cleverly on Sunday night. Among the guests artists were Russell Jones of Seattle, Wash., singing "Wishing;" Irene Lyons doing "I Cried for You;" Evelyn Beryl, "St. Louis Blues;" and Dudley Dickerson singing "Ol' Man River." All the numbers were beautifully rendered and well received by an appreciative crowd.

We were pleased to have some of the chorus girls from the Bal Tavern drop in Sunday night. Mattie Mitchell, Nadine Coles, Lula Belle Lauderdale and Emma Priestly were there.

We also saw Willie Best, better known as "Young Step," drop in for a brief second.

Miss Lois Whaley and party enjoyed cocktails on Sunday night. In the party was Miss Gene Green of Stockton; Naomi Johnson, Willa Mae Richardson and Maggie Mae Fleming.

Composer of the famous Hampton "Alma Mater", for which he won first prize over 50 contestants, Northern received his initial education at the Institute. He studied later at Juilliard School and at the La Scala, Milan and Royal Conservatories in Italy.

EARLY CAREER

His early career is somewhat similar to that of the great contralto, Marian Anderson, in that he won first prize in a Vocal Technique contest in New York in 1925, the same year that the contralto won the competition to sing in Lewisohn Stadium. That year started both of them on the road to fame.

Since then, young Northern's rise has been rapid. In 1926, he made a command appearance before the King and Queen of Spain. He sang in Italian opera; before the late Pope Pius XI and the Pontiff acknowledged his appreciation of the artist by presenting him with a diamond studded pin.

In addition to his concert appearances, the singer conducts two studios for voice culture, one in his New York home and the other in Carnegie Hall. Meanwhile, he continues his studies with Mme. Nina Barnoni, voice culturist and daughter of an Italian diplomat.

Of his singing the press, all over the world has been in agreement as to its merit. Said the Richmond Dispatch,

"A glorious voice"; the Virginia Daily Press,

"His voice had the wierdness of a whippoorwill"; the New York Post, Flash: Charles (guitar) Christie, a young man still in his 'teens, who has a reputation down Oklahoma way of being one of the best in the Country when it comes to beating out the jive on a guitar, is due here this week to join Bennie Goodman's band. It is said that Goodman has had his eyes on this young man for some time since he discovered him sometime ago in a small swing band in Oklahoma. Christie will replace in Goodman's band the present guitarist, thus becoming a regular member of the band and making the third colored musician in Goodman's organization.

In The Groove: Hugo (sax-clarinet) Dandridge has become a band leader. He and his fine swing band are laying some mellow jive in the groove at Bill and Virginia's Cafe in Eagle Rock. Hugo is very versatile on the saxophone and clarinet, as well as having a fine knowledge of music and a good educational background.

This past Saturday, Al Jarvis and his Make Believe Ballroom radio program featured a half hour jam session with such fine cats as "Lionel (vibra-harpist) Hampton Harvey (piano) Brooks, and Otis (song writer) Rene, who knocked the radio audience to its knees, vocalizing his latest song dedicated to Al Jarvis and called "Swinging with Jarvis.

This session will take place every Saturday over KMTR, between 12 and 1 p. m. Shelton (piano-song composer) Brooks is back in town. "Hot Shot" Evelyn (piano) Burwell is still laying that fine jive on the ivories.

tells 'execs' to get at truth of negro

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—One of the most scathing indictments against the motion picture industry's continual featuring of the Negro in films in a menial, servile and irresponsible role appears in the current issue of Film Survey ,a pamphlet published monthly by Film Audiences for Democracy.

Written under the title of "12 Million Forsaken," the article said in part:

"The rope that lynches Negroes in America is woven of many strands. One of the toughest of these is the American motion picture, which year after year continues to regard the Negro as a stereotype for submissiveness, irresponsibility, gaiety and sex perversion. Hollywood did not initiate the stereotype, but over the years it has contributed mightily to reinforcing and embellishing it in the public mind. Thus it has contributed to new feeling against the Negro people, as well as vindicating the old."

"BIRTH OF A NATION" HIT

The article traces this vicious development in the motion picture industry back to David Work Griffith's "Birth of a Nation," produced by Griffith in 1915, terming this picture, revived, as a "cruel libel on the Negro People."

Concluding with the admonition to motion picture producers that they get at the truth of the Negro's conribution to American life, and learn that picturing this truth will bring profits, the article ends on this note:

"The true story of the Negro, numbering twelve million of our population, is a vital one. He has contributed mightily to our country and its cultural life. His history is rich in drama and laughter.

"His labor, bravery, the music of his soul, are the stuff of art, the splendid raw material of film creation. It can be cultivated with profit to American culture, to the producers and to the film audiences of America."

tracy scores in pic at united artists

The greatest adventure known to man is thrillingly reconstructed on the screen of the United Artists Theatre, 933 S. Broadway, where the production of "Stanley and Livingstone" with twice Academy Award winning Spencer Tracy turning in another masterful performance, co-starred with Nancy Kelly and Richard Green at the head of one of the greatest acting casts ever assembled.

When Tracy, in the role of Henry M. Stanley, the crack young reporter on the old New York Herald, spoke those famous words, "Dr. Livingstone, I presume?" in the heart of Africa, drama's most thrilling moment was stirringly re-enacted in this spectacular 20th Century-Fox film.

peters sisters back in states

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—California's beef trust girls, the three Peters sisters, weighing pretty close to a thousand pounds among them, descended the gang-plank of a French liner last week, home to Harlem after almost a year abroad.

Having completed a successful tour of the continent, the girls are being sought for several New York night spots. Movie offers from their native state have also been reported. The girls, Anna Louise, Mattie Jayne and Virginia, played at the Cotton club before going abroad.

Residents of a Los Angeles County beach town, Santa Monica, the sisters are rhythmic and nimble dancers despite their size. They sing and arrange their own music. Despite their "plumpness," they are definitely good-looking high-browned gals.

THE NEGRO AND THE MAJOR LEAGUES

The biggest argument for the participation of the Negro in major league baseball was enacted last weekend at Wrigley Field, the home of the Los Angeles Angels of the Pacific Coast league.

The occasion was the Southern California Amateur Baseball championship finals. The winner is scheduled to meet the northern California victor next weekend.

To the Pasadena Sox goes the palm for furnishing the argument for participation of Negroes in major league baseball. The Pasadena team showed that such participation is practical, beyond any shadow of a doubt. One of the finalists, and ultimate winner of the Southern California championship among the simon-pures, the Pasadena Sox boasted three sepia baseballers. They are Jackie Robinson, shortstop, and all-round athlete; Nat Moreland, pitcher; and Ellery Prince, catcher.

JACKIE ROBINSON

In the play over the weekend, it wasn't the fact that the three youths were Negro as it was that thru their superlative play they enabled the Sox to win the championship as well as give the fans an exhibition of baseball that was a credit to the national pastime.

The fans went for the brand of ball exhibited by these amateurs. And if their were big league scouts on hand, as reported, we'll bet they eyed the above lads greedily. Regardless of the fact that currently the "national" pastime is still not national, there is no reason why the major league scouts, the fans, and all fair-minded sports enthusiasts shouldn't add their voices to the ever-increasing cry for inclusion of the Negro in the great game of baseball which, this year is celebrating its one hundredth anniversary. It's a fine time to make the pastime "national" in fact.

STARS OF NATION TEE OFF!

Los Angeles and the Pacific Coast gets its first United Golf Association tournament next week for four days. And the distinction of serving as host goes to the West Coast Golf Club, of which medico C. A. Bradford is head-man. Working with the club to the nth degree were city officials who granted use of the Harding course at Griffith Park for the tournament.

Archie Hairston, local school teacher and the club's publicity man, who also plays a good game, gave this dept. some notes on the coming tourney that may prove interesting to followers of play on the greens.

Hairston considers Howard Wheeler, UGA champion, the logical favorite. "Over the tricky Harding course, which will be 350 yards longer next Tuesday, it still looks made to order for long hitters, of which Wheeler is most consistent. He is the longest hitting cross-handed player in the world, and his irons are as smart as any professional I have ever seen. He was on the long par five eighteenth in two and rimmed the cup twice for eagle 3's. For my money, I'll take Howard Wheeler."

Hairston figures Oscar Clisby and Monroe Boykin, of Los Angeles, are Wheeler's biggest threats. Of Clisby he says: "Clisby has been consistent in winning club tournaments his past winter, and has played steadily near par for several months. His putting and approaching has given him considerable trouble this summer, but he is working hard to improve in this department."

"Boykin has had trouble with his irons since he changed about a month ago," Hairston stated. "He hasn't been down to form for several weeks but he's a tough match player as shown by his trouncing of Clisby in the Eagle sponsored City championship."

A number of white golfers have also declared their intentions of shooting for the prize money.

HANK TO WIN!

"Henry Armstrong, the winner, and still lightweight champion of the world!" We are out on a limb and stuck on it!

Jackie Paces Team to 12-7 Win

Jackie Robinson, California's athletic genius, showed baseball fans what to expect should Negroes ever be admitted to the Big Leagues, in pacing his team, the Pasadena Sox, to the Southern California amateur baseball championship at Wrigley Field lst Sunday night.

With the former Pasadena ace doing the almost impossible, stealing home while the ball was in the pitcher's hand, the Sox, a well organized nine, composed of present and past Pasadena jaysee team members, whipped Bakersfield, 12-7.

Sharing honors with Robinson was Nate Moreland, Redlands university football player and new pitching discovery. Moreland pitched part of Saturday's game and the entire nine frames Sunday night.

Joe Louis' Kin Conducts Revival

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17—Claiming to be a "living witness of what faith in the true God can do", Major Barrow, assertedly first cousin to heavyweight champion Joe Louis, is conducting a revival-divine healing service at a local Church of God.

"Brother" Barrow, as he calls himself, says he was born blind and remained so for 37 years. He claimed that doctors said he would never see because he had no eyeballs.

It was on August 16, 1937, in Anniston, Alabama, "Brother" Barrow said that he "obeyed the voice of God" and was healed. He "now" has two brown eyeballs.

Hank Ready for Ambers

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Aug. 17.—Weighing 136¼ pounds Tuesday, all fears that Henry Armstrong would be able to come in at or under the lightweight limit next Tuesday night, vanished today.

The welterweight and lightweight titleholder who defends the latter crown against Lou Ambers Tuesday in Yankee Stadium, New York, showed no signs of feeling the effects of shedding weight. A week before he tipped the beam at 140 pounds.

In defending his crown against Ambers, Armstrong gives another chance to the man from whom he won it. "Two-Division" Hank will probably rule favorite to retain his crown.

Skip and Skippy Thrill Hundreds at Air Show

Thrilling a crowd of several hundred spectators, Howard "Skip" Smith and Mack "Skippy" Gravelly staged parachute jumps Sunday afternoon at Western Avenue airport in a show sponsored by Frank Ernest Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Also appearing in the show was William Aikens, highly efficient pilot and stunt-man, who piloted a government plane.

"Skip" and "Skippy," wearing the colors of Hugo, the hot-dog man, were hampered somewhat by wind velocity, Especially was this true of Gravelly, who was the first to jump. He landed some distance from the crowd. Smith, on the other hand, had better luck, landing only a short distance away from the large group of spectators.

L. A. Racqueteers Plan for Coast Tourney

Tennis news this week concerned preparations of local players for the trek North to the Pacific Coast tournament at Oakland. September 2, 3, and Labor Day.

For benefit of the junior players, the Surburban club will hold a benefit tournament Sunday, Aug. 27., on the private court of Mr. and Mrs. James Hardy, 9305 Compton avenue.

The Western Federation of Tennis club, sponsoring the Pacific Coast matches, met last Friday at the home of former ATA field secretary, Mrs. Josephine Brown. with Clarence Mills, Federation president, presiding.

McDaniels is Favored to Win ATA

Expect Californian to Be Coast's First Singles Champion

HAMPTON, Va., Aug. 17—Jimmie McDaniels, California boy whom Ralph Metcalfe sent to Xavier university on an athletic scholarship, thereby introducing to the Negro tennis world its greatest possibility to date, is expected to duplicate his win of the New York open singles and doubles championship and become the first American Tennis association singles winner from the Pacific Coast. McDaniels a Los Angeles product, was preceded in the National doubles winning bracket by James "Slick" Stocks of Pasadena, who last won the doubles with Tommie Walker, in 1937.

The 23rd annual ATA tournament got underway here Monday with a record entry, and will close Saturday evening.

In the N. Y. State open, McDaniels, who is the Southern Intercollegiate champion, crushed handsome Dr. Reginald Weir in three straight sets, 6-3, 6-0, 6-1. It was Weir's third comeback attempt after a year's layoff. On the two previous occasions, last in 1937, he was successful, but in the shy and reserved, redskinned Californian, he met more than a match for his own brilliant tennis.

NATURAL PLAYER

McDaniels is undoubtedly the greatest Negro tennis player, potentially, within the ken of current fans. A natural player, he plays a well-nigh form perfect game, fast and tireless and is rapidly gaining confidence.

His doubles partner is Richard Cohen, also of Xavier, whom McDaniels defeated for the collegiate championship. In addition to Weir, McDaniels will meet keen competition in Franklyn Jackson, 1938 winner, Harmon Fitch and Eyre Saitch.

Mrs. Flora Lomax, national women's champion, and winner of the women's singles N. Y. State crown, both last year and last week, is favored to reign supreme this week. She will meet her strongest competition in old times, Ora Washington and Lulu Ballard, the latter, the only woman to defeat the champion this season.

Both McDaniels and Mrs. Lomax are expected to wind up the tennis season playing in the Pacific Coast matches at Oakland California September 2, 3 and Labor Day. McDaniels holds the Pacific Coast championship.

Ball Magnate Ready to End Jim Crow Ban

NEW YORK, Aug. 17. (CNA)—The first big league magnate has spoken out in favor of admitting Negro baseball players to the game!

The President of the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League, William E. Benswanger, in response to a query, said this week:

"If the question of admitting colored baseball players into organized baseball becames an issue I would be heartily in favor of it.

"I think the Negro people should have an opportunity in baseball just as they have an opportunity in music or anything else."

WEST COAST GOLF CLUB HOST TO TOP-NOTCH SEPIA STARS

Howard Wheeler, of Atlanta, to Defend National Title on Griffith Park Course

With entries arriving daily, speculation as to the outcome of the United Golf Association tournament, opening next Tuesday on the Harding course at Griffith Park, was rife here today.

Defending his UGA laurels will be Howard Wheeler, of Atlanta. Arriving last week, Wheeler has been playing the tricky Harding course, getting used to it.

The greatest threat to Wheeler on the coast appears to be, on past performances, Oscar Clisby. Pushing both will be Monroe Boykin and Lem Grant. Others of the host club who will bear watching are Roscoe Jones, Marion Forsythe, Archie Hairston and O. R. Jackson. None of these, however, have shown championship form in recent tournaments.

A BIG THREAT

Zeke Hartsfield, stablemate of Wheeler's, appears most likely to cause the defending champion a lot of trouble. It was Hartsfield who beat Wheeler recently to win the southern crown.

Pat Ball, Palos Park, Chicago professional, although not here as yet, may also be considered as a dangerous threat.

From the offices of Dr. C. A. Bradford, West Coast Golf club president, came news at press time that entries were registering daily. The Strickland brothers of Riverside, are among the latest arrivals.

Roscoe Jones, chairman of the tournament committee, announced today that $800 in cash prizes will go to winners of the 12th annual men's amateur, 10th annual women's amateur and the 14th annual open. The tournament, getting underway Tuesday, will continue thru Friday.

Henry Loses Olympic Bout

Yancey Henry, highly touted Eastern heavyweight who has been on these shores for the past several months, lost a 10-round decision to Tommy Tucker, youthful New Jersey heavy, Tuesday night at the Olympic auditorium.

Referee Jack Kennedy awarded Tucker eight rounds.

The bout was a substitute attraction, Baby Arizmendi, who was scheduled to box Irish Jackie Carter, being declared "unavailable" when Dr. Lloyd Mace discovered an infection in the Mexican's lower lip. Arizmendi and Carter headline next Tuesday night's card.

In the prelims, Francis Jacques won a six-round decision over George Leetch. The bout was the semi-windup. In the four-rounders. Al Smith decisioned Milton Kell; Nash Diaz was nodded by Bee Jiminez; Tino Sachez TKO'ed Frankie Antunna and Pewee LaSalle outpointed Paul Visser in the opener.

FOR BEST RESULTS— ADVERTISE IN THE CALIFORNIA EAGLE

Wheeler is Golf Winner

Howard Wheeler, national champion of Negro golfers, won his first skirmish with West Coast Golfers Sunday when he won the weekly tournament of the Club on his first trip around the course. The long, lanky champion, accompanied by his protege and nemesis, "Zeke" Hartfield of Atlanta, Monroe Boykin and William Gilmore, toured the tough Sunset fields No. 1 course in 74 strokes, 2 over par figures. Second place honors went to Hoyt Porter and Archie Hairston who had 78.

Net honors were won by Theaphilos Smith ,93—24—69; Johnnie Riddle, 81—12—69; and C. Lay, 81—10—71. Last week, Herman Woode won low gross at Santa Monica with a 78. This is the first tournament Woode has won this season but with a new set of irons, he has made the long drivers suffer for the last few weeks.

HIGH WIND

A very annoying wind added to the difficulty of the course in keeping scores above par. did not affect several iron shooters on the short number 10 where several balls, including that of Hartfield, entered the 10 foot circle to win 3 new balls.

Wheeler and Hartfield, with their manager, led the expected throng of club wielders from the East. Five cars and 20 players are reported on their way from Chicago.

The women had a very successful cocktail party in honor of the visiting ball busters at 9305 Compton avenue. Dining and dancing went on into the night with Miss Etiola Jones in charge.

Softball Teams Tangle Again at White Sox

Demanding a rematch, Deats Sash-Door softball team gets it Sunday night at White Sox Park when the team meets Driver Bros. The two teams played a 2-2 tie last Sunday night after eight innings of sensational softball.

The doubleheader, a Ben Bowie Post American Legion benefit, will start at 7 p. m.

The President Goes On Vacation

"I'll be seeing you," said President Roosevelt this week when he embarked on the U. S. S. Tuscaloosa to visit points in New England and Canada. Before leaving his home in New York the nation's head said that he would call a special session of Congress IF EUROPE SHOWS SIGNS OF WAR.

We suppose that current Ciano-Hitler confab is a symptom only of "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men".

Social Security Law Revised

After an experiment of about four years, the President, by his signature last Friday, put in motion a new Social Security Act. It is said by many, in its sections on old-age insurance, that the act is decidedly superior to the law it supplants. The new measure moves away from private insurance concepts that marred the former law and substitutes a closer approach to true social legislation. The insurance payments will still bear a reasonably direct relationship to one's private earnings and to contributions he has paid; however, the payments are to be based on the average rather than total earnings. Also, it will vary with the family status of the individual.

Under the former law a man earning an average wage of $100 a month for five years would have received at the end of that time only the amount of $17.50 a month, single or married. Under the new law, he will now receive $26.25 a month, if single; and $39.38 if married. His widow will receive a pension. Younger widows with children will be provided for.

Payments under the new law will begin January 1, 1940, instead of 1942.

This change in the Social Security Act no doubt will quell some of the over-emphasized arguments on old-age pensions that have for a long time puzzled and confused the voters of California.

The Two Opening Guns

(Editorial from The Washington Tribune)

The appointment of Dr. Emmett J. Scott to a position in the Publicity Department of the Republican National Committee with Chairman John Hamilton's statement that he will serve as "one of the Chairman's advisors on problems relating to colored citizens", would seem to indicate that, at last, the Republican Party and the Republican National Committee are waking up to the need and necessity of conducting a program of education among Negro voters just as similar programs are going forward in the education of other segmental units of the American population.

The Washington Tribune echoes Chairman Hamilton's statement that "Dr. Scott is one of the outstanding Negroes of this country", and that "the Republican National Committee is very fortunate to obtain his services at this critical period in the history of our country".

Probably no man among us is better acquainted with the social, political and economic problems of the Negro people.

Probably no man is more able, in a forthright way, to loyally interpret the mass public opinion of Negro citizens to the High Command of the Republican Party.

We shall expect him to sensitively react to Negro Public Opinion, and faithfully represent it, as he did during the trying years of the World War, while serving as Special Assistant to Secretary Newton D. Baker of the War Department.

This designation of Dr. Scott's is the second gesture of concern on the part of the Republican National Committee with regard to colored citizens following close upon the first gesture—the appointment last year of 10 colored members of the Republican Program Committee of which Dr. Glenn Frank is chairman.

Each of the colored persons appointed on the Program Committee is an outstanding, loyal member of the Republican Party, pledged to frankly point out to the party the reasons for the widespread swing away from it during the past Presidential elections.

These members are Bishop D. H. Sims of New York City, an influential Bishop of the Great African Methodist Episcopal Church; Hon. T. G. Nutter of Charleston, W. Va., who has stood on the firing line of the Republican Party and in behalf of the best interest of his race for many years; Mrs. Sara Pelham Speaks, who represents the younger voice of Negro voters and who already has won her spurs in the last two Presidential campaigns, and has established herself in New York as a forceful personality, deeply conscious of the fact that the young Negro must be considered in all plans and programs looking to the success of the party in the future.

The same high praise can be spoken regarding the others, the Hon. Francis E. Rivers, outstanding attorney of New York City; Mrs. S. Joe Brown of Des Moines, Iowa, leading clubwoman and civic worker; the Hon. F. M. Roberts of Los Angeles, California, former member of the Legislature and Progressive Republican; William E. King, former State Senator of Illinois; young Joseph O. Hopkins of Detroit, Mich.; Joseph S. Mitchell, attorney-at-law, Boston, Mass., and Lethia Fleming, stalwart Republican leader of Cleveland, Ohio.

With these stalwart men and women serving on Glenn Frank's policy-making committee, and with Dr. Scott serving as an Advisor at Republican National Headquarters, there is reason to believe that a serious effort is now being made to inquire into, and cure the causes of unrest among colored Republicans.

We venture to express the hope that action of an affirmative character will be taken to set in motion at once a program of education designed to present the broad issues of Americanism which now need to be expounded in the midst of much loose thinking and political ballyhooing.

The subject of discussions which divide white voters of our country divide at the same time, great groups of colored voters.

If the Republican Party is to bring back into the fold the "wayward", not to say "erring" colored brother, extremely hard, educational work will be necessary by the Republican National Committee, from now until the Republican National Committee meets throughout the approaching Presidential campaign, and up to the November election of 1940.

• WORLD THIS WEEK

By Robert Patterson

EAST OF SUEZ

"Take me somewhere East of Suez where a man can raise a thirst," declaims the hero of one of Rudyard Kipling's most famous poems. But were poet-soldier Kipling alive today he would have to blue-pencil that verse, for East of Suez on the road to Mandalay notices are being posted today which read, "Drinking Forbidden!" The first new prohibition law enacte anywhere in the world since the United States ended its experiment with prohibition has come to Bombay, second largest city of India. The victory is Mahatma Gandhi's, but the sorrow which is now troubling the West is not of a meek nature. Rebellion and rioting on a large scale have followed in the wake of the new edict, which was placed in effect last week, hinting that India, like the United States, may find her noble experiment marred by too many ignoble events. At any rate America will watch the progress East of Suez with the keenest of interest.

WATCH THAT TRIGGER

With deer season in full blaze in most of the State, and those red hats poking furtively through forests and brush covered mountain slopes, there's need for a little ounce of caution which may spell the difference between a deer and disaster.

"Buck" fever, and careless handling of guns, last year brought the tragic trophies of hunting season to some 2,000 human lives in the United States.

That patch of brown seen suddenly through the brush, the unexpected breaking of a twig in a silent wood, may be fair game. Or again, as too many over-hasty nimrods discovered last year, it may be another hunter.

Let's have no monuments to carelessness this season, but only trophies of sportsmanship.

NOTHING TO BEEF ABOUT

From now on, there should be less beefing in the world—about beefsteaks anyway.

With the Department of Agriculture announcing a new substance, extracted from pineapple, which can make even the toughest meat as tender as a choice filet, there's a promise of more contented living for everyone save vegetarians.

Since the way to a man's heart is said to be through his stomach, bromelin, this new enzyne which goes to work on the tough connective tissues and breaks them down into compliant tenderness, should make success certain for brides and housewives. Even if improper cooking has, figuratively speaking, let a good steak leap from the frying pan into the fire, there's now the likelihood that a dash of bromelin can salvage the charred remains.

In brief, the discovery of this new enzyme says a mouthful!

EXTRA! EXTRA!

"Extra! Extra! Here, y'are, Mister, papers one dollar apiece."

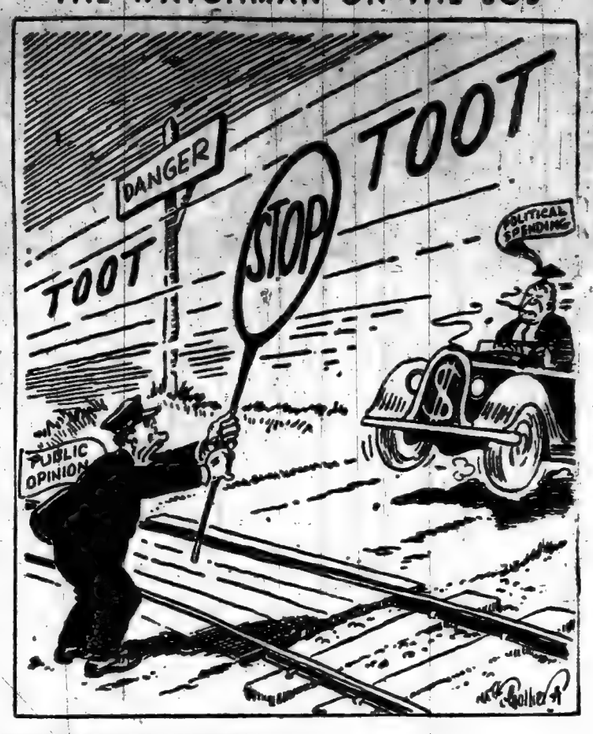
So might a newsboy of California's gold rush days have shouted his wares, and they would have sold like hotcakes, too!

Reporting on the fabulous prices of the American period, Dr. John W. Caughey of the history department at the University of California, Los Angeles, gives the modern newspaper reader something cheerful to reflect on.

For only a few pennies he receives a paper bearing news of his community, state, nation and of events in the far corners of the earth. Three generations ago it was a far different story in California. People stood in long lines for hours before postoffice windows, anxiously awaiting mail bringing news from the East. And when one astute traveler arrived from New York, bringing with him 1,500 copies of Horace Greeley's "Tribune," he did a land office busines for two hours. At the end of that short time every issue had been sold—at one dollar a copy!

Today news of an entire city, of the whole world, is laid at the doorsteps of Californians for a tiny fraction of that cost. Technology has helped achieve it through the revolutionary advance of the printing press. Lines of communication encircling the globe have helped achieve it by placing the most isolated hamlet on the news fronts of the world. And the continuous and helpful support of advertising and readers' support of advertisers, also helped achieve it.

That is why today's newspapers can provide ten times the news of those one dollar copies of a hundred years ago—at one twentieth the cost!



WE DO IT AGAIN

New York's Fair may be a dazzling spectacle but, as prophesied before, the big show of Flushing Meadows isn't stealing from California her natural dowry of summertime tourists. With the bounty of an outdoor wonderland added to her own World's Fair, just the reverse has been happening.

The spell of California's charms can now be read in the record-making figures of the June tourist influx, 32 per cent greater than that of last June, and exceeding by 2,675 persons the heaviest previous month in the entire history of the State! As checked by border stations, no less than 191,856 motor tourists entered California this June.

That impressive inflow is double checked by the second record-breaking figure established in June when thirsty tanks of tourists' cars helped bring the state's gasoline consumption up to 106 million gallons, the highest for any month in California history.

Race and Color in East Asia

By CLAUDE McKAY, condensed from August "Opportunity".

For an understanding of the grand drama convulsing the East, the average reader, overwhelmed by one-sided propaganda, should be equipped with John Gunther's "Inside Asia". This splendid document is a book that should be read and pondered by every intelligent member of the colored American group. It is pitched to the scale of a novel in which nations are the leading characters and power politics the plot.

Evidently the author is sympathetic to the imperialistic mission of European nations among Asiatic natives, but he is humanitarian enough to write understandingly of the Japanese as an Asiatic power and the Chinese and Indians as mercilessly exploited peoples. As an American observer of the vast, strange Orient, Mr. Gunther's objective presentation is of greater value than anything that might have been done by an Englishman or Japanese.

The immense mass chorus of this oriental Greek tragedy is the 775,000,000 Chinese, Indians and Malays, who are subjected and exploited directly and indirectly by European nations, Britain, France and Holland, with a population of 117,000,000. The Europeans are in Asia to get the greatest profit possible out of their investments. They have no interest in the social welfare of the natives.

NOT HUMANE

Exploitation is now always humane, but it is human and universal. The European exploitation of Asia (and of Africa) is viciously inhuman because it is based upon the unscientific and immoral theory of superiority of white persons over black and brown persons. Few modern social thinkers have grappled seriously with the racial roots of the imperialist-capitalist system. Radicals have treated the subject incidentally, as if it were not an integral feature of the social system. Socialists and Communists have historically minimized it. So much so that colored American radicals, utterly confused, have denounced the little business men of the group as a menace as great as big capitalists. They are chauvinists who stress too much the racial aspect of economic exploitation.

Many argue against colored people supporting colored businessmen, who exploit them just like white businessmen. The comrades apparently fail to see the vast difference between a man who is exploited as a man and a man who is exploited as less than a man—like an animal. Yet whether in America, Asia or Africa, the imperialists and capitalists possess inexhaustible strength and absolute power, mainly because of the special emphasis put on the difference of race and color among the exploited of the world.

Hitler, dramatically and brutally imposing an inferior status on the Jewish minority, has started a movement that will be rocking the world long after Hitler and Nazism are dead. To fight and defeat Hitlerism, its vile racial theories must be combatted. But how can the so-called democratic nations effectively fight Hitler, when they tacitly endorse him in their attitude towards millions of brown and white persons exploited in Asia and Africa? How long can they continue to condemn racial intolerance against Jews and condone it against Africans and Asiatics, unless all the modern scientific theories and Christian principles regarding humanity are discarded.

Mr. Gunther shows that the actual condition of China under foreign exploitation and native militarsts is appalling. Few Americans have any realistic conception of Chinese life under the foreign concessions: the treaty ports, customs control and extra-territoriality. Economically and socially the Chinese masses are unimaginably worse off than the peons of the South or Mexco. Where Europeans control, Chinese have no social privileges. Educated Chinese, even the highest officials, cannot enter white clubs, restaurants and hotels. In Shanghai Park, there was placed the insulting sign: "No Dogs or Chinese Allowed". Mr. Gunther relates. The present prime minister of China was refused service in a passenger elevator because it was reserved for whites only. Foreigners control all the wealth of Shanghai, but they pay no taxes.

WORKERS AT SIX

The average wage of the semi-skilled Chinese worker is $2.40 a month and the working day is from 12 to 15 hours. Children start to work at six. Chinese girls are sold by their parents for $5, for three years' work in factories under a system of indenture. Two million people die of starvation every year in China. Twenty-nine thousand dead bodies were picked up off the streets of Shanghai in 1935. No such horrifying conditions exist in the worst native areas in South Africa.

Compared to the immense, filth-filled cattleshed of China, Japan is a neatly cultivated garden. For about 50 years after the Chinese had their first little taste of the fruit of British exploitation, the Japanese held their country tightly closed. When, 75 years ago, the white power blasted the little brown men out of their hermit ways of life, the Japanese immediately and assiduously began to study the amazing activism of the white invaders who had prodded them out of their island retreat. Unlike the Chinese, who were content in considering themselves the favored sons of Heaven, and the Europeans foreign devils, the Japanese were quickly aware that they were challenged by a superior type of people. So they went right after them to learn their methods.

By the American standard, wages are very low in Japan, but the rate is more than double that paid in China. The general standard and quality of living is on an infinitely higher level than in China. The majority of Japanese live frugally and cleanly. The cost of living is cheap. There is no extreme disparity between the salaries of professionals, non-professionals and official persons as exists in Europe and America. The Japanese use the most modern equipment in their industrial plants, which are run without graft. They are formidable rivals of the highly industrialized nations in the world's market.

Mr. Gunther describes all this in detail. He tells us that the Japanese are the only people in Asia who keep abreast of the great Western nations. And they also have all the "faults" of those highly industrialized nations. The Japanese are industrious, efficient and progressive. They are expansionists, determined, self-confident and aggressive. Mr. Gunther clearly shows a preference for the easy-going, charming and inefficient Chinese. The Japanese, too, are aware of the greater and more ancient traditions of the Chinese, to whom they are indebted for their culture. Japanese adore the Chinese cuisine, which is superior to theirs. But they have a mortal fear of becoming Chinafied politically.

Japan is the most overcrowded country in the world. The Japanese have been compelled to overflow into China. Japan is doing in China precisely what other great powers have done. But to a moralist that is no excuse. The inexorable necessity of Japanese expansion seems a more logical one.

IMPERIAL RIVALRY

The main issue in China is imperialist rivalry. And it is complicated by the problems of race and color. All the great powers in China are concerned with their own selfish interests. They not only exploit the Chinese; they discriminate against all Chinese in China because they are not white. The Japanese do not have the goodwill of the white powers but they inspire respect. As citizens of a great power, the Japanese in China have equal rights with whites. They visit hotels, restaurants and cabarets where whites attend. But I understand that the Japanese are sometimes mistaken for Chinese, and have to establish their identity.

Aside from the right or wrong of its action in China, the Japanese nation is a barrier against the spread of race or color prejudice in Asia. There are large numbers of Chinese in Japan. There is no case on record of Japanese subjecting Chinese to humiliating discrimination in Japan as Europeans do in China.

Today the Chinese revolutionists are arrayed against Japan because of her invasion of China. But Japan has declared her intention to institute a new order in China. Japan considers a weak China, dominated by European powers, a menace to her national growth. But the white nations opposing Japan are more concerned about their prestige which is based upon race and color prejudice and intolerance. None of these powers has offered to give up the special concessions by which the Chinese are exploited and degraded.

Human dignity is more precious than prestige.

It is better for the cultural interest of all humanity that no one kind of people should dominate the entire world. Some of us will understand more who have lived in colonies and seen the agents of imperialists degrade all humanity in their treatment of subject peoples whose skin is not white. They act as they do because of prestige—that prestige that is thrust forth like a mailed fist in "Inside Asia"—which is barred to them above elementary human rights.

• The LAUNDRYMAN

According to C. H. Fennell, executive director of the City Housing Authority of Los Angeles, the failure of the House of Representatives to approve to Senate bill to amend the Housing Act of 1937 has not retarded the low housing program of the Angel City. This is due to the fact that the total amount available to the USHA from its original appropriation has been already earmarked for, or actually loaned to local authorities. Of 50 million dollars available for Housing in California, 25 million is slated for Los Angeles.

One contract for a project of 610 units to be constructed near the County Hospital has already been approved by the USHA. next week an application will be forwarded for construction of a low-rent housing project in the Central Avenue district. This project promises to be a great boon to many members of our group who are paying extortionate prices for rental of miserable looking, unsanitary shacks.

It is to be hoped that provision and facilities for the accomodation of families with children, will be afforded in the contemplated project. For the situation of these unfortunates at present is enough to drive a nervous mother to the verge of hysteria. It is heart-breaking to wander from one real estate office to another in search of a shelter for your children, and to be constantly met with the apology: "I'm sorry madam, but the owner has positively declared the she will not have children on the premises." A project of five or six hundred units in the Central Avenue section would go far to remedy this state of affairs, and would likewise bring rent-hog landlords to their senses very quickly.

GARNER FOR PRESIDENT?

The present boom for "Cactus Jack" Garner for President, should be sabotaged when and wherever possible by our group. According to John L. Lewis—whose statement so far has not been refuted—Texas Jack has never shown the slightest interest in the Poor White Workingman; so it requires only a tiny bit of imagination to conjure up his probable attitude towards 12 million Negroes were he elected to the Presidential chair. Texas born, and Texas bred, Mr. Garner's ideas about Negroes are about as fixed as the Rock of Gibraltar. If he ran true to Texas form—which can hardly be doubted—it would be as natural for him to favor disfranchisement for Negroes, as for a dog to chase a cat.

If he does succeed in getting the nomination, the most conspicuous plank in his platform would necessarily have to be his moniker "Cactus Jack," for he has nothing much outside of that to offer a country which faces such staggering national and international problems as does the United States today. Let us hope that the wily politicians who think that a catchy nickname is all that is necessary to tickle the palate of the average American voter, will be sadly disappointed when the show-down comes.

• LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

NOT FOOLISH ENOUGH

Dear Editor:

Your editorial predicting the defeat of the Democratic party if Thomas E. Dewey does run on the Republican ticket in 1940 is, in fact, an attempt on your part to suggest and advise your readers and the Race to support the Republican party of which I do not believe they will be foolish enought to do, unless the Democrats mistakingly nominate some Southerner such as Jack Garner.

The Southern Democrat is willing to lose the White House to the Republican if it will give them back control of the Party where they know they can keep the Negro politically frozen without being molested by the Republicans. It seems the simplest way to study this situation is by first accepting the fact that the majority of the Race lives below the Mason-Dixon line, which consists of only 13 states. You know those states deprive the Negro of the right to vote, at least in the primaries, meaning the right to choose those whom they feel might be to their advantage. Against this 13, are 35, all of which give the Race the right to vote.

As long as the Race is in the minority and the majority of that minority lives in the South, the Race, as a whole, will be deprived of certain rights and cannot expect full political justice unless he keeps the Republican party out of the White House and the Democratic party from moving back South.

Thomas Dewey may be alright for the Negro in New York state, but in my opinion, he won't be worth a d--- to 8 million below the Mason and Dixon line. I believe if the Negro will support the Northern democrat at least for another 8 years, our Southern brother will be a long way, if not completely out of their political bondage.

The so-called popularity of Jack Garner is nothing other than a propaganda trick, designed by the Republicans to get him nominated on the Democratic ticket for they know the Negro will leave the party and rejoin them, plus a desire by Southern Democrats to move the party back to the South.

This strategy is too open for the Negro to be fooled and I predict that if our leaders refuse to be made drunk with promises by the Republicans, as in the past, they will vote the Democratic ticket in 1940 and let T. E. Dewey, or any other Republican, slide another 8 years. If this is done, we will not only have an anti-lynch law but political freedom and liberal advancement for the Negro.

I say Roosevelt was wise in keeping silent on the anti-lynch issue while he knew he had to continue with the South's opposition to the Wage-Hour issue, which he perhaps felt was more important at the time.

Thank you

MINSTREL SHOW

Dear Editor:

The curtain is about to fall on the Roaring Camp Centennial, and the Negro has just been asked to participate in a program for a Negro night. He has fought side by side with his fellow men to amass the wealth for which California is noted, but his contributions in the development of the State are not wanted for the program. No. He is asked to put on a minstrel show.

What does the Negro think? His patience and perseverance reveal nothing, but he is wondering why he shares no honors with the heroes of '49. There was a day in California when a man was judged by his strength of character, his ability—not his color. Petro, a black man, was with the first expedition from the Old World to set eyes on the San Francisco bay. Nine black monks arrived prior to the time of Father Junipero Serra. William A. Leidsdorff, a "man of colour" owned several ships in the San Francisco bay and made frequent trips to the Eastern Seaboard. In 1847, he was appointed to the first Board of Education Committee organized in San Francisco.

Many Negroes came to California in the Gold Rush and made enough to buy their freedom and that of their families. Mammy Pleasant was known as one of the greatest financiers of her time, and she lost millions trying to abolish slavery. One of the first schools in Sacramento was opened by Negroes in 1854 on the same premises as the now St. Andrews church, located at 7th and G streets. It was conducted by Mrs. Elizabeth Thorn Scott. A Negro rode in the Pony Express. There is so much more that could be added, especially the fight to keep California a free state, and the continuous struggle to break down racial barriers of all minority groups.

With such a rich background of which he need not feel ashamed, why should any Negro set himself apart as other than American? Why should he revert to minstrel tactics to win grace? Let us be intelligent and give consideration to those worthy pioneers of color, a much thwarted people whose life is not based on clowning, but on a hard struggle for existence.

The local NAACP was given 3 days in which to get together a program, sell over 500 tickets, and take full charge of a Negro Night at the Roaring Camp. When asked for a longer time of preparation, they were told that a minstrel show, composed of a youthful recreation group, was already prepared; so that there was nothing to do that would take a longer time to get ready. The local branch immediately withdrew all attempts at having a Negro Night. There are many children and grandchildren of the early pioneers still residing in Sacramento, and they do not feel it advantageous to clown in order to win favor. The Negro pioneers of this section have truly been snubbed throughout the whole Centennial; and although there has been only little comment, this is one native daughter whose family dates back 80 or 90 years who is really put out.

Would you like to know what other native sons and daughters have to say on the subject?

Sincerely,
JULIA VAN SLACK
Sacramento, Calif.

HOUSEWIFE NEAR DEATH AFTER MERCILESS ATTACK

CALIFORNIA EAGLE

VOL. 60—NO. 20 LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 24, 1939 PRICE 5 CENTS

on the sidewalk

by c. a. b.

"O Boston, fair city enthroned like a radiant Queen,
From thy hills looking down on the ship-teeming plain of the ocean,
May thy future be bright, thy skies beam with light all serene
Insured by thy son's and thy daughters unselfish devotion!"

IT MAY BE the first, second or even third time— a visit to Boston has the same quaint, curious lore.

Like many New England cities, changes are infrequently made in historic Boston. Hence, a few weeks ago, when once again I was privileged to visit this shrine of American culture, it was though I stepped from real life into memories.

A quiet stroll across the old Granery Burial Ground established in the year 1660, assured me that it had undergone only such changes as the rehabilitation of a headstone that had been wrecked. And very few had even this repair. In most cases, the stones that have crumbled apart, are tied together by corrugated wire.

People from all sections of the country and various parts of the world are seen standing with bowed heads or in whispers reading inscriptions on tombstones of John Hancock, Samuel Adams, Samuel Willard, Gov. Thomas Cushing, Paul Revere, Crispus Attucks and other departed heroes of American independence.

In the old Granery Burial Ground there was one grave in which I became particularly interested—the grave of Crispus Attucks, Negro patriot who won the distinction of having shed the first blood of the Revolution and sacrificed his life for liberty and freedom of the American colonies.

There is a sort of sacredness about a visit to the resting place of these early American heroes, but often one's attention is arrested by a very quaint inscription on a tomb which reads, in effect, something like this: "Here rests the remains of So and So, the faithful wife of Mr.——."

From the old Granery we wended our way up grade to Boston Common, and in fancy saw groups of early Americans or colonists, as they were called at that time, huddled in little groups discussing Great Britain's method of taxation.

As I stood there on that sacred soil with green grass on its bosom and tall trees surrounding its corners, I realized that this plot of land called Boston Common was dedicated to the memory of a group of men and women who loved liberty more than life. Some of them had given up lives of luxury, braved the ravages of climate as well as hostile Indians in search of religious freedom—if not achieved for themselves, then for their posterity.

From the Commons to old South Church where we lingered but a short time. Then Faneuel Hall—the other place I had mentioned in my notes as "place to be visited." The doors to this history-lovers shrine were locked and barred to visitors, so our stop-off on this occasion was restricted to the outside.

I am happy to state that the building stands today as it did yesterday: its walls and covering untrammeled—except by the elements.

Here again, while reverently gazing at the entrance of the great meeting place that once opened to receive William Lloyd Garrison, John Brown and other noted abolitionists, my imagination played tricks. I could see Frederick Douglas, the bronze knight of the anti-slavery period, his white beard gleaming in the lamp light, as he made his way down the aisle to the rostrum—Douglas was the evening speaker. On this occasion, his feet dragged a bit and his head was slightly bowed. Close on the heels of Douglas came Sojourner Truth, but there was no thought of despair registed on the grotesque countenance of that gawky black woman. However, she sensed that Frederick Douglas had struck a snag in the path he had paved to freedom. It was this time and this situation that prompted the question, "Is God dead, Frederick?" from Sojourner Truth and this question has become famous.

It was a most pleasant day dream, picturing Douglas and Sojourner Truth mounting the stairs that lead to fame by way of Faneuel Hall. I could not linger longer here. My heroes were pushed back into memory's urn, the lid clamped down, and I moved on to my next stop—the 200-year old home of Paul Revere.

So tense was the atmosphere of this shrine of Revolutionary war days that one almost whispered to himself "tread softly."

Upon entering the home of Paul Revere, one is impressed with the neatly arranged furnishings. The quid explains that they stand today as they stood in 1770 when Paul Revere, his wife and sixteen children lived here. The family living room, bedrooms and kitchen, with the great open grate and kettles, the spinning wheel—mute evidence of a period gone but not forgotten.

Foster Driver Shot By 'Mistake'

Druggist Mistaken for Burglar By Brother; to Recover

Mistaken for the burglar whom he was helping to apprehend, Foster E. Driver, druggist, of 2331 Hooper avenue, was shot in the stomach by his brother, Eddie R. Driver, Monday night at the latter's residence, 1412 E. 25th street.

The Driver brothers told police, summoned to investigate the shooting, that it was an accident. Wounded seriously, Foster Driver was operated on early Tuesday morning at the General hospital where doctors said he would recover.

Eddie Driver told officers that he was standing on the corner across from the drug store just before midnight when he heard his wife, Mrs. Ina P. Driver scream that there was a burglar in the house. Running to his brothers' drug store, he asked for a gun and was given a .38 calibre Smith and Wesson.

HEARD NOISE

Entering the house from the front door, Driver said he saw no one and went on through the house to the back door when he thought he heard a noise. Passing the bathroom, he said he saw it open and surmised the burglar had crawled through it to the yard.

There in the backyard he said he saw a man's form and, not stopping to investigate, fired once. It was his brother, the druggist, come to help him apprehend the intruder.

Police reported that nothing was missing from the home.

Foster Driver was shot once before in the hold-up of a drug store maintained by him on lower Central avenue. His assailants are now serving time in San Quentin.

Assault Charges Face Two Men

Triple charges, suspicion of assault, attempt to commit murder and assault with a deadly weapon, were filed Monday against two men, Calvin Bealey, 27, 1557 E. 21st street, and Jeff Lee Ward, 34, involved in the shooting of William Atkins, 1317 E. 23rd street.

Atkins told police he was shot in the arm and leg on Aug. 13 by a man whom he refused to name, who had beeome angered because he would not permit gambling in his home.

Police Saturday arrested Bealey and Ward after investigation.

Benjamin Jones Gets Life Term

A sentence of "life" in the state prison was handed 20-year old Benjamin Jones, convicted murder and attacker of a white woman, by Judge Arthur Crum last Monday morning.

A verdict of guilty of first degree murder was returned Friday morning by a jury which had debated well into Thursday evening. The jury, all white, returned a recommendation of life imprisonment because of Jones' youth.

Father Tries to Attack Son

A father who attempted to attack him son with drawn gun and knife, faced assault with deadly weapon charges today. The father is Sherman Walton, 717 E. 41st street.

Walton was arrested last Sunday morning after he had attempted to shoot and cut his son, Eugene, who had intervened in a quarrel between his father and mother.

Now De Scripture Sez:

"Can a man find a virtuous woman?" So my Aunt was always ready to admit that absolutely virtuous women were getting to be more and more rare, but then, she wondered, just what would happen if a woman should set out to find herself a virtuous man?

PARK EMPLOYEE SET FREE

Try to Buy Off 7 Victims of Mobbists

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—Certain group in Cranbury, N. J., are trying to hush up prosecution by making a "deal" with the 7 Negro potato pickers who were stripped, beaten and threatened by a white mob here August 11, it was reported today by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The basis of the deal was reported to be payment in full for work done and small "damages" for treatment by the mob, providing the victims would agree not to prosecute.

Governor A. Harry Moore was urged by the NAACP to employ every instrument of his office in support of the Jersey state police who are attempting to track down the mob which viciously attacked the migratory farm workers, one of them a woman.

The victims of the mob attack, which took place on the farm of Raymond Dey, near Cranbury, N. J., included:

Jake Preston, 23, and his wife, Mrs. Frances Preston ,also 23, both of Coleman, Ga.; Monroe Holmes, 24, of Philadelphia, Pa.; Louis Streeter, 18 and Ode Streeted, 24, both of Augusta, Ga.; James Jordan, 22, of Quincy, Fla.; and William Moten, 41, of Greensboro, Ala.

All of the victims, who lived in a shack on the Dey farm, with only a partition separating Preston and his wife from the other workers, were aroused from their beds shortly after midnight Friday, August 11, by a mob of whites, who flashed lights in their faces. All were forced to disrobe completely, including Mrs. Preston. Five of the men were chased across the Dey farm to the tune of pistol shots. Mr. and Mrs. Preston were both doused with white enamel paint, subjected to elaborate indignities and carried in an automobile 7 miles from the fram, where they were released. All of the men were beaten with rubber hoses. Only one, William Moten, succeeded in getting away, while the mob was at work.

Police went into action as soon as news of the attack spread. About 12 hours after the mob's action, 12 suspects were rounded up. When the workers found their way back to the Dey farm, Mrs. Preston found that all her savings, amounting to twenty dollars, had been stolen by members of the mob.

From a list comprising college graduates and those having had training in recreational leadership, Carl Gross, local newspaper man, received appointment this morning as a playground director. He will be placed at the Ross Snyder playground. His duties will begin Saturday.

JERSEY CITY MOB VICTIM NEAR DEATH

JERSEY CITY (N. J.) Aug. 24—A Negro youth, set upon and beaten by a white mob of 100 as an aftermath to an automobile accident in the Italian-American section of this city, clung tenaciously to life today. Park Employe Held 'Not Guilty'

Court Frees Woman Who Figured in Park Controversy

Mrs. Geraldine McCoy, washroom employe at Griffith Park, was held "not guilty" last Friday by Municipal Court Judge R. Morgan Galbreth after a three-day trial for disturbing the peace. Mrs. McCoy was arrested after a fight several weeks ago, in which she said she was set upon by several white women after a controversy at the Park.

Represented by Attorney Thomas L. Griffith, Mrs. McCoy said she was eating lunch in her automobile when about 16 white persons demanded that she move her car so they could park. Upon her refusal she said she was abused and threatened and told that if she "were in Texas, she would be lynched."

For several hour, Mrs. McCoy claimed, she was annoyed by the whites, bent on revenge. She claimed that four of the women "committed a nuisance" on the floor of the washroom which it is her duty to keep clean, and commanded her to clean it up.

The fight started when meat and gravy allegedly were thrown into Mrs. McCoy's face by one of the women, It was said more than a thousand persons watched half a dozen whites beat the woman.

Arrested by police officers, who freed the whites, and later testified against her, Mrs. McCoy was suspended from her job as park attendant. Following her acquittal, it is expected she will be reinstated.

Predict Negro Federal Judge in U.S. in '40

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—The appointment of a Negro federal judge in continental United States in 1940 is predicted freely in certain circles in Washington.

Desirous of holding the great Negro vote which helped pile up such terrific majorities for him in 1932 and 1936, President Rosevelt is being counselled by members of his inner circle of politicians to make such an appointment early next year.

The appointment would naturally be made in New York where the concurrence of Senators Meade and Wagner could be obtained without necessitating or precipitating a confirmation fight in the senate.

WOULD CEMENT RELATIONS

This move naturally would not be much cause for jubilation south of the Mason-Dixon line and would also do much to cement relations in New York between an unfriendly New Deal and Tammany—which has experienced some very lean years here recently. And also, by virtue of such an appointment, when and if it is made, strengthen the Negro vote for Tammany in the Metropolis.

REV. F. W. WATKINS, has been among those active in getting ready for the large delegation of Baptists that will arrive in Los Angeles beginning the first of September. It will be the first time that this wing of the Baptists of which Henry Allen Boyd is leader, has ever been to the Pacific Coast. A large delegation will make the people of the community Baptist-conscious for a period of a week.

The Second Baptist and Independent Church of Christ have been selected as the two meeting spots for the convention. The womens' work will be carried on at Independent, while the main work of the Convention will be conducted at Second Baptist. The Convention will meet September 6 through the 10.

Say Southern U. May Be Probed Next

BATON ROUGE, Aug. 24—It's the same old "76" here; the probers are moving about like ants. And everywhere they move something happens. Many persons insist they are going to move on Southern university next, but the school's official's don't think so, and seem the least perturbed over the situation.

One official, who didn't want his name mentioned, said, "Why should Southern university be brought into the L. S. U. scandal because its president was friendly with Dr. Smith?" Nobody was around to answer his question, but the contractors who built L. S. U. are said to have constructed Southern.

Negroes working at L. S. U. are beaming again because the talk that they would be brought into the "mess" is dying out. The only Negroes questioned thus far are Link Bryant, famous bricklayer, and Roosevelt Ashberry, chauffeur of a boss politician.

The pot in New Orleans is still burning, too, but the fire under it isn't as hot as it could be. The Negro gambling houses are still open and doing nicely. Most of the conspicuous white gambling houses have been temporarily closed. Some of the city officials maye be in line for an indictment or two, but it is hardly believed that any Negroes will be questioned here. Not about the L. S. U. farce, anyway.

Hail Report of Daughter Ruler of Elks

Abbie M. Johnson Report Hailed as Finest in History

NEW YORK, Aug. 24—Annual Report submitted by Grand Daughter Ruler Abbie M. Johnson at the great New York City convention of the IBPOE, was hailed today as one of the finest in Elks' history.

Otustanding among Mrs. Johnson's activities this year was her fight with the Department of the Interior to remove discriminatory practices in the National Park Service in Washington, D. C.

A series of letters between Mrs. Johnson and E. K. Burlew, first assistant secretary of the Interior, resulted in an official investigation in the Park Service and some reforms.

The Report revealed Mrs. Johnsons' incessant activities as promotional head of the national Women's Auxiliary, and told of her many tours throughout Elkdom.

As delegate to the National Council of Negro Women, Mrs. Johnson contributed much to that organization and was placed upon the Executive Board for that meeting, and was appointed chairman of the Finance Committee.

"SINCERE FEW"

In reference to Negro Women's meeting, the Elks' Grand Daughter Ruler stated, "One thing which struck me forcibly in that meeting was the remark by the founder and President, our own Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune, that it did not take numbers to put over a program but the sincere an faithful few. Too, her advice that we return the next day in a spirit for business, and leaving out little technicalities. There were many splendid features of the convention, but among them was the petition from the Council to the Governor to name one f the new schools the "James Weldon Johnson" in memory of our late great leader who met with such an untimely death, but who was incomparable among his contemporaries."

Mrs. Johnson paid tribute to her co-workers when she stated, "My unstinted praise and deepest gratitude goes to each head of the departments for it seems that each one has vied with the other to bring her department in ahead of the other."

"The Educational Department went forward this year as usual, but even a step farther in organizing study clubs which proved inspirational in many cities and communities, and created more interest in the department. The Child Welfare Department did their usual share of caring for unfortunate children, seeing that they were adequately clothed."

Watchers of the coffers in the ladies' branch of the Elks' organization were gratified to learn that the Shrine has banked, separately, this year $1818. 29., a record-smashing amount.

At 2 p. m., the economic session of the educational Unit followed the precedent set by the morning session with a highly illuminating program dealing with the educational prgress made by the Order this year. Presiding at the afternoon meet was famed Standard Oil advertising official J. A. (Billboard) Jackson, and Professor Charles M. Thomas, well-known economist, was the speaker.

ANNUAL SERMON

Rev. Dr. George Avant, pastor of St. Marks, delivered the annual sermon Sunday evening.

Delaney, Tax Commissioner of the City of New York; J. Finley Wilson, Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks'; and Abbie M. Johnson, Grand Daughter Ruler. WHAT CRIMES men commit to get into the headlines of the daily papers. To have a colored American, experienced in the most subtle kind of race distinction in his own home, make comment while on foreign soil, that is detrimental to another minority group, is beyond me. No Negro in any part of the world could ever condone race prejudice if he is in his right mind. Regardless to what extent the oppressor would go to prove how justified he is, the fundamental wrong of race prejudice still exists. You may be right in pointing out what you may think wrong in some groups, but before you fall asleep the same day you will find as many faults with yourself, if you are honest. I feel that by constructive education you can correct all of the evils that cause race prejudice, but never by encouraging race prejudice. What difference does it make whether a man hates a Jew or a Negro? One, he says he hates because of his nose and his religion—the other because of the color of his skin and the fact that he has accomplished a great deal in the world, in spite of his color. Are we to become so small that as soon as a Gentile says the Negro is O. K. but d—— the Jews, we immediately join with him to enforce race prejudice? What have we learned in hundreds of years of the whip across our backs?—I hope tolerance in its true sense. A young, intelligent minister goes for the first time on a tourist excursion to Germany, and under the glamour of guns and the goose-step, he immediately thinks this great country of ours needs to learn something from the man who refused to shake hands with our great Jesse Owens because his skin was black. 'Tis true, there is something to learn, and that is a different type of race prejudice, designed and executed by force of arms. Ours still flourishes, but the 14th and 15th Amendments are still in our Constitution and some Americans believe by fighting, which we still have the right to do, we will eventually make freedom a reality. Inexperience in travelling is no disgrace as not travelling at all. Don't let Germany excite you with its Sunday clothes. America has much left for the Negro, if he will fight, and may God bless a country that still has a place for the Jew. If it keeps that spirit, our chance for winning is great. But if it ever turns on the Jew, we will be next in line. Tolerance should be in the text of every minister, if nothing else.

ELECT DR. E. I. ROBINSON VICE SPEAKER OF N. M. A.

L. A. MEDICO ELECTED TO HOUSE OF DELEGATES OFFICE AT NMA CONFAB

National Medical Association Ousts President-Elect Jesse Leach of Flint

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. (ANP)—Like a simmering pot of Potage Gras' brought to a sudden boil, the closing sessions here last Saturday of the 45th annual convention of the National Medical association fairly sizzled as the fight over the qualifications of President-elect Jesse L. Leach was climaxed by NMA declaring his office vacant and ousting him from leadership of the nation's ranking Negro medical organization.

Accused of unfitness for the high position because of his conviction in 1928 in Flint, Mich., his home city, of violation of the federal liquor laws, Dr. Leach was compelled to answer the charges brought against him at the convention by an NMA committee headed by Dr. Roscoe C. Giles of Chicago. Earlier in the convention sessions it was thought that the ouster proceedings would not be necessary as convention officials said Dr. Leach had promised to resign as president-elect, if the body would grant him vindication.

By almost unanimous vote he was granted vindication, but then instead of resigning, Dr. Leach was reported as declaring he intended to assume the duties of his new office. Sentiment against him crystallized from that moment, the result being that NMA declared his office vacant, then elected Dr. Albert W. Dumas of Natchez, Miss., in his stead.

Dr. Dumas took office immediately. It was reported in some quarters that Dr. Leach would fight the ouster in the courts, but at week-end it was stated no action had as yet been taken.

MOST SUCCESSFUL

The convention was NMA's largest and most successful, with over 1200 delegates and 2000 visitors present from every state in the union. The scientific papers were enlightening, and all sessions were largely attended notwithstanding the other metropolitan attractions.

At the welcome meeting, Maybr LaGuardia was warmly applauded when he turned the city over to the delegates and reiterated his policy of absolute impartiality.

The Woman's auxiliary had a record-breaking attendance, and enthusiastic sessions. Mrs. A. W. Dumas, Natchez, Miss., was elected president. Atlantic City, N. J., was chosen as the next place of meeting for 1940.

New County Tax Rate to Be Lower

The new county tax rate for the 1939-40 fiscal year will definitely be lower than last year's rate, Supervisor Gordon L. McDonough so declared yesterday following budget studies in which many economies he demanded were ordered by the Board of Supervisors.

As the budget stands today, a tax rate of less than $1:51—the rate last year—on each $100 assesse valuation is required with still another week before adoption date of August 30.

Elimination of what he termed "unnecessary expenditures" and reductions in other budget items were first demanded by Supervisor McDonough when the preliminary budget was adopted June 30. He contended that certain items could be cut without impairing functions of government. These beliefs were sustained by the Board of Supervisors in ordering many reductions in the preliminary budget estimates.

Defense Attorney Says Ervin Did Not Get "Fair Trial"

The conviction of J. McFarland Ervin, only Negro school attendance officer in the Los Angeles City school system, was reversed and judgment set aside by the Appellate Department of the Superior Court last Friday morning after argument by Attorneys Curtis C. Taylor and Willis O. Tyler who charged that Ervin did not receive a fair trial in the Justice's Court of Huntington Park last July 10, where he was convicted by Judge Stanley Moffat of a morals offense.

Young Ervin, son of the late Dr. J. F. Ervin, for 25 years president of Jarvis Christian college, is a prominent member of the local social and professional set. He is a graduate of Chapman college nd has a M. A. degree from the University of Southern California. For the past five years, he has been City Attendance Officer, taking the place of Booker T. Washington, Jr., who left California.

MORALS CHARGE

Ervin was arrested on morals charges preferred by Erna Felker and Elizabeth Russell, white women, growing out of a complaint of an alleged incident on the night of July 26, in the Fox Florence theatre on Florence avenue and Compton blvd.

At a sensational trial before Judge Moffat, in which the theatre manager and two women swore tht Ervin had been guilty of indecent exposure and Ervin denied the charges, he was found guilty. During the course of the trial the Judge refused to allow Taylor to cross-examine the witnesses. It was these points which the lawyer stressed on Appeal before Judge B. Ray Schauer and Judge Hartley Shaw of the Superior Court. The Judges reversed the conviction and set aside the judgement, ordering a new trial.

● SIDEWALK

Upon leaving the home of Paul Revere by way of a back-door iron stairway, you are wont to picture the rider in boots and spurs, his long black gun, still a wall decoration, latched to his side, not wanting to arouse the other members of his family as he steals quietly from this home bent upon what is probably the most famous horse ride in history.

As I passed along the streets of the city where the liberty and freedom of this nation were born, I was fiercely reminded that Revere, Attucks, Salem and the others, fought for the liberty of all people. Those who came and those who were brought to this country. Inspired by the courage and unselfish devotion of these early pioneers—pioneers not only of a nation, but of a cause—may we Americans of today dedicate our lives to a new democracy—a democracy that will banish race hatreds and wanton persecution of minority groups.

Divine L.A. Angel Pays 32-Year Old Debt

DALLAS Tex.) Aug. 24—Before the aroma completely drifted into space of an alleged Ku Klux Klan threat to bomb the home a wealthy Eastern white woman unless she refrained from selling her Newport, R. I. home to Father Divine and his "Angels," a letter was delivered to Dr. R. T. Hamilton, a local physician, from one of the "angels" in far-off Los Angeles, offering to settle a $15 bill for medical service rendered February 13, 1907.

In the letter, the "angel" stated that the bill was for $15, of which $5 had been paid, leaving a balance of $10. She said in her letter that Father Divine wanted all of his followers to square all bills as far back as they could remember.

Dr. Hamilton's reply to the "angel" was that more than 32 years had passed, and no recollection of the event was recorded—but if she recalled that the bill was not completely paid and wanted to pay the balance, he would be very glad to receive it. He further stated that there must be something in the teachings of Father Divine, as to make an individual want to settle a bill that far back.

McDonough in Tax Request

GORDON L. McDONOUGH
Supervisor 2nd District

Legislature, an extension of the tax redemption moratorium which expires August 31, 1939.

In a resolution adopted by the Board of Supervisors, McDonough pointed out that provisions of Assembly Bill 2089 which permits payment of delinquent taxes without penalties and interest up to and including August 31, 1939, provides that the redemptioner make affidavit as being the recorded owner prior to January 1, 1939.

city officials prohibit Negroes from swimming in the pool, excepting one day a week known as "International Day." In defense of the regulation, the officials, by their answer to the petition for writ of Mandate, assert the plunge is self supporting and there is no tax available for that purpose, and further, that if Negroes are admitted at all times, they will be required to discontinue operation of the Pool.

Thomas L. Griffith, Jr., attorney, filed the action on behalf of Charles Stone, William J. Brock, W. H. Harrison, James Price, Frederick James and Frederick Smith. James Billups and Barney Durham for the Pasadena Branch, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, are leading the fight.

36,000 Daily St.-Car Rides Pay Taxes

The advertisement of the Los Angeles Railway which appears in the EAGLE today states that the annual taxes paid by the Los Angeles Railway are in excess of $925,000.

This means that there must be about 36,000 seven-cent street-car rides taken every day for 365 days of every year in order that the Los Angeles Railway may pay its tax bills to the County, State and Uncle Sam.

This is the amount the company itself pays as taxes and does not take into account the heavy additional taxes paid by the company's four thousand employees, many of whom own their own homes.

President P. B. Harris of the Los Angeles Railway points out that when his company pays nearly a million dollars a year in taxes it relieves all other taxpayers of just that much of that which must be collected to meet governmental costs, and shows that industries of the size of the Los Angeles Railway are real assets to the people of a community and agencies of great savings to the taxpayers.

Nearly A MILLION

YES... nearly a million.

As a taxpayer, the Los Angeles Railway pays nearly a million dollars a year for City, County, State and Federal taxes.

As the payer of nearly a million dollars each year, Los Angeles Railway helps each individual taxpayer just that much.

If there were enough corporations paying as much as Los Angeles Railway in Los Angeles, our taxes would be a pleasure instead of a burden.

Last year's taxes were in excess of nine hundred and twenty-five thousand, and that's near enough to a cool million so that most of us wouldn't know the difference.

A good big slice of this tax bill goes for Social Security and State Unemployment relief, and that helps all along the line.

Quite an asset to any city ... All of us in Los Angeles would go a long way to get another business that pays nearly a million in taxes to locate here.

• CLOTHING CLOSE-UPS . . .

Beaver is in favor in Paris this year. We like it here for its durability and for its complimenting any complexion. Sheared Beaver makes the sleeves and Peter Pan collar on this very youthful gray wool coat. There is an extreme left closing in this model, whic is made on the princess line for flattery. The hat suggests the Beaver trim, in brown velours, with a postillion crown and pom pom to make it definitely 1940.

Shades of the nineties . . . in the bustle dress which is fashions favorite again are really smart. Ths version in brown wool has leg-o-mutton sleeves and bustle in brown moire. There is a back closing with tiny buttons and a buckle to match, so you can leave the bustle off whenever you like. AS YOU PLEASE MADAME.

SARA PRINCE AND HERBERT LOUIS NUPTIALS REVEALED

Fifteen girlhood friends gathered in the dining hall of the Prince residence at 319 Kensington Avenue, Pasadena last Monday night. The snowy white linens of the table enhanced by the beauty of white flowers and green fern gave to the atmosphere a sort of hushed silence of expectancy, the chatter of the young Misses came to an abrupt pause as they were ushered in.

After the first lull, when their eyes lighted on the tiny white baskets, wedding rings suspended from the handles thru which scrolls were placed, their eager fingers grasped them. The two names Sara Lula Prince and Herbert F. Louis together in a wedding ring told an old old story that is ever new to the heart of a Maiden. Then their tongues were loosened, their eyes sparkled and they were gay with the gayety of looking forward to one of the happy moments of girlhood. Each one shared the thrill of Sara Lula, the bride-to-be.

CHATTER & SOME NEWS

By HELEN F. CHAPPELL, Society Editor

Well, with the end of this month the tide will recede rapidly. . . and the Southland wave of visitors will leave in their fresh wake a number of pleasant memories: Incidentally, visitors will take a lot of memories with them.

Lest you think I'm not aware of the pulse beat of those we have with us always, this week I'm beginning with the things that visitors haven't influenced. . . .

Monday afternoon, sixteen young women answered the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. James Bratton to a luncheon in their home at 1056 So. Serrano. . . The motive for the affair was the Bratton's daughter, Betty who is now Mrs. J. Howard Scott, Jr. Yes, I said Mrs. . . . No, I didn't know either. It happened April 25 in the famous Gretna Green of the Coast, Santa Ana, just before J. Howard returned to Washington, D. C., where Betty will join him within the next week. . . and attend Howard University.

Just before Betty embarks Thursday, Mrs. George Rowland will host a shower for her in the cosy Rowland home. Howard's a former UCLA student. . . Both sets of parents are taking the surprise in grand stride and rallying to the happy marrieds with love and kisses. . . and here's wishing the pretty and vivacious (you know it, too) Betty lots of happiness in the Capitol City where she will make her home.

TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE:

I like the Los Angeles mode of recognizing achievment. . . So am quite happy to receive an announcement of the "At Home" honoring Mrs. Loren Miller Saturday from four to six with Mmes. Edmund Ambros Hurd and Jerome Hatcher as hostesses. . . at 2087 West Twenty-eighth St. Mrs. Miller who's Juanita to her friends is deserving of her recent appointment in the State Relief Administration. The hope that she will do a fine job of interpreting the needs of our underprivileged will certainly not prove a vain one.

For next week-end the opening of the Eastside Cultural Center and Community Sing will hold the attention in a premier musical extravaganza at the Sunshine Hall, 22240 1-4 So. Central Avenue. Don't you think Sunshine is a refreshing name for a community center. . . or don't you mind these things that have "needy" names attached to them.

Pilots of the organization sponsoring the center are Eugene H. Huffman and Tilla Huggar. . . Don't forget it's next Sunday, September 3, from three to seven o'clock.

Sunday evening, newlyweds Victor and Earnestine (Beasley) Nickerson hosted a few friends at the showing of moving pictures of some of the summer weddings. . . including theirs . . . which have been taken this summer by Earl Almstead. Guests the Henry Feltenbergers, the Arthur Houstons, Wayne Carter, Alfred Darby; Earnestine's aunt, Mrs. Parsons; and several other friends.

IT COMES TO THIS:

Eventually I had to get around to visitors. . . and beginning in the Chappell "cramped quarters" in the Roxey. . . (Remember the butcher and his meat and skip this, or read it) Miss Minnie Nell Jackson, a classmate and friend from Dallas, Texas who's teaching there, and Robert Hazelwood of Philadelphia. . . friend of a friend, were the principal reasons for getting on the phone and hailing some of my best friends over.

They all proved quite low-brow. . .preferred "society craps" to bridge after I'd rushed around borrowing a card table. Incidentally, it was a christening of the place sans Champagne. . . with the help of J. Cullen Fentress and Lillian Fentress, Lois Evans, Sam Beadle, Octavia Mays. . . who has announced quitting Corpus Christi, Texas for Los Angeles and Roy Banks. . . of San Diego just a few weeks ago . . . A very versatile bunch with one guest of honor proving his prowess in opening a can with a bottle opener and all guests assisting in entertaining themselves.

The East scores again in lending us for a fortnight Mrs. Laurene Gray-Rodgers of New York and Philadelphia ,house guest of Miss Myrna Belle Arnette. She's a well traveled lady. . . in the U. S. and then some. . . but thinks L A is the place of all places to live. For real estate bargains. . . turn to the classifieds, Mrs. Rodgers. . . and welcome.

Mr and Mrs. Keiffer A. Jackson and son, Bowen of Baltimore, Maryland are spending the month with their daughter and sister, Mrs. Karl E. Downs in Pasadena. The Jacksonos motored back with Mrs. Downs who went East to see her husband sail for the World Conference of Christian Youth and the United Conference of European Methodists in Amsterdam, Holland and Copenhagen, Denmark, respectively. . . Hope I get to meet the Jacksons before their return on account of. . . because, I think the Downs couple is swellegant.

Saturday morning, answered the invitation to breakfast with Miss Lulu Boswell. . . visiting her immediate family on the westside. . . in the Boswell home. "Unaccustomed as I am" to eating breakfast, I have a feeling that I gained at least a half pound t that one. . . notwithstanding the presence of a guest of honor across the table. . . a golfer who's here from Indianapolis to take back one of those cups or medals, Andrew Sharpe. Saturday more golfers out at the Griffith Park course—No, I don't play—from Chicago, New Orleans and New York. All are aiming to dethrone the Atlanta champ Wheeler. . . and you never can tell.

Everybody on the EAGLE staff will be back at work soon. . . the editor-publisher, Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass writes that she'll be heading this way around September 15. . . perhaps earlier. Bye soon.

• POLITICAL POT-PIE

Political big shots of both the Republican and Democratic parties are jockeying for positions for the 1940 Presidential campaign.

It looks like Wood Wilson, sly old fox of the Eastside, is going to be second in command to Fred Roberts when the Republicans commence driving for votes.

Now that Dr. Dewey H. Anderson has resigned, the faithful Democratic workers are hopeful that they will get their reward. It is rumored that Clarence Muse is a member of Governor Olson's Colored Cabinet, if there be such a thing.

Many people are wondering why the State Controller is allowed to move into the S. R. A., a non-civil service subdivision and bring in Civil Service appointees to usurp jobs that should be held by non-Civil Service workers.

The Olson Administration should make some arrangement for our young people to receive a fair deal when they go into the S. R. A. office to apply for employment.

Carl Johnson reports progress among the young Republicans. It looks like the Young G. O. P. is going down the line for New York's District Attorney Dewey.

Colored women of California have arrived. In the ranks of the Republicans there are Mrs. Betty Hill, Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, Mrs. B. Mason and Mrs. Bernice Johnson, among the leaders.

On the Democrat side there are Mrs. Fay Allen, Mrs. Jessie Terry, Mrs. Faustina Johnson, Mrs. Enola Chism and Mrs. F. Albriet of Oakland.

I hear that Emory Crain is rounding up the F. Q. Morton club for the coming fray. If so, look out for Mrs. Maxine Heflin in the political arena again.

80 miles PER

Look at that boy go.. . why he shot out in a 7,-630-mile lead this week. Since the race started he has shown that he had the stuff of a thoroughbred in him; that racing blood that doesn't understand defeat. He has allowed none to surpass him far, and then only for a short period. His step is quick; his eyes are sharp; his ears are alert -- when there is a job in printing, a subscription or an advertisement to be had. He is one of the youngest of the lot -- maybe that is the secret -- that young blood!

Hard on his heels -- the only girl of the group has maintained first the lead and then second. She has shown, too, that she had the "makings". However, last week she sidetracked a bit and was passed by one who has held a conservative 3rd place pace all along. This week she takes her place as a poor second to the lead.

The self-styled "dark horse" falls back, and 'way back it is, into a lazy third. Wonder if he caught spring fever this week?

Well, fourth place seems to be held pretty regularly by one we had set high hopes on. He is tall, but his votes are a bit short. However, he has shown a bit more life for the past week, bringing up his votes more than 6,000 points. Then there are those last two—maybe they don't know the race is on.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"The Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth." This verse from John is the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

The Lesson-Sermon includes these passages from Mark: "Now when Jesus was risen early the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, . . . Afterward he appeared unto the eleven as they sat at meat, . . . And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. . . . And these signs shall follow them that believe; In my name shall they cast out devils; they shall speak with new tongues; They shall take up serpents; and if they drink any deadly thing, it shall not hurt them; . . . And they went forth, and preached every where, the Lord working with them, and confirming the word with signs following."

Among the selections from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, are the statements: "Our Master fully and finally demonstrated divine Science in his victory over death and the grave. Jesus' deed was for the enlightenment of men and for the salvation of the whole world from sin, sickness, and death."

Evangelist 'Wars on Devil'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24—Elder Lightfoot Solomon Michaux, Happy-Am-I evangelist of radio fame, began his annual "war on the devil" in a series of five sermons at Griffith Stadium last Sunday.

One sermon, scheduled for September 10, will be devoted to an attack on Father Divine, rival evangelist, whose followers call him God. The elder and Divine have for a long time been antagonists of each other, having engaged in a name-calling fray sometime ago.

"What Does the Bible Say About a Man Like George Baker, alias Father Divine, alias a Child of the Devil that Makes Himself God?" will be the subject of the radio evangelist's discourse on his rival.

Elder Michaux's nationally famous robed choir of 156 voices, noted for an unusual performance of gestures while singing, will furnish music during the series. The elder recently closed a revival meeting in Philadelphia, held at an arena with a 10,000 seating capacity, where 1000 converts reportedly were added to his following.

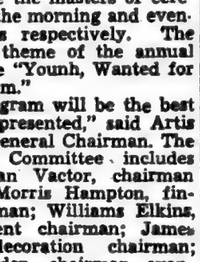
No Vanderbilt Estate for Father Divine

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. (AP)—Whatever ideas followers of Father Divine may have had concerning President Roosevelt's Hyde Park home with a series of "heavens" purchased from a rumored $15,000,000 fund, were halted Wednesday when negotiations for the 700-acre Vanderbilt estate were halted.

After making efforts to buy the property from its present owner, Mrs. James Laurens Van Alen, socialite, Divine wrote to Roosevelt seeking his views on getting the estate. Both Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt agreed that the cult leader had the right to buy the property if he so desired, but said they had hoped it would be turned into a museum and an arboretum because of its great wealth of rare trees.



The Harlem Messiah already has a "heaven" directly across the river from Roosevelt's estate. The 700-acre tract is just north of the Roosevelt home.

Central Ave. District Realty Board

We have come a long way in our search for the secret of building good will for Real Estate. I hope it is less of a secret than it was before. The one thought above all other, that I should like to leave with you this afternoon, in a very cheerful one. It embodies the kernal of everything I have said. In this days' generation, service pays; the more you do for your customers, the more you will do for yourself, for of necessity, if you render service, you will put your business on a scientific and a truly professional basis, you will render more service and you will have more good will. And good will is the asset of your business that brings the greatest total profit and the highest price in case of a sale.

These are the ambitions and requirements of the following members of the Central Ave. District Realty Board.

Prof. Herman

The ASTROLOGER

To Assist You In Making Wise Decisions

Specialized Study of Your Personal Problems

CONNUBIAL BLISS

Recently Prof. Herman has been writing about the "Ship of Matrimony" and its wreckage on the 'rocks' of separations and divorces. And perhaps these various reasons are keeping others from embarking on this journey. But married life can be a very happy one, and is to thousands of couples all over the world.

Haven't you heard men and women brag about their respective mates? You knew from the way that it was said, it came right from the heart. Well, you can just bet they are enjoying their heavenly bliss.

There certainly is no fun in living alone and having nothing definite to look forward to. Especially after having reached a certain age. It makes little difference how much a bachelor or 'maid' may tell you they are enjoying their private individual lives because deep in their hearts, they envy THAT love, affection and companionship.

Perhaps you are one of the many, who pride themselves on being wise and sophisticated because they have apparently dodged the "Alter". But inwardly you are wondering what is wrong, that real love and happiness have passed you by. In the event, this description fits you, write Prof. Herman, for your Astrology reading that will enable you to find your true mate.

S. A.—I received your letter today and was glad to hear from you. Your answer caused me to feel better than I have felt for sometime, as it made me realize that I have a friend in you. I have faith, and know that I will get the desired results.

L.E.M.—The nature of your question requires a private reply. Write in at your earliest convenience.

E. B. B.—Will I obtain a better paying job very soon?

Ans.—It comes to me that you have taken several civil service examinations and have found it to be fruitless. Don't give up for you will receive a job out of one of the examinations you have taken.

W. L. P.—Is my wife truthful?

Ans.—Probing into this affair I find that the doubt arose in your mind when your wife remained out on Saturday night. She was telling the truth concerning where she was. Trust your wife more in the future, and you will be happier.

Q. E. W.—Will my boy friend and I go back together?

Ans.—It appears that you and your friend will settle your differences and resume your friendship, very soon.

O. M. S.—Will my sister come to visit me?

Ans.—Concerning upon your question I find that you sent your sister 20 dollars with which to come to New York. Due to her carelessness she has lost the money, and is ashamed to send for more. She will be able to come, but it will take her sometime to get the fare together.

A. M. J.—Is my husband coming back soon?

Ans.—My Psycho-Mentalist Crystal reveals that your husband has been gone for almost three months, and since that time you have heard very little from him. Since he has found a good job he has decided not to return. He will send for you soon.

N. M.—I am so glad that I bought a paper and saw your advertisement, because I was having so much trouble and worry that my health was in danger. I am taking this opportunity to thank you for your kindly advice. My son has stopped drinking and has found a steady job.

C. O. R.—Will I ever be successful and happy?

Ans.—According to your lucky stars and guiding planet, you have had a hard struggle being the mother of nine children, and are in need of advice. Write in for a private reply as the space is limited and you will receive a thorough answer.

U. J.—Where is my brother?

Ans.—A careful analysis shows that your brother was last seen in Hazel Crest, Ill., and that by writing to 175 Ashland Avenue in that City, you will be forwarded his address. He is in a near by city in Illinois.

C. E. R.—Will I marry?

Ans.—According to your Zodiac you are well mated, with the person born May 21, and should get along well. I vision your marrying before the year is up.

H. T.—Why does my husband stay out late on Saturdays?

Ans.—Probing into this affair I find that your husband is no different from most other men, as they all like to go out some evening.

FREE: Your question will be answered in this column ONLY when a clipping of this feature is enclosed with your QUESTION, YOUR FULL NAME, BIRTHDATE and CORRECT ADDRESS. For private reply, send twenty-five cents in coin and stamped envelope for my ASTROLOGY READING and receive by return mail my FREE OPINIONS on any THREE QUESTIONS. Address all communications to PROF. HERMAN, the ASTROLOGER, care of THE CALIFORNIA EAGLE, 4075 So. Central Ave., Los Angeles, California.

William Fambro Rites Held

Funeral services were held yesterday from Roberts' Funeral home for William Fambro, 1558 E. 33rd street, resident here for 30 years, who died Sunday morning after a short illness.

A prominent businessman of the early Negro community, Fambro had conducted the Independent Tire and Rubber company at 9th and Central avenue for many years.

Rev. A. Lively of New Hope Baptist church, conducted the services and interment was in Evergreen cemetery. Two sons survive the pioneer, J. Wayne Fambro, Bakersfield businessman, and Connie Fambro of Los Angeles. Two daughters, residents here also survived.

• POST NEWS

At the last meeting of Lt. Col. James M. Beck Post VFW No. 2651 the following new comrades were obligated and decorated with the Cross of Malta: Tom Hawkins, Eward Brady, and L. Searcy. We expect to initiate no less than 10 new members at the next meeting, September 10, at the Patriotic Hall.

County Council meeting will be held next Friday night. All delegates are expected to be present as well as alternates.

There will be several changes in the official personnel. Some officers who have not been functioning will be replaced by more ambitious comrades, it is reported.

Comrade Bob Session has returned from a visit to the Fair in San Francisco. Commander Stateh has returned from his vacation at Elsinore.

The Comrades all report a very fine time at Sawtelle last Sunday.

Correction

The California Eagle apologizes for the typographical error in the issue of August 17th which described the gown worn by Mrs. Lemuel Proctor, hostess at a cocktail party, as a rosecolored "last" gown. The word obviously was intended to be lace.

FACE TO FACE WITH REALITY

Two young and ambitious parachute jumpers came face to face with reality during the past seven days. Previous to these seven days, they envisioned a flying trip to Chicago and then to New York where they were to be a feature attraction of the Elks' Grand Lodge, now in session in the Big Town.

Following the showing of their wares for the "Herd" they had high hopes of entering the Cleveland air races and subsequently the Chicago air races where they were to aim for prize money in the various aspects of parachute jumping —the delayed, breakaway and spot jumps— at which they are very adept.

A pilot was to accompany them East and they had a hip to guarantee the trip. En route to New York they planned to stop-over in Chicago and pick up prize money for the plane and entrants coming the longest distance for the Windy City meet.

Back of all of these plans was a consuming desire to gain funds to continue their instruction in aviation. The Elks' meet and the Chicago and Cleveland air shows offered that opportunity. That's why they faced reality in the past seven days for the Elks' are meeting this week and the Cleveland and Chicago races are in the next few weeks.

The pilot, who was to accompany the youths, also has hopes. He envisioned the opening of a school in flying. His record in the air, his training, background and credentials, show that he is capable.

Without the necessary funds themselves for the projected trip, they naturally sought an air-minded sponsor—public or private. It was then that, in their case, such an individual or individuals were at a premium, or didn't even exist.

In most cases, they considered the youths and pilot and their contemplated trip too much of a gamble. Or else, those contacted as proposed sponsors felt that such a trip would hardly benefit the immediate community, as much for example, as a community center, playground, or the like. And so, it was no dice.

Desperate, the youths and the pilot, the last heard by this pillar was that they still had not lost hope. But nevertheless, their cause at the moment is not as bright as it was previous to the past seven days.

All of which brings us to the observation that since, in most instances, those contacted by the youths and the pilot were sympathetic there should be some way of taking care of like problems in the future. After all, an ambitious but poor man, can do little with sympathy.

Because it does shape up as a community problem in most of its aspects, possibly an organization of businesses in the community, could best sponsor worthy individuals and their causes through a supervised fund made up of regular contributions from each member body.

With the setting up of such a fund, it is possible that hereafter, such instances as that of the two youthful parachute jumpers and their pilot would be minimized.

Sketch Subject: FRANCIS T. BRAWLEY . . . Cabinet-maker and Easel Manufacturer.

By LILLIAN JONES

To the list of Tuskegee Institute graduates who have played an important part in the building of Los Angeles can be added the name of Francis T. Brawley, cabinet maker and easel manufacturer. On the foundation of skill in his occupation secured at Tuskegee, Brawley has built, through his own initiative, a variety of techniques. Most recently he has developed easel manufacturing on a commercial scale successful, for the first time in local history.

Brawley's father was a minister, so the family moved frequently. They left Petersburg, Virginia, where in 1892 Frank was born, for Atlanta, Georgia, where he attended Morehouse college. Frank's youth was spent in Fernandina, Florida.

After leavinf Morehouse, Brawley entered Tuskegee Institute where he studied architecture, carpentry and cabinet making. During Frank's term at Tuskegee, a disastrous fire destroyed the dormitory there. A generous contribution of $25,000 from Julius Rosenwald, enabled the Institute to rebuild the dormitory. To Frank Brawley went the honor of construeting a gift which would express the Institute's appreciation to Rosenwald. He built a beautiful Mission Oak chair, which Rosenwald used in his office for many years.

WORKED IN D. C.

Brawley began his occupational career at the age of 21, when he took a civil service examination for cabinet-maker, passed with the highest grade out of 50 entrants, and was assigned to work in the Washington, D. C. Navy Yard. He remained there until America's entrance into the World War in 1917, when he volunteered for service with the American Expeditionary Forces.

The Army Engineers kept Brawley busy with construction work all over France. He was given the rating of a Quartermaster Sergeant and with a detail of 12 men under him, was in charge of various types of construction —bridges, roads, barracks, etc., during his service period.

Returning to the United States in 1918, he came West to Salt Lake City, Utah. There, and later in Wyoming, he specialized in doing construction detail finishing —such as door and window frames and decorative colonades on houses. This work included such large projects as a group of 50 houses for Union Pacific workers, theatres, and boarding houses.

Brawley came to Los Angeles in 1922. Here he continued to follow the construction line for some time. He was assistant foreman under John Scott in the building of the large Barker Brothers warehouse. He worked with the firm of McDonald and Kahn, building contractors, with whom he did work on large office buildings—such as the Hamburger Building and the Orpheum Theatre. Shortly, he became McDonald-Kahn's "trouble-shooter," and foreman of the crew responsible for the main finishing work on most of their construction jobs.

For two years, 1925 and 1926, Brawley, with his friend and partner, P. W. Kirk, operated the "Tuskegee Shop," specializing in custom-built furniture. In addition to traditional pieces, they originated many of their own designs. The famous "Valentino" sets—handsome, massive furniture of a semi-barrel shape—were created by Brawley. Also, he designed much modernistic furniture, which at that time was just beginning to have a vogue. The shop did a great deal of special order manufacturing for Barker Brothers and Hal Smith, distributers of distinctive furniture.

Brawley conducted his own business as furniture manufacturer until the Depression in 1929 affected the wholesale houses to which the majority of his output was usually sold. After liquidating his business he worked as foreman for William Gottschalk and Son, manufacturers of overstuffed furniture. Here he supervised the construction and designing of the furinture HH designing of the furniture frames.

The fortunate circumstance of bonus payments to ex-service men in 1932 enabled Brawley to start in business for himself again. This time he developed a specialty which had never before been tried locally—the manufacturing of artists easels. The suggestion of such an industry was given to him, almost accidentally by a friend. Since its beginning, he has built up a business which supplies the major artist supply firms in the city, most of which in turn ship to their branches throughout the Southwest. These include Schwabacher Frey, Duncan Vail, Matthews, the Louvre and Michaels. Before Brawley's entry into easel manufacturing, parctically all easels sold locally were manufactured in the East or in northern California.

In addition to standard type easels—oil, water color and large studio type—Brawley has an especially popular model of his own design—the bench easel, nick-named "Dunkie" by art students. This model, which is an easel combined with a bench, so that the artist can be seated while working, is used extensively in local art schools.

Brawley is married; his wife is a Los Angeles school-teacher. The couple live in Central Avenue Gardens, which is also the location of Brawley's manufacturing plant.

Brawley's advice to young people seeking a career is "learn a trade."

Marshal Foch

War is in the air. It brings back memories of the year 1917-1918 when America sent its soldiers, black and white to France. There that great French general, Marshal Foch took charge of them. It is to the character of this man that the black soldier owes the opportunity he had. This poem dedicated to Marshal Foch written by Mrs. Buckner was printed in the Evening Express, 1921.

THE MAN OF FAITH—THE MAN OF LOVE

We do not marvel at the man
Who marshaled that great allied host
In Flanders fields, in far off France,
Nor of his wonderous victory boast.

But, rather we, in silence, bow
In reverance of the one above
Who gave us this courageous man—
The Man of Faith, the Man of Love!

For, ever since the world began,
God always had a man reserved
To carry out his own great plan,
Who, from his duty, never swerved.

Foch knew no color, race nor creed
From such, great men must needs be free!
He only knew and saw the need
Of freedom and of liberty.

For this, he led the might host!
For this, the land was drenched with gore!
For this, the trusting heart doth hope;
For this, may there be no war no more!

Enshrined in every loyal heart
Is he who ever looked above,
The one who trusted and who won—
The Man of Faith, The Man of Love.

Tourists Given Free Gasoline

In a bid to encourage tourist motor travel, France is offering up to $8 worth of gasoline free to all foreign motorists touring the country, advises the foreign travel bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

An American motorist is allowed a discount of one half a franc on every quart of gasoline purchased. The tourist can buy up to 600 litres under the plan and receive a bonus of gasoline worth 300 francs or $8.

Right Side of Road Wrong Side to Walk

The safety value of the California law which requires that a pedestrian walk along the left side of the road facing approaching traffic on the open highway was demonstrated in the 1938 report of rural pedestrian fatalities in the State, reports the public safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

In rural districts 139 pedestrians were killed and 262 were injured while walking along highways. The failure to observe the rule of walking along the left side of the highway brought death to 123 and injury to 228 as compared with 16 killed and 34 injured who were obeying the law.

NEW LAW

The new law, sponsored by Assemblyman Atkinson, is supposedly designed to curb wasteful methods of productions in oil and gas, to safeguard one of California's greatest natural resources.

NATION'S LAWYERS CLOSE BIGGEST MEET IN HISTORY OF ASS'N

Sidney Redmond of St. Louis, to Head National Bar Ass'n; Loan Jim Crow

— NEW YORK, Aug. 24. (ANP)—After selecting Columbus, O., as next year's convention city and electing Atty. Sidney R. Redmond of St. Louis, president, the National Bar association, at its last Saturday's session of its 15th annual convention, closed what was generally described as the best attended meeting in the organization's history. NBA was organized in 1925 by Hon. George H. Woodson.

A graduate of Harvard college and Harvard Law school, President Redmond has been practicing for 13 years and is a member of the national board, NAACP, having been NBA regional director for six years. In St. Louis, he has been outstanding in defense of civil rights of Negroes and was associate counsel in the famed U. of Missouri-Lloyd Gaines case which formed the basis of his convention address: "Significance of the University of Missouri case."

Also elected as NBA officers were: W. Harold Flowers, Pine Bluff, Ark.; Sara Pelham Speaks, Manhattan, and E. L. Wheaton, Toledo, O., vice presidents; Geo. W. Evans, Baltimore, secretary, and G. Edward Dickerson, Phila.

The resolutions committee report submitted on Saturday, advocated affiliation of NBA members with colored lawyers of foreign lands; urged removal of all Jim Crow and other barriers by national and local bar associations; commended President Roosevelt for his recent appointment of Chicago's Herman E. Moore to the Virgin Islands Federal judgeship; condemned the recent appointment of Tennessee's white Elmer Davies to a federal judgeship in that state; termed the U. S. Supreme court decision (last Dec. 8) in the U. of Missouri-Lloyd Gaines case "a landmark in the struggle of Negroes for equal educational opportunity," urged membership support of the NAACP; urged NBA members to work for amendments to federal and state social security legislation so that Negro domestic and farm workers may be included in its benefits; urged that passage of an anti-lynching bill by the next Congress be made an issue in all congressional campaigns where support of the Negro electorate is sought.

Euclid L. Taylor, Chicago, director of Region 11, introduced federal judge Herman E. Moore, who addressed the convention. The presidential address was delivered by William L. Houston, assistant U. S. Attorney General. Other speakers at the various sessions included Mrs. Sadie T. M. Alexander, Philadelphia; A. Philip Randolph, and Magistrate Myles A. Paige, all of New York City; Dr. George W. Bowles, former president, National Medical association; William H. Hastie, dean of Howard U. Law school; Justice Charles E. Toney, New York City; J. Lelio, Port-au-Prince, Haiti, president of the Haitian Bar association.

At Friday's luncheon at Hotel Rosoff, NBA delegates, members and visitors heard Borough President Stanley M. Isaacs, who lashed out at the segregation policy of America's white American Bar association.

FOR BETTER BUSINESS

* In 1938, the payroll of the Edison Company amounted to nearly nine million dollars. The tremendous purchasing power of Edison employees plays an important part in the business prosperity of the ten central and southern counties that comprise Edison territory. In the past twenty years, wages and other costs of producing electricity have steadily increased, yet electric rates have steadily decreased. Now Edison rates are among the lowest in the nation.

Bon voyage! to Lionel Hampton, one-finger piano thumper, par excellence xylophone artist and drum-beating star of Benny Goodman's orch troupe. The gang flew out of the West aboard five huge transport planes for Atlantic City playgrounds.

PAUL ROBESON, noted sepia actor, accused in some quarters as being an "ingrate" anent loyalty to his native land of opportunity and birth is reported back in New York, and readying himself for the lead role in the Broadway production, "JOHN HENRY". . .According to rumor, PARAMOUNT studio is slated to stage Bill Shakespeare's famed "Midsummer Nights Dream" in swing. That's swell! . . . And, the same information source chazzit that STEPPIN FETCHIT, famed lazy-man of the flickers, is here in Nuestro Senora De Los Angeles without even one automobile to his name. Ooh, m'gawsh!. . .CORRECTION: It will be LEIGH WHIPPER, who played the role in the stage version here and in New York of the play, "Of Men and Mice", who gets the role in Hal Roach's studio play of the same name slated to undergo production soon, instead of Clinton Rosamond. Latest information to reach this Dept. is that Rosamond has been ordered to stand by for another "Young Dr. Kildare" picture at MGM studio.

CHARLIE WHITTIER, who recently closed the bill at the local Orpheum studio here with Ted Lewis, renowned orchestra leader, will announce his retirement from the stage shortly after that of Ted Lewis next June. Whittier has been a member of the "Ol' Maestro," Ted Lewis' troupe for 11 years. The orchestra opens with a show next week at Topsy's Inn. . .MARY LOU DAVIS, the brownskin cutie who reigns over the counters of the K-H cafe on the Avenida Central, returned to town Sundeve from a prize winning vacash trip to San Francisco and the Fair. IF and WHEN Dept.: Should show business that pays, ever come back to this vicinity, please credit the current Hollywood effort "Mikado—in Swing" current at the El Capitan theatre for hastening its ushering in. The all sepia cast opus is making boo koo jack for its commercial backers. And just think, if the FTP thing had o'lasted the playrights would still be broke and the players mere reliefers. Hail, the new era. . . The very first time a real Hollywood scout lays eyes on the shapely form of ebony hued Faye Caldwell, ankling in and out of the Dunbar Hotel, that will mark the beginning of a successful career for her before the cameras . . . . Richard Bates, the par excellence pianologist, is reported still going strong at Jane and Bill's Tavern out Pasadena way. . . By the bye: This Dept. thinks it would be a smart move on the part of El Capitan theatre officials, if they would see that the current practice of shoving sepia customers off into the side recesses of the place in a separated or segregated move, is quickly put to an end. Colored patrons are getting wise. . .Louise Arnold left the city last week on a tour of the eastern states, that will take her to New York and the World's Fair. CHILDREN ARE QUICK TO LEARN THAT FLAMELESS WATER HEATERS ARE SAFE

"IT'S ALL RIGHT, DOLLY DEAR," says little Sally, playing grown-up, "Mother knows our water heater is safe." Sally's own mother knows the peace of mind that "matchless" water heating brings, because it operates on electrity, the only common source of heat without flame. Mother and father both know that this water heating method is economical because Boulder Dam Power makes possible a record-low water heating rate of only seven-tenths of a cent per kilowatt-hour. Even with little children to care for, safe, silent, economical electric water heating is well within their budget.

CAPRA TO PREVIEW LATEST PRODUCTION

"Mr. Smith Goes To Washington," Frank Capra's latest Columbia production, will be ready for preview early in September and for national release shortly after.

'wizard of oz' at united artists

Presenting what is heralded as the most ideal combine of color, music, dancing, spectacle, pageantry, laughs and thrills, "The Wizard of Oz" filmization of the celebrated fantasy by L. Frank Baum, now playing at the United Artists Theatre, 933 So. Broadway, is the most sensational musical treat to come out of the annals of Hollywood screen entertainment. While natural color has long been held to be useful in many types of pictures, "The Wizard of Oz" is declared the first to make use of Technicolor on a sound psychological basis. The story of Dorothy opens on a Kansas Farm. This part of the picture is done in black and white photography with a new form of tint on the film. But when Dorothy goes to the imaginary land of Oz, carried there by a cyclone, the picture becomes all-color and remains in Technicolor until she returns home.

In the cast are Judy Garland, Frank Morgan, Ray Bolger, Bert Lahr, Jack Haley, Billie Burke, Margaret Hamilton, Charley Grapewin, Pat Walshe, Clara Blndick, a little dog named Toto and ten thousand of the amazing people of Oz.

3 NEGRO MEDICS TO EXAMINE BOXERS, WRESTLERS

DOWN IN FRONT

With J. CULLEN FENTRESS

THE SEPIA SPORTS PARADE

Jerry Giesler and the State Athletic Commission did a highly commendable thing this week when three Negro physicians, part of a group of seven, were named as examiners. It's the first time in the history of the commission that such a degree of fair-play has been in evidence. Although there are approximately 100 boxers of sepia hue in the area affected, the Negro physicians will be alternated along with the other appointees without regard to race. In other words, Jerry Giesler, who is also a famous attorney, let it be known that as chairman of the commission he was going to try to do his duty as he saw it, without regard for race, creed or color. Heretofore, this pillar understands that usually approximately two physicians have been assigned the work that now has been stretched out over seven men of medicine.

Jackie Wilson, the young and likable boxing star, returns to the Olympic auditorium next Tuesday night. On his recent record, it would seem that in the not too far distant future, Wilson will be rapping on the throne-room door of the lightweight crown-holder who at the moment happens to be Lou Ambers. If the match was made tomorrow, there are many who would unhesitatingly back Wilson. In meeting Eddie Cool of Philadelphia, Wilson is after his eighth consecutive knockout. These K. O.'s have been registered over the best lightweights on the coast.

With the finals of the Amateur Baseball championships slated for this week-end at Wrigley Field, baseball fans and major league ivory hunters will again be overwhelmed by the ability of California's simon-pures for two teams, southern division and northern division winners, will meet for the state title. The Pasadena Sox, paced by Jackie Robinson the athletic marvel, will probably be favored to cop the state crown. If you like baseball and have an itch to see good baseball, go see these simon-pures.

Also on your "must" list, put the Negro Golf tourney now in progress on the Harding course at Griffith Park. In a game in which sepians are making progress, those who play can still use a lot of your support.

Leonard Fuller Upset in Junior Tennis Tourney

Leonard Fuller, boy wonder of the local tennis courts, suffered defeat in the junior playground tournament staged last Friday and Saturday at Ross Snyder playground. Fuller, Southern California and Pacific Coast champion, went down in a best-two-out-of three match before Leo Lewis, member of the Jefferson High school tennis team, the score, 6-4, 6-8, 8-6. The defeat, however, does not affect Fuller's standing as P. C. champ, a title to be defended at Oakland next month.

Fuller, the seeded player, advanced to the finals by erasing his twin brother, Leon, 6-1, 6-1. Lewis beat Herbert Duke, Jordan High school track star, 6-2, 6-2, to gain the finals.

Fifteen-year old Jackie Price, playing in the under-18 division, because of lack of competition in her own bracket, was defeated by Sarah Green, 6-2, 6-2. Johnnie Sales was a victor in the boys-under15 class.

The youngsters will play in the Pacific Coast tournament, high point of the West Coast tennis year, at Oakland Sept. 2, 3 and Labor Day.

BULLETIN

A telegram received this week by parents of Jimmie McDaniels, sensational Pacific Coast tennis player, stated that McDaniels had won the American Tennis association championship at Hampton, Va. Full details will be given in the next issue of the EAGLE.

Riverside Golfer Leads as UGA Third Round Opens

As the United Golf Association tournament goes into the third round today, Cliff Strickland of Riverside, leads the nation's top ranking Negro golf stars.

Shooting a par 36-35—71 over the Harding course at Griffith Park, the Riverside entrant was one better than his closest competitor yesterday.

Edison Marshall, New Orleans, former UGA champion, is a bang-up second with 37-37—72. Howard Wheeler, defending champion, encountered trouble and scored a 38-40—78.

The finals of the open, hosted for the first time by the West Coast Golf club, will be played tomorrow.

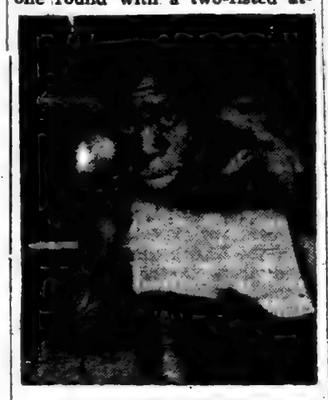
Up to Fans to Get Negro in 'Majors', Cards' Boss Says

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 24—Ray Blades, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, put his finger on a pertinent fact this week when, interviewed on the question of baseball's Jim Crow, he said:

"The owners will admit Negro players if the fans demand them."

Like National League managers McKechnie, Prothro, Durocher and Hartnett, Blades says the blame for the discrimination lies not with the managers or players, but with the club owners.

"It is not up to the managers and players, but to the men who pay out the salaries. We are hired to play ball and win a pennant. That is their problem.



"There is no doubt that there are plenty of Negro ball players capable of playing big league ball. And a number of them would be stars," Blades concluded.

Arizmendi Stops Foe in 1 Heat

Jackie Wilson to Meet Cool Tuesday Night at Olympic

Changing his usual tactics of spurting in one minute of every round, Baby Arizmendi Tuesday night at the Olympic auditorium stopped Irish Jackie Carter of Washington, D. C., in less than one round with a two-fisted attack that had his youthful foe on the canvas four times beingg the canvas four times before being counted out by referee Abe Roth.

JACKIE WILSON

Chester Parks changed his usual way of fighting also and raked Bobby Yarmes with a devastating assortment of punches to easily win the decision in the six-round semi-windup. It was the "umpteenth" time the two had met.

In the four-round preliminaries, Rudy Oden got by Adam Moraga; Billy Mitchell stormed over Johnny Monroe to win a three-round TKO decision; Jimmy Gleason nodded Carmen Georgino, and Hi Jinks, a good prospect, outpunched Billy Malley in the opener.

WILSON MEETS COOL

Jackie Wilson, seeking his eighth consecutive knockout win, meets Eddie Cool of Philadelphia next Tuesday night at the downtown swatatorium. Cool boasts a record of never having been stopped. His record shows triumphs over Howard Scott, Pete Nebo, Fritzie Zivic, Tony Canzoneri and the new lightweight champion Lou Ambers.

New Body Seeks to Improve Inter-scholastic Athletics

An outgrowth of instances of lawlessness and vandalism at city high school athletic events, notably the June all-city track meet at the Coliseum, the Coordinating Committee for the Promotion of Good Citizenship held a meeting Tuesday afternoon in the chambers of the Board of Education.

With William G. Lopez, assistant supervisor of physical education of the Board, presiding, the meeting was called to familiarize prominent community leaders and newspapermen with the program.

"Because of reports by the Los Angeles Railway and City Playground commission, it has become necessary for the Policy-Determining committee to take immediate action in order to safeguard the policies underlying interscholastic athletics," Mr. Lopez told the assemblage. "The declaration of future policy is substantially that when incidents of this sort arise they are to be reviewed by the committee and if the weight of evidence brings the committee to the conclusion that students of a particular school or schools are responsible for such acts of lawlessness and vandalism, the penalty in all cases shall be the suspension of the offending school or schools from active participation in interscholastic athletics."

Schools thus suspended would be required to remain in "quarantine" until reinstated by the Policy-Determining committee.

LEADERS PRESENT

A sound educational program in citizenship to effect curtailment of these acts has been found necessary and speaking on various phases of the program Tuesday were Mr. Lopez, Paul Shafer, representing Vierling Kersey, superintendent of schools; Herman Hill, Miss Gresser of the P-TA; Police Lieut. Simms, Mr. Goddard of the L. A. Railway; Olin Day, of the Board of Education; and Rev. G. Albert Miller.

The program of the Coordinating Committee for the Promotion of Good Citizenship follows:

1. The Citizenship Committee in administering the program, requests that school auditoriums, facilities and rooms be made available to the committee for purposes of conducting meetings. (Character-building agency).

P-TA COOPERATION

2. That the committee cooperate with the local Parent Teacher Associations in all schools where problems arise.

3. That it is important that the committee have the cooperation of the Chief of Police and his department in developing the citizenship program. The committee plans to bring the matter before the Police Commission and the Chief of Police.

4. That the proposed program be brought to the attention of the juvenile authorities, juvenile courts and juvenile commissioners. That the juvenile authorities assist in the program. That the judges and court rooms are to be visited whenever it is deemed necessary. Cases are to be followed up from the time of arrest until sentence is pronounced.

5. In developing the program, coperation is already assured from cooperation is already assured from certain outstanding civic and social agencies.

STUDY PLAYGROUNDS

6. That a study be made of the playground situation at Jefferson High school and that if necessary playground directors and custodians be assigned and instructed to enforce the regulations of the Los Angeles Board of Education. This is necessary because the tennis courts are constantly in use during the early hours of the morning; i. e. between 6 and 9:30 a. m., also in the evening between 5 and 9 p. m.

7. That the proposed program be submitted to the Bureau of Indigent Relief of Los Angeles County and the State Relief of Los Angeles and that the above-named agencies be requested to assist in dealing with the behavior, relief and employment problems. It is felt that the agencies' home visitors can develop the citizenship program while visiting individual homes.

NEWSPAPERS COOPERATE

8. The folloewng publications have endorsed the committee's program and will do their utmost to publicize it: The Pittsburg Courier, The Los Angeles Sentinel, The Neighborhood News, The News Guardian and the California Eagle.

9. The Eastside Business Men's League is already cognizant of the contemplated program and has promised to assist in furnishing full and part-time employment.

10. The committee recommends that classes in Vocational Guidance be part of the curriculum in all schools affected; that placement bureaus be considered and established with a view towards the needs of the students.

STUDENT LEADERS AID

11. That outstanding student body leaders, with the approval of the principal, be organized into a sub-committee to assist in the development of the program.

12. That Mr. L. Reeves, Public Relations Director of the Los Angeles Railway, be extended an invitation to assist the committee in its work.

13. That the administration of the schools affected cooperate with the committee in developing the citizenship program.

14. That the Superintendent's Office cooperate with the committee in its contemplated program. That members of the committee be extended the privileges to attend all athletic contests and other activities sponsored by the Los Angeles City High Schools.

16. That a Jefferson High School Alumni Association be organized. The committee feels that this in an important step in attaining good citizenship in the community.

NEGRO DIRECTORS

17. That the Municipal Recreation Department consider the advisability of placing Negro playground directors at certain playgrounds, as a means of improving the citizenship, behavior and character of those attending and visiting the city-operated playgrounds. This to be done for the individuals who can qualify through the Civil Service channels.

18. That the Superintendent's Office consider a broader assignment of Negro teachers at the schools concerned as one means of improving the citizenship, behavior and character of the pupils. Consideration to be given individuals who can qualify according to the policies of the Los Angeles Board of Education.

Varied Views Offered for Hank's Loss

NEW YORK, Aug. 24. — The loss by Henry Armstrong of his lightweight title here Tuesday night at Yankee Stadium to Lou Ambers, from whom he won it a year ago has created a furore in boxing circles.

Charges galore fly thick and fast. Eddie Mead, Armstrong's portly manager, says his charge from Los Angeles was "robbed".

HENRY ARMSTRONG
Manager charges "robbery"

Some of the boxing writers agree with him.

Hank was penalized five rounds by referee Arthur Donovan for foul blows, but some of the better known experts agree that Ambers, too, was just as guilty of foul tactics. A hair-raising battle, both Ambers and Armstrong went at it hammer and tongs for 15 fast rounds to the delight of some 35,000 fans. The five rounds lost by Armstrong cost him the fight.

Negotiations for Armstrong's defense of his welterweight toga against Ambes November 1 were at a standstill yesterday as ring officials sifted the charges.

Matchmaker Jimmy Murray of Los Angeles tendered lightweight champion Lou Ambers a $25,000 offer to meet Jackie Wilson here "within 60 days" at the Coliseum. A secondary offer of $5,000 was made for Ambers to meet Wilson in an overweight match at the Olympic.

MARKS FIRST TIME IN HISTORY OF COMMISH NEGRO MEDICS USED

Jerry Giesler, New Chairman of State Athletic Commission, Names 3 Medicos

Following conferences early this week with newspapermen and sports-minded citizens, Attorney Jerry Giesler, newly appointed chairman of the State Athletic commission, appointed today, seven physicians to examine boxers and wrestlers in the seventh district.

Of this number, two Negro doctors, Dr. E. I. Robinson, 2510 So. Central, and Dr. Warner Wright, 1802 So. Central, will make preliminary examinations. Dr. Curtis Carr of 1437 W. 35th street, was also selected as the medico to whom boxers or wrestlers injured in the ring or on the mat would be sent.

TO ALTERNATE

It marks the first time Negro physicians have ever been used in like capacities with the State Athletic commission.

The seven physicians will alternate in performing their duties.

In his precedent shattering move, chairman Giesler stated that he saw no reason why the work of the physicians should not be distributed regardless of race, creed or color.

Present at the conference in the law offices of chairman Giesler Monday were Atty. Hugh McBeth, Bob Strather and Baron Lawson, Democratic leaders; Dan Shaw of the Chicago Defender, Herman Hill of the Pittsburg Courier, J. Cullen Fentress of the EAGLE, and Bill Smith, boxing inspector.

The Hatch Bill May Hatch A Real "New Deal"

Although the explosive nature of certain clauses in the Hatch "Clean Politics" bill has not yet been recognized throughout the nation, close inspection of the measure's dictates reveal some rather sensational stipulations.

For instance, Section 4 of the new bill makes it a federal offense to deny employment with compensation or other benefits from congressional appropriation on account of RACE, creed, color or any political activity.

Now, dear reader, if this statement does not produce a profound reaction on your blood pressure, we suggest that you retrace the past few sentences and start again.

The vast implications of this clause in the Hatch bill are stunning. With anything like militant enforcement, the measure stands ready to blot out the tremendous and heartless racial discrimination that we find on all Federal projects in the South and many in other supposedly more enlightened sections of America.

For the first time, the "New Deal" has given the Negro a weapon clearly and bluntly and without strings. For the first time in the past few years, a bit of Federal legislation has emerged from Washington which plainly recognizes discrimination and sets a specific punishment for the same. There can be no longer any doubt concerning the propriety of hiring and firing on a Federal project on the basis of race. It isn't right, and we have an authorized Federal statute that says so.

Of course, the mere fact that the Hatch bill states that the practice of racial discrimination is very naughty and will be looked upon with disfavor by Federal policemen, does not in itself insure any change in the conduct of discriminatory Federal projects throughout the land.

We must all remember another honored section of American law that has been blatantly ignored for more than seventy years. We are in reference to Thirteenth and Fourteenth Amendments to the Constitution of the United States.

Over a long period, Thirteen and Fourteen have brightly assured Negro citizens that they have a legal right to all the privileges of American citizenship. Since Negroes do not have the privileges, it is not always a quieting thought that they have the legal right to them.

Many times, Thirteen and Fourteen have struggled valiantly to make good their idealistic boasts. However, they are blocked in this effort by successive groups of gentlemen forming the Supreme Court of the U. S. — worthies who oftimes suffer severe attacks of illiteracy when perusing Thirteen and Fourteen.

However, the Hatch bill stands as a much more powerful legal bludgeon. First, it has not been molding in the Federal archives for decades as have Thirteen and Fourteen. Second, it has the sanction, albeit a restrained one, of the Powers-That-Be. Third, it is so plainly stated that its meaning cannot be construed even by the gents of the Highest Tribunal.

Thus, we see that great things may be done with the Hatch legislation if only it is enforced with vigor. And here we run into the word "Responsibility". It is the responsibility of all Negro organizations to organize behind the iron-clad statements of the measure and fight to a finish.

Now that we have been presented with this wonderful weapon for economic recognition in the Federal employment, we must not hesitate to use it.

The duty is equally strong in our local organizations as in the great bodies such as the Elks and the National Association. Most important, local leaders must stamp out the time-worn illusion that discrimination in Federal projects is restricted to the southern states. We must recognize that the vultures of prejudice and segregation are as ready to snap at us in Los Angeles, California, as they are in Decatur, Alabama.

It is up to the Negro organization, the Negro newspaper, the Negro Church, and the Negro citizen to make the Hatch bill hatch a real "New Deal" in the Federal employ.

Let the People Speak

With Danzig the pivot about which the nations of the world revolve and a new war threatened, Mr. Roosevelt takes time off to juggle the date of our Thanksgiving Day celebration.

The President contends that he shifted the holiday date to comply with the wishes of merchants who believe, without the shift, there would be too much time between Labor Day and Thanksgiving, and too little betwixt the turkey celebration and Christmas.

This is all very nice and denotes a Presidential inclination to become "just buddies" with the nation's business interests, which have sometimes complained about certain of Mr. Roosevelt's measures. It is a strategic moment to develop friendship with America's mercantile kings if the President has an eye upon re-election in 1940.

That the whole procedure rides roughshod over the established traditions of the American people somehow did not come in for consideration.

The Elks Meet in New York City

Dispatches from New York City reveal that the Elks' convention is well underway and booming along at a record clip.

The Elks are the crowning confab in a convention-crowded summer for New Yorkers. Doctors, lawyers, nurses, dentists, and representatives of the Church of Christ have already held conferences in the eastern metropolis this summer.

Mayor LaGuardia, chubby and hospitable, has distributed more than a half dozen keys to the city to various Negro delegations; and, it is said, each time included a well-greased plug for the World's Fair, which is not having such a happy time.

The Elks' convention, however, is the biggest, loudest, most colorful and most important colored aggregation to settle upon Harlem this summer. Reports state that Tuesday's parade was one of the greatest in the history of Little Old New York.

But more significant were the several fine sessions reported during which serious problems of Afro-America were given full, competent investigation. An organization such as the Elks, with its vast and diversified membership, can accomplish much on the Negro's economic and political fronts.

It was encouraging also to hear from New York reports concerning the many young men and women who are receiving an education thru support by the Elks.

With such services, the I. B. P. O. E. of W. merits the first letter of its title, "I", abreviating "Improved".

• The LAUNDRYMAN

One of the most far-reaching objectives ever gained by our group in their ceaseless struggle for recognition in this country, is the recent approval by the South Carolina State Department of Education, of the introduction of Negro books written by noted Negro authors, into the elementary grades of the State schools.

This revolutionary achievement was brought about by a dauntless but little known Negro woman, Hilda Grayson by name, a school-teacher in Allendale, So. Carolina. Last March, during a session of the Parent-Teachers Association, she presented such an admirable review of Negro progress and achievement to the 5000 assembled members, that the majority of those present were won over to her point of view; that of arousing early in the breasts of Negro children the desire to emulate the achievements of outstanding Race men and women.

The value of this step in relation to our Racial progress can hardly be over-estimated. Nowadays, every thinking person realizes that the early impressions made upon the plastic minds of children mold their future modes of thought and action to an almost unbelievable extent. Hereto-fore, from the very inception of their educational life, our children have been auto-suggested with the idea of white supremacy. They study text-books written by whites; books which very naturally portray white achievement, but never breathe a word about Negro achievement.

Thus unconsciously, there is built up in the minds of the Negro child, especially among the lower masses where educational background is lacking, a veneration for things white, which becomes very apparent in later life. The following story so often related by Prof. William Pickens is an excellent illustration:

"During the late World War, when wages were fabulous, a young colored lad was working in a steel plant in Pittsburgh, making fifty dollars per week. Every Saturday afternoon his boss would count him out five ten-dollar bills for his week's labor. There came one Saturday however, when the boss was short on payroll money, so he gave Augustus five five-dollar bills, and his personal check for the other $25., explaining that the sum of the two made up his weekly wage of $50.

Augustus took the check and the bills in silence and started homeward, but was far from being satisfied about the matter. A few blocks away he met a young colored lad whom he knew had recently graduated from college, and asked him to explain to him about his wages. The college boy told him, "You've got all that's coming to you! Twenty-five dollars in bills, and the check for Twenty-five makes $50.00 in all'.'

Augustus was just starting to thank him, when he happened to espy a white man standing on the opposite corner. Hastily excusing himself, he went over to the white man and related his wage troubles to him, while the colored college boy looked on with cynical disgust. After a few minutes, Augustus returned to his colored acquaintance and said admiringly:

"You certainly is a smart feller alright. What you told me about that money agreed just exactly with what that white man said."

This attitude of mind is reflected hundred of times daily in every city and town in the United States by numerous members of our group in the lower ecomonic brackets. It is a deadly obstacle to group progress, economically as well as politically, and like the city of Carthage, delenda est.

• LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Ed's. note: Publication of the following letter in the EAGLE was requested.

To the Honorable Fletcher Bowron, Mayor,
Los Angeles, California.
Honorable Sir:

In an article published in the Los Angeles "Times", this date, "Fireman Shortage Handicaps Stations" it states, 'Faied with the prospect that it may have to consolidate two of the first stations in the Central Ave. district due to a shortage of men, etc.," namely stations No. 30 and 14, please permit me to state my opinion on this subject.

I understand that the Fire Department is undermanned in general. I also understand that some outlyaing stations are by far shorter of men than either of these two named and are not as important considering the hazards, the number of runs and workers, yet no mention is made concerning their being consolidated. With these facts in mind, I wish to inform you that it is general knowledge on this side of the city that the idea of Station No. 14 being manned by Colored Men was not a popular one with a part of the Fire Department when it was so ordered and to m ypoor way of thinking, this move is a hang over of this unpopularity.

Your Honor, if this statement as published is true and it is impossible to appoint new men just now and since trained firemen are of such great value to this city in general and since an emergency exists why not reinstate some of the Colored Firemen who have been discharged of late years under emergency measures and let us keep both of these stations until the new eligible list is made and then let us have more stations?

Trusting that you will not allow either of these two stations to be changed.

I remain,
Respectfully yours,
James C. Truitt
Fireman,
Formerly Truck No. 30B.

L. A. RAILWAY JOBS

Dear Editor:

In these times, when groups and nations are demanding and fighting for the things they are entitled to, Negroes cannot afford to sit and just complain of the barriers that block their way to progress. They too, should fight for the things they are entitled to.

All of the problems of a group must be solved by that certain group. They may take advantage of outside influence, but the real work must be done by the people themselves.

I, personally, am anxious about and have started, a movement to persuade the Los Angeles Railway Company to employ Negroes in their better jobs.

On April 7, 1939 I interviewed the director of Public Relations of that company. However, I was unable to get any satisfaction from him; so the following letter was written by myself to the president of the Los Angeles Railway Company.

Dear Sir:

I wish to bring to your attention that on the date of April 17, 1939, I contacted Mr. Reeves, your director of Public Relations, to take up the matter of employment of Negroes on the Los Angeles Railway street cars, to serve in the capacity of conductors and motormen.

Mr. Reeves' answer was that there was at least two hundred Negroes employed by the company. However, upon further interrogation, they were found to be only in menial jobs. He stated that the Negroes were not ready for the better jobs, inferring, we presume, that they are not capable. We cannot allow the latter statement to go on record unchalleged. High school and college statistics would alone refute that statement.

We note that you have employed on your street-cars every race except the Negro. Of course, you understand that we do not include the Oriental since those that are citizens are a very small minority.

We are a committee composed of a mixed group, which has been organized to secure justice for Negro people.

We hope in the future that you will devote a portion of your time to investigating the class of Negro men who would be eligible for these jobs.

We ask for a definite appointment to discuss this matter further.

Yours very truly,
Paul Moore Jackson

My Negro friends might be interested to know that my letter was never answered.

I, myself, have spent much time thinking of the injustice of the whole thing; and I have wondered why there has not been more definite interest among our people.

What our race can accomplish with unity and good leadership was demonstrated when our own Fay Allen was elected to the Board of Education. Her campaign was managed by Mr. Gilbert Lindsey, president of the Los Angeles County (Chartered) Negro Democratic Club, of which I am a member. And to him, by the way, we may say that it was a job well done.

I am very much interested in the street-car matter, and I hope to continue that interest until I have obtained results.

PAUL MOORE JACKSON

RUSSELL TO TASK

Dear Editor:

We Negroes are indeed a humble people. We ask so little. Of democracy only that a patronizing permission be given prominent ones of our race to "visit the most exclusive places" in the white man's world.

So, in one week in Berlin, Rev. Clayton Russell whom I have heretofore considered one of the most liberal and intelligent of our leaders, perceives that American newspapers are 'full of propaganda', liars on those great humanitarians who worship Hitler as God, the Germans.

Because one Negro, doubly consecrated, by virtue of the fact that he is a personage and an American, is accorded the barest courtesy, one must throw out all the evidence against Germany, accumulated of its own acts, in the past few years.

If American newspapers lie, perhaps the Reverend can explain the mass suicide of Jews, even here in America. It cannot be that all of Jewry suffers from a persecution complex and a mania to do away with themselves.

The Reverend slams one of his hosts in that land of the free and of the Plebiscite, by his statement as regards Nazi toleration of Negroes. He all but calls Herr Goebbels, German propaganda minister, a liar, accuses him of misrepresenting the true feeling of German Aryans toward black non-Aryans. It was Goebbels, speaking for his people, who took to task Mrs. Roosevelt for "letting a Negress sing at the White House on the occasion of the British royal visit", or am I wrong?

Indignantly yours,
HALLIE A. DAVIS

COMMUNISM DE LUXE

Though the rulers of the German state scrupulously avoid any mention of it, their patented brand of National Socialism differs from Communism more in theory than in practice. Reporting on his current visit to Berlin, Albion Ross, veteran foreign correspondent, revealed that the average German business man has today coined an apt phrase for the economic and social system under which he lives. He calls it "elegante Kommunismus," or "Communism de luxe." His business is under the absolute control of a state functionary. Though profits are still permitted—Dr. Goebbels hopes to end that old-fashioned custom in the coming years—their size is regulated. He must get permission from the State if he wants to expand, permission if he wants to decrease his operations, if he wants to discharge any of his employees, permission is he wants to lower wages. If the state orders wages raised, he keeps silent—or else. He has, to all purposes, become a civil servant of the state and exists mainly to carry out its orders. No matter how you slice it, be it black or red, it's still communism.

SUBSIDIES AND STOP-GAPS

The farmers of America will have to bide a while yet before writing off their mortgages and debts in full. Though Uncle Sam has set aside a bigger sum for benefit payments to them in 1940—$772 million, compared with $766 in 1939—many more farmers are expected to comply with the AAA program next year. And that, to the hard-pressed farmer, means next year's benefit payment checks will very likely be no larger than this year's, indicating the farm "problem" may soon be back on the White House doorstep. That problem has long ceased to have anything to do with ability to produce, but America's ability to move goods from farm to consumer along the shortest route is just now entering its testing period. Even though mass distribution now markets one-third the produce of eight million farm families, legislative attacks ignore the fact that retail networks are proof of America's growing ability to distribute more efficiently. In that direction lies a sound cure for the farm "problem." As every farmer knows, his crop subsidy check is not a solution, but a stop-gap which will remain in use until America solves its real problem—distribution.

MEXICO FINDS GOLD

Say the word "Gold!" in any language, and men will fight, struggle, and undergo gruelling hardships to win it. Ninety years after the gold rush fever swept California like wildfire, the State of Sonora, in Mexico, is today crackling with stories of fabulous strkes and rags-to-riches triumphs. On foot, by car and creaking wagon, men, women and children are racing northward to Mesquite, a few weeks ago a scrubby village with 20 inhabitants, today a hustling town of 4000. And here is Senor Javier Gomez to give living proof that a poor man's dream of riches can come true. "Last week," he says, "I am a poor rancher without a penny. Now I make $500 every day!" And the rush to strike pay dirt goes on, chronicling another chapter in man's age-old quest for the precious magic of gold.

READ IT FIRST!

"Here you are, Mister. Sign this for lower interest rates!" Is Mister against lower interest rates? Certainly not. So the chances are four out of five that he'll sign this petition—without reading it. Therein lies the catch, and a very serious one. Charges have been made that solicitors for opponents of the anti-loan shark legislation, passed by the State Legislature this year, have been misrepresenting the petitions they are now seeking signatures for. The purpose of the petitions is to place the anti-loan shark legislation on the November 1940 ballot as a referendum. If the required number of signatures are secured before September 19, the law will remain inoperative until voters act upon it next year, giving the loan sharks at least another 15 months in which to charge exorbitant rates of interest. Moral: Read all petitions lest you reap the consequences!

WE'RE GOING UP!

With attention focused on the Army's big air armaments program, we have overlooked the fact that civilian aviation is growing by leaps and bounds. The Civil Aeronautics Authority estimates that within two years no less than 70,000 pilots will be the proud holders of flying certificates. There's no mistaking that, as a nation, we're going up.

All in a Week
By Geraldyn Dismond, condensed from the N. Y. Amsterdam News.

Last summer I brought in from London a copy of the English edition of Doris Garland Anderson's book, 'Nigger Lover."

The book indubitably will have its followers in America in spite of its pollyanna flavor, its multiplicity of superlatives and its long philosophical digressions. It will have an especial appeal for those who are experimenting with or contemplating a legalized mixed marriage.

I am not, for the good reason that I enjoy being a divorcee. Some people will be interested to read that colored men have "definite social appeal" in London. I was not, for those of us who know the colored wives of colored gentlemen abroad, that is an old, old story.

Others will be entertained by the chapter on "The Negro and Sex." I was not. I have long since counted as one of the myths of life, the notion that the Negro excels in physical expression.

Do not expect a literary gem. Mrs. Anderson is a woman who has seen her duty and done it, regardless of her limitations as a writer. She has also done a bit of clever dodging, but nevertheless has stated some truths which neither colored nor white people enjoy seeing in print. That she was overwhelmed by her late husband, Garland, the Negro, is obvious. Neither an involved sentence structure nor poor proof reading can hide that fact.

Soap Box
By ADAM POWELL Jr.
(condensed from the N. Y. Amsterdam News)

My boy Preston is now attaining the ripe age of 13. He therefore has reached the stage of life where one can pass as a philosopher. He has just finished propounding to me a theory to end war—one that I am afraid will not meet with much favor among the leaders of the world, but I am sure the masses will agree.

Why not, he reasons, allow each nation to pick some one of its leaders to represent them and have an old fashioned gladiatorial fight in some vast arena such as Central Park or Champs de Elysses in Paris. Each year they could meet, have an annual combat and one of them would win and then the war would be over for the year.

This would be very reasonable, of course; we would not have to build armies, aeroplanes, navies and that sort of thing. The gladiators wouuld't need anything more than a pair of 6 oz. fighting gloves.

We wouldn't have any more pacifists or militarists. Of course the money boys wouldn't appreciate it so much because steel would take an awful beating; DuPont, Krupp and all the other powder boys would take a licking because there wouldn't be any dynamite needed except to blow a few holes in rocks now and then; the Admirals and Generals would have to do the unheard of—look for a job for a change and do some honest work. It would destroy the power of the great nations and put each one on a common footing and after all that's what the League of Nations came into being for, so this would sort of hasten the ideology along.

There are the girls who might object because everybody loves a uniform. Of course the ideals of patriotism would have to be taught.

But when all is said and done, I am sure that we would all iron out these differences. The only hitch is this plan is that America would send Joe Louis as its representative. However, it is not too much to imagine that down the line maybe Ethiopia would send a strong man who would win. In other words, class imperialism would not have a chance in this new day. The vast tribes of Africa, now submerged under British and French imperialism, would have a chance to become strong men of the world. Some tall, upright, brawny Kaffir might win.

Stamping Booker T. Washington
By SAMUEL H. READING
(condensed from the Philadelphia Tribune)

A belated realization of the greatness of the man and an approaching Presidential election apparently have combined to make America "honor" Booker T. Washington by putting his picture on a postage stamp.

I am heartily proud of the accomplishment. But I am prouder still of Booker T. Washington and my memory of HIS actual accomplishments.

America honors itself rather than Booker T. in placing his picture on a postage stamp or anything else of value.

Booker T. Washington himself needs not this belated empty honor spread on his silent grave. By perfecting a system of education which the whole world (including Soviet Russia) has copied, he made and perfected his own monument two generations ago.

As usual, Negroes will grab at the shadow of this belated "honoring" of Dr. Washington and fail to catch the true perspective of the picture. Now that Bro. James A. Farley says Booker T. was great, most colored folks will acknowledge it.

Shucks! If Booker Taliaferro Washington were alive today, he'd probably be considered one of the few Americans able to pull the U. S. A. out of the mess it's been wallowing in for 10 years.

I hope Jim Farley doesn't print Booker Washington's picture on a high-priced stamp—say 5 cents or more.

Too many colored folks will be unable to afford them if he does.

Regarding Nomination of Dr. L. K. Williams
By JEFF D. RAY
(condensed from Fort Worth Star Telegram, white daily)

To be elected president of the Baptist World Alliance for the next five-year period is an unusual distinction. As was expected and quite generally desired, honor came to Dr. J. H. Rushbrooke of London, who for many years has been the active executive secretary of the organization.

No other name was presented to the congress, although an enterprising Negro newspaper editor announced in the papers that afternoon that he would nominate Dr. L. K. Williams, the one-time pastor of a large Negro church in Fort Worth and now pastor in Chicago of what is said to be the largest Baptist church in the world. He is also president of the National Baptist convention.

Williams is a good man, highly respected and confidently trusted by all who knew him; but our enthusiastic editorial brother was at least 100 years ahead of the times in supposing that the congress would elect a Negro, even one as highly respected as L. K. Williams. Everybody who really thinks knows that in this country and particularly the South, men who wish to assume to the fellowmen the Jesus attitude are facing a very delicate task. The problem is magnified by extremists at both ends. A small coterie, including a few Negroes and possibly some white people, are making the situation difficult by clamoring for extraordinary privileges everywhere for the Negro.

At the other end are some white extremists, who in their prejudices against the Negro race, are unable to give them a square deal. As we patiently feel our way toward a God-pleasing solution to this delicate problem, the extremes at both ends should be abandoned and the problem worked at in a spirit of genuine forbearance.

New Jersey, it appears, is rapidly becoming the Jim Crow state of the North.

A few weeks ago, state police were called to Cranbury, a little borough, to investigate what they said was a raid by a party of white men on a shack occupied by seven colored potato pickers. Without offering any excuse for their act, the disguised mob, masquerading under the time-worn banner of white supremacy, entered the mean little shack, smashed windows and stripped all clothing from their Negro victims, chasing five of them through fields with blazing shotguns.

The other two, a young married couple who proved to be Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Treslon of Coleman, Ga., were taken by force into a car, driven seven miles from the place where they were captured. Their nude bodies were then smeared with paint and they were told "get back down South where you belong."

It appears that the only crime committed by the raid victims was that of accepting employment on a farm of one Raymond Dey, owner of a potato farm on the old Trenton Road.

To the casual traveller, especially one identified with the Negro race, it is painful to note the complacency with which New Jersey Negroes accept segregation.

A few weeks ago, I observed a Union Sunday School outing at segregated Atlantic Highland Beach. Hundreds of small and large children, but all of Sunday School age, guided by pastors of the different churches from which they came, were present. This beach, without a doubt, has served its time and purpose. The Ferris Wheels, Shoot-the-Shoots, and other vehicles for the amusement of these children were so outmoded and in such delapidated condition that death by accident of some child seemed inevitable. But nothing serious happened.

The little ones seemed more than happy and greedy for the mean joy these broken-down amusements offered.

Atlantic Beach is about fifty miles from Trenton, capitol of New Jersey, and is reached by bus. It was once a popular resort for general use; but, it is said of late, is now used principally by Negroes who are not allowed on most other beaches.

The Negroes are not only segregated at this Atlantic Beach, but are also fleeced by its attendants. They pay to go to the Beach. After arriving, they are charged 50 cents for bathroom accomodations, or ten cents to go in the ocean.

The Negroes of New Jersey have allowed segregation and discrimination to creep upon them, to all appearances, without much protestation. However, it was noted a few days ago that the Long Branch, New Jersey branch of the NAACP and the Rev. L. Kendel Jackson, Second Baptist pastor of Long Branch, headed a committee on legal redress and legislation to obtain for the people of the state of New Jersey their constitutional rights. While they are dealing particularly with the city-operated beaches of their very own section, no doubt the success or failure of their fight will reflect the future attitude of the individuals of New Jersey who make and enforce the laws of that state.

In any event, the Negroes of New Jersey should be tremendously enraged over the treatment of the seven Negro potato pickers whose only crime was to migrate from one state to another in the pursuit of honest labor.

Coleman, Oakland, first vice president of the body.

A public meeting, at which the city and state will welcome the Convention, will be held Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at Second Baptist.

Wants to "Shoot Someone"; He Lands in Jail

A yen "to shoot someone" landed Frank Routte, 34, 1350 E. 33rd street, in the Newton bastile Sunday afternoon, with charges of kidnapping and assault with a deadly weapon levied against him.

Routte, armed with a pistol, forced Marcus Tompkins, 1217 E. 18th street, to drive him about the city in search of one Walter W. Wiggins, 4160 Beverly, police charge, and when he found Wiggins, fired at him twice.

The shots aimed through the window of Wiggins' car, parked at 33rd and Hooper, did not take effect. Wiggins could give no reason for the attack.

Tompkins said he is acquainted with Routte and had attempted to dissuade him from his intentions, but Route had pulled the gun and at the point of it, forced him to drive four or five miles about the Eastside in search of the gunman's prey.

Wm. Pickens of NAACP, Here

William Pickens, field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, with offices in New York, is in the city, stopping at the Dunbar hotel.

Nationally known as an orator, scholar and writer, Pickens will be heard in a public lecture on Sunday, Sept. 17, at the Second Baptist church, sponsored by the local branch of the NAACP.

Daughters of Elks Propose Shrine

Institution Would Be Sanctuary for Indigent Daughters

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—Highlight of the Wednesday sessions of the Women's Branch of Elks convention meeting here last week was the call of the Shrine Committee, which reported donations for the proposed Elks' mecca "from five dollars to a hundred."

The "Shrine' 'is current pet project of the Elks' Women's division. The institution, it is stated, will be a sanctuary for indigent Daughters.

TRIBUTES TO DAUGHTER RULER

Grand Daughter Ruler Abbie Johnson scored a brilliant personal triumph at this session when various committees and departments of her organization showered their leader with tokens of appreciation for her 'fine administation'.

Among presentations given G. D. R. Johnson were two silver and gold gavels, a cake ranking as a culinary masterpiece, and other gifts too numerous to men-

2 Men Quarrel Over Woman

An unamed young woman was the center of a quarrel between two men Monday night, resulting in the near fatal stabbing of one of them. Near death in the General hospital, from stab wounds in the neck and about the body, is Herman Johnson, 1027 E. 54th street. Jailed as his assailant is Seny Booker, 43-year old custodian of 1578 W. 35th street.

The stabbing occurred at Johnson's home where Booker said he had rented a room for the mysterious young woman. When he came to call on her, Booker said he found Johnson there. An argument followed, climaxed by the stabbing.

Californians Active at Elks' Meet; Dtr. Ruler Reelected

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—California delegates to the monster New York convention of the Improved Benevolent Protective Order of Elks have taken active and energetic part in the many functions of confab, it was made known this week.

Hectic sesisons during the election of officers took place Thursday as Grand Daughter Ruler Abbie Johnson was re-elected for the sixth consecutive term by acclamation. Heated controversy raged in other elections of leading offices, however.

Glamorous Elks' Ball was held Tuesday evening at the 369th Regiment Armory mammoth auditorium. Jam-packed by the convention delegates and friends, the ball was so large an affair that two orchestras were employed, one on each end of the dance-floor, to supply 'swing and sway'.

The Grand March, led by Grand Exalted Ruler J. Finley Wilson, was highlight of the ball. Second in line was Los Angeles' Gene Sorral who "strutted his stuff" to the delight of all.

OPENS SESSION

Bishop Sarah Butler of Los Angeles opened the Tuesday morning devotional services of the Women's convention, after which the two bodies, men and women, met in joint session to hear Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York City, Ex-Governor Hoffman of New Jersey, and Congresman Bruce Barton.

Green Will Probe A.F. of L. Jim Crow in Tampa, Fla.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, will undertake an investigation of two lily-white A. F. of L. construction unions in Tampa, Florida, whose alleged jim crow tactics enabled them to "freeze" more than 500 Negro pioneer union members out of their jobs, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People stated here today.

Green's promise to investigate the Tampa situation, which involves more than $9,000,000 in Government ship-building contracts, was contained in a letter sent to the association from Atlantic City, where the A. F. of L. executive council was in session. The letter came in response to a report sent to the president of the federation by the NAACP last fortnight by Walter White, who made a special trip to Florida to investigate the situation.

AFTER STRIKE

The unions involved are Local 1,207 of the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers Union of America, which was formed after 12 Negro and one white worker went out on strike at the Tampa Shipbuilding company prior to June 1, 1938; and a local of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron shipbuilders and Helpers of America. The latter union, formed after jim crow tactics were inaugurated in the hod carriers' local, refuses to admit Negroes at all.

Dr. Hawkins Rites Held in D. C.

Financial Secretary of AME Church was 77 Years of Age

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31—Dr. John R. Hawkins, financial secretary of the AME church, was buried here Saturday after his death Wednesday of last week, and his funeral attended by the highest dignitaries of the denomination. 77-years old, Dr. Hawkins had been ill more than a year and his death came as no surprise to the Church which he had served more than a half century.

Appointed to the position of financial secretary of the AME church in 1912, Dr. Hawkins was instrumental in raising a total of 8 million dollars in "dollar money," the Church's educational fund, up to 1938. Well known in the educationa' field, he was a trustee of Wilberforce and Howard universities at the time of his death.

A sister, Mrs. Elinor B. Carter of Los Angeles is among several relatives surviving the lay religious leader.

ANGERED MAN KILLED WHEN HE ATTEMPTS TO BRING KNIFE IN USE

Coroner's Jury Holds Murder "Justifiable" as Three Witnesses to Tragedy Testify

A coroner's jury Monday held as "justifiable" the murder of one man by another during the heat of an argument over their ages.

Angered by an assertion that he was older than he claimed, Frank Akins, 38, 1613 E. 25th street, attempted to cut to death Odis Garland, 27, and was himself shot and killed by Garland in front of Garland's home at 1611 E. 25th street.

At the inquest, attended by neighbors who were awakened at 4:30 a. m. Saturday by the shooting, the jury ruled that Garland had acted in self-defense. Deputy District Attorney Broker refused to issue a complaint and ordered Garland released.

Three people, one of them the dead man's wife, testified to seeing Akins stab Garland in the back, and Garland, in turn, shoot Akins. Akins was shot once in the back as he stood on Garland's lawn and died in the ambulance en route to the Receiving Hospital.

Witnesses said a friendly discussion turned into a heated invitation to fight when Akins became angry. When he drew a pocket knife and rushed at Garland, his intended victim brought a pistol into play. Garland said he fired into the air to frighten Akins.

MOTHER AVERTS SHOOTING

Mrs. Mary Adkins, mother of Garland, with whom he makes his home, said she knocked the pistol from her son's hand as he leveled it again. The young man then turned and ran from the house, Akins in hot pursuit.

At 2509 Nevin, the home of M. C. Howzer, Akins was held on the outside by Howzer, who brandished a hammer while Garland gained the safety of the inside. When Garland attempted to leave, however, he was caught by Akins and cut. Returning to his own home, Akins still in pursuit, Garland said he got his shotgun and fired once at his pursuer, the bullet taking affect in Akins' back.

5 Negro Youths Stage Sit-Down Strike at Va. Library

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Aug. 31—The newest thing in sit-down strikes had authorities over a barrel here this week. Denied use of the Alexandria City Library because of their color, and with a suit already pending in the courts, five colored youths staged a sit-down strike in the library last Monday afternoon.

The youths, members of taxpaing families, went into the library one at a time, requested a card from the librarian and being refused, took books from the shelves, seated themselves and began to read.

After all five were seated, the librarian called the police station which responded with two officers an hour later.

Asked to leave, one of the youths asked the officers if they were under arrest.

"Not if you leave the library but if you stay, I am sorry, but I will have to arrest you".

"Well, we're staying," the youth told the officers.

Arrested, the boys were booked for "disorderdly conduct. The defense attorney cross-examining the arresting officers, asked whether the young men were quite and orderly, to which the officers replied they were.

He then asked whether they were properly dressed and the officers answered in the affirmative. He asked if they were destroying property and the officer said they were not.

"Then they were disorderly because they were black?" the attorney asked.

Board of Public Works Kills 1-Man Truck Plan

Unanimously, without a dissenting vote, the Board of Public Works today threw out the recommendation of the City Engineers to install one-man trucks in the Refuse department of the City. Overriding the engineers efforts to "save the city thousands of dollars per month, by cutting down on the idle time of loaders, by buying more machinery to replace the men," the Board turned a deaf ear. The engineers claimed that an order had already been placed for machinery.

LABOR DAY is but a little ways off and after it, all of the folks, including the school children, will have to turn their minds to constructive programs of work and study. It will help us a great deal to make up our minds if Mr. Hitler would only finish his "War On Nerves" before that date. To some folks it is only a European trouble, but war is a contagious thing and it would affect our lives here a great deal. Yet at this writing, I feel that the British Lion has slowed the blustering game of Der Fuhrer almost to a stopping point. He fights daily, but never with bullets and the British, in conjunction with the French feel that it is time for bullets and fair play and our little Jew hater and World war veteran can't stand the sound of guns. Labor Day in America is certainly a day of peace and one we celebrate because man has done well, with his labor, to make the world a better place to live in. Capital and labor, the real backbone of the nation, have found that problems can be ironed out over a banquet table. Both sides realize the importance of the other and the result is that we can look forward to Labor Day as a great celebration of peace. But if this wild man of Europe keeps on, we will have a sad holiday this year, worrying about all the thousands of men and women who would enjoy celebrating Labor rather than war. Still our holidays for the summer will be up in that day and whether its War or Labor, it will take on a serious note. Children will sing merrily down the lanes and highways to school and America will parade in full uniform back to work—good old healthy labor. I hope Europe will take the same example and cut out the political nonsense so that next September can be a peaceful time instead of this great to do about nothing. . . . So here's wishing all Americans a pleasant and sensible Labor Day. Be careful in traffic and take the fun in sober hilarity.

ELKS HEAR MAYOR LA GUARDIA AND MRS. BETHUNE

Scoop SAGLE picture reveals Elks in session Tuesday morning at Abyssinia Baptist church. Lower right: J. Finley Wilson grasps the hand of New Jersey's ex-Governor, Harold G. Hoffman, who held gubernatorial position during the famed Hauptmann trial. Just in front of Hoffman, seated, is Mary McLeod Bethune. To the rear of Grand Exalted Ruler Wilson stands Gene Sorral, Los Angeles representative. If you look closely, behind Sorral and seated, there is also L. A. publisher Frederick M. Roberts.

NO ONE ENTITLED TO JOBS BECAUSE OF SKIN TEXTURE -- LA GUARDIA

Mrs. Bethune Explains Function of of National Negro Women's Council

NEW YORK, (Tuesday morning session Elks' Convention)—Third session of the Elks' confab boomed along here today with a star studded cast from the nation's political stage including Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York City, Congressman Bruce Barton, Ex-Governor Hoffman of New Jersey and the omnipresent Mary McLeod Bethune.

Easily the days' outstanding attraction, paunchy Mayor LaGuardia dramatically entered Abyssinia Baptist church auditorium, where sessions are being held, as the giant church organ pealed forth the strains of "Lift Every Voice and Sing" and the mammoth congregation rose to deliver the lyrics.

In the Mayor's introduction, J. Finley Wilson, Elks' high potentate, stated, "He has given Negroes more jobs than all the other Mayors New York ever had. Ladies and gentlemen, this is a great privilege to present the greatest Mayor in the world!"

Wild cheering broke loose as LaGuardia stood. "Butch," as the Mayor is affectionately known on the Isle of Manhattan, stated, "When I say we welcome you to New York, I mean just that."

'CANT EAT POETRY"

"This is 1939," continued the Mayor, "Things are changing. You can't eat poetry.

"No one is entitled to appointments just because he is black, nor because he is white."

LaGuardia told of several Negro appointments made under his administration and heralded a rosy future for New York's black belt. 'You have no idea how great you are going to be this time next year, with the proper health conditions in your community. We must give every child a break. No secret markings and differences. Not what is on the outside of the skin, but what is on the inside of the head should stand for law and order. Poverty should not be considered a crime."

Shifting to broader subjects, the Mayor said, "Government has certain great responsibilities; preservation of life; interest in all communities; equal opportunity and economic security for all citizens."

NOT "SPEECH-MAKER"

"I am not a speech-maker. When I have something to say, I say it without embellishment," the Mayor concluded amid cheers.

Ex-Governor Hoffman of New Jersey, who figured prominently in news dispatches during the famed Bruno Hauptmann trial, was happy to represent the State of New Jersey." Hoffman told an ancient story of how all "California" products are somehow made in other states, but drew a large ovation from the crowd. The Ex-Governor was royally escorted from the auditorium.

Mary McLeod Bethune, President of the National Negro Women's Council, explained the functions of her organization to the massed Elks. "The National Council of Women is made up of women's organizations of all kinds and brands. Its delegates or representatives will sit with all women of whatever race, creed or kind.

"I go with all and when they see my face they know that I am speaking for 14 million Negroes. I am education, not a politician. I am always steadfastly on the job for you. I travelled over 48 states last year, sometimes sleeping in cars. I am giving all that I have daily to lift you higher, higher!"

In a tribute to the Elks' women's leader, Mrs. Bethune described Grand Daughter Ruler Abbie Johnson as "one of the most dynamic and sincere leaders of the Race." She appealed to the delegates to "support Mrs. Johnson's leadership to the fullest extent. She took hold after the trail blazers and has carried the order to new heights not then anticipated."

BISHOP OPENS CONVENTION

Los Angeles' Bishop Sarah Butler opened today's session. Song and prayer presentations were made.

Diplomat-statesman Emmett J. Scott, recent high appointee in GOP ranks, made a brief address during the morning functions.

Grand Daughter Ruler Abbie Johnson was presented with a silver gavel for meritorious work. "I shall certainly try to use it with dignity," Mrs. Johnson said in response.

Queen Esther Temple of Richmond, Va., presented a Collar to Susie B. Williams, better known as Mother Brown. Eleven members stood in dress parade in making presentation.

Daughter Styles of Long Island was presented with a heavy and highly valued gold necklace.

Also present at today's (Tuesday) sessions were Oscar Sawaree of New York; Frederick M. Roberts of Los Angeles; "Billboard" Jackson of the Standard Oil Company; Mr. Dubias of the national YMCA; J. M. Steel of New York; Hon. Duvall Morris of New York; Frederick W. Howard, and Col. Arthur Little of "From Harlem to the Rhine" fame.

L. A.'s REPRESENTATIVES

Littleton McDuff, James Stewart, Daughter Bishop Sarah Butler, Daughter Agnes Beal, Daughter McDuff, Daughter Johnson, and Daughter C. A. Bass. From Santa Cruz, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Valentine, Edward Smith, and W. A. Payne, who represented the Pacific States Association.

Also present was J. Allen Reese, Grand Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias.

Dee Cee Miss is Oratorical Winner

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—The Elks' annual Oratorical Contest wound up to a tremendous and eloquent climax here Tuesday as preliminary champions from Birmingham, Alabama; Washington, D. C.; Charlotte, North Carolina; Gary, Indiana; Muskogee, Oklahoma; and Pittsburg, Pa., met to decide who was 'the finest of them all'.

Winner was piquant Alberta Lawson of the nation's capitol, whose address found highest favor with the Contest's solemn judges. Young Miss Lawson scored her triumph with an oration upon "Lincoln and the Constitution".

Los Angeles' entrants in the Elks, oratorical sweepstakes were ruled out in preliminary competition at Omaha, Nebraska.

Others who contested in the New York finals include Juanita Willis (Alabama), Mary Jamison (North Carolina), Beulah Miller (Indiana), Alma Jean Worth (Oklahoma), and Warren Alston (Pennsylvania).

Father Locks Son in Trunk; Boy Suffocates

CINCINNATI, Aug. 31—A father, who locked his 10-year old boy in a trunk to punish him for running away, found the child dead of suffocation when he went to free him. Police arrested Leroy Miller, WPA worker, and charged him with murder this week after the boy's death was pronounced due to suffocation. Miller said he forgot he had locked the lad in the trunk and did not remember until the following morning.

NEGRO WOMAN WINS FIRST PRIZE IN ART

SEDALIA, (Mo.), Aug. 31,—While the defeated artists protested that the painting "was out of perspective", the Judge said it was "the finest example of primitive art I have ever seen," and awarded first prize to a painting on 'Farm Life' by Mrs. Percy Lewis, lone Negro entrant in the art division of the Missouri State Fair.

AFTERNOON SESSION

Wednesday afternoon session of the women was adjourned to permit the Daughters to join their brothers at the New York World's Fair where the entire organization was greeted by New York's Governor Herbert H. Lehman. Governor Lehman stated that the Elks rendered the finest short program he had witnessed at the Fair Grounds, and pronounced Grand Exalted Ruler J. Finley Wilson "greatest Negro leader", offering him and the convention free transportation to any part of the Fair or New York City.

Wilson, the 'little giant', idol of the Elks of the World, was resplendent in military attire with his police escort on this occasion.

GETS DOWN TO BUSINESS

Thursday morning sessions among both men and women delegates marked the turning point of the convention as entertainmen and parades were forgotten and the organization knuckled down to the gruelling task of electing an administrative machine for 1940.

Delegates from the United States, Canada, Cuba, Panama, and the Bahama Islnds joined in rapt attention as the Grand Secretary, Buenah V. Kelley, read the Annual Report. Daughter Kelley started her report with the prayer "We thank God for the occasion of this meeting of the world's finest organization of its kind."

The lengthy report, involving difficult financial operations of the Order, was well received by Elks' delegates, and the Grand Secretary was showere with gifts and applause at the end of her reading. Among outstanding presentations to Daughter Kelley was a reading lamp, shade of which was made of twenty-five one dollar bills.

Thirty-eight thousand, six hundred and eighty-two enrolled members of the women's branch of the IBPOE of the World were reported, while 360 deaths had been recorded since the last gran convention. Two thousand Temples were suspended for various reasons during the year, six new ones added, nineteen reinstate, 450 financial, and the largest Temple in the Order with 1,905 members is Eureka Temple No. 22 of New York City. To the state of Florida went the distinction of giving the Order its first new Temple of the year.

It is recalled that Grand Secretary Buenah V. Kelley is the daughter of Emma B. Kelley, founder of the Women's Auxiliary in 1916.

DEPARTMENTS REPORT

Also rendering annual reports were various departments of the Elks. Outstanding among these were the statements of the Civil Liberties Dept., "we urge the Daughters to join in the fight for Civil Liberties, for no people can advance beyond their voting power"; the Educational Department, which observers state is fast becoming the most vital body of the Order, headed by Judge William C. Hueston and Daughter Minnie T. Wright.

Thursday evening entertainment featured the Elks Grand Promenade and the heavily publicised bathing beauty contest.

ELECTIONS ON FRIDAY

In torrid secret sessions, the convention swirled to a climax Friday as elections of officers were held. Except for the elections by acclamation of Grand Daughter Ruler Abbie Johnson and Grand Secretary Buenah V. Kelley on Tuesday, the session faced the monumental job of drafting an extensive, new officialdom. Los Angeles' Louise V. Fulghum polled the highest number of votes for Trustee and was elected for a three year term (304). Othe elected Trustees were Mrs. Lethia C. Fleming, President of the National Association of Republican Women, Inc., for one year (249 votes), and Daughter Minnie Dobson (246) for one year.

DINNER HONORS DAUGHTER RULER

Last function of the "World's Fair Convention" was Friday evening's Testimonial Dinner in honor of Grand Daughter Ruler Abbie M. Johnson at New York's famed Renaissance Casino. At precisely 12:10 (instead of the scheduled 10:30), the Grand March entered, led by J. Finley Wilson and Mrs. Johnson, crowned on this occasion King and Queen. Bishop Brown, former pastor of New York's Mother Zion M. E. Church, offered prayer. Keynoting the evening's spirit, mistres sof ceremonies Daughter Anna R. McLevehign stated, "Some months ago all America honored the King and Queen of England. We are here tonight to honor our own King and Queen of Elkdom!"

Table decorations were based upon the World of Tomorrow motif featured at New York's Fair.

Celebrities from all parts of the nation and walks of life were presented at the huge banquet.

Must Prove She Was Indian's Wife

Alleged Wife of Jackson Barnett is Perjury Suspect

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 31—Whether Mrs. Bertha McCowan, 82, was at one time the wife of the late Jackson Barnett, wealthy Creek Indian, and Henry Jones, 55, is one of two children born to them, will have to be proved by the aged woman when she is taken before federal agents this week, charged with perjury.

Frail and dark-skinned, Mrs. McCowan has made a sworn statement that she is the first wife of the deceased Indian, whose estate has been the cause of numerous court battles all over the country.

Mrs. McCowan cannot recall the date of her alleged marriage to the wealthy Indian, as she can neither read nor write. She stated they were married before the Creek War about 57 years ago, at Muskogee.

TWO CHILDREN

Held in the county jail, awaiting the federal hearing, Mrs. McCowan claims to have lived with Barnett four years and to have borne him two children. Her son has been jailed for perjury also and her daughter, Mary Etta, is being hunted by federal agents.

Mrs. McCowan applied for a share of the Indian's vast estate in 1934 at the time of his death. Barnett was married before he died to Mrs. Annie Laurie Barnett, white nurse, who claimed his money.

25,000 Trade Unionists to March in Labor Day Parades

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—An estimated 25,000 Negro trade unionists will be in the line of march of Labor Day Parades throughout the country, it was disclosed this week by CIO authorities. Of that number, more than 5,000 will be members of the National Maritime Union, with headquarters in New York.

According to Ferdinand C. Smith, National Vice-President of the NMU, one of the highest offices held by a member of the race in labor groups, and Septimus Rutherford, Secretary-Treasurer of the Cooks and Stewards Division, participation of colored seamen in this year's demonstration will mark a history-making event.

BOYCOTT STANDARD OIL

Reuel Stanfield, who heads the National Boycott Committee of NMU, stated, this week, that more than unusual interest is being expressed by the racial contingents in the campaign to boycott Standard Oil products because of the company's alleged anti-labor tactics.

"Every contingent which marches in the Labor Day Parades all over the country, will carry banners appealing to the American public, regardless of race, color or creed, to help us boycott the products of Standard Oil," Stanfield declared.

It is the belief of Rutherford and his associates that more employment would be given to Negroes aboard ships if it were not for the policy of the concern to employ foreign crews assertedly in preference to American crews.

"I firmly believe that our people will rally to this campaign 100% when they know that Standard Oil only flies the American flag on 65 of its fleet of 195 vessels and prefers to build its ships in German and Italian shipyards to the shipyard of America where Negro workers, along with other Americans, would be given a chance to get off the relief rolls," Rutherford said.

MAN SENTENCED IN STABBING

Southern Youth No Longer Complacent, Goodlett Says

Finding in California youth a dearth of interest in their social, economic and political welfare, Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett, one of the youngest scholars ever to receive a Ph.D from a California university, was in Los Angeles this week and had several significant things to say about the up and coming South.

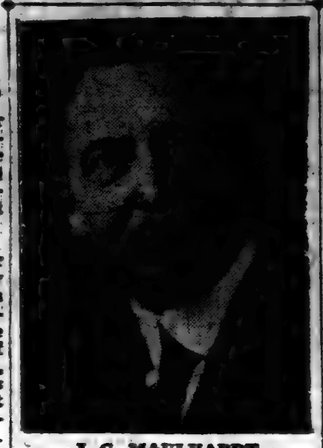
Awarded his doctorate last year from the University of California at Berkeley at the age of 23, Dr. Goodlett is acting head of the Department of Psychology at West Virginia State College.

DR. CARLTON B. GOODLETT . . . 'Southern Youth is no longer complacent."

He is in the West to arrange for publication of his thesis, 'Adolescent Interests—A Comparative Study," by the U. of C. Press, and to attend the American Psychological Association convention at Stanford and Cal' next week.

NO LONGER COMPLACENT

Southern youth is no longer "complacent about the minority status of the Negro in American democracy," Dr. Goodlett asserted. He called attention to the Southern Youth Congress, of which he is a vice chairman, which he says sent 725 delegates to convention in Birmingham last April, representing 750,000 members and "serving directly and indirectly over 3,000,000 Negro youth.



"The youth movement represents recognition on the part of the Negro that rugged individualism in the social sphere is passe.

"We feel that a new philosophy and a program for Negroes might include the following fundamentals," the Doctor stated and proceeded to enumerate them as:

I. We must lose our complacency.

II. We must realize that change is inevitable and conscientiously direct the course of change.

With Dr. Goodlett's thesis, which goes to press in September, the University plans to publish a pamphlet to be prepared by the youthful scholar, modeled along the lines of James Weldon Johnson's "Negro America, What Now?", and entitled, "Negro Youth Faces a Perplexing America."

"California Bank, however, has elected to remain open on Saturady mornings, as heretofore.

Police Nab Alleged Leader of Forgers, Check Passers

With the arrest of James Young, 1242 E. 40th place, police and federal officials believe they have one of the ring leaders of a band of forgers and check passers who have been cashing SERA relief and WPA Government checks for the past two years.

Young, arrested several times on suspicion of forgery, has been released on each occasion because of insufficient evidence. This time, however, both state and federal officials assertedly have a number of checks and positive identification of Young as the man who passed them. It is said that in cashing the checks, Young assumed various disguises, sometimes appearing as a cripple, carrying a cane and wearing dark glasses and other times as a dapper young gentleman.

However, on testimony of Henry Wong, Japanese grocer, of 1387 E. 51st street last Thursday, Young was held to answer to the Superior Court and was ordered to appear with his Attorney, Curtis C. Taylor on Sept. 6, in Dept. 41.

Ex-Janitor, Church Fund Forgery Suspect, Freed

Before a courtroom packed with members of the Second Baptist church, Valris W. Carter, 29, former janitor of the Church, was freed of charges of forging a check for $62.52, drawn on the BYPU fund of the church, by Municipal Judge Ellis Eagan last Wednesday. He was defended by Attorney David W. Williams.

Arrested while about his duties in the church, Carter, son of Rev. H. H. Carter, pastor of a Baptist church at 41st place and Wadsworth, was accused of signing the names of BYPU officers to a check and passing it at the California Bank, Vernon and Central avenues.

Faced by representatives of the Church, the California Bank and by a police handwriting expert, young Carter nevertheless maintained complete innocence. After hearing all the testimony, Judge Eagan sustained Attorney William's motion to dismiss the charges due to insufficient evidence.

Armed Bandits Rob 2 More

The victims of two armed bandits who have successfully held up more than a dozen Eastside business places in the past two months, were increased by two this week, both hold-ups executed in the space of 20 minutes.

B. Butcher, proprietor of a drug store at 2100 Hooper avenue, reported to police that he was robbed at the point of a gun last Friday night at 8:35 p. m. by two well dressed Negroes. Butcher said the two came into his store and while one stood in the middle of the floor, levying a small calibre pistol, the other, holding a gun on him, forced him to open the cash register. Their haul only $24.00, the two escaped in an automobile, of either Ford or Chevrolet make, 1939 model, which they had left with the motor running at the curb.

Police said the two apparently were the same men who had held up a liquor store at 2202 Griffith avenue 10 minutes earlier. Butcher said they were both about 5 feet, 8 inches tall, dark, smooth shaven and one was between 30 and 32 years old; the other between 25 and 30.

Oops My Deah!

Dashing by with the fury of a blizzard—upsetting all predictions—the lone lady of the six racers shot by so fast this week they are still coughing up dust on the sidelines.

Twenty-six thousand, nine hundred and twenty miles in one grand dash, placing her six thousand and seven hundred miles ahead of the lead.

My! My! There are those in the race whose heads still swim from the effect of their eyes trying to follow her.

The lead for the past few weeks must have become overconfident. He is scratching his head and wondering.

The steady third has no competition since those that hold fourth, fifth and sixth places seem to have conceded the victory to their peers.

It has been fun; there have been many thrilling moments when friends of the favorite contestants have shown a spirited contest in giving their support.

Laud Service Record of Rev. Price

One of the oldest pastors in Los Angeles, Rev. J. W. Price has by an exemplary life won the highest respect of citizens and churchgoers. The following letters, one from Ward Chapel to Bishop Noah W. Williams; the other addressed to Rev. Price from a former member of his church, speak the convictions of the writers.

1250 E. 25th street
Los Angeles, California

Rt. Rev. Noah W. Williams,
D. D., Presiding Bishop of the 5th Episcopal District of the
A. M. E. Church

Dear Bishop:

We, the undersigned officers, members and friends of Ward Chapel AME Church, 1250 E. 25th street, take this method of expressing our appreciation and desire to you for your deep sympathy and Christ-like spirit toward us in assigning by appointment, Rev. J. W. Price as our pastor for the last two years; and we trust that you see fit to let him remain with us at least five years.

Realizing the thirty-one years of service that he has given the Church in this State, we consider ourselves highly favored to have such a man as the Pastor of our church. He has demonstrated his ability to lead and govern this, our Zion, during his pastorage here; for when he came to us, our church was at a low ebb spiritually and financially.

We have increased in unity and fellowship among the membership and attendance at the various services, which has increased about 40%, particularly the evening service, adding 200 members to the church, 32 of which were converts.

Twenty-three years ago he served as Pastor of Ward Chapel when only a Mission and suffered many hardships, but weathered the storm. And since it is now second in size, we feel that he would be highly honored to have the privilege of clearing the present church debt and burning the mortgage—It would be the joy of this the oldest Pioneer in the point of service in the State of California.

On his arrival, we were renting. He proceeded to repair living quarters, moving in before its completion—showing that he was willing to make a sacrifice as well as the members. In so doing, we have saved several hundred dollars.

Prior to his administration, we were only paying $25.00 per month on our indebtedness, which was interest only. In the two years that he has been here, we have paid $50.00 per month up to date, aside from our rallies. Delinquent taxes were paid and insurance on the church renewed. Class and prayer meeting attendance and finance have increased fifty per cent. Our Sunday collections have increased and the entire bonded debt has been greatly reduced.

Therefore, we sincerely request that you give our petition a favorable consideration.

ECHOES FROM KANSAS

Oskaloosa, Kansas
August 22, 1939

(Excerpts from a letter to Rev. J. A. Price)

Dear Rev. Price:

May I express a few of the things that are in my heart? Simpson and I have always said that if we entered the ministry, we wanted to be like you. I have always admired the way you carried yourself as a minister. Even your jokes all had good moral gackground. The world today is in need of true leadership, such as you have demonstrated.

My church is progressing nicely. Last Sunday, we celebrated the 62nd Anniversary of our church, we hardly had standing room in the church.

In my closing, may I say I shall never forget the many happy days we spent together in the Cause of the Master.

Yours in Christ,
J. B. BROOKS

Man Faints in Church as Morris Speaks

PASADENA, Aug. 31,—Just as Charles Satchell Morris, professor of English at Tennessee State College, Nashville, was concluding an address at the Pasadena Presbyterian church (white) Wednesday night, at the annual interracial gathering, members of the audience were astounded to see a white man suddenly collpase. Dr. Morris was paying tribute to the memory of David Livingston, famed African explorer and missionary, at the moment the man fainted. He was carried immediately from the chapel of the church to the church office where he was quickly revived.

Dr. W. D. Carter, pastor of the Friendship Baptist church (colored) presided at the joint services while Dr. Morris was presented to the throng by the Rev. Father Wilkins of the Episcopal church. The singing of a chorus was a feature of the service. The Pasadena Presbyterian church, which cost a quarter of a million dollars, is one of the show places of this millionaire colony.

CHATTER & SOME NEWS

By HELEN F. CHAPPELL, Society Editor

There is one place from which I'm forever receiving summer news to which I've never been. . . and have been curious about. Still in no hurry to get to--Elsinore. The mail brings a card from Gertrude Jones-Smith, "Trudie" to most of us. . . and the information that she's having a grand and restful time. So I suppose Elsinore is the place for one to go to enjoy resting

Evidently John Sengestacke thought that when he slipped into L. A. Friday via plane and went straight to Elsinore as guest of the junior Lucius Lomax. . . where Mrs. Lomax (Carmelitia Black) has been entertaining various friends for a week or more. Among them Myrtle Picou who returns for a visit with her uncle and grandmother after two years in Chicago where she is quite a popular young woman. . . as she is here. Getting back to Mr. Sengestacke, he's vice-president and general manager of the Defender, and one of the most successful in journalism. Here's hoping he has time to let some of the Fourth Estaters bask in his presence. . . since at least a dozen have asked "Do you know where I can find him?"

Friday evening, I settled down to read and was intrigued until midnight by "Mr. Emanuel", Louis Golding's story of a English Jew in Germany. . . Much elated over the undisturbed accomplishment, I relaxed Saturday to read Foldes' "Street of the Fishing Cat". . . there was a knock and a friend to chat. Still I said, I'll finish this thing this afternoon. . .

Then another knock. . . and much heralded but long-given-up Carlton B. Goodlett, Ph. D. from "Cal", acting head of the psychology department at West Virginia State College and vice chairman of the All Southern Youth Conference, barges in with Addison Joyce, New York public school teacher and tennis addict. . . they'll be here until Thursday. Both are Kappa fraters. . . possessing all the qualifications and determined to thoroughly enjoy the Southland. . . and stay eligible.

WEEK-END A LA L. A.:

A typical enough week-end included being aroused for breakfast with the two just mentioned visitors hosted by Dr. Lois Evans. . . with no cases of indigestion reported. Afterwards to church, Eighth and Towne; where Rev. Jonathan Shane of St. Louis delivered the anniversary sermon of the historic church. . . with him was his wife who's attending the Dieticians' Convention here at the Biltmore.

After church to Ross Snyder (and it's not a habit with me) where it's good to see the newly crowned national tennis champ Jimmie McDaniels and Xavier University sophomore having plenty of time to relax and practice among old friends. . and to hear from him reports of the South from both sides of the fence. . . the likes and dislikes.

Favorite players, sweethearts and happily marrieds, Albert and Gwen (Roberson) McDaniels were there. . . And it's true that they're awaiting the arrival of the stork . . . which means that Gwen won't be playing in the tournament in Oakland this week-end. Planning the trip North are Gwen and Almena (non-contender) Davis, the South L. A. Edgar Foleys, "Spot" and Eoline Thornton, Carriebelle Dean, of course, Mrs. Josephine Brown. . . and the fans of sundry degrees.

Saw Bobby Black in the Dunbar Sunday afternoon for the first time this summer looking very cool and chic with Misses Webb and Laevelle (Prairie View teachers) as her guests.

NOTHING ROUTINE:

About finally meeting Cato Robinson whom I unobtrusively mentioned last fall as the Kappa neophyte whose name I didn't know. The fellow's quite an all right person from first impression. . . and very gay.

Nor about the way Ruby Hammonds decided to return to Indianapolis to see her old friends with Andrew Sharpe. . . unsuccessful in walking off with a cup in the golf tournament last week. . .

And isn't just deciding all of a sudden to go about the best way to leave town. . Lillian Jennings Fentress slipped down to San Diego Monday for a week's rest. Mrs. Norman O. Houston left Monday evening for St. Louis where she will visit the Bige Wyatts and later be joined by her husband to entrain for the Legion convention in Chicago.

Garth and Connie (Scott) Adams are jubiliant over a seven pound six ounce boy born Monday at 4:7 a. m. in the Methodist Hospital. Orchids to them. . . and here's hoping the little fellow brings much happiness to their home at 1416½ W. 35th Street.

Among lovely guests: Mrs. T. R. Jackson of Chicago visiting her daughter Mitzie (Mrs. Arthur Adams) at 1036 E. 42nd Place; Miss Idelle Vertner, Seattle Y. W. C. A. secretary, visiting Miss Theresa Dixon, R. N.; and Mrs. Anna Winfield of Duluth, Minn., visiting her sister, Mrs. Julia Mimes E. 49th St. who's receiving one gracious gesture after another. . . and will see the GGIE before leaving California. . . Bye Now. . .

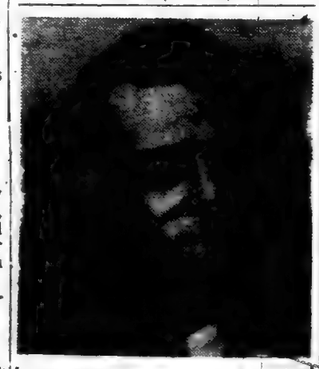
BY M. L. MILLIGAN

Recently we "pointed" take-out doubles with less than 3 H. T. and responses with from 0 to ½ H. T. The benefits derived should have been: In fourth position, after an opening bid, double with 2 H. T. distributed in two suits, providing your hand pattern conforms to the rule of two and three, which means you can expect two tricks in partner's hand vul. and 3 not vul. However, if partner has had the opportunity to bid and passed, expect only half of the above expectancy.

This week we "point" responses with hands that contain from ½ to 1 plus H. T.'s.

With the above H. T.'s there is no danger—if the take-out double was a sound one—since its strength covers several important bids, such as major suit preference, if the doubled bid is in either major, or semi-major, meaning: the next highest ranking suit doubled.



The No Trump response to hands containing from ½ to 1 H. T., which is always encouraging and yet may not show more than 1 H. T. and a stopper in opponent's suit. Example: The doubled bid is 1 Heart. Bid 1 N. T. with S—j. 8, 5; H—q. 10, 8; D—k. 9, 6, 5; C—9.8.4.

However, this rule is not followed when the 1 H. T. is the (A) of opponent's suit and has no other values to offer. But in the event the hand contains a four-card suit, such as: S—10, 5, 4; H—a, 9; D—j, 4, 3, 2; C—7, 6, 4, 2, bid two diamonds over an opening 1-Heart double.

Brigers, keep up with these take-out doubles, since they mean so much to scientific bidding.

WILLIAM PICKENS LECTURES IN OAKLAND CHURCH

NEGRO OLDEST AMERICAN NEXT TO AMERICAN INDIAN, STATES PICKENS

NAACP Field Secretary Lectures Under Auspices of Alameda County Branch

OAKLAND, Aug. 31.—Dean William Pickens, field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, with offices in New York, on an extensive tour of the Pacific Coast addressed a capacity audience of several hundred citizens in the auditorium of North Oakland Baptist church last Monday night. The lecture was under the auspices of the Alameda County branch NAACP, Attorney W. A. Gordon, president. Byron Rumpford, chairman of program, introduced the speaker who said in part:

"The 13th amendment did not free the slaves . . . only lifted the barrier on the road toward freedom, and we have been journeying that hard way ever since. We have not arrived at full freedom and real democratic liberties. There are other barriers on the way, after the chains of slavery were discarded; there was racial segregation and caste; disfranchisement; the terrrorism of lynching; the inferior education in sham public schools; and injustice in the hands of those who administer laws.

NEXT TO INDIAN

"The Negro is an American citizen; that inasmuch as he came here 12 years after the whites, but stopped coming here in 1859, 80 years ago, while most of our whites have come here since 1859,—the Negro is the oldest American next to the American Indian. He helped to make the colonial country as the chief worker in its fields and woods; he helped to create the Independence by fighting as a Revolutionary soldier, as a "Minute Man" and as a productive worker (tell the D. A. R.)—and he helped to defend it in 1814 at Baltimore and in 1815 at New Orleans. According to Lincoln we could not have won the war for union without the Negro soldier.

"I was out of Yale for many years before I learned that George Washington had nearly 5,000 Negro troops at Yorktown, when he beat Cornwallis, and the Negro troops were on guard when Cornwallis came forward to surrender."

Pickens will go to Los Angeles from Oakland and will return the latter part of September to lecture.

Mrs. Lindsay, Mrs. Hibbitt and Mrs. Anderson are the pianists, respectively, and the orchestra will also assist. The music-loving public is invited. Bring a friend, but come early for the best seats. Program to start at 11:00 a. m. sharp.

We have come a long way in our search for the secret of building good will for Real Estate. I hope it is less of a secret than it was before. The one thought above all other, that I should like to leave with you this afternoon, is a very cheerful one. It embodies the kernel of everything I have said. In this days' question, service pays; the more you do for your customers, the more you will do for yurself, for of necessity, if you render service, you will put your business on a scientific and a truly professional basis, you will render more service and you will have more good will. And good will is the asset of your business that brings the greatest total profit and the highest price in case of a sale.

These are the ambitions and requirements of the following members of the Central Ave. District Realty Board.

Members as follows:
Walter L. Gordon, President, 4065 S. Central Ave., ADams 3193.

W. K. J.—Where is the car?

Ans.—The answer I find in regard to your question is that your brother sold the car on February 13, and the car is now in the hands of the dealers.

H. T. L.—Which person will bring me no regrets?

Ans.—Probing into the matter, it seems that you are in love with 2 men at present and are unable to decide. It is impossible to find a person who will be as you want them to be all of the time, but, however, the one that is foremost in your mind would make you the best husband.

D. F. D.—Will I find a job?

Ans.—It comes to me that the people for whom you worked have gone on their vacation, leaving you without employment. As you are the sole support of your family, and having a mother that is ill, has made it very difficult. You will find work very soon, and will be in a position to assume your responsibilities once again.

A HINT TO THE WISE

How much brains can a girl have without offending the opposite sex? The "dear things" may have all the knowledge they wish, but must not permit it to govern their lives to the extent that it will spoil their love-lives.

Women were built for love. Their entire existence from babyhood up, is fashioned for the Art of Love. The intellectual woman tends to hurt man'e ego, therefore he dodges her. As a general rule, he seeks the less brainy type that he might display his ability and intelligence.

Every girl should be allowed to develop her potentialities, but not to the extent that it will destroy her real purpose for existing that of a sweetheart, mother and homemaker. They are woman's main responsibilities, and it would be wise to remember them. Above all, Don't lose your femininity.

Dear Prof.:

I have been doing Spiritual work for a few years. Upon reading your column I became interested in your helping others. Thinking that this would interfere with my belief, I failed to write you at that time. A few weeks ago I wrote you and I am able to say that you have given me faith and aid in continuing my work.

B. P.—Are my friends intentions good?

Ans.—You have a real friend in this man, as there are only a few who have stuck by you in your troubles. His intentions are good, and he will prove himself a person worthy of your friendship as time goes on.

T. E. P.—Will the outcome of the lay off pending, affect me?

Ans.—My Psycho-Mentalist Crystal reveals that although this lay-off will affect you for a short period of time, you will be able to manage and will not feel the effects too badly.

A. M.—Will my husband recover his loss?

Ans.—It comes to me that your husband's gun was stolen May 30th, from your home. Every gun has a serial number, therefore it would be wise to report this. I vision your getting it back.

G. G. G.—Will I get what I am seeking?

Ans.—It appears that the little girl you have been trying to adopt will be turned over to you very soon. There is a series of investigations going on; this is causing the delay.

G. W. T.—Where can I locate W. T.?

Ans.—A careful analysis of this question shows that you have been seeking William for quite sometime to tell him of his mother's passing. He is now in Tenn. You will be aided in locating him thru the Bureau of Missing Persons.

H. C.—I received your most welcome letter, and found every word to be true. It was so interesting that I reread it several times. Your information took a heavy load off my shoulders and made me realize that I have a real friend. Thank you.

L. L.—What is wrong with my husband?

Ans.—Probing into this affair, I find that your husband seemingly lost interest in his family and you. If you will cultivate similar habits, do things in your home that will make him want to remain in the evenings, your home will become much happier.

N. R. D.—Will I get the money which is due me?

Ans.—According to your lucky stars and guiding planet, you will get the money which your brother willed you at his death. You consulted a lawyer a few days ago, but have grown impatient. Matters of this kind take sometime to clear up, but however, you will get the money.

M. B. R.—Will I get the job soon?

Ans.—My Psycho-Mentalist Crystal reveals that if you will contact people and agencies which employ persons in your line of work, you will receive a good job within the next few months.

Gas Company Elects New President

Retirement of the president and the chairman of the board, and election of a new president were announced today by the Southern California Gas Company, following a meeting of directors at the company's offices.

The two executives who will retire are Addison B. Day, board chairman, and Alexander B. Macbeth, president and general manager, both of whom will leave active service on Sept. 1. This is the date for their normal withdrawal from office under the company's long-established retirement plan. They both will continue as directors.

F. S. Wade, for many years president and general manager of Southern Counties Gas company, which is affiliated through Pacific Lighting Corporation with the Southern California Gas company, will succeed Macbeth.

Traffic Risk Grows With Waning Summer

Late summer usually heralds the advent of a definite rise in the traffic fatality curve and motorists are approaching a period of the year when there is increased need for careful driving according to the public safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California.

The general assumption is that the greatest number of vehicle deaths occur during the summer months, at the peak of the travel season, but statistics show this to be a mistaken idea, states the safety bureau.

SPRING IS LOW POINT

From the annual low point in early spring the fatality rate increases but slightly until the end of June, when a sudden rise takes place. However, there is no slackening of the toll with the end of summer and the subsequent decline in mileage traveled. Rather, the trend continues almost steadily upward and reaches its peak in December.

By determining the number of miles traveled per vehicle death during each month, spring and summer are shown to be the safest time of the year. The average rate for the three spring months is 13.0 deaths per 100,000,000 vehicle miles as compared with a rate of 17.8 for the four fall and winter months.

Sketch Subject: PRENTISS B. BROWN, . . . Maintenance Electrician.

By FLOYD C. COVINGTON

When opportunity knocked at the door of Prentiss B. Brown, he was quite ready and invited the elusive "madam" in and held fast to her forelock. He must have assuredly read, marked, and learned well the philosophy of the Shakespearean dictum that "There is a tide in the affairs of men, which taken at the flood leads on to fortune."

Brown is essentially a California product, mising by a mere two years the distinction of being a native son. He was born in Kirkwood, Missouri in 1902, and came to California with his family in 1902. His place in his family is unique in that he is the only son of the four children of Theodore and Lydia Brown of St. Louis, Missouri. Two sisters are deceased. The third lives in Ls Angeles.

Brown attributes his interest and aptitpde for electricity and mechanics to the encouragement of his father. The senior Brown was avocationally interested in mechanics and bought Prentiss innumerable electrical and mechanical toys which bridged the playtime activity between father and son. His mother, as Brown aptly puts it "was qualified to teach, but never taught. She aided greatly, however, in my academic training. She was known best as the first P.-T. A. president of Holmes Avenue School."

It was at Holmes Avenue School that Brown received his basic education. He is a graduate of Jefferson High School and a class mate of the late Leon Whittaker. His major work was taken in shop, electricity and drafting. Following graduation he extended his training in electrical sciences at Polytechnic high school. With his natural talent for his chosen field, supported by his formal training he began his career as electrical contractor in 1923 and continued in this capacity until 1926.

At this point the tide in his affairs changed and he applied for a position with the Marbelite Corporation of America, Ltd. This company manufactures ornamental concrete lighting standards for the highways of the various commonwealths. Brown was given the full responsibility for the maintenance of the electrical, mechanical, industrial and automotive equipment used by the Marbelite company in the manufacture of their products. How well he has done this is indicated by the fact that he has remained steadily with this company for more than 13 years to date.

With him is another outstanding member of his race, I. T. Keys, shop foreman and designer of a complete miniature steam engine and cars. As Brown rather lamentingly put it: "It is a tough break that there have not been more men with the proper training and skills who could take advantage of the opportunities offered to them by our organization. Both Keys and myself are making every effort—futile to date—to discover competent successors to ourselves".

The most stimulating story about Brown, however, took place in 1934. A big order for the designing and engineering of a set of standards for a prominent city was received by the company. The assistant engineer, responsible for the drafting and designing phase of the job took ill. In this crisis Brown was asked by the chief engineer whether he thought he could do the job. Here Dame Opportunity and Sire Preparednes met head on. "I can do it," stated this quiet, modest, but fully equipped electrician. The chief engineer said: "Come on, and I'll give you a trial." Brown did not only try but he delivered. He has been doing so since. He has continued to o all of the designing for all the new or remodeled standards requested by the various cities since that time. This chief engineer that gave him his first chance was tragically killed in 1935, but Brown has continued in his same capacity under the successor.

Doubtlessly, when the high-

Woodrow Wilson Learns to Respect Himself and His Race

● By Margaret S. Elliott

Woodrow Wilson Owens dashed into the music room just as the last whir of the electric bell ceased. He took his place in the row where sat four other Negro children, but before doing so he surveyed with bold, flashing eyes the rows of white pupils—his piercing glance seeking out the face of his enemy, Martin Hadlock, a tall, lean, tired-looking boy sitting in the back row. He was one of the many migrant children lately come to the Great Valley of California—fruit tramps and cotton pickers mostly. Martin was searching the pages of his music book, for Miss Norris, the music teacher, had just asked:

"Has anyone a favorite song he would like the class to sing?".

Martin lifted his hand halfway and lazily. "Number 419," he announced. Woodrow fluttered the leaves of his book and his quick eye caught the title "Old Black Joe." He slammed his book shut and slumped in his seat, a scowl settling down and entirely changing his appearance. He hoped Miss Norris would not accept the song. He heard four other books close. The class watched breathlessly. What would the teacher do? She calmly sounded her pitch pipe and all but the Negro children began to sing the well-known song.

Woodrow was bitterly disappointed and disgusted. What would he do? By the time the white children had sung the objectionable words—"old Black Joe" —twice, he had decided. As they began the second stanza, his clear soprano, strong and true, sounded through the room.

"My country, 'tis of thee,
sweet land of liberty,
Of thee——"

The class singing broke, faltered, and amid suppressed giggelts, stopped.

"Woodrow, you may leave the room, and see me after class." The teacher's voice was firm.

"Why? Don't you like my singing?" Woodrow asked innocently.

"This is the time for class singing—leave the room, please.

"O. K." Woodrow slowly dragged himself out, hating to leave the field to his enemy. He knew this was his problem—how to succeed in school, especially in music, and yet fight attacks upon himself and all Negroes. Hadn't Martin Hadlock called his cousin, Joe Rucker, "old black Joe" times without number? And wasn't he right to stand up for himself and his friends? But if he did, what would the teachers think? Bitterness descended upon him. His mind darted to worse defeats ahead.

On his way home from school after the interview with Miss Norris, Woodrow still felt lonely, discouraged and resentful. She had talked to him about overcoming his shame of race, and about doing well with whatever ability he had. Then she had given him a special challenge.

"The school Hallowe'en Carnival, Woodrow," she said, "is just two weeks away. There's to be the usual costume parade, and after it the giving of prizes for the best costumes and stunts." She told him that she would help him with his costume and practice his song with him if he would accept the challenge she suggested, which she felt sure would help him to overcome his resentment at any mention of race. "you can take the sting out of what Martin says to you only by showing him that you dont' mind it any more—that you are not ashamed of your people or your color," she had said. Could he believe that? If he did, could he do what she suggested? Wouldn't the white boys jeer at him even in the auditorium, and bring public shame on him? All that evening he thought about it, and couldn't decide what to do. For a time he hated the thought of school.

His parents and his older brothers left early as usual the next morning to work in the cotton fields. Wodrow's father said:

"Let's get to the fields early, boys and pick as many pounds as we can. If we don't, other folks will. With all those white trash people comin' for jobs, it's goin' to be a hard season for we'uns."

"PORE WHITE TRASH"

Woodrow heard him and understood. It made him hate Martin Hadlock all the more. "Pore white trash," he muttered as he and his two younger brothers left soon after. It was far too early for school, but who cared to stay around the shacks in South Gate Garden longer that he had to? The school yard was much more attractive. The Owens boys were joined by other Negro boys and girls and by 8 o'clock a group of a dozen or more Negro children entered the south gate to the school yard. At about the same time a group of children from "Oklahoma City" entered from the north side. They also were early because their parents had gone to work, too, their homes were only tents or shacks. Among them Woodrow spied Martin Hadlock, and across the yard he shouted,

"Pore white trash! Pore white trash! Comin' here to take other men's jobs away!

"Hi there, nigger, what's you telling about?" came back from Martin.

"Pore white trash!" again shouted Woodrow, and then noticing that one of the white boys carried a ball he said to the Negro boys, "See that ball? Let's rush 'em and git it."

The whole group of Negroes dashed pell mell across the yard. The white boys saw them coming and drew closer together. One buttoned his coat around the ball and folded his arms across it. At the first onslaught the boy with the ball threw himself face downwards and the contending parties fought over his prostrate body. Soon many were down in a madly struggling heap. Martin and Woodrow found each other, and all Wodrow's pent-up rage burst forth in powerful blows. Soon Martin was down, with Woodrow struggling to keep him there and punish him. At this stage of the fray around the corner of the school building came Mr. Roberts, the shop teacher, and 8th grade boys.

"Well, what's this! Let's sort them out, fellows, and see what the scrap's about," Mr. Roberts directed.

After some little difficulty, the boys were separated, but Mr. Roberts saw it was no time for talking.

"Let's all go to the wash room and clean up," he suggested, "and then we'll see what this fuss is about."

After caring for bloody noses and washing away dust and dirt, Woodrow and Martin were sent to the principal's office to explain. Later Woodrow, with one eye swollen and a cut on his chin, was allowed to go to his classroom, but Martin, having both eyes badly swollen and numerous bruises, was kept in the Health Room for the day.

For the rest of the week a great conflict continued in Woodrow's mind. Would he be expelled from school? His father had been summoned to see the principal. The school board members were meeting to discuss the matter. All the forces of the community seemed to be against him—except his teachers. He had to believe that they were for him and wanted to help him. Miss Norris had encouraged him to practice his song, and now suggested that it be sung not as a solo but as a duet.

"You and Larry Larsen sing together in class sometimes—wouldn't you like to have Larry with you in this one?" she asked.

"Oh, do you think he would—with me—before all those people and in costumes?"

"Why, yes, I think he would—he's a pretty good scout, you know. In any case, we can ask him. I'll see him today about it and let you know. But remember, you mustn't let him down if he comes in on this! You have to see it through, and show that you are not just a boy who's always fighting and mean. It's up to you, Woodrow!" And she left him to think it over. Could he do this stunt? Would white people listen to him even with Larry singing too? The boys might shame him, he feared, and call out "Nigger! Nigger!" Even in his dreams at night, he heard that dreaded word.

Meanwhile, the Hallowe'en Carnival was approaching. Many boys and girls were making their own costumes. The school band was practicing and marching, for it was to lead the costume parade. There would be booths for candy, popcorn, sandwiches, fortune telling, and many other exciting things. The climax of the evening was the auditorium program and the prize giving.

Two days before the carnival, Wodrow decided to talk his situation over with his mother. He couldn't bear the weight of his own thoughts alone any longer. Besides he needed someone to help him decide what to do. His mother listentd while she was washing the dishes in the evening after a hard day's work in the cotton fields. When he finished, she said,

"Yore music teacher wants you to do this?"

"Yes, she says it will put me right with the school and myself if I show I'm not ashamed of bein' a Negro."

'An' you is hesitatin' because you is afraid of the word nigger?' Then you ain't no chile of mine. Didn't Booker T. Washington hear that word often an' live it down? You do as yore teacher wants and never mind what happens. I wants no cowards among my boys."

After hearing this straightforward expression of opinion, Woodrow felt better, but not yet quite sure of how he was going to act. However he and his mother made some preparations —"Jest so I can do whatever I want to at the last minute," he told himself, but he didn't voice these thoughts to his mother.

When the Owenses reached the school yard on Hallowe'en night it was a gay scene. A great full moon hung in the dark sky, almost as if a glowing jack-o-lantern had been transferred from earth to heaven. Gaily costumed children shouted and called to one another as partners were chosen for the parade. Groups of fathers and mothers hurried about looking after little ones and laughing at the strange appearance of many. All was good-humored fun and frolic.

THE PROCESSION

At last the parade was off! What a procession—tall, ghunt ghosts, clowns with jack-o-lanterns faces—black cats riding on their shoulders—and many, many brownies and dark imps of mischief. A group of Negro boys not in costume followed the parade, calling to their masked friends, and enjoying themselves and the occasion immensely. Woodrow Wilson Owens was among them, and not even the sight of a crowd of boys from "Oklahoma City" served to lessen his pleasure. He had caught the spirit of the evening—would it carry him when 'mikado—in swing' cast surprised miniature 'koko' on his birthday

DONALD BROWN, nine-year old "Miniature Koko" of the "Mikado—In Swing," now in its sixth week at the El Capitan in Hollywood, is seen in center preparing to blow out the candles on his surprise birthday cake. Members of the cast, directors, stage hands and officials of the company executed a complete surprise and held a big party for Donald on the stage after matinee performance. Donald is also a young veteran of the screen, and is one of the highest salaried child players in Hollywood.

How it feels to be a little boy only 9-years old, yet earning more than a hundred dollars a week, and receiving the plaudits of the highest movie and stage directors, is an experience most any youngster would consider a fairyland dream. But this is the life 9-year old Donald Brown, talented son of Anita Brown, widely known featured player, lives each day.

Donald is at present scoring nightly triumphs as a star of "Mikado—In Swing," which has been packing crowds in for both matinee and night performaces at the El Capitan Theatre in Hollywood. He is the miniature of "Koko," in the colorful production which is being predicted as a "Mikado" to top all Mikados.

As evidence of the affection all the staff and cast have for the personable, unspoiled youngster, a big surprise birthday party was planned by cast and producers and held on the stage of the El Capitan, on the occasion of his ninth birthday a week ago. There were over a hundred guests present, who swarmed upon the stage immediately after the fall of the matinee curtain, bearing a huge beautiful cake, and choice refreshments.

The cake was given by director Leftwich of "Mikado—In Swing" and piles of presents were presented by the guests. Among the members of the cast present were Wm. Gillespie, Billy Mitchell, Gertrude Saunders, James Miller, Alonzo Fair, Anita Brown, Marguerite Chapman and others.

Guests from oustide the cast included "Deacon" Sam McDaniels, Mrs. Lidya Mae Whitel, Mrs. Odessa Brown, grandmother of Donald; Lillian Randolph, Mrs. Tallman and son, and Mrs. Winston.

Donald, who sings, dances and carries dialogue lines excellently, is really a young veteran in stage and screen work. With his mother Anita, playing the part of his screen mother, and Stepin Fetchit, his father, his first picture was "The World Moves On," at Fox Studio. In two other pictures and on one radio program, he played as the screen son of his real mother.

Donald's most recent vehicle was in MGM's "A Day at the Circus," starring the four Marx Brothers. Without missing a day from the "Mikado—In Swing," he worked under contract to MGM at $100 a week. So important was he to the picture that on one week-end when a recording could not be completed in time to allow Donald to report punctually for the El Capitan production, the recording was postponed until the following Monday, and the rest of the players dismissed.

Among other pictures of his past are "St. Louis Blues," "Can This be Dixie," and "Artists and Models Abroad." His mother, the talented Anita worked in all the Will Rogers pictures and was one of his favorite supporting players. These included "David Harum;" others were "Big Broadcast," "Charlie Chan in Egypt," and "Born to Dance."

BY FREDDY DOYLE

During my five months stay in the northern part of the State this year, I had an opportunity to study the welfare of the musicians in that vicinity from the standpoint of union affiliation, and to my surprise I learned that the Negro doesn't stand a chance when it comes to affiliating with the white musicians' locals around those parts. It's really surprising that the American Federation of Musicians Union headquarters would permit such a discriminatory policy. There is no doubt that these conditions are known.

As everyone knows, northern California is unionized in all trades and of course, common sense will tell you that unless you can join a Union a person cannot exist, because there is not much possibility of "scabbing." I was told that the source of discriminatory practice originated from the San Francisco branch which dominates the small Locals within a hundred miles radius. If a colored musician who lives in 'Frisco would seek to join the white Local of that city, he would be referred to the Negro Branch in Oakland, which because of some unknown reason, is a subsidiary of the 'Frisco Local. In some of the major cities, such as New York and Detroit, there is just one branch of the American Federation of Musicians, having large memberships of both colored and white. In Sacramento, a certain colored swing band had possibilities of playing in a number of popular night clubs, but the places of business being strictly Union, it was necessary for the band to be Union, but after tiresome efforts to join the branch union there, they just gave up the idea in disgust because of discrimination. Even in this Local as well as the one in 'Frisco, there are members of other darker races such as Hawaiians, Mexicans, etc., but it seems to be that this discrimination against the Negro musician has been practiced for a long time, and there doesn't seem to be any immediate solution for this problem unless Mr. Webber, president of the American Federation of Musicians, put forth an effort to stop such a practice. He is the only person who has the power to do so.

covans' revue draws praise

Playing to almost capacity houses for two nights, Florence and Willie Covan's juvenile revue, "Harlem to Hollywood", scored a decided hit last Thursday and Friay at the Embassy auitorium.

The "clown" number and finale were the highspots of the Covan presentation, an annual affair. A well-paced revue, song and dance numbers and a capable little mistress of ceremonies drew round after round of applause from audiences both nights.

ONCE DANCE TEACHER

elsa maxwell's 'hotel for women' glamor-girl hit at united artists

More fun than any party Elsa Maxwell ever gave is her first movie, Elsa Maxwell's "Hotel For Women," which is now playing at the United Artists Theatre, 933 S. Broadway. Elsa's the world-famous life of the party who's been everywhere, seen everything and in this cosmopolitan production for 20th Century-Fox, she tells plenty. Elsa says: "Take the light things seriously and the serious things lightly" and how the audiences take to the smart, beautiful young things who do just that in the film!

The production is jam-packed with girls and glamor; there are girls who'll go to your head, girls who'll go to your heart, office girls in love with their bosses, girls on the make for fame, girls looking for life in a penthouse, girls longing for love in a cottage, girls who want a good address and a liberal education—it's a world of girls on their own, with Elsa to guide them (and they couldn't have picked a better one!)

Darryl F. Zanuck has handpicked a stellar cast for the film, which features Ann Sothern, Linda Darnell, James Ellison, Jean Rogers, Lynn Bari, Joyce Compton, Elsa herself, John Halliday, Katherine Aldridge, Alan Dinehart and Sidney Blackmer.

The film is as wise and witty as it is glamorous (and there's plenty of glamor, with much of the action set in Manhattan's smartest spots.) Elsa inimitably comes across with such nifties as: "You can't get to the top without men—the dogs!—I don't care what you say! "Cocktail parties are only given for people not good enough to be asked for dinner." "When a girl wears five different fur pieces in two weeks, you can't be blamed for suspecting that she traps her own animals."

As a companion feature, the United Artists Theatre, 9?? S. Boradway is offering Peter Lorre in/"Mr. Moto Takes A Vacation," with Joseph Schildkraut. Don't miss this excellent program, Elsa Maxwell's "Hotel For Women" and Peter Lorre in 'Mr. Moto Takes A Vacation," now playing at the United Artists Theatre, 9th and Broadway.

hite turns late swing number over to Benny

During Benny Goodman's last broadcast from the Pacific Coast, Les Hite was a guest at the broadcasting studio. Hite was paying honor to Lionel Hampton, featured musician with the Goodman aggregation and a former drummer for Hite, one time Cotton Club Orchestr leader.

Les turned over one of his latest compositions to the famed swing man and in the future swing fans hearing "Board Meeting", can rest assured that Goodman has placed his stamp of approval on the number. When he left the Coast, Goodman assured Hite that he would give the number a nationwide hearing as soon as he can get it spotted in his progrm.

The entry of Jimmie McDaniels, local youth who won the American Tennis association singles and doubles crowns at Hampton this month, was received by the Oakland tournament committee this week.

The committee is awaiting the possible entry also, of Mrs. Flora Lomax of Detroit, national women's queen, who has intimated she may participate.

Play will get underway at 8 o'clock Saturday morning with competitors expected from as far south as San Diego and as far north as Seattle, Washington. Drawings will be held at noon tomorrow at the Oakland YWCA, tournament headquarters.

McDaniels will meet his keenest competition, in defense of the P. C. title, in two Pasadenans, "Slick" Stocks, dethroned by McDaniels last September after a 9-year reign; and Jackie Robinson, Southern California champion. Northern California has two threats in Edward Toppins and "Schoolboy" Mitchell.

Reports are that Stocks, onetime No. 1 man at the University of Southern California, is in fine fettle and primed for a meeting with the only man ever to master him on a California court. Robinson, a comparative newcomer, is given an even chance of gaining the finals and meeting McDaniels, although it is not expected he could take the L. A. boy.

DOUBLES FRAY

Paired with his brother, Al, McDaniels will attempt an onslaught of the doubles title. The two were among many teams defeated by the invincible Stocks-Ford (Paul) duo. Other serious contenders for the doubles trophy are Mitchell and Dempsey, (Richard); Toppins and Wilson, (Lionel); and Marion Wildy and Lefty Johnson.

The presence fo Mrs. Lomax would be a boon to the otherwise drab women's competition. Miss Juliette Harris, P. C. champ, will not defend her many-times held title, because of a recent illness. Mrs. Gwen Roberson, one time Coast queen and present Southern Cal champ, is also temporarily out of competition.

The South's feminine colors will be upheld by veterans Elyse Buie, Carribelle Scott and Otis V. Wiggins. Mrs. Mayme Stewart and Miss Lulu Chapman are the North's best bets.

Keen competition will be evinced in the junior singles with defending champion, Leonard Fuller, seriously threatened by several youngsters from his own bailiwick, in addition to Northerners.

way and bridge departments of the various cities peruse the Marbelite catalog in making selections for the lighting standards for their streets, the simple initials (P.B.B.) in the little square accompanying each design does not suggest that Brown is brown. Where skill and performance meet the highest tests the superficial barrier of darkness disappears as the nocturnal shadows dissipate with the light streaming from the sodium vapor and incandescent lights poised a-top the cement standards engineered by Brown.

His work includes 43 standards on Bay Shore Highway in San Francisco; 50 on Barham Boulevard dotting National City in Ventura; several standards of his design in Rosemead and at 101 Alternate at Alemeda; with the most spectacular standard at Lankershim Boulevard at the Southern Pacific Railroad underpass. The State of California may use this type of standard, utilizing the more economical sodium vapor lamp, in lieu of other standards featuring incadescent lighting. And recently an order of 220 re-designed standards were shipped to Honolulu, topping the list of Brown's engineering achievements to date. . .

"It is absolutely necessary to have training first . . . color is a handicap until an emergency arises. If you are not able to meet the opportunity based on skill, you lose out . . . There is a need for a rounded out vocational training rather than highly specialized training," says Brown.

Jimmy McDaniels Capable of Crashing 'White' Tennis

By ALMENA DAVIS

The newest sensation from California shores returned home this week after successful, to say the least, forays into the Eastern and Southern tennis worlds. That is, of course, Jimmy McDaniels, local boy who went contrarywise to Horace Greeley's advice, yet made good.

Los Angeles has been polishing up its personal pronouns, its accolades of praise for weeks, ever since snub-nosed Jimmy began setting the strictly segregated tennis world on fire. It's been "OUR Jimmy with a BRILLIANT future" since the youth started last Spring to raise the level of Negro tennis.

It is significant that the national champion is "from California", in the press raves, rather than "of California". With characteristic nearsightedness, we let him drift around here for a year after high school graduation. Ralph Metcalfe, scouting for Xavier university down in New Orleans, snapped him up.

TOPS IN A YEAR

Lanky, sun-burned McDaniels rose from obscurity to the top of Negro tennis in less than a year. And there are no flies on that statement. Negroes play better tennis, dispite jim crow competition, than they do either golf or football. Young and talented, McDaniels has the stuff in him to become a top-notcher in the lily-white game, if given the chance.

At Hampton, Va., two weeks ago where the most fashionable, polite and proper sport fans you ever want to see, gathered for the 23rd annual Nationals, Jimmy carried off three cups, the national and intercollegiate singles and the national doubles. In the Nationals he licked, for the second time, the East's pride and joy, Dr. Reginald Weir. The first occasion had been the New York open a few weeks previous.

Jimmy had lots of praise for Weir's tennis, and well he might. The handsome doctor, playing for New York U, came pretty near to crashing big-time circles some years ago. McDaniels said he beat Weir by keeping him on the run. Because Weir makes "nice placements" and hits the ball "on the rise", it would never have done to let him "get set".

Richard Cohen of Xavier, from whom Jimmy first took the intercollegiate crown and then made his double partner, is the hardest player our hero runs up against. That's because the two play together so much that Cohen knows McDaniels' game.

2 LOSSES

Out of ten tournaments played this season, the former Manual Arts High student has lost two. Rain, which takes frequent advantage of that Southern hospitality to "drop in anytime", beat him in both instances. The occasions were the Prairie View Open, with Lloyd Scott winning and the North Carolina Open, Chris Hunt, victor.

With the exception of grass, Mac says he has played on every kind of court there is, clay, gravel, cement, hardwood, and asphalt. Down South the courts are either gravel or clay. Here they are cement and up North, asphalt.

If he gets by the Pacific Coast's offering in this week-end's tournament at Oakland, Mc Daniels faces a blank wall. There won't be anyone else to beat. For the man who is still going up, that's a serious situation.

How far McDaniels will go in tennis depends as much on the fuss raised to break down barriers in "white" tennis, as on his own ability.

Last March the EAGLE carried a story about McDaniels and Cohen being admitted to the national intercollegiate tournament at Annapolis; but nothing more was ever heard of it.

Jimmy said this week that they didn't play. They received an invitation because Xavier pays $50.00 a year to the athletic association sponsoring the tournament, but their applications were never answered.

Jimmy got his picture in the Time magazine this week with a laudatory account of his game. Next to the front page of the New York Times, that is about the highest press recognition to be gotten nowadays, so it might be inferred that the time is ripe for something to be done about getting over said hurdles to the "cosmopolitan" tennis world.

DUARTE "SOFTIES" DEFEAT DINUBA

MONROVIA, Aug. 1—The Duarte Colored Girls' Softball team administered a tidy 17-7 defeat to the Dinuba team at Dinuba last Saturday. In three cars and a station wagon, a caravan of 20 Monrovians followed the girls to their game.

Wilson's Hot Leather 'Cools' Cool

The crackling fists of Jackie Wilson, the sensational young kayo artist, seared the sheet-white features of Eddie Cool of Philadelphia, at the Olympic auditorium Tuesday night and Cool withstood the effects of the hot leather up to the end of the fourth round, being counted out by referee Jack Kennedy just as the bell rang.

Cool was Wilson's eighth consecutive knockout victim. Boasting an impressive record in eastern rings, Cool looked out of condition as he squared off against Wilson.

The weaving tactics of the easterner bothered Wilson in the first three rounds, being unable to connect solidly with one of his whistling right hands. In the fourth canto, however, Wilson maneuvered Cool into a corner and poured cooling leather on Cool and when he backed up, Cool fell — definitely cool.

Wilson came in the ring at 137½; Cool two pounds heavier.

LEMOS VS. MARCUS

Next Tuesday night at the Olympic, Matchmaker Jimmy Murray offers a rematch, featuring Ricardo Lemos and Eddie Marcus, junior lightweights. The last time out, Lemos staged a stirring finish to nose out Marcus.

The preliminaries Tuesday night saw Johnny Petry decision Jimmy Lane who appeared inexperienced for the spot he was in. The bout was the six-round semi-windup. In another six-rounder, referee Benny Whitman gave Chico Romo a draw with Henry Majscher; Miller Fonseca nodded Hut Thompson in a four, Thompson tiring in the last heat; Clarence Enos decisioned Eddie Rivera; and Nate Corum lost the opener to Hal Bell.

Grant's Ace Pitches No-Hit Shutout

Playing in the annual Examiner Softball tournament, Ted Sifton, ace pitcher of Grant's All-Stars, turned in a no-hit, no-run performance Tuesday night when the All-Stars beat Bulcher softies 9 to 0 at Harvard playground.

HARRIS ANNOUNCES GRID PRACTICE

GREENSBORO, Aug. 31, — Homer Harris, newly appointed head coach of A. and T. college, fresh from the flank post at the University of Iowa, announced here this week that football practice will begin September 5.

HISTRIONIC ANCESTRY

Harry Davenport, featured today with Lynne Overman and Virginia Dale in Paramount's "Death of a Champion," is able to trace his histrionic ancestry back to the year 1680.

through? Later, as the parade was returning bound for the auditorium, he disappeared for a few minutes, and as the happy, excited line of costumed figures passed a thick clump of shrubbery, he joined it, but so transformed that no one knew him. He had decided to meet the challenge, but he was trembling at his own daring. That crowd of people, and Martin Hadlock among them!

Inside the auditorium all was light, laughter and applause. Across the stage already had started those who wished to compete—elves, brownies, ghosts, and more realistic figures—cowboys with banjos, the "hayseed" farmer carrying an immense pumpkin jack-o-lantern, a nobo or two, Popeye the sailor man—each did his stunt of speech, song or dance with Miss Norris at the piano when needed. The sound of the piano encouraged Woodrow—he mustn't fail Miss Norris—but during the moments of applause he wanted to slip out. Miss Norris, catching a glimpse of his face and sensing what was in his mind, sent Larry to him, saying, "Bring him on, Larry, when I give the signal, just as we've practiced."

At last it came, and beside Larry in his Sharecropper's costume Woodrow took his pose as his mother had shown him, and, bent and trembling, shuffled to the center of the stage—a perfect representation of an aged Negro cotton-picker with his long white bag trailing behind. Applause thundered through the building, then quieted at the sound of the piano, and the boys faced the audience, Woodrow's hands fiercely grasping his bag to steady them. The notes of the song they were to sing sounded to calm and reassure him. His voice came clear and true:

"Gone are the days when my heart was young and gay," but he was glad of Larry's confident support on:

"I hear those angel voices calling—Old black Joe."

Woodrow never knew how he escaped from the stage to a seat beside his mother at the back of the auditorium. He came to himself when Mr. Woods, the principal, rose to announce the awarding of the prizes. Mr. Woods spoke first of the difficulty the judges had experienced in making decisions among so many. There were three prizes for the girls and three for the boys who had taken part. Woodrow didn't listen to the awarding of the girls' prizes, but his ear caught the principal's words again as he said, "The third prize for boys is awarded to Manuel Ortez for his Mexican costume and his instrumental music; the second to Mike Sullivan for his American hobo costume and his Irish clog dance; and the first prize, the judges and the audience agree, shown by the aplause, is awarded to Woodrow Wilson Owens and Larry Larsen for their American cotton-picker impersonation and their singing of "Old Black Joe."

As the boys went forward to receive their prizes, the audience again showed appreciation of their performance, but only Woodrow heard and understood the principal's words when he said, "Keep this in memory of the victory you have gained over yourself, Woodrow, and remember that you as well as others have a part in building this country."

Woodrow's head swam. As he and his mother with trembling fingers undid the string and wrappings, his eyes swam as well, and his mother read the title of the book for him—"The Life of Booker T. Washington."

"Challenge again," he thought, 'will it never end?" And a voice within him seemed to answer, "Not if you meet each one bravely as it comes. All life is challenge; hadn't his teachers told him so?" And he slipped out quietly into the dark to think about it all.

Pasadena Sox Win State Crown

Robinson Sparks Sox to 2-Game Win Over Fresno

PASADENA, Aug. 31—Sparked by Jackie Robinson, the Pasadena Sox won the California State Amateur Baseball championship here Sunday at Brookside Park by defeating the Fresno Augie Fries nine, 7 to 3, for their second consecutive win.

Robinson, who will enter UCLA in September, and Nate Moreland, Sox pitcher, divided starring honors in the game Saturday. Moreland limited the Fresno team to two hits, pitching masterful ball for a 10 to 3 victory.

In the game Sunday, Robinson scored the first two Sox runs, on an error and later when he singled, he stole four bases, figured in a double play, and was credited with five assists, racing into deep left center to take a fly ball on one occasion.

The Sox nine, sponsored by the Chicago White Sox, was presented the Ty Cobb trophy, emblematic of the state title.

Simmons to Play With Pros

PATTERSON, (N. J.), Aug. 31, —The great Ozzie Simmons, famed halfback from the University of Iowa, now recreation director for Chicago parks, will take time off this Fall to play professional football with the Patterson Panthers, with whom he starred in 1937. Simmons has been granted a four month's leave from Sept. 1 to Dec. 21.

The Panthers are members of the American Association of pro football teams. Simmons is the only Negro on the squad.

Mead and Weill Draw Suspensions

NEW YORK, Aug. 31—The New York boxing commission suspended for 13 months Eddie Mead as manager and second, because he insulted referee Arthur Donovan during last week's Ambers-Armstrong lightweight title tilt. Donovan took five rounds from Armstrong on fouls.

Weill, pilot of lightweight champion Lou Ambers, was suspended as manager and second for four months for arguing with Donovan in the same fight and for coaching Ambers from the corner.

Riverside Ace Scores 296 to Cop UGA

Men's Amateur and Women's Amateur Titles to Chicago

With Cliff Strickland of Riverside, blazing the way, major honors in the United Golf Association tournament stay in California this year as all but two crowns were captured by Californians.

Strickland, one of three brothers in the tournament hosted by the West Coast Golf club, scored a 296 for 72 holes. The defending champion, Howard Wheeler of Atlanta, could do no better than a 310.

A large gallery followed the favorites around the Harding course at Griffith Park during the four-day competition in which golfers from all over the country competed for $300 in prize money and trophies.

The slightly built Strickland teamed up with Sigmund Smith to score 67 in winning the Pro-Amateur championship.

CHICAGO WINNERS

G. A. Price of Chicago, won the amateur title when he beat Dr. Remus Robinson of Chicago, 6 and 4. J. A. Buchanan, Pasadena, won consolation to the championship, downing Jack Clisby of Los Angeles, 3 and 2. Archie Hairston, with a 4 and 3 was first flight winner over Ivan Johnson. The winner of consolation to first flight was G. L. Smith with a 5 and 4 score over Eddie Atkinson. Warren Vinston took the measure of H. Allen 5 and 4 to win the second flight. The third flight was won by Virgil Ward with a 3 and 2 over Noble Crouch. And Fred Cumbass of Pasadena was the third flight consolation victor, downing Theophilis Smith of Los Angeles.

The women's amateur title was won by Miss Geneva Wilson of Chicago. Miss A. Davis was vanquished by the champion. Martha Clisby, of Pasadena, a comparative newcomer, was the consolation victor, downing Anne Black, of Chicago, 4 and 3. First flight winner was Cleo Ball of Chicago, Ella Moffitt of Indianapolis, falling 7 and 5.

BROTHER TIES

Earl Strickland, brother of Cliff, tied for second place with Earl Marshall of New Orleans in the open event. Both had a 303.

Ed Strickland, another of the brothers, and Jack Clisby were runner-ups with 68 in the Pro-Amateur competition.

The Scotch foursome victors were William Bryant of Chicago and Cleo Ball with 102.

Prizes for long distance driving among the men were taken by Jaime Moreno of Chicago and O. R. Jackson of Los Angeles, both of whom drove the pellet 312 yards. Cleo Ball took the prize among the women with a drive of 203 yards.

Jim Crow Enters Davis Cup Play

CHESTNUT HILLS, (Mass.), Aug. 31,—Two Southern white tennis players lost their chance for the Davis Cup last week because of color prejudice. The two defaulted matches to two Filipinos after refusing to play the youths because of their race.

The whites were Richard McKee and J. A. Mahoney of Miami Beach, Fla. The Filipinos, Felicisima Ampon and Amado Sanchez, were the first non-Caucasians to be admitted to the Davis Cup matches.

...newspaper is an institution developed by and for the people of this community to present the News of the day, foster Better Race Relations, Lead Public Opinion and to contend for the Constitutional Rights of all times and in all public institutions and places for all people.

...e that goeth about as a talebearer revealeth secrets: therefore meddle not ...h him that flattereth with his lips."—Proverbs 20:19.

In Time of War--Scare

In time of war scares, the British ...ublic automatically turns its gaze ...on the editorial columns of The ...ondon Times. Opinions once gar...ered from this source, public opin...n forms with solid English fervor.

Although there is no legitimate ...uplicate in the American press for ...ch an influential editorial column, ...e closest approximate to it in Am...ica may be found, appropriately ...ough, in The New York Times.

Over a period of many years, The ...mes has distinguished itself as be...g very nearly void of 'bull'—'bull' ...ing a commodity very heavily uti...ed by most other American journ...s. Thus, The New York Times has ...aduated into a realm of rare journ...istic trust in the United States. ...nce the paper can be depended up... not to spout pious defenses of de...ocracy during each crisis, and since ...does employ a fine group of "for...gn affairs experts", The New York ...mes' editorial columns become in...resting, if not significant, just now. Hence, we quote from the editor... columns of The Times of last Sun...y, the edition for which the publi...tion's weightiest opinions are re...rved.

We quote:

THE AMERICAN ATTITUDE

"The various 'surveys' of public ...inion undertaken in recent years ...ve obvious shortcomings. No mat... how honest, careful or disinter...ted they may be, they can ques...n only 'representative samples' of ...e population, and there is always ...e possibility that a sample may ...ove to be accurately representa...ve. The answers they obtain de...nd very greatly upon the precise ...rm in which a question is asked. ...ften a question is asked before ...despread public discussion has had ... opportunity to clarify its implica...ns, and after this discussion oc...rs, public opinion will sometimes ...ift. (The surveys of popular opin...n showed an increasing majority ...gainst the President's Supreme ...ourt plan, for example, as the pub... debate proceeded.) Finally, there ...always likely to be a considerable ...teration in opinion when people are ...ced, not with a question based on ...vaguely hypothetical future situa...n, but with such a situation in all ...s immediate actuality.

"Yet these opinion surveys, for all ...eir shortcomings, are probably the ...st guide we have on some ques...ns to the attitude of our people. ...hat they show regarding the Am...ican attitude in the event of a ma... war in Europe is extremely inter...ting. When the Gallup survey ...ithin the last few weeks asked: 'If ...gland and France have a war with ...ermany and Italy, do you think the ...nited States will be drawn in?'— ...ree persons in four with opinions ...eclared that they did think the ...nited States would be drawn in. ...One-fourth of those interviewed ...ad no definite opinion.) As com...ared with the 76 per cent, in this ...test survey, who thought that the ...nited States would be drawn in, ...nly 57 per cent thought so in Janu...ry of this year and only 38 per cent ...hought so in January of 1937.

"This change in opinion undoubt...dly reflects in large part a harden...ng attitude toward Germany since ...he Munich settlement, as well as a ...rowing belief that our own destiny ...ould be involved in the outcome of ...uch a war. Asked why they thought ...he United States would be drawn in, ...hose interviewed in the Gallup sur...ey gave three chief reasons: (1) ...American sympathies with Great Bri...ain and France, and disapproval of ...the Nazi and Fascist regimes. (2) American commercial ties with Britain and France. (3) Fear of a defeat for 'the democracies'. Of those who think we would eventually be 'drawn in', however, only five persons think that we would send troops abroad to help England and France to eight who think that we would send war materials but no troops. Previous surveys have shown that less than a fifth of our people feel that we ought to send troops abroad to fight in a European war.

"An interesting supplement to these results comes from the Fortune survey. In this less than 20 per cent of those asked felt that there are 'any international questions affecting the United States so important to us in the long run that our Government should take a stand on them now, even at the risk of our getting into war". In reply to the question whether, if France and England go to war against the dictator nations, we should 'send our army and navy abroad to help them", only 3 per cent of those asked thought we should do so immediately, 25 per cent thought we should do so 'only if it is clear they are losing', 66 per cent thought we should not do so at all, and only a small remnant of 6 or 7 per cent was undecided. Yet asked: "Do you think we should continue to trade with the dictator nations if they declare war against other nations?' less than 18 per cent thought we should, 21 per cent were undecided, and 61 per cent definitely thought we should not.

"These replies, as well as other indications, point to certain inconsistencies in the recent popular American attitude on these grave questions (which may since have been greatly affected by the events of the last week). There are evidently a large number of our citizens who think they can eat their cake and have it too. They want very strongly to 'keep America out of war', and yet they seem willing to take steps that would be a clear violation of neutrality. They want us to send France and England supplies and munitions, and to boycott the dictator nations, while remaining strictly at peace. Some of them, no doubt, believe that this could be done in effect though not in form, as a mere result of the probability that England will be in complete command of the seas. But others seem to believe that we could be officially partisan in our actions and still remain at peace; or that it would be entirely within our own control to involve ourselves to a certain predetermined extent and no farther; and all this is much more doubtful.

"No doubt it is altogether unlikely that Americans, today any more than in 1914, will conform to Woodrow Wilson's counsel to be 'neutral in thought as well as in action'. But whatever course we adopt, we must at least consider carefully the implications of our words and acts. We cannot choose irreconcilable courses. We must ask where each of our steps is leading. The issue of neutrality or participation must be decided by clear-headed choice, not by inadvertence or misapprehension."

Not the Roll of Drums!

Monday is Labor Day.

Members of the labor unions will parade the streets of the cities of the United States. It is the laborer's day. The world is more conscious of the power of Labor today than ever before. Yet, it is nothing new, this power of Labor.

More than 1900 years ago, the Great Teacher dropped a few quiet words on the ears of his listeners. To the audience of that day, laborers oppressed by the burdens of their tasks they could not understand.

Monday, when those laborers march rather defiantly up and down the streets of the cities of the United States, methinks the echoes of that voice will come down nineteen hundred years . . . "And whosoever will be chief among you, let him be your servant".

THE SALESMAN SUCCEEDS THOUGH NOTHING succeeds like success, it's a rare success that doesn't bring forth a Doubting Thomas to challenge it.

As a case in point, Doubting Thomas has attacked advertising, but the evidence continues to roll up against him.

First, the Brookings Institute, in an exhaustive study, supplied names, dates, and figures of how advertising, far from increasing the costs of the goods Mrs. Housewife buys, not only reduces price, but stimulates production, creates jobs, and is a healthy factor in our economic life.

Next, a newly completed survey of America's network food stores, which operate on the principle of low-cost turnover, reveals them as one of the country's most faithful users of advertising. Yet the cost item chalked up to advertising in their budgets actually results in lower prices to the customer by reason of increased demand. This survey gives further answer to the "why" of advertising, but it also supplies a clue to the "where" of advertising. For every dollar spent by these retail groups for radio time 10 dollars went to newspaper advertising.

That the local newspaper is the community's best salesman and buying counselor finds additional proof in a door-to-door check up recently conducted in several cities by the University of Chicago's School of Business. It found the home-town newspaper outranking in effectiveness all other mediums.

"VANISHING" AMERICANS

Though the vanishing Indian has been rapidly taking on the whiteman's ways, one word he refuses to understand is "vanishing."

The coppery-skinned American is, in fact, increasing number at greater pace than are his white brothers. Dr. James G. Townsend, medical director of the Indian Service, reports that the Indian population in the United States is gaining at the rate of 8 per thousand compared to a rate of 5.8 per thousand in the white population.

It has only been within comparatively recent years that the redskinned Americans have begun staging their comeback. In the year Columbus first touched the shores of the New World the Indian population was 846,000 according to recent estimates.

But the scourges of war, famine, and disease, so decimated their ranks during the following centuries that their ranks had fallen to 294,547 by 1865. Since then, however, the "vanishing American" has been in need of a new name. With a present population of 342,497, and a birth rate promising no dearth of bright-eyed papooses in the future, Indians at least don't have to learn the meaning of "vanishing". They won't need it.

HIS FAMILY'S GROWING

Uncle Sam's official family continues to grow. The number of Federal employees in June numbered 925,260 which, say civil service statisticians is the largest family the government has had on its payroll in history. The World War, it is interesting to note, failed to rally such an army of employees into government service, for the wartime peak, it is estimated, rose to only 918,000d. Including those who are on state or federal payrolls as relief clients, and those dependent on such clients, we have a figure approaching 20 million. Next year's census takers will do a service by carefully enumerating those who are not in the government's family!

TURNSTILES CLICK

The click of the turnstiles in the San Francisco Bay region ought to give economists more ammunition for proving the merits of the low cost —large turnover principle.

The Fair on Treasure Island has pulled itself out of the red into the black for the last two months by staging a host of spectacular shows and supplying entertainment by some of the nations' leading dance orchestras, all of this free of charge to the public.

The Bay Bridge by paring its toll to 40 cents a few weeks ago found its cash registers had taken in $466,771 during the month of July. That it was a 21 per cent better showing than last ear's July recorded.

Undoubtedly, the parade of visitors to the Fair helped account for a goodly number of the 1,093,502 cars—a record-setting figure— which used the bridge last month, but it will be surprising if that 20 per cent reduction in the toll charge doesn't continue giving proof that the more-for-your-money principle is a principle that works.

NO THANKS FOR THANKSGIVING?

In all the lively hub-bub over Thanksgiving Day, in which November 23 celebrants find themselves pitted against adherents of November 30, two things seem to have been overlooked. One is poor Tom Turkey. After dutifully fattening himself, month in and month out, he's going to get in the neck, anyway, regardless of how traditionalists and innovators settle the matter. And second, is the meaning of Thanksgiving Day. Didn't the Pilgrim Fathers set it aside as a day of thanks? Surely there need be no moratorium on a day of Thanksgiving. Celebrants who honor November 23 can undoubtedly find something to be thankful for a week later. Let them join in thanksgiving with those who celebrate November 30, and vice versa. In this land of the free it would be regrettable if we have to have an edict before we can give thanks. Why not celebrate today?

THE LITTLE HELPER

• OTHER PAPERS SAY:

Jesus Stranger in Jerusalem

By L. K. McMILLAN, from The Baltimore Afro-American

JERUSALEM, Holy Land—The execution here of Jesus of the low-country of Galilee constitutes whatever positive meaning there is to Jerusalem or ever was.

He was ,and remains, a stranger to the city as such.

The Jesus Revolution "failed" and the Jerusalem Reaction "won." Now the city carries on in its old way.

Like most things talked about over-much, the actual Jerusalem is one thing and the oft-described Jerusalem quite another.

Perfectly good milk and honey are promised only for the "New Jerusalem," but there is at least excellent honey in the "Old Jerusalem."

That is about the best thing that can be said for this city which has been on the side of the wrong in just about every crucial test in its long and infamous history.

Here in Jerusalem there is a church just about to every few square yards, "commemorating" some act or even connected with the life of Jesus, the last few days He spent in and about the city.

One morning we tried to get the attendant at one of these places to know that we wanted to get into his place. It happened though that the bell was broken.

We all agree that Jerusalem obeys God in only one thing: Arab, Jew, and Christian alike here believe that when anything is put out of commission, it is by the will of God, so they dare not touch it or improve it. They let it stay out of commission!

QUEER NAMES

The other day I ran upon the queerest name for a church I have ever heard, "the Rooster Crowing Church." On the top of the tower is the figure of a cock as strutting and game as they come. Peter could not have helped hearing such a cock as that.

It were funny, were it not so tragic to note how many millions are spent here on fine, empty churches. I passed by the German Protestant church, a very expensive structure.

I asked a German friend what the German Protestant membership was; he thought that it was "at least fifty."

DIRT AND FILTH

All shades of Catholicism are building immense structures in the Holy City.

The Abyssinians, for instance, have great investments here in "religious" properties. And yet, all these religious groups and individuals, together and severally are thoroughly indifferent to impossible burdens which women and children must carry about in the city and the dirt and filth to which all the people of the city are exposed.

It was with such brutal religious piety that Jesus had his quarrel. And these present thousands of observers of ritual are descendants of those who condemned Jesus to death.

Jerusalem might well be characterized by three things: dirt and flies; graves, preachers!

Concerning the first, I might add a few items to those already hinted at. I doubt that God knows how many flies there are in this holy city! The number is impossible to determine.

Then too, everybody is an archaeologist here in Jerusalem. It is hard to imagine how much mess is preserved here in the name of "antiquity."

GRAVES

Easily the most characteristic feature of Jerusalem is its graves. The city was on old burial ground in the time of Jesus. Since that time thousands of graves have either been dug from rock or hewn within and without the city, so that more space is taken up with graves than with habitation itself.

In times of plagues, deep, wide holes were dug in the earth and countless bodies were thrown into the depths in heaps.

There lives here a woman who, several years ago, brought her husband here to die and be buried. In the cemeteries one sees any number of similar cases.

What I have said about preachers and "religious" peoples generally here ought suffice to give an idea of what pests they are and how they belie the true meaning of Christianity and the message of Jesus.

Possibly the pity of the whole matter is that Jerusalem exists again and continues to exist as an historical reality. It were better that it had remained wiped from the face of the earth.

• CONTRIBUTORS' COLUMN

By N. CURTIS KING, M. D. Clinician City Health Dept.

The recently increased public interest in the campaign started by Surgeon General Thomas A. Parran to wipe out syphilis and gonorrhea as a menace to home and family life, is manifested in our state by the enactment of two bills, 1.—Premarital, 2.—Prenatal, which state that:

1. Before any person can obtain a marriage license, each applicant shall file with the clerk a certificate from a licensed physician, which shall state that the applicant has been given such examination as may be necessary for the discovery of syphilis, made out more than 30 days prior to the date of issuance of such license, and that, in the opinion of such physician, the person either is not infected with syphilis, or if so infected, is not in a state of that disease which is or may become communicable to the marital partner.

Any person involved failing to comply shall be guilty of a misdemeanor.

2. Every licensed physician and surgeon or other person engaged in prenatal care of a pregnant woman or attending such woman at the time of delivery, shall request or endeavor to obtain a blood specimen of the pregnant or recently delivered woman at the time of the first professional visit or within 10 days thereafter. The blood specimen thus obtained shall be submitted to an approved laboratory for a standard laboratory test for syphilis.

California is one 18 states with premarital laws, and one of the 10 states with prenatal laws.

These laws imply no break with tradition, they merely reinforce a growing conviction that the state of California must surround marriage with every feasible safeguard.

The failure of nearby states to enact similar laws is an open invitation to border jumping and emphasizes the need of universal protection.

We have a standing army of people, disabled by syphilis, marching to the grave, eaten alive by the burrowing spirochetes; an army of children with sightless or half seeing eyes, with broken hearts and deformed bones; an army of workers of hand and brain become jobless and unemployable derelicts.

RACIAL POISON

Syphilis is the one "racial poison", reducing the race standard by breeding of delinquents, and moral and physical degenerates. It is probably the greatest factor in the cause of inefficiency, insanity, pauperism and crime. The human wreckage of nervous, and mentally deficient cases, and cripples as well as the mal-formed children, become the burden of the community from the diseases.

Into this army, the marriage of syphilitics pour constantly its countless thousands of recruits. Innocent women enter such marriage unprotected, find sickness and horror awaiting them.

Ten out of 11 syphilitic mothers, properly treated, before the fifth month of pregnancy, will bear a baby free from syphilis. Even if treatment is begun later, results are fair.

But, through no fault of their own, 80,000 babies every year, come into the United States with the disease. Probably the mothers did not know they had this disease which infects unborn babies. All too frequently the infection is contracted and lurks within the mother's body without visible sign so that she does not realize the danger lying in wait for her defenseless child.

The best assurance of a healthy baby is, of course healthy parents. We can now hope, by finding and treating existing cases, and by teaching the dangers of syphilis and how to avoid them, that there will eventually be an end to this plague.

• The LAUNDRYMAN

WHEN FUTURE historians set out to write, "The Decline and Fall of the British Empire", they will undoubtedly have to date the beginning of its decline, from that period when the British and French dominated League of Nations permitted the rape of Ethiopia. From that eventful day Anthony Eden was discarded as Foreign Secretary, and Ethiopia was fed to the Italion Lion, every single deplomatic move made by England's supposedly profound statesmen has proven to be the wrong one. The worldly wisdom of her erstwhile infallible governing class has suddenly become as chaff, which at every crucial moment is scattered to the four winds.

In a recent radio broadcast made by Viscount Halifax, present British Foreign Secretary, on August 24th, he made the following statement:

"Those who feel that the fate of other European nations does not concern Great Britian (the following caps are mine) FORGET THAT IN FAILING TO UPHOLD THE LIBERTIES OF OTHERS, WE RUN GREAT RISK OF BETRAYING THE PRINCIPLE OF LIBERTY ITSELF, AND WITH IT, OUR OWN FREEDOM AND INDEPENDENCE."

Perhaps Viscount Halifax did not fully realize the significance of his statement, but by those very words, Destiny, using him as a channel, has broadcast to the world that Great Britain has been weighed in the balance and found wanting. Evidently, judging from Britian's policy in the hour of Ethiopia's need, LIBERTY is NOT the God-given right of Black men, as it is for European Whites; Black people have not the God-given craving to pursue happiness in their own way, according to their own customs and traditions, beneath their own vine and fig tree, as have European whites.

However, 'The Moving Finger' has written, and moved on with great rapidity. The rape of Ethiopia was but the prelude to Manchuko, to the Sarr Valley, to the fall of Shanghai, the gobbling up of Austria, and of Czechoslovaki . And now the Danzig crisis impends.

These astounding sequences having taken place with such bewildering rapidity following the rape of Ethiopia, that British statesmen are utterly confounded, completely at sea as to what to say or do. And the end is not yet. For whether or no Hitler takes Danzig today, tomorrow, a year from today, or never regains it, nevertheless a general European war sooner or later, is inevitable. And when the smoke of battle will have cleared away, Great Britain and France will have paid their Karmic debt in full to the Black peoples of Abyssinia, through the permanant loss of their European prestige, for greater Germany will surely dominate the European continent.

This writer's prediction may sound far-fetched, even fantastic to some, especially to those who are accustomed to regard any EXISTING order of things as being Immutable. Yet according to one of our most reliable news columns—"The Washington Merry Go Round" edited by Drew and Pearson—some of our best military strategists who have quietly weighed the relative strength of Great Britain and her allies, and that of the Rome-Berlin Axis, have privately arrived at similar conclusions.

The world is being ushered into a new era, one wherein the selfish,scheming, ruthless type of Dollar-diplomacy so long practiced by Great Britain and France can have no place. Thus do nations, like individuals, go through the Immutable Universal processes of Birth, Growth, Maturity, and Decay. Truly, Time changes all things.

• LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

UNDER THE BRIDGE

Dear Editor:

I was so deeply impressed with your article "Under the Bridge" which appeared in the August 17 edition of the California EAGLE that I feel that it would cramping the spirit not to tell you how much I really enjoyed it.

First of all it was the kind of article that I would like to write or rather it concerned the people about whom I would like to write, the people who seldom make the news except there is an accident, fire, tragedy or death.

Then it showed heartness on your part, your desire to be adventurous and not follow the crowd as so many people often do.

At this particular time when the World's Fair is in full swing one expects a visitor never to wander from its shadows except to do homage to Fifth Avenue, Broadway, Central Park, Yankee Stadium, Madison Square Garden, Empire State Building, and the high spots.

The average person who has not spent considerable time in New York thinks of Park Avenue as an exclusive thoroughfare. Seldom does a non-resident of New York think of any part of Park Avenuse as a place where shopworn peddlers chase after passersby to practically force their wares on those who happen to pass.

Not that I think I am an able critic, I do say I think it was an extra good article. It's refreshing to read an article not polluted with the evils of war and politics. It seems like giving the readers a much needed breathing spell not to see the same names and pictures each week, that is the people everyone knows. While it is true to be in the paper, a person must do something to merit such. The big men and the big affairs justly merit big space. However, why not give the little town, the little man, the little affairs a little space?

ROBERT KELLY

CULTURAL RISE

Dear Editor:

Marian Anderson's phenominal success on the concert stage, is convincing proof that the American Negro possesses the aptitude which, providing, of course, that there is talent, to back it up, will carry him to ultimate success in whatever field of the Arts he, or she, may wish to enter. In Miss Anderson's case, it was, of course, foreordained that she should scale the heights, for nature bestowed upon her a voice of rare beauty and range, but this gifted Negro woman has also proved, by her tenacious struggle for recognition, that she had also the courage and the tact to overcome a difficult situation, for Miss Anderson did not wish to be restricted in her efforts by the color line, but desired that her voice, on MERIT, alone, be given recognition, regardless of the fact that she was of Negro blood. And in his, she has succeeded, probably far beyond her expectations.

Mrs. Roosevelt is to be congratulated for choosing this gifted and courageous woman, to sing for their Majesties, the King and Queen of Great Britain. Her gesture was a salute to COURAGE as well as rare artistry and a beautiful voice.

If you will listen in to one of the Negro programs on your radio, you will find that the Negro is not only talented, but, owing to his highly emotional nature, rarely fitted for work of this nature. In the educational field as well. the Negro is coming to the fore. The Tuskegee School graduates are ranking among the top educators of the day. The educated Negro has the advancement of his race close at heart. His own success is proof to him that the Negro if given the chance, can make good in whatsoever line of endeavor he may wish to follow. We are all familiar with the wonderful work of Booker T. Washington and he has left behind him many loyal disciples to carry on his work. The Negro of "the old South" and the Negro of today are as far apart as the poles, yet ONE tie remains INTACT—and that is, their desire to express themselves in MUSIC. Music is the Negro's heritage. The Negro Spirituals are rarely lovely—showing not only a spiritual quality but tenderness as well. Again—in Poetry—many of our outstanding poems have come from the Negro race. In short, from present indications, it would seem that the Negro will soon have carved, for himself, a permanent place, not only in the field of Art, but in educational work, as well. A place he richly deserves, for his has been a struggle where only COURAGE wins.

AMERICAN FIGHT

Dear Editor:

Enclosed is a copy of a letter which we have sent to Mr. Griffith of the NAACP. We would like you to use this letter for publicity purposes, if possible.

PETTIS PERRY,
Chairman, Communist Party, Los Angeles County.

Thomas L. Griffith, Jr.,
Legal Staff of the NAACP

Having been watching with very keen interest the splendid and very necessary fight that you are waging in the Brookside Swimming Pool case of Pasadena, it impels me to express congratulations in this fight. At the same time I wish you the greatest success, as this is not only a case that our people, the colored, are interested in but it is something that the whole Democracy loving people of America are very much concerned with. May I say, that in this fight you are performing a great service for the cause of our people, and for the extension of American Democracy.

The attiture of Attorney Harold P. Hull of Pasadena that the swimming together of the races is social equality, therefore such equality should be denied to the Negro, has nothing in common with the Declaration of Independence which declares "that all men are created equal;" nor does it have anything in common with the Constitution of the United States. It is precisely these people, many of whom are in governmental positions that forces racial Hatred. Such attitudes afford the greatest comfort to Hitler, Mussolini and the Mikado. I feel sure that the majority of the American people resent such an attitude expressed by the officials of Pasadena.

We of the Communist Party together with all progressive humanity in our city and our county wish to extend whatever cooperation we can to the association in this fight. In closing please feel free to call upon us for anything, that in your opinion we might be able to do.

Wishing you a complete victory in your fight—I remain,

PETTIS PERRY

BAPTIST CONVENTION OPENS HERE WITHOUT ITS PRESIDENT

Cloudbursts in Arizona Delay Train on Which President Dr. G. L. Prince was Passenger; Election of Officers Highlights Today's Fare

Baptists converged on Los Angeles this week in the 59th annual session of the National Baptist Convention of America. Preceded by a pre-convention program Tuesday night, sessions were opened yesterday at the Second Baptist church, for the men and the New Hope Baptist church, for the women's auxiliary.

With cloudbursts in Arizona delaying trains bearing several hundred delegates, the Convention opened its five-day session, without its president, Dr. G. L. Prince of Galveston. Dr. Prince was on one of the delayed trains, which was expected to reach Los Angeles late last night.

A musical program, featuring a giant chorus, led by Mrs. Overstreet Jackson, assisted by Mrs. Luda Mae Hurst, comprised the pre-convention program. The Rev. G. C. Coleman of Oakland, vice president of the Convention, presided over yesterday's sessions.

Dr. G. N. Nails of Houston, Texas, preached the introductory sermon. Last night's evening program was given over to a local program with welcome addresses from state, civic and social groups.

Today's program will include the annual address of the President at 11:30 a. m. and election of officers at 3:30 p. m.

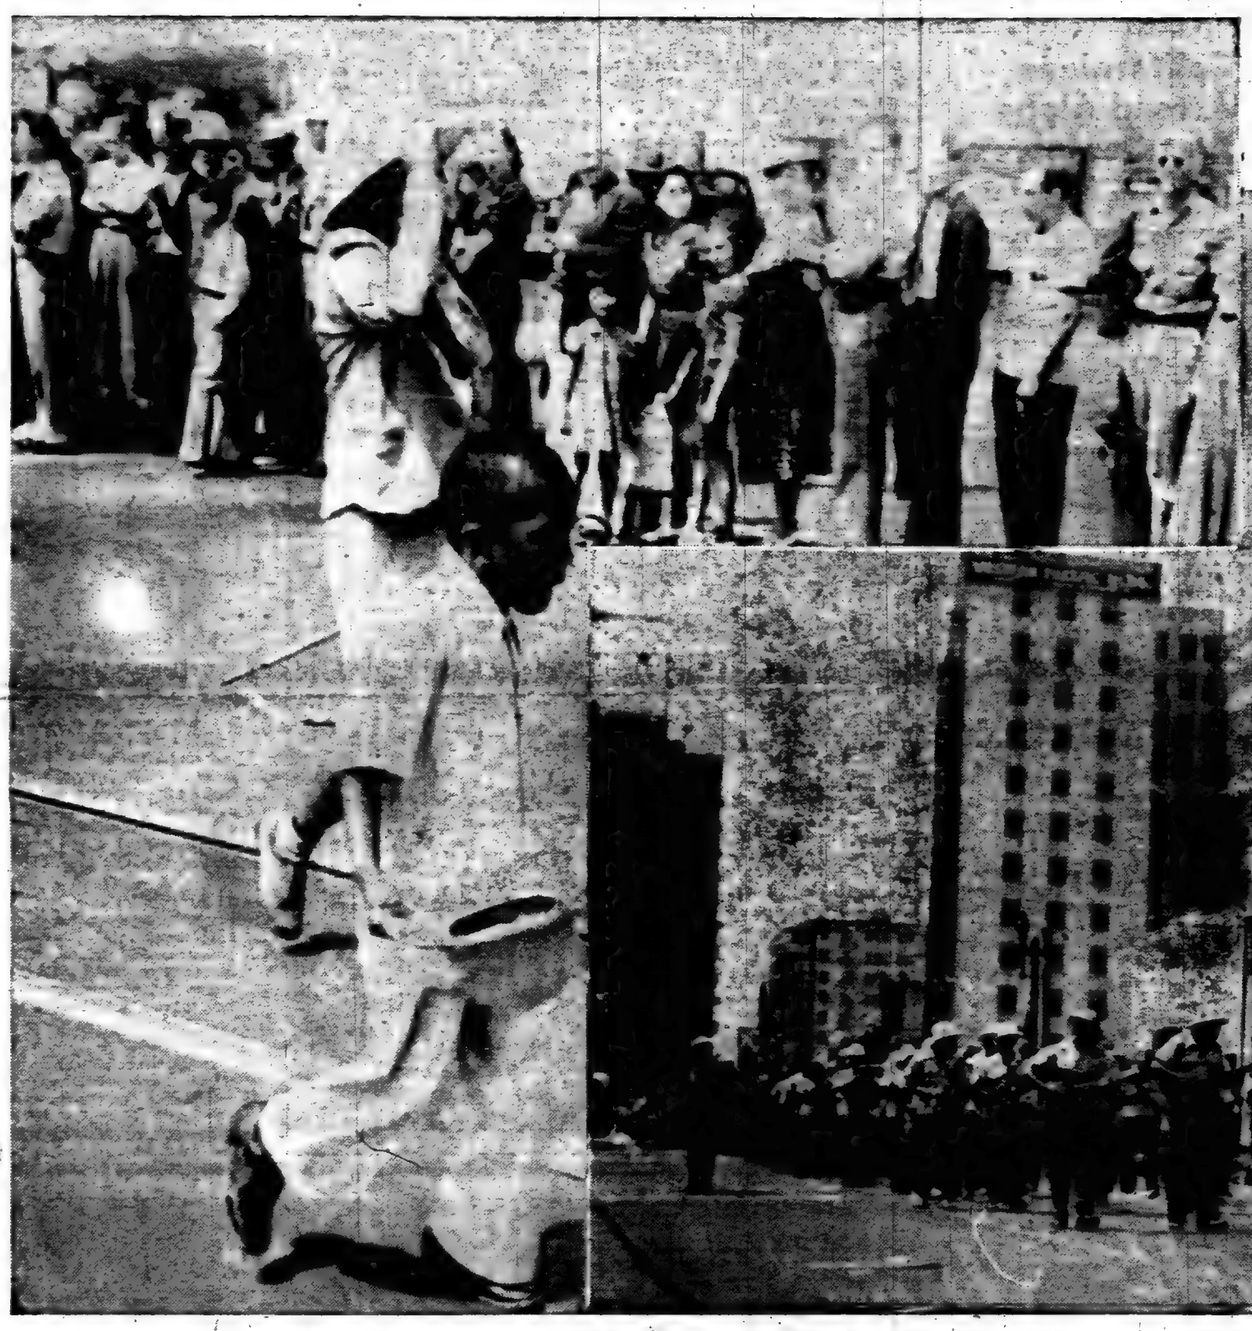
Set Funeral Rites for Robber Suspect Shot By Police

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon from Angelus Funeral home for Cleveland Johnson, 30, of 1846 E. 41st street, shot and killed last Monday night by two Central police detectives.

With Al Blackman, 24, 1170 E. 43rd street, Johnson was surprised in the attempted robbery of a liquor store at 4312 Ascot avenue by Det.-Lieuts. C. E. Drew and Robert Allen.

As the two attempted to escape, the police opened fire, felling Johnson and wounding Blackman. Blackman continued running, despite his wounds, but was captured a block away.

The two officers, both white, are expected to be absolved of blame for Johnson's death in the coroner's inquest this week. Blackman, who is expected to recover, will be booked on suspicion of attempted robbery.



The two are believed by authorities to have been implicated in numerous hold-ups on the Eastside in the past few months.

50-YEAR OLD HOUSEWIFE NAMES ASSAILANT IN ATTACK OF AUG. 17

Dead Woman Knew Assailant in Bakersfield; Information Furnished By Sweetheart Brings About Arrest By Local Police

Mrs. Elizabeth Franklyn, 50-year old housewife, who was brutally beaten, robbed and wantonly shot August 17, died as a result of her injuries Monday morning in the General hospital.

Before she died, she identified Thomas Traylor, 5222 Long Beach avenue, as her assailant. Police had arrested him on information furnished by the dead woman's sweetheart, Thomas McKnight, 1407½ E. 47th street, Aug. 22, charging him with kidnap, assault with a deadly weapon, robbery and attempted rape. Late yesterday, he was re-booked on the murder charge.

PARALYZED

Partially peralyzed by a bullet which entered her neck and lodged in her spine, Mrs. Franklyn hovered between life and death for 18 days. She was returning from a visit with a friend when accosted near the B-car line on E. 25th street, marched at the point of a gun to a near-by alley, beaten, robbed, nearly raped and shot when she cried out.

In a semi-coma and unable to talk, Mrs. Franklyn could not name her assailant for several days. McKnight told police that he visited his sweetheart at the hospital, and in the presence of Mrs. Katie Bickers, 748 E. 53rd street, was told that Traylor, whom Mrs. Franklyn had known in Bakersfield, had committed the crime.

Mexican Consul Hits Jim Crow in Tiajuana's Bars

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 7—Because of reported discrimination of Negro citizens of the United States by merchants of Tiajuana, Mexico, Dennis V. Allen, president of the San Diego Race Relations Society, was advised this week by Manuel Aguilar, Mexican consul, that "instructions have been given to the proper authorities to prevent such discriminations, which both the Mexican constitution and the government prohibits."

The society, according to Allen, had received complaints from American Negroes charging discrimination and these were registered with the Mexican consul. Several of these complaints deal with refusal of service at "The Long Bar" in Tiajuana, complainants charging that they were given service only on condition that they were seated at tables, Allen said.

A-TALKIN' TO YOU . . .

WELL WE HAVE a brand new war on our hands, advertised to be bigger and destructive than any previous. At present we are hoping to keep out of it. But with the great jump of the stock markets, I feel that the Negro should look around and see what he is producing, so he can get into the swing of money making that has already reached our shores. This is no time for the consumer. If you are a producer, regardless what is it, you are on the front line, near the cashier's window. By way of a laugh, the other day, Labor Day to be exact, my friend, Jack Carr, the actor, brought me a watermelon from Texas. It weighed 67-pounds and was a yard and six-inches long, and the many visitors that came to my ranch thought when they first saw it, I had raised it. Of course, it was a present and I had to be truthful, but the fact is I am going to see what I can do with the seeds. If I can produce melons that large, everybody would buy them and pay me a good price. I would be a producer of watermelons. That is more important than being a consumer. I am simply trying to say, folks, that this is the second opportunity offered the Negro in 25-years to get ahead. Pick up old iron, grow potatoes, make shoes or just raise onions in great quantities is the shortest cut to success and the many things you have yearned for all your life. The white collar man is a consumer and soon loses his buying power in the time of war. Catch on, get your hands dirty and intelligently, with modern methods, become a great factor in the function of work. It is here. We can't help it. So make the best of it. Dean William Pickens of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People told John Sengstacke, general manager of the Chicago Defender that this is a great chance for Negro newspapers to increase their circulation. We want to know more than in peace times what the other Negro is thinking. You must read colored papers to find out. Printers of newspapers are producers. So I say follow the wise guys. PRODUCE and PRODUCE fast while the war is on. Destruction is great, the need for more things of life are greater. I am now going to eat one slice of that yard and a half melon, ice cold. Too bad you can't join me!

NNB League Loses Two Leaders

C. C. Spaulding Retires; Death Claims Richardson

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 7,—The National Negro Business league, which closed its 39th annual session last week here, lost two of its most prominent leaders almost simultaneously with the session's ending. By retirement, the League lost its president, Charles Clinton Spaulding, president of the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance company.

Death took C. F. Richardson, Texas editor and member of the League's Executive Board.

Richardson, only 48 years old, died at his home town, Houston, while the Business League was in session, after only a week's illness. Just before his death, the Houston branch NAACP, of which he was president, had threatened his ousting because of alleged support given by him to the presidential candidacy of Vice President John Garner.

Ill health was given as Spaulding's reason for retirement. The third president of the League, he was preceded by Booker T. Washington and Dr. Robert Russa Moten.

John Henry Lewis New Sales Representative of Calvert's

JOHN HENRY LEWIS

NEW YORK, Sept 7—John Henry Lewis, former light-heavyweight champion of the world, who fought Joe Louis for the heavyweight title early this year, has become associated with the sales department of Calvert Distillers Corporation as a special representative to promote Old Drum Blended Whiskey, according to an announcement today by the company.

Lewis, who is 25-years old, has devoted most of his life to the art of pugilism. His father, who for a number of years was connected with the University of California as head trainer, taught John Henry and his older brother Christy the rudiments of boxing at the early age of four-years.

The selection of Lewis as a Calvert representative is in line with the company's policy of choosing men who have shown unusual ability in different lines of endeavor. Lewis will join forces with Eneil F. Simpson, who has been associated with Calvert as an Old Drum representative for some time past.

During his fighting career, Lewis engaged in 101 fights and lost only seven; of these one was to Joe Louis and another to James J. Braddock. Lewis comes from a family with a fighting tradition. His great-uncle, Tom Monheux, was the first American fighter to contend for the heavyweight title, and his fight with Tom Crib is among the never-to-be-forgotten bouts.

State Co-ops Authorized By Governor

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 7—Governor Culbert L. Olson today announced he will immediately authorize the State Relief Administration to carry out the program recommended by the Governor's Commission on Re-employment calling for the establishment of combined cooperative operations and direct production projects.

The report, submitted to Governor Olson by a group of 8 outstanding businessmen under the chairmanship of John R. Richards, is the result of six months study of California relief problems.

Governor Olson gave his complete approval of the program proposed in the partial report submitted.

The plan calls for establishment of state cooperatives in which the unemployed, now on direct dole, may be gainfully employed. Goods produced would be distributed through a system of central warehouses for relief in kind.

The particular economy advocated in the report is seeking to use the tax dollar expended for relief in a better way than it is being used at present.

In addition, the plans calls for integration of the present works program now being operated under WPA and SRA supervision into a single statewide program administered in conjunction with consumer and direct production projects.

Work on Val Verde Park to Continue

McDonough Says Funds Ordered to Keep Project Moving

Definite assurance that work will be continued on Val Verde Park, county regional recreational area, was given yesterday by Supervisor Gordon L. McDonough.

Funds were ordered to keep the project moving so that no delays in completing the swimming pool and bathhouse will be encountered.

Work on Val Verde Park was started early this year after McDonough had provided funds in last year's budget and had brought together country recreational officials and WPA representatives to speed start of the project.

The pool 50 by 100 feet, together with the bathhouse accessories and other improvements is being constructed as a WPA project under sponsorship of the county. Total cost of the work is set at $218,000. The funds which Supervisor McDonough has marked exclusively for Val Verde have been augmented by a Federal grant of money in accordance with Federal regulations governing such local improvements.

Now for the Shouting

The race is run. The dust blows away. The racers sit panting on the sidelines. The crowds are cheering. Surprise, excitement, gladness and dismay are each registered in turn among the spectators and racers. Yes, indeed it was a race of races!

The "I told you so's" have it and it is so ordered that one lone girl in the race of men came out in the lead. Why five stalwart men should allow one little woman to outstrip them in a race claiming force of personality and sales ability is a thing not easily understood — but then, maybe that is the reason she won — because she was the only girl. Men have gone out of their way aiding and abetting her.

The runner-up was so close on her heels that there may be a contest within a contest. He was the choice of many.

Third in the race without much ado and with no competition it was easy going for this one to hold his own.

The fourth place pacer got a mild shock in the finals by having the man in sixth place run alongside.

Dropping behind in lethargic contentment, the holder of fifth place lagged far in the distance on the finish.

About 100 smartly attired guests were served a delicious lunch in the beautiful patio and garden under gay umbrellas. The tables were very pretty indeed, with bright table covers and pottery dishes.

The beautiful three-tier birthday cake with a purple frosting, decorated with yellow rosebuds, was the work of Mrs. Ruth Williams, purple and gold being the Temple's colors. Mrs. Williams also presented each member with a corsage of yellow and purple sweet peas tied with gold ribbon.

The members were very highly honored with the presence of their Grand Master, Edward W. Fisher; Grand Princess Gertrude Edwards; Past Grand Masters T. B. Norman and Morgan T. White and one of the organizers, Minnie Harris.

Assuring the guests a most enjoyable afternoon were the following charter members: Elizabeth Edwards, Etta Daggett, Emmiline Brown, Viola Pollock and Ruth Williams. Also assisting were Janie Lyons and Edna McLaughlin.

The officers of California Temple No. 17 are: Princess, Viola Pollock; Vice Princess, Venita Evans; Chaplain, Janie Lyons; Financial Secy., Emmiline Brown; Recording Secy., Eva W. Jones; Treasurer, Etta Daggett; Chrm. Sick Committee, Ruth Williams and Chrm. Auditing Committee, Elizabeth Edwards. Members are: R. L. Allen, Lizzie Franklin, Renda Howard, Carie Fisher, Cora Taylor, Minnie Williams, Clara White, Hattie Young, R. Jackson and Edna McLaughlin.

Local Teacher Active N. Y. Visitor

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—Among the city's most active visitors during this World's Fair-Convention crowded summer, is Mrs. Hazel Whitaker, first Negro High school teacher in Los Angeles' educational system.

Mrs. Whitaker is winding up a nationwide tour in New York after having attended the Zion M. E. Youth Congress in Minneapolis, Minnesota, and journeying throughout southern Canada. In New York, the teacher is devoting much of her time to the Delta Sigma Theta national convention in session here last week.

A frequent visitor to the New York World's Fair, Mrs. Whitaker intends making additional pilgrimages to the World of Tomorrow before her return to Los Angeles.

In no department, mental or visual, does the attractive lady resemble America's stereotyped "school marm." Tall and graceful, figuratively speaking, Mrs. Whitaker is a frequent patron of famed Savoy Ballroom in Harlem where she is a highly interested observer of certain jitterbug gyrations peculiar to this renowned establishment.

While journalistically active as an EAGLE reporter at the Delta Sigma Theta convention, Mrs. Whitaker, who instructs a class in social studies, is gathering material that might be of interest to her students next semester.

Committee Plans Mammoth Benefit to Aid Eastside's Underprivileged Children

With bringing Christmas cheer to underprivileged children of the Eastside as its motive and in keeping with similar events in Los Angeles communities, a committee of community spirited persons met Thursday evening at the invitation of Mrs. Mary D. Hunt in the directors' room of the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance company.

The meeting resulted in plans for a large benefit dance in November, date to be announced later, which has the sanction and cooperation of leaders of traditional Christmas charity events. Mrs. Hunt, who was elected temporary chairman of the committee, made it clear that it was not the aim of the committee to conflict in any way with the programs of any organization but only to help those who would not be benefitted by other events.

Attending the meeting were Carl J. Johnson, who donated tickets for the dance; Miss Laura Slayton, president of the Orchid Girls and acting secretary of the committee; Dr. Clifford Gordon, Miss Theresa Dixon of the Eastside Area Health program; Mrs. Fay Allen, school board member; Mrs. Faustina Johnson, of Jordan P-TA; Miss Constance E. Bridge POINTS

The Take-Out Double

Thus far, we have pointed to Take-Out Doubles with hands that hold less than three honor-tricks, and responses with from zero to one-half of a honor-trick. (The danger zone, the one in which most points are lost.)

Next we will consider hands that contain from a one-half to one H. T. safe up to two odd, or a defeat of onetrick, and zone in which the no-trump response occurs)..

However, a no-trump response can never be bid with less than one honor-trick, and never if that H. T. is only in the doubled suit.

Summer Social Calendar Reaches Zenith In Oakland

GLAMOROUS SPECTATOR AND CHATTING THREESOME AT COAST NET TOURNEY IN OAKLAND

Glamourous Lillian Hilton of Oakland, Uclan graduate and sister of Mrs. Albert Johnson of Los Angeles' Westside, was among spectators at the 18th annual Pacific Coast tennis tournament in Oakland Saturday, Sunday and Labor Day.

The dress was the flimiest of chiffon prints and Miss Hilton's hat evoked gasps from the gentlemen and envy from the ladies.

The identity of the young lady with the pure profile, surrounded by Jerry Shepherd of Pasadena, standing, and Tommy Nelson, Fresno State athlete, sitting, remains a mystery. The group chatted between P. C. matches. Shepherd and Nelson were eliminated in the early rounds.

Coast Tennis Championships Cause for Varied Entertainment Honoring Spectators, Visitors

BY ALMENA DAVIS

OAKLAND, Sept. 7.—The accent was on glamour as the summer social calendar found its zenith in the Pacific Coast tennis tournament Saturday, Sunday and Labor Day. From all points of the compass, the glamorous and glamour-less girls and boys hied themselves to Arroyo Viejo park to see. . .and be seen.

There's nothing like a pad and pencil, conspicuously displayed, and a pal to introduce one as "The Press' to send one's popularity soaring. . .

"Oh, you dear thing . . . are you going to put my name in the paper?"

"But definitely, Madam. . .and how!"

What-Ho! Let the geese pick 'em. . .

What prominent L. A. real estate broker was angling with a tennis court beauty, a young thing. . . for a Sunday night date . . .and didn't get it? You'd know if I mentioned in the same breath that Sidney P. Dones, a man of varied talents, and Carl Johnson, were among spectators at the matches. . .

And so it remained for Vernon Chambers of Pasadena, the fella who affects a becoming nonchalance, to be the chosen one and squire said beauty about the night spots. . .and 'tis said the party continued so long that neither was able to make the finals next day. . .

I wanted to shout a-"Sport, Jack!" . . . expressing approbation in Centralese to the South's Curtis C. Taylor when, in a brown double breasted, a snap brim at just THE rakish angle, he gave, for the fifth year, his Edward Memorial Trophy to the junior boys' champion. With a party of four, including L. A.'s Dr. H. H. Towles, Dr. Le Count Cook, member of the Howard university Medical school faculty; Dr. J. H. Taylor, D. C. medico, Taylor came up on the Streamliner for the matches and the Fair.

The week-end's best crack is credited to the nimble tongue of said barrister. Panning the atmosphere of Oakland's "Avenue", Seventh Street, he quipped. . .

"They don't bury the dead up here, they let 'em walk around 7th street. . ."

Pretty little Muriel Foley's nomination, and a general second, for the most glamorous femme fan went to Lillian Hilton, U. C. L. A. grad, living now in the North. Squired by one of the Baranco boys, a member of the North's "Swing Mikado" cast, Lillian easily cast a pale over the rest of the gals. Baranco was some stuff himself in white suit Sunday to match the lady's flowered print chiffon, and in dark suit the next, to complement her spectator sport costume. . . but they do say Lillian and L. A.'s Calvin Edwards are going to stay on the outs. . .and they look so romantic dancing t-gether. . .

L. A. does get around! All fashionable and stuff, we ran into Gladys Harris, George Rowland, Mrs. Thelma Howard Price and Benny Albans.

Bob Green perched on his pal, Pinhead Percy Williams and said the duo of chicks Pin was giving answered to Ella Woods of L. A. and Marian [illegible] of Portland. Bob, h[illegible] did [illegible] by Mary Louise Elliott and Dorothy Watkins of Oakland. . . And a big fella named Jimmy Stevens and Lay Simmons were on either side of Miss Eula Hamble of L. A.

I'll climb out on a limb and say Northern women are, as a rule, more pulchritudinous and better dressed than the Southern Californians. (Perhaps it's the contrast they furnish to the general ugliness of the Bay Cities). And the men are infinitely more suave—or just plain better mannered. Three stylish Northerners intent on a match were Mesdames Eleanor DeClaybrooke and Janet Roberts of Oakland and Lydia Ramos of Frisco.

Marvelyne Matthews of the L. A. Matthews almost started a riot when she appeared, holding to the hand of the North's self-contained Kermit Wilson, a Cal student. She's rather beautiful anyway. . .and in a striking rose sport suit. . .What-ho!

The too-young set was well represented in the aforementioned Muriel Foley, who had to be reminded repeatedly of "Bunny" back in L. A. . . honeycolored little Lorraine Neilson and her handsome brother, Glenn, kids of the C. M. Neilsons of L. A.; Henry Cox, Tommy Hamilton, Ishmael Evans, Ollie Hester, Frank Underwood, Fisher Evans.

Pasadena people sure stick together, down to the last dollar . . . Tommy Nelson lost one to Santa Monica's glamour boy, Lloyd Courtney . . . (who persists in claiming. . ."I ain't no trouble; I'm just a bubble", even after being shown he's quite the contrary). Pasadenans were Jackie Robinson, Ray Bartlett, Robert White . . and speaking of Pasadenans, that city's Billy Dickerson is quite a lad. Billy's pledged to the ministry, but the flesh is weak and I'm a meanie to mention that the music at the jitterbug jamboree in the Hall of Western States on the Fair grounds go so hot that Billy GRABBED A GAL AND DANCED. . . The geese 'ILL pick you, Billy, but if you had danced with me, I'd never have told it. . .

Someone just reminded me that this whole issue of the EAGLE can't be given over to the Tennis Tournament,—so rapidly, —Woody Brown and his sisters, were there, Marion Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Charles DeMan, and Mrs. Celia Kelly. . .Bill Stevens was up for the matches and the Christian Youth confab. . . Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Prince of El Centro. . .the Carter Reeds of L. A. . . Don't let me forget to mention that shy champion Jimmy McDaniels has at last displayed an interest in girls. . . the stimulation being the blond sister of his sister-in-law, Miss Bernadine Monroe.

Northern California's got a rival to Woody Strode. . .if you get what I mean. . .he's hefty, muscle-conscious, jitterbugging Don Presley. . . The Misses Margaret and Eugenia Forney of Santa Barbara and Maria Starr of Oakland are pretty girls . . and to close this patter . . Best of luck to Anne Beachman, Northland AKA president, who's Atlanta U bound in ten days or so, more study on her Master's degree.

New York Misses Hostesses At Dinner Honoring Eagle's Editor-Publisher, Mrs. Bass

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—Dinner honoring Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, EAGLE editor-publisher, was one of the city's social successes this week as the L. A. newspaper woman was entertained by New York's Miss Hart and Miss Dora Lee, well known civic leaders here.

Aside from the hostess and honoree, other guests were Mrs. V. S. Kinloch, sister of Mrs. Bass, and Mrs. L. P. Sheafe, widow of the late Elder Louis C. Sheafe of Los Angeles' Seventh Day Adventist church.

Given at Craig's Cafe, 53 St. Nicholas avenue, in the heart of "Sugar Hill's" new and modernistic eatery center, the dinner has been called one of the week's foremost social functions in the city's exclusive "little entente" of society.

ENTERTAINED AT FAIR

Also notable among Mrs. Bass' Eastern social activities was her recent tour of the New York World's Fair as the guest of Miss Grace M. Holcy, veteran public teacher here.

For the first time, Mrs. Bass visited the famed General Motors "Futurama" and promptly labeled it "the greatest exhibit I have ever seen at any time in any Fair." (Note San Francisco Chamber of Commerce).

A few years ago, Mrs. Bass entensively entertained Miss Holcy upon her visit to Los Angeles.

Armed with maps and a predetermined plan of attack, the Bass-Holcy party assaulted the vast Fair with great success.

Mrs. V. S. Kinloch also accompanied her visiting sister on this expedition. Mrs. Hazel Whitaker, Los Angeles social leader, was on hand as far as the Harlem Branch Public Library, where a collection of Negro writings was inspected.

SCIENCE POINTS WAY TO MOTORISTS' EYE HEALTH

America's "back-seat drivers" should look to their eyesight in this age of motor travel. Tests by Dr. Andrew H. Ryan, right, Chicago scientist, show that eyes are taxed by strain of looking through distortion waves of safety sheet glass in side windows of automobiles. Result is blurred images such as that of pretty blonde at top. Below is laboratory test where it was found girl could read 13 per cent faster through plate glass than through sheet.

TOLEDO.—America's motoring millions were warned by a Chicago scientist here recently to beware of sight-destroying distortion waves in automobile safety sheet glass.

A. H. Ryan, M.D., reviewing results of ten months of research, reported that passengers in automobiles looking through side windows of safety sheet glass suffer 82 per cent more eye-strain than those who look through safety plate glass.

"The constant advice from back seat drivers", Dr. Ryan said, "may result from this distortion in sheet glass automobile windows, because the passenger has much less ability to judge distances through sheet glass than he has through plate glass. Approaching automobiles or objects along the roadside appear out of place through these distortion waves—which are accentuated by the factor of motion—often giving the impression that an accident is imminent when actually there is no danger whatsoever."

Automobile editors of newspapers and magazines were introduced to the new theory of eye-strain by Dr Ryan at a luncheon sponsored by the Fisher Body division of General Motors Corporation at the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co. They also heard Charles F. Kettering, vice-president of General Motors Corp., and John D. Biggers, president of Libbey-Owens-Ford, describe developments in 1940 car models designed to increase the health and comfort of motorists.

"Plate glass in automobiles," Dr. Ryan said, "ranks with proper lighting and eye glasses as a sight conservation measure. Statistics show that 20 per cent of the persons living on farms and nearly 60 per cent of city dwellers suffer from eye defects. Because millions of persons ride in automobiles, this distortion in the side windows of many cars is a serious threat to the sight of the entire population."

She obtained all the money she could, $525, and gave it to the stranger. Told to wait until the stranger returned, Mrs. Davis said she inquired when she tirad of her vigil and discovered the fraud.

The two previous victims lost $300.00 and $147.00 each.

wherry imitations draw comments

Since August 9 when Harry Levette presented Charles Wherry as Stepin Fetchit over the California Eagle Negro Newspaper of the Air broadcast, there have been many comments on Wherry's imitations. For ten minutes after the broadcast, the telephone jingled a happy reception of the famous comedian's second in his role. Stepin Fetchit starts rehearsal for swing version of Shakepseare's "Midsummer Night's Dream of New York." Other acts on the program were imitations of Ella Fitzgerald leading the late Chick Webb's band, by Nellie Lutcher.

The "Four Tones" appeared in their own behalf singing a contract for a record.

35,000 persons attending the East-West game for Negro National League Championship at Chicago were represented by Paul Green. Freddie Doyle on the guitar in "If I didn't care," and the Joe Louis-Bob Pastor fight predictions given by August Harris and Fred Doyle, completed a program diversified and altogether very well received.

Incidentally, Charles Wherry has made records of his imitations of Stepin Fetchit thru the Examiner's Talent Opportunity programs and Max Rinehart's studios in Hollywood.

Stars who have stayed in Hollywood during the summer months, while their friends have been vacationing away from the film capital, are now the envy of all the people who have finished their vacations and are ready to settle down to another year of work.

Claudette Colbert has combed her bangs back so that she can get the same deep tan on her forehead that she has on the rest of her face. Isa Miranda, now starring opposite George Brent in Paramount's "Portrait in Diamonds," gets a box of white roses from an unknown admirer.

Latest Paramount players to acquire houses are Ida Lupino and Ellen Drew. Ida is moving to Brentwood, and Ellen has bought a place in North Hollywood. The Pat O'Briens have moved back to Hollywood from their place in Del Mar, where they've been vacationing since Pat completed his role in Paramount's "Happy Ending."

Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor will take that belated honeymoon as soon as Barbara gets a release from her current Paramount assignment, "Remember the Night." They plan to go to Europe. Fred MacMurray, who plays the romantic lead opposite Barbara in this picture, is planning a two-week fishing trip in September, and Joel McCrea and Frances Dee are on a fishing trip in the High Sierras now. Patricia Morison, Paramount Golden Circle player, has been working all summer, but she'll have two weeks in September with nothing to do but learn to sail her new 25-foot boat. Ray Milland had a trip to London early in the summer, but it wasn't a vacation. He worked the entire time in "French Without Tears." Ray is now appearing in "Untamed," and when the picture is ready for preview he will be on a motor trip in Mexico. Jackie Cooper, who has been busy all summer with his roles in "Seventeen" and "What a Life," plans to leave shortly for a New York trip. Ellen Drew, now in Paramount's "Geronimo," will have some time off in September and plans to take in the San Francisco Exposition. John Howard's role in "Disputed Passage" caused him to cancel a Honolulu vacation until October, and Dorothy Lamour, John's leading lady in this picture, will take a motor trip "just any place" when "Typhoon," her latest assignment is released.

Prelate Says No Preaching of Vital Religion in Europe

Hundreds were turned away last Sunday morning from People's Independent Church of Christ to hear the minister, Rev. Clayton D. Russell, deliver his first sermon following his return from Europe and the World Conference of Christian Youth at Amsterdam, Holland.

Using as his subject, "The Need of the Hour," the popular young churchman declared that the "cold, formal, creedal, continental doctrines, isolation of parents from children and home, seperation of religion from everyday life" are the chief causes for the disintegration of Europe today.

"Since there is no preaching of a vital religion, a religion of love," said Rev. Russell, "how can the nations of Europe love each other?"

He declared that the need of the hour is preaching, practicing, and living the pure and unadulterated gospel of the Christ. This, he said, necessitates a radical change in the hearts of men. A new social order, new economic systems, new forms of government and new political regimes will not and cannot establish the kingdom of God on earth, he added, because these new orders will be just what the men who instituted them are.

"Science, education, and laws will not solve our world problems," exclaimed the dynamic young clergyman, "because in the hands of the wrong persons, they become weapons of destruction. Neither Christ nor Christianity has failed, but man has failed to accept the principles of Christ and a Christian religion."

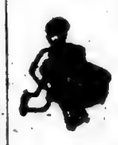
Central Ave. District Realty Board

We have come a long way in our search for the secret of building good will for Real Estate. I hope it is less of a secret than it was before. The one thought above all other, that I should like to leave with you this afternoon, is a very cheerful one. It embodies the kernel of everything I have said. In this days' generation, service pays; the more you do for your customers, the more you will do for yourself, for of necessity, if you render service, you will put your business on a scientific and a truly professional basis, you will render more service and you will have more good will. And good will is the asset of your business that brings the greatest total profit and the highest price in case of a sale.



These are the ambitions and requirements of the following members of the Central Ave. District Realty Board.

Members as follows:
Walter L. Gordon, President, 4065 S. Central Ave., ADams 3193.

Serve An Orange Salad

By BETTY BARCLAY

Number one idea for a summer menu is a fruit salad. Such a salad is popular with everyone and easy to make if certain simple rules are followed. Choose fruits for flavor and color contrast. The golden color of the orange, for example, contrasts well with the reds, purples and greens of berries, cherries, grapes and melons. Group fruits attractively on crisp salad greens (and be sure greens are crisp). Vary greens — lettuce, romaine, chicory, watercress, purple cabbage. Use lemon juice in dressings. Lemon juice does things for fruit salads.

For a further variation serve salad one day as an appetizer, again as an accompaniment or follow-up for the meat course, or let this dish do double duty as salad and dessert. For a luncheon or supper a satisfying main dish is provided by a cheese or nut salad. Serve all of these salads in generous portions. The body needs the vitamin and mineral food elements they provide.

Especially excellent as a salad fruit is the orange. It offers a juicy and refreshing base for many decorative and delicious salad combinations with other summer fresh fruits and is used as the base for the salad suggestions that follow. The California Valencia oranges in market this summer in such abundance are especially good for slicing, since they are firm-meated and practically seedless. With a sharp knife remove all skin and inner membrane down to juicy meat. Cut in thin even slices.

Some excellent fruit salad combinations calling for orange, follow:

Hollywood Appetizer Salad: From California comes the custom of beginning the meal with an appetite-stimulating fruit salad. For this, nothing could be better than an all-orange salad. Arrange a generous serving of orange slices on a bed of crisp romaine or watercress. Serve with Lemon French Dressing.

Orange, Pear, Grape Salad: Combine 3 or 4 orange slices; ½ large fresh pear, pealed and sliced; and 6 to 8 halved and seeded grapes. Serve on lettuce with Lemon French Dressing as a salad to accompany or follow the meat course. (Serves 1.)

Fresh Fruit Salad Bowl: Line individual salad bowls with crisp salad greens — lettuce, watercress, romaine, chicory or leaves of red cabbage. Group in separate sections in bowl: orange, pear and melon slices. For a dessert salad top with whipped cream or a spoonful of fruit sherbet. This salad may also be topped with a generous spoonful of cottage cheese, and served as a main course for a luncheon or supper. Accompany with Lemon French Dressing. Vary fruits in season but retain the orange as a flavor base.

Chef's Orange Salad Bowl: Lightly toss together: 2 cups orange slices, 2 cups mixed salad greens (lettuce, romaine, watercress, chicory), ½ cup slivers of cooked ham, ½ cup celery pieces, ½ cup Lemon French Dressing. Serve from a large bowl. Garnish with slices from 2 hard cooked eggs. This is a delicious main course salad. (Serves 6-8.)

Lemon French Dressing: Combine ¼ cup lemon juice, ¼ cup salad oil, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons sugar or honey. Shake well before serving. Lemon juice does something for salad dressings and is especially excellent with fruit salads. (Makes 1 cup.)

Judging from es, many of us think, as in the dark ages, that legs s and should be kept well ver. Unfortunately, how- y aren't kept under cover meets the eye, as a result, mes hardly pleasing.

les Will Improve Legs

e majority of us, exercise ost important factor in leg One of the most effective both for the girl with too s and the girl whose legs ding up is bicycling. Bi- its muscle where it belongs off unsightly lumps of fat. for the hips and stomach, is an all-round healthful If you haven't a bicycle, and can't arrange to rent r one, the same exercise hen by lying on your back ing your legs in bicycle n the air. This isn't as a as actual bicycling but correcting the figure goes, the same purpose.

in on your legs, too, is im- whether you go in for nd swim suits or merely ockings. Scrub your legs h a brush to stimulate the s and slough off dry, flakey skin. If the skin is excessively dry, especially after exposure to the sun, a little cream rubbed into the skin and allowed to remain will help correct this condition.

Hair on Legs Should Be Removed

And then there's the matter of superfluous hair on the legs. Nothing detracts from the appearance of the legs more than unsightly hair. The way you remove the hair is a matter of personal preference, but the point is—remove it! There's always the simple razor, quick, easy to use and effective. Then there are the paste depilatories which seem to melt away the hair at first using. Or you can rub it off with emery-board-like contrivances. There is also a wax which removes the hair very effectively when used by professionals and by some few amateurs who are proficient at the art.

Remember that your legs are almost half of your body. Get to work on them at once. They can make or break the whole.

What are your beauty problems? Write Marie Downing, Larieuse Beauty Foundation, Room 521—319 North Fourth St., St. Louis, Mo., and she will be glad to answer them. Be sure to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

CHILDREN PLAY WITH SAFETY NEAR FLAMELESS WATER HEATER

"MOTHER SAYS IT'S ALL RIGHT to play by the water heater," Bobby tells little Mary. Yes—mother enjoys real peace of mind now that the "matchless" water heater has been installed.

Of course, it operates on electricity, the only common source of heat without flame.

Mother and father, both, have low-cost Boulder Dam Power to thank for the water heating rate of only seven-tenths of a cent per kilowatt-hour, lowest of its kind in the United States. With the "matchless" electric water heater, they have all the hot water they need, safely—silently—and economically.

Open Sirens Have Meaning

When you hear a siren, reminds the Accident Prevention bureau of the Los Angeles Police department, it means that an emergency exists.

Pull to the curb and stop, and give the emergency car a chance. It is badly needed somewhere. Someone is in need of a doctor; a policeman; a fireman.

Give the emergency car the same chance you'd want it to have had YOU put in the call for it.

DEVELOPMENT OF AREA EAST OF MAIN STREET IS HOPE OF COUNCILMAN

Rasmussen Approves Action of Board of Public Works in "Killing" 1-Man Truck

Hope for more community playgrounds on the Eastside of Los Angeles, was expressed by the recently elected Seventh District councilman, Carl C. Rasmussen, in an interview yesterday. Questioned on councilmanic activity for the direct benefit of the Eastside section of the Seventh district, Rasmussen issued a statement exclusively to the EAGLE.

"I have personally conducted a tour of inspection of present playgrounds and a survey of possible sites for other playgrounds in the Central and East portion of the District," he said.

"It is my hope that, in due time, we shall be able to develop community playgrounds, especially in the area East of Main street."

ONE-MAN SYSTEM

Approval of the recent action of the Board of Public Works against the one-man system of garbage collection, which threatened to throw hundreds of Eastsiders out of work, was expressed by the Councilman.

"Having personally investigated the probable changes which would result from the practice of using only one man on garbage collection trucks and having personally taken a field trip to further acquaint myself with the problem, I was glad to appear before the Board of Public Works and register my protest against such a system.

"My convictions were based, not alone on these observations, but also on the contention that such a method would materially increase employment.

"May I take this opportunity to state that I consider it a part of my duties as your representative to fight, not only for an economical administration, but one which reckons with human destiny as well."

BY MIRIAM MATTTHEWS

The co-operative movement has grown tremendously throughout the world in recent years because it has afforded unemployed millions an opportunity to do something for themselves and thereby saved the humiliation of accepting either public or private charity.

Since a new cooperative has been organized on the Eastside in this city, there will doubtless be considerable interest in a new book, "Self-Help Co-operatives in Los Angeles," by Constantine Panunzio which has just been received at the library. It traces the rise of this movement in the United States from 1931 when a small proportion of the 10 million or more unemployed who shrank from relief, banded themselves into loosely constructed organizations, known as self-help co-operatives. Los Angeles County developed one of the principal centers of this movement and by December 1934 had nearly 45 per cent of all the self-help units in the United States and about one-tenth of the membership. Accordingly Los Angeles County aroused special interest which led to several investigations. This present study was undertaken to discover the extent to which the selp-help organizations are meeting the needs of their members, what the savings are to the taxpayers and the possible future of self-help co-operatives.

SWEDISH WAY

The Scandinavian countries, particularly Sweden, have developed co-operatives on a national scale, and most successfully, too. The explanation of the Swedish system by Marquis Childs called "Sweden," the Middle Way" has been widely read by the lay public, having remained on the best seller list for more than a year.

Bertram B. Fowler's "Consumer Co-operation in America" became one of the standard works on American co-operatives soon after publication and he has just written a new book called "The Lord Helps Those . . ." in which he tells how the people of Nova Scotia are solving their problems through co-operation. The author points out the miracle which has been wrought by the St. Francis Xavier University which began the co-operative experiment in this easternost province of the Dominion of Canada. He believes that the humble people of Nova Scotia have worked out a philosophy and a technique which is in advance of any similar movement in the world, because it has demonstrated so clearly and unmistakably the fitness of the common people to handle their own affairs and remake their own communities. Such a program, if launched in the United States, according to Mr. Fowler, would lead directly away from the towering factory chimneys to the smaller and more productive communities where men and women could develop a pattern for a fuller and better life.

In addition to the books mentioned above, there are also several very fine pamphlets on the subject: "How Consumers Cooperate for Credit," by Herbert Emmerich; "A Statistical Handbook of Farmers' Co-operatives;" "Fundamentals of Consumer Co-operation," by V. S. Alanne; "A Door of Opportunity: An American Adventure in Co-operation with Sharecroppers," by Sherwood Eddy; "Consumer Co-operatives and Private Business;" "Co-ops, How Far Can They Go.?"; "Co-operative Marketing" and many others.

Borrow these books from the Vernon Branch library, 4504 S. Central avenue and the Helen Hunt Jackson Branch library, 2330 Naomi avenue.

Wilshire Blvd. Would Be 160 Feet Wide . . .

If all the paving laid and maintained by the Los Angeles Railway could be transferred to Wilshire it would become a Boulevard 160 feet wide from downtown Los Angeles all the way to Santa Monica, according to statistics of the Los Angeles Railway relative to the vast paving projects laid and maintained by the company between and alongside its tracks.

As a matter of fact, Wilshire Boulevard, for the most part, is 80 feet wide and that would mean that Los Angeles Railway paving would build Wilshire Boulevard all the way from Los Angeles to Santa Monica and back again.

This does not take into consideration the fact that Los Angeles Railway paving must, of necessity, be deeper than that of an ordinary highway.

"For a clearer conception of what this all means," said F. B. Harris, Los Angeles Railway President, "if translated into terms of a sixteen-foot highway, the paving of the Los Angeles Railway would reach from Los Angeles to Fresno, on the north, or from Los Angeles to Caliente, Old Mexico, on the south, or to Death Valley or almost to Needles in an easterly direction.

This paving, built and maintained by the Los Angeles Railway, is a direct charge against the railway itself and does not cost the taxpayer a cent. It is practically all located on the streets within the corporate limits of the City of Los Angeles and represents enormous savings to the city.

What's Up?—

Labor Under Government Regulation

In London, despite the fact that war is taking the major portion of thought in world affairs, a bill was promulgated giving the Ministry of Labor power to control employment. Emloyers cannot engage or reengage employes without the ministry's consent.

Gambling In Stocks

Rockets Prices

Although the United States has declared neutrality, those that buy and sell in the nations' market of stocks, have little faith in the neutrality declaration, as it concerns commodities. Under the recent neutrality act, it would be unlawful to sell to belligerent nations. Unless there is some disposal of the commodities which have been boosted by speculation, the losses will be terrific. To protect their monies has been an incentive for war and patriotic propoganda on the part of capitalists since wars for profit began.

All's Fair In Love And War

This common bit of phraseology is not to be taken literally—the torpedoed Athenia flying the British flag, carrying 1400 passengers, should not have been torpedoed without warning and a chance given the passengers to escape; that bloodthirsty method of war practiced by the mysterious members of the submarine that attacked the Athenia is outmoded. Civilisation fights by rules of decorum these days—"Oh, Willie, don't forget your spats!"

The Americas To Confer

21 Americas, at invitations issued in the names of Argentina, Brazil, Peru, Colombia, Cuba, Mexico, the United States and Panama, are to meet in Panama City, "to seek to keep war from their firesides by united effort." The conference is not for the purpose of forming a military alliance.

Half A Heart In War

With Hitler to the front in the thickest of the battle, German soldiers and French soldiers, would, if they dared, lay down arms and embrace. Official propoganda has it from Berlin that French soldiers on the Maginot line and German soldiers on the Siegfried line have painted signs on their pill boxes: "We won't shoot if you don't shoot".

German Tanker At Sea

Not knowing just what to do the Pauline Friederich, German tanker with a cargo of lubricating oil, awaits the expiration of 48 hours to know what will happen. "I'll sink the ship with all hands aboard, before I'll see her taken over by the British Navy," the Captain states. At the expiration of 48 hours, the tanker must put to sea.

Potential Watching And Waiting

Sketch Subject: HENRY T. ELMORE . . . Ground-keeper.

By VICTOR NICKERSON

"Wanting to be my own boss . . . having that idea in my head and sticking to it." That was the determination, first expressed some years ago, that has carried Henry T. Elmore of 637 N. Dillon, to the top in his chosen occupation.

Born in Wetumka, Alabama, Mr. Elmore came to Los Angeles in 1924 and began working for the Agfa Film corporation. After working at Agfa for nine years, he left the corporation's employ so that "he might be his own boss and give his own orders."

Hence, in April of 1933, Mr. Elmore started mowing and caring for lawns. His capital consisted of a borrowed lawn-mower and hoe. The first week he earned 35 cents but after six weeks he bought a Model T Ford for which he paid $35.00. From this point his earning power increased to $5.00 a week and continued to rise gradually. After a year, he was able to purchase the latest machinery and a better car.

Today, Mr. Elmore has all modern equipment for the caring of lawns and grounds. He puts in new lawns, under contract, for numerous homes in Beverly Hills and Hollywood. Latest model power or lawn renovating machines are used. Although two men are regularly employed by Mr. Elmore, during renovating season, which is between the months of September to August, as many as six men are used.

From as lowly a beginning as can be imagined, Mr. Elmore has seen his income reach a substantial figure and now he owns several valuable pieces of property in exclusive neighborhoods. His large clientele has been built, says Mr. Elmore, by "telling facts and proving them to be facts."

Our Sketch Subject, is a good example of a man who has made something from an apparent nothing. He is a standout example to the young man who sees "nothing" in view to which he might apply himself. Rather would Mr. Elmore say to him, "Roll up your sleeves and make the feathers fly."

NAB 5 AS NARCOTIC VIOLATORS

Five men, two of them Negroes, were nabbed by police this week on two different charges of violating the State Narcotic Act. At 1518 Paloma street last Thursday night, police, answering a complaint, arrested two white men, a Mexican and Negro, Johnnie Woodruff, 35-year old cook.

The officers reported that Wodruff and his associates were mixing drugs in a wood shed at the rear of the Paloma street address.

Hunting bandits who had held up a liquor store at 43rd and Ascot avenue Monday night, police came upon a car, registered to Norris Brown, 1462 E. 43rd street. About the car, they said, was a heavy odor of marihuana.

Tracing Brown to his home, the officers said he admitted having smoked the weed.

ARMED BANDITS GET $176 HAUL

Two pairs of armed bandits, one couple white and the other Negro, held up two men, a Caucasion and Negro, police reported this week, and robbed them of a total of $176.00.

Charles Moon, white Coca-Cola salesman, the biggest loser, reported to police that he was robbed at the point of a gun last Friday evening of his wallet, containing $150.00 in currency and $20.00 in silver.

Moon said he was entering his truck at 18th and Paloma, accompanied by G. E. Dvillers, when armed Negro robbers jumping on either side, forced him to drive around the corner where he was robbed.

TOOK GLASSES

Two white men jumped on the running board of Eugene H. Hogan's car early Thursday morning and robbed him of his wallet, containing $6.00 and a pair of glasses valued at $22.50.

Hogan, of 984 E. 55th street, a Bureau of Water and Power janitor, told police he had stopped at the intersection of Vernon and Central when the robbers boarded his car, pressed a gun in his side and forced him to drive to E. 45th street, where they robbed him.

RUMOR ANDERSON WED TO ARCHITECT

NEW YORK, Sept. 7—Rumors persist of the marriage of Marian Anderson, famed singer, to H. O. Fisher, local architect. Seen together at social functions on the Atlantic Coast, the two are reportedly house-hunting.

Seek Girl Named 'Mary' as Man Stabbed

A brown-eyed girl named Mary will be hunted by police if Calvin Jones, 755 E. 31st street, seriously ill in the General hospital, dies. Jones allegedly was stabbed in a quarrel with "Mary," whose last name and address he would not furnish, last Friday night, at 639 E. 36th street.

Weak from loss of blood, Jones was brought to the Georgia Street Receiving hospital by Lendell Ratten, 1528 E. 55th street, who witnessed the stabbing. To police, summoned by hospital authorities, Jones refused to name his assailant and refused to sign a complaint.

FORGERY SUSPECT HELD BY POLICE

Irma Mrs. Gladys Calhoun, 1178 E. 25th street, arrested last Friday on suspicion of forgery, police intimated this week they may have the woman responsible for the theft and cashing of relief checks. Mrs. Calhoun, 28-years old, was taken into custody after she attempted to cash a check in a liquor store at 2423 S. Central avenue.

Police Arrest Son of Pastor

The peace and quiet of the Sabbath morning was shattered in the vicinity of Evergreen Baptist church, 40th place and Naomi streets, just before morning services last Sunday as two men, arguing over the proposed o ting of the church's pastor, fought.

Police arrested Verdrie McCord, son of the pastor in question, Rev. George McCord, and charged him with assault with a deadly weapon ,in connection with the cutting of Samuel Christian, 1142 E. 32nd street.

McCord, arrested at his father's home, 1658 E. 51st street, denied cutting Christian, although three people, one of them his father, claimed to have witnessed the assault. The weapon, a single-bladed knife, was found in the street near the scene of the fight.

BY FREDDY DOYLE

Flash: Dorothy (piano) Broyles no doubt, is one of the finest swing Pianist in this vicinity regardless of sex. Recently I had the pleasure of listening to Dorothy "Swing" out that fine "jive" which no one except she can do on the ivories. Dorothy is a local "Hepcat", being a native of Los Angeles and has a fine musical background. This fine pianist has played with many of the "top swing bands" in this vicinity and at the present time she is spending most of her time teaching her rhythm "jive" to many of the "ofay" rhythm seekers. I personally have named Dorothy as the "Boogie Woogie" piano stylist on the Pacific Coast.

Flash: Earl "Blimp" (drums) Warren is still "besting out" that fine rhythm. "Blimp" is a local "Cat", having graduated from Lincoln High school where he was an outstanding football star. He has played with most of the "top" bands here as well as played eighteen months in the band (pit) of the Follies theatre up-town, and as all of you know, a drummer really has to be "solid" in order to play the shows that this Theatre contracts from time to time.

Flash: "Doc" (Tenor sax) Booker is a new "hep-cat" in this vicinity, and hails from the state of Oklahoma of Chas. Christie's band for two years. Christie is the new colored Guitarist who just recently joined Benny Goodman's band. Booker is a learned musician and is a "killer diller" on that tenor saxaphone, swinging some nice "jive" in the "groove".

Flash: Local 767 of the American Federation of Musicians of this city received a grand ovation from the thousands of persons who crowded the streets to watch the Labor Day parade. Local 767, which is the Colored branch of this city, had over a hundred representatives in this great parade. The "swing band" on foot was really a "sender" to the many thousands of spectators.

peculiarities are often aid to film actors

While Hollywood normally dedicates itself to the attainment of perfection it often goes about this laudable business by capitalizing on imperfections.

A great many leading citizens of the movie capital reached the top because they had physical peculiarities that lent them distinction. Some of these peculiarities are pretty and some are not, but they've all proved gold mines.

No one ever has had cause to feel sorry for Martha Raye and Joe E. Brown, the owners of Hollywood's two largest mouths. A bad punster might say their mouths had won them wide fame.

Incidentally, one of Hollywood's perennial mysteries has been why these two weren't starred in the same picture. Paramount today had exploded the mystery. Joe and Martha will be seen together for the first time in "$1000 a Touchdown."

Possibly the most famous of all cinema "defects" is the minute growth in Bing Crosby's throat that gives his voice that strange sobbing quality—a quality that has made him the most popular singer of his time. And one of Bing's closest friends, Andy Devine, also owes much of his success to his "gravel throat" voice. Andy injured his vocal chords when a youngster by trying a sword-swallowing act with a ruler, but he's never regretted the mishap.

Eddie Cantor's bug-eyes that give him a look of perpetual surprise are among the world's greatest peculiarities, and Eddie isn't complaining. In the eye department also is Joan Crawford, who first won attention by her oversized and exceedingly luscious orbs. They still are her most distinguishing feature.

When it comes to noses, the lordly and bulbous proboscis of W. C. Fields stands pre-eminent. It is, naturally enough, Fields pride and joy. Certainly it has made him unique, and principally because it is just so doggone outlandish. Bill doesn't mind. This nose, which might be an unbearable handicap in any other walk of life, has helped boost Fields to the top.

Jimmy Durante likewise has made capital of his oversized nose, and as everyone knows he prefers to be called "Schnozzle." His favorite cartoon of himself shows a giant nose and nothing much else.

Henry didn't say anything about being jabbed, but Manager Mead did. He was purple with anger.

Henry had Ambers in a bad way in several rounds, and if he wasn't beginning to lose a bit of the magnificent constant socking power that has made him the greatest title fighter of all time, he would have knocked Ambers out, or at least down. His hands bothered him some, and the weight-making ordeal has become tough for him. But withal, he was still good enough not to have lost the lightweight title.

The last thing he said from beneath the kopeck on his lacerated eyes as we said so long was a little smile:

"I'm still a champion, so gotta I can't take it too hard."

He's still plenty of champion.

AFTER THE MATCHES IN WHICH NATIONAL CHAMPION W AS DETHRONED BY "SCHOOLBOY" FOR COAST NET TITLE

'SCHOOLBOY' MITCHELL UPSETS DOPE BUCKET IN TROUNCING CHAMPION

Oaklander Takes 3 Out of 5 Sets from McDaniels and 3 Straight from Stocks

By ALMENA DAVIS

OAKLAND, Sept. 7.—Jimmy McDaniels, national tennis champion, was decisively beaten here last Monday afternoon, stripped of his Pacific Coast title on his 22nd birthday by Harold "Schoolboy" Mitchell of Oakland ,in the biggest tennis upset of the year.

Making the first defense of his crown, won last year at Los Angeles from veteran champion, James "Slick" Stocks, and his first Coast appearance since becoming the country's leading Negro tennis player, McDaniels was beaten three out of five sets in the semi-final match of the 18th annual Pacific Coast tournament.

A near-record crowd saw Mitchell take McDaniels, 7-5, 6-2, 3-6, 1-6, 6-4; then an hour later administer a straight three-set defeat to Stocks, 8-6, 6-1, 6-3, bringing the title North for the first time in the Tournament's history.

BRILLIANT TENNIS

Skinny, hunch-shouldered, 21-year old Mitchell, whom the North has nursed three years for just such an occasion, played the most brilliant tennis ever executed by a Negro on the Coast. Likened to the great Don Budge, with whom he has played, Mitchell was complete master of McDaniels from start to finish.

The Los Angeles boy was unable to cope with the blistering line drives and neat placements of the Northerner. Returning to asphalt courts after a year of competition on the South's clay courts, McDaniels, only three weeks ago crowned national champ, committed many errors, driving the ball repeatedly into the net and hitting out of bounds.

Absolutely outclassed in the first two sets, the poker-faced youth attempted to recover in the next two and succeeded in taking 12 games to Mitchell's four. In the fifth and deciding set, he tied "Schoolboy," San Francisco Junior college student, for the first four games, only to lose his own service and the match game.

With McDaniels' defeat, Stocks, a Pasadena postoffice clerk, was deprived of an opportunity for revenge on the first man to defeat him in a Pacific Coast championship for 9 years. Dethroned on Labor Day of 1938, "Slick," former ranking player for USC, had left the bedside of his seriously ill mother, for the chance at McDaniels.

SEEDED PLAYERS

Out of 31 entrants in the men's singles, McDaniels, Stocks, Marion Wildy and Mitchell were seeded in that order. McDaniels drew a bye in the first round and advanced to the semi-finals thru Lionel Wilson, Oakland, 6-2, 6-1; and his brother, Albert of Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-0.

Stocks progressed to the finals through Ed Bell of Los Angeles, default; Wilbert Baranco, Oakland, 6-0, 6-2; Jackie Robinson, Pasadena, 6-3, 6-1; and Wildy, ranking Oakland player, 2-6, 8-7, 7-5, 7-5, 6-1. In the last named match, Wildy, playing a chopping, patting game, had the veteran two sets and four games before Stocks rallied and blasted through to a win.

Mitchell's march to victory was started by defeating Lay Simmons, Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-3; Calvin Edwards, Los Angeles, 6-3, 6-0; and Ed Salisbury, L. A., 6-0, 6-0.

At the start of the finals, Mitchell, winner of the Oakland Junior city championship in 1937, was on the short end of 2-1 odds. Starting off with a broken string in his racket, the score stood 4-1 favor of Stocks, before a suitable racket was found, with which he might finish out the match. Only in that set did Stocks seriously threaten the youth.

The necessary racket was lent "Schoolboy" by Wildy, only Northern player never to go down before the youth. The two have met in three tournaments and Wildy has always emerged the winner.

The crowd, largely Northerners, frankly favored its home product, but was forced to applaud the pluck, ability and fine sportsmanship of Stocks. Time and again, the gruff, tubby little Pasadenan broke through the new champion's brilliant play with a coup of his own and when bested by the frequent ace shots of the inspired "Schoolboy," joined the crowd's applause with a "Too good, boy, that's a beauty, boy," of his own.

The gallery was cheated of one of the major events of the tournament, the finals of the men's doubles by the default to Stocks and Paul Ford by Mitchell and Richard Dempsey. After his strenuous championship sets, Mitchell complained of a leg cramp and let the title go unchallenged to the Stocks-Ford duo.

Winter Loop Ball Goes to Gilmore

Winter League baseball forsakes White Sox park this year and moves into Gilmore Field, home of the Hollywood baseball club. With the largest array of talent in its 19-year history, the league will open Sunday, October 8, and run through the following January, according to Gilmore officials.

Joe Pirrone, "father" of Winter League baseball, comes out of retirement to assume active charge of organizing the six professional teams. The Philadelphia Royal Giants, featuring stars of the Negro National league, will head the loop.

Gilmore Field seats 12,000, while White Sox Park seated only 5000.

61 Huskies to Answer Grid Call at UCLA

5 Sepians Among Candidates for '39 Ruin Varsity

Prospects are rosy-red for UCLA's 1939 football team, according to the prospectus released today by the Westwood Athletic News Bureau. Everything known about the players, schedule and season before actual practice begins next Thursday, is contained in an 18-page report compiled by News Director Ben Person for the convenience of the Press.

Sixty-one huskies, ranging in age from 18 to 25, out of the Westwood enrollment of 7800, will answer to call to Varsity practice. Of that number, five are Negroes, the largest number ever to play on a major university team.

Eight of the 10 games on the Bruins' slate will be played in the Coliseum, with only the Washington and Stanford contests away. Only one, the opener with Texas Christian on Sept. 29, will be staged at night.

Indications point to considerable backfield versatility with every man but one, a triple threat. The former includes Jackie Robinson, track, football, baseball and basketball star from Pasadena Junior college, one of the fastest football players in the country, and John Wynne, sophomore. The exception is Kenny Washington, deadly passer and deceptive runner, who does no kicking. On the line for the dark blue and gold will be Woodrow Strode, tallest and oldest man on the squad, and Ray Bartlett, transfer from Pasadena Jaycee. Both are candidates for left end, (Strode shifted to that post during Spring practice), but as Bartlett is an exceptional defensive wingman and Strode, a pass catcher, it is likely Bartlett will be switched if need be, to right end.

RETURNING LETTERMEN

Strode and Washington are two of 20 returning lettermen and are playing their last year for the Bruins. Washington saw 439 minutes of action last season and Strode, 371. The five colored youths total 935 weight pounds among them, with Washington and Strode the heaviest at 195 each; Wynne, 185 and Bartlett and Robinson, 180. Strode is 6 feet, 4 inches tall, Washington and Bartlett, 6 ft., 1 in., and Wynne, 5 ft., 9 in Wynne is 19 years old. Robinson and Bartlett, 22, Washington, 23 and Strode, 25.

Head coach Edwin C. Horrell's system calls for a single wingback with a man in motion, a strong fundamental game, speed and passing. Incidentally, in addition to a new coaching staff and system ,the Bruins will have new uniforms of silver and blue.

Louis Down to Business for Bob

NORTHVILLE (Mich.) Sept. 7—Heavyweight champion Joe Louis got down to serious training here for his September 20 championship battle with Bob Pastor at Briggs Stadium, in Detroit.

Mrs. Mayme Stewart Downs Mrs. Scott for Singles Title

OAKLAND, Sept. 7—Southern California's monopoly of Pacific Coast women's tennis was halted here last Monday afternoon with the defeat of Mrs. Clarabelle Scott of Pasadena by Mrs. Mayme Stewart of Oakland for the 18th annual Pacific Coast Championship.

With the top players out of competition, the women's event, lacking the color of previous years, was highlighted only by the appearance of several promising newcomers.

Miss Juliette Harris, 1938 champion, and for 8 years reigning queen of West Coast tennis, and Mrs. Gwen Roberson, 1937 champion and 1938 runner-up, were both on the sidelines, recent illnesses preventing their participation.

In the semi-finals, Mrs. Scott, one-time P. C. champion, was hard-pressed to defeat a newcomer, Miss Velma Edwards from Prairie View college, Texas. Possessed of a hard-driving forehand, Miss Edwards, ranked 10th in the National tournament, forced Mrs. Scott to go three sets, 6-3, 9-11, 6-4, before going down.

SEEDED OF 16

Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Scott were seeded out of the 14 women entered After drawing a bye in the first round, Mrs. Stewart defeated Miss Lulu Chapman, 7-5, 6-4 Mrs. Cecil Ward, Pasadena, 6-4, 6-3.

Drawing a bye in the first round also, Mrs. Scott ran into a stiff set in the second round with Miss Gwen Davis of Los Angeles. Miss Davis had played the longest match of the tournament, 146 games, to eliminate veteran player, Mrs. Otis V. (Wiggins) Benz, in the first round. Definitely a comer, Miss Davis matched Mrs. Benz, at one time one of the best women players on the Coast, point for point, and game for game, running the first set to 12-11 the succeeding ones to 4-6, 7-5.

Mrs. Scott defeated her 6-4, 8-6, and after the battle with Miss Edwards, was floored by Mrs. Stewart, 6-3, 6-4.

Other promising youngsters were the Misses Rosamond and Pamela Patterson of San Francisco and the young junior girls' champion, Reola Wiggin.

In the women's doubles, Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Ward were victorious over Miss Chapman and Miss Elyse Buie, the latter of Los Angeles and in the mixed doubles, Edward Toppins of San Francisco and Mrs. Stewart bested Jackie Robinson and Miss Davis, 7-5, 6-2.

"In 'Black Workers and the New ...ions,' Horace R. Cayton and ...orge S. Since, in one sense, ...deals with the inter-regional ef...ts of the breaking up of the cot... kingdom, their book logically ...ows 'The Collapse of Cotton Ten...cy,' by Charles S. Alexander, ...d Arthur Raper's 'Preface to Peas...try,' previously published by the ...ne illuminating Southern press. ...e authors show that Northern ...lls were strikingly apt in providing ...uthern modes of life for black ...rkers, and that the picture of the paternalistic mill village could be etched in steel almost as well as on the textile landscape.

"We also find that patterns of interracial behavior do not vary, in any important sense, in the trade unions, North and South. The scenes of the iron and steel industry studied by the authors are laid chiefly in the North. Of the six large railroad car shops covered, four were located in the Southern States, one in the border State of Kentucky and one in the Northern State of Illinois. There is a section of the book dealing with the iron and steel industry in Birmingham.

"Messrs. Cayton and Mitchell are expert guides, taking the reader to actors in the drama of trade unionism, who do much of the interpreting. 'As far as I am concerned, I believe that the Negro has been a lifesaver to the steel company,' says the official of one large plant. 'When we have had labor disputes, or when we needed more men for expansion, we have gone to the South and brought up thousands of them. I don't know what this company would have done without Negroes.'

"Then we go to the unedited phrases of a colored worker in steel, interviewed on Aug. 24, 1934. 'They have organized the Amalgamated here,' he says. 'Not many colored have taken part because, knowing that it didn't mean much to the colored in the past, is the reason they haven't taken a part. All I can say is, in the past, boilermakers, machinists and so forth, who were unionized and had colored helpers, haven't permitted them to advance.'

"Negroes, however, are well represented numerically in the trade-union movement, which apparently has its own caste and class system. Colored workers have been employed in the steel industry in considerable numbers since 1900, yet they have made only slight progress upward in its occupational scale. 'Thus far, it seems to be the case that recognition of any right of the skilled Negro to be promoted to skilled jobs in competition with white men has scarcely been contemplated.'

"The Negro trade unionist has suffered under a double handicap—opposition to the trade union by employers and prejudice against him within the trade union. A third factor that has militated against him is what Messrs. Cayton and Mitchell call the generally antagonistic attitude of upper-class Negroes toward the labor movement. Their constructive conclusion, therefore, is that a strong federation of Negro trade-union members that could command respect is what is needed to break down prejudice.

"A federation of Negro trade-union members, as here conceived, would not displace the regular trade organizations, nor would such an association in any sense constitute dual unionism (the authors say). It would not be a movement to set up purely Negro unions. The trade-union functions for the interests of Negroes as laborers; the Negro federation would interest itself in those problems which have their roots in racial antipathies. There would be no conflict between these two organizations because of the fact that their membership would be drawn from the same source.

"Yet it may be that such a separatist movement would intensify the conflicts that now exist between the two races in the labor movement, and inject more of the poison of prejudice into the whole atmosphere in which we must work for better race relations. The improvement of economic conditions among Negroes in the United States, we believe, must rest upon a sound interracial footing. The authors have dealt here, however, with a subject that is encyclopedic in scope, and have covered a large and important cross-section of it in basic industries, in an effective way."

WORLD THIS WEEK

SECRET DIPLOMACY

"Let there be an end to secret diplomacy!" was a cry that ran around the world when the World War ended. "Open covenants, openly arrived at," affirmed the slogan heralding what was to be a new era of everlasting peace, as the Treaty of Versailles and the years immediately following, exposed the whole shabby tissue of Europe's pre-war diplomacy, with its secret "deals," its secret commitments, its secret alliances. But though the world suffered catastrophic losses and underwent incalculable sufferings during that war, it seems indeed, to have learned little. Events of the past weeks indicate Europe has returned to the old game of secret diplomacy it knows so well. Behind the very backs of the British and French envoys, Russia negotiated her peace "deal" with Germany. In last week's crisis, as in 1914, Italy remained mute an indecisive. All over Europe, chancelleries hummed with the busy chatter of diplomats, envoys, and foreign ministers, as if war—or peace—were exclusively THEIR affair. From all the momentous decisions of the past week, the voice of Europe's man in the street was excluded, though his shoulders must bear the momentous burdens of war. Open covenants, openly arrived at with the knowledge and consent of all citizens, may be hoped for, but as yet they do not exist. Old Europe learned her bitter lesson in the last war—and promptly proceeded to forget it.

THEY PAY THEIR WAY

It's an ill wind that blows nobody good. While the Treasury Department last week pointed to increased tax collections streaming into Federal coffers during July as evidence of business improvement, new evidence was also presented that the tax collector is sometimes guilty of robbing Peter to pay Paul. For though the Treasury report cited a gain in July of more than $2,000,000 in gasoline and motor vehicle taxes, the facts and figures of a new study by H. E. Stocker, assistant professor of transportation, New York University, demonstrate that the nation's highway users have for several years not only been paying their full share of highway costs—but more. Annually, motor fees and taxes produce half a billion more than highway users receive for roads and streets. Though this indicates beyond doubt that motor transportation is not subsidized, since it more than pays its way it should give pause to efforts to make the gasoline buggy carry an ever greater load. For in taxes, as in business, there's a point of diminishing returns!

YOUTH GOES TO COLLEGE

Higher education, definitely, is getting into the higher figures.

Here, for example, is the University of California expecting to tally a Fall registration of 18,357 students.

A gain of approximately one thousand over last year, it is likewise the largest student body on record.

One of the first concerns of the earliest New England settlers was to provide adequate schools for the young Americans in this New World. A very few years after their arrival, they even got around to establishing a college in Massachusetts, with the benefit of a handful of books, a few thousand dollars, and some very zealous determination.

What their reactions would be to the size of our giant universities of today can only be guessed, but genuine awe is almost certain to be one of them. During the last 40 years, the march of youth to universities and colleges has moved at an ever accelerating tempo. In 1900 you would have found a mere 114,000 students in attendance at colleges and universities. Last year, you would have discovered all of 1,350,000.

And this year, if the University of California registration is typical, will see college attendance growing to even greater size. Scarcity of jobs plays its part in this, for as youth sums up the case: "If I can't get work, I may as well study." We won't vouch they're all studying, but that the ranks of college-bound youth are the largest in history there's no mistaking.

"WAR OF THE STATES"

Though the echoes of the Civil War have long since died away, the war of the states going on in 1939 testifies to hazards in our own day which threaten the world's biggest and richest free trade area, the United States.

Viewing depression-drained treasuries, states have been tempted to replenish their funds from state tariff's ports of entry fees, and a host of special licensing charges and assessments. But they have not grown richer because of it. Building border blockades is a game two can play at!

Athletics and Religion

By ARCHIE WILLIAMS, from The Presbyterian Tribune, July 20.

Archie Williams, famous athlete of the University of California, who won the world championship in the 400 meter race at the Berlin Olympics three years ago, attended the peace conference recently held by Dr. A. J. Muste in Westminster House, Berkeley. At the request of Dr. Muste the day before leaving to run at Princeton he wrote this article. He is a member of the cabinet of the University YMCA and is to be graduated in December.

SINCE THE Neanderthal man won his first footrace against a sabre-toothed tiger, athletics have been with us. At first consisting of contests of sheer physical strength, sports now include games from football to pingpong. That such a thing as athletics has remained an important phase of existence since time began, it is not strange, when we consider man as a venturesome and enterprising creature.

The lore of the ancient Greeks is steeped with legends of feats of strength performed by the deities. More important, from an athletic point of view, is the effect of these legends upon the actual contests. The contests, or games, were originated to commemorate a celestial footrace between Hercules and his brother. From the outset they were religious by nature. Preceeding each annual event, the youths chosen to compete were subjected to a rigorous training period. During this time, the past record of each was carefully scrutinized to ascertain if any sacrilegious offences had been committed. In preparing for the event, along with physical training an intensive religious program was carried out, in order to prepare the athlete in mind as well as in body for the great effort. Daily worship periods were observed, in which each athlete implored the guidance of his patron deity.

Obviously, even to be chosen to compete was a great honor; victory in such contests represented the consummation of physical and spiritual effort. Examining the religious philosophy of these ancient folk reveals that the development of the body was actually a sacred ritual, and excellence in this respect was considered as a divine blessing. Even to these pagan people, whose religion consisted of confusing legends and cryptic doctrines, the wonder and glory of human life were the vital fibres of their divine philosophy.

Today, sports in general occupy a position of leisure activity in the scheme of every day life. From childhood, we learn to play instinctively, and the choice of games is largely a matter of circumstances and envisoment. For the most part, the prime motive of all games is ultimate victory. Many argue, and with good reasons, that the high premium placed upon victory has obscured the real purpose of the games. This point alone might well be the subject of a lengthy discourse. It is a direct analogue of the profit motive in business, wherein certain ideals must sometimes be sacrificed for the sake of monetary gain. In fact, these is a direct connection between this and professional athletics. Bear in mind that this is not a "slam" at the men who "play for pay", on the contrary, professional athletes have done much to improve the games which are indulged in by amateurs as well. The point is that one of man's baser instincts has influenced him to set a desired end on a pedestal far above the means.

The obvious question, by this time is, "What connection does this have with religion?" Think for a moment of the ancient Greeks. Their religious philosophy was intimately connected with physical development. Further, their code of ethics called for inflexible adherence to principles of fair play. As always, joy and peace were the ideals for which they strove in their simple existence. The logical combination of these precepts was obviously some form of game or contest, wherein they might give vent to their latent emotions.

Today, we consider ourselves fairly well enlightened upon most worldly matters, as compared to the ancient Greeks. Our ideas concerning all matters are more consistent in deails, and our decisions are tempered by the results of long years of experience. Our religions has been elevated from the status of folk lore and mystics to a plane of intellectual worship, giving a more reasonable conception of the powers of the Divinity. Naturally, we have divorced from our religious philosophy the more descriptive but less pertinent concepts found in those of ancient times—such points as objective heavens and hells, personified deities, and elaborate ceremonials, have fallen into the discard. So have athletic contests lost their place in the religion of the world.

Within the games themselves, however, lie all the possible situations which might occur in life. The trite phrase, "Life is a game," is far from an idle utterance. A little reflection will bear this point out surprisingly. From this, we may state that the same general rules governing the games of sport apply to the game of life.

A fitting conclusion to this article might be a general statement of the philosophy of the modern athlete: I play the game primarily because I like it. Naturally, in every engagement, I am striving constantly for victory. However, there is only one way to win, and that is by the rules, for a victory gained by any other means is no victory at all.

The LAUNDRYMAN

Once again an American white man has exhibited that fine capacity for impersonal judgment which to a large degree is the secret of the commanding position held by the United States of America in the world of today.

According to "Time" magazine, at the Missouri State fair in Sedalia last week a contest for amateur paintings was held. A certain white professor of Stephens college in Columbia, Austin Farley by name, was selected to judge the contest. He took one look at the entries, then unhesitatingly awarded first prize to a barnyard scene called "Farm Life". It was painted on a piece of cheap muslin in oils and shellac, and was the work of a colored matron, Flora Cornell Lewis. She had painted it while living in a battered farmhouse near the little town of Marshall, Mo., with her husband, a veterinary surgeon.

(For the benefit of those who may have forgotten the meaning of this word in this day of mechanized travel, it means a horse doctor.)

The remarkable thing about the affair is the fact that Mrs. Lewis has never had any lessons in painting whatever, although she has been constantly practising it since she was six years of age. Painted as if from an elevation, the picture showed a log cabin, a Negro couple in a buggy, a hunter and his dog, children drinking at a well, cats, chickens, livestock, a plow and a manure pile. Professor Farley said to white artists who complained about his decision:

"It is the finest piece of primitive work I have ever seen. If any riots start, you know where to find me."

No riots followed, but Missouri fair-goers stood in line to gape at Mrs. Lewis masterpiece. This incident — and there are others — only serves to strengthen this writer's argument that the door of opportunity is swinging more widely ajar each day for race members in this country. That many of the fancied obstacles to our success are but the fixations of our minds still holding to the images of the adverse conditions which encompassed our group twenty or thirty years ago.

We must wake up and realize that a New Day is upon us, that the American white man — as well as ourselves — is growing in mental stature and breadth of vision; and that more and more he is beginning to recognize talent and genius wherever he finds it, regardless of race, color or creed.

Our job — which we must take pains to impress upon the younger generation — is to carefully fit ourselves by intensive study and preparation, so that when Opportunity presents itself we will be prepared to acquit ourselves creditably along our chosen line.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

MUSE ADMIRER

Dear Editor:

The tendency to compare the social treatment or recognition accorded to them while on a tour abroad, has invoked no end of adverse criticism. This is as it should be. We are elated greatly whenever there is a spokesman of sufficient courage to express his or her mind in decrying such. Clarence Muse in his column "A Talkin' to You," is deserving of great credit for commenting on the falacious statements of a popular Los Angeles churchman who had been given hotel accomodations while a sojourner, for a few days, in Germany. It is no excuse to plead that it was the want of experience. Common sense should have been his guide.

But the Los Angeles prelate is not alone in this tendency. It seems that, with few exception, when an American Negro of any note travels abroad his first public utterance is to compare unfavorably his personal treatment in the United States and the place of his short abode. A person of discretion and discernment would think twice before lauding a country—however courteous to him—which has shown, not alone an intolerant, but brutal, attitude in its dealing with its minority group. The mere fact that one has been allowed the shelter of a hostelry over the night without the scrutiny of his complexion, is no evidence that his permanent residence would grant him that same privilege.

Too often we think of ourselves only. Pat us on the back and we forget the fellow who is being scourged. We have in mind several of our acquaintances who have gone abroad and were so enraptured with their reception that they concluded to remain. Did they remain? Well, there are no more enthusiastic boosters of the USA and its opportunities than they. In a conversation with the late Garland Anderson, this question of racial inhibitions and tolerance was broached. He was lauding the treatment received from of his English friends. We saw him afterwards. He was not so laudatory. So with many others. The American Negro who deplores his condition, but runs from it, lacks courage. It is known and we know that Intolerance, Ignorance and Bigotry are big handicaps. The load seems heavy to carry. From the plain, the mountain peak cannot be reached in a moment, but it can be scaled and reached by climbing. No country on the earth has greater opportunities for all than this USA. It is useless to deplore handicaps. They must be overcome through effort. We admire Clarence Muse for his spinal stiffness. We also hope that he will not be given abuse heaped on this writer when he assayed to criticize some Negro celebrities along the same lines.

FROM TOLAN

Dear Editor:

In 1940 Detroit will commemorate the progress Negroes have made within the past 75 years. It is our plan to show this progress from the contributions that Negroes have made in each state.

Committees have been formed in nyour area to develop and get ready the exhibits for this great undertaking.

We are anxious to follow the progress of each city and state through their local newspapers. Would you be kind enough to send us a weekly copy of your newspaper?

A War for Humanity—Up, Czech! And to Your Banners, Israel!

By WILLIAM PICKENS

At last the Prime Minister of England has caught up with the Man in the Street: the Man in the Street said last September that Chamberlain was doing wrong in trying to "appease" a bully by yielding to his unjust demands. The Man in the Street had learned that in common school. Perhaps Chamberlain was brought up in private and select schools—those that manufacture "gentlemen." But at last and at last this bully is to be met by his own methods.

We are sorry to confess that for some time we have felt sure that a war was the only way out: for the Czech, the Jew—and if only Mussolini does not have sense enough to stay out or to join England and France, it would be a way out for Ethiopia and Haile Selassie. To destroy every Italian in Ethiopia, the Allies would need only to ship guns and munitions to the Ethiopians, from British Sudan and British Kenya—and to close the Suez Canal.

And the Jew—a million Jews out of the 15 millions in the world, ought to rush to the service of England and France—to every sort of service.

And the Czechs: this is opportunity. The war cannot last too long before serious work can be done behind the German lines. There must be Germans too who are not mad, and who wish in their innermost souls for the downfall of Hitlerism at almost any present cost to the German nation.

And the Negroes of Africa: they can thank their stars that now there is a chance to stop this awful threat to "African colonies." The other European nations have been bad enough, but Hitlerism would be fair hell in Africa. And choices in this world of nations and races cannot be made on past history, but on present circumstances and the immediate future. The best future of all the Negroes of the world lies with British-French victory against this monstrous German thing. We shall always remember that the League of Nations, dominated by France and Britain, failed to protect Ethiopia—but only those of us who have more "feelings" than intelligence, have failed to see that it was not "race"—for Czechoslovakia was white, and Sapin was mixed and passing for white. It was fear of war, of terrible war, that bluffed the British away from support, greater support, of the Ethiopians, and that let the Fascists destroy people's government in Spain—that sacrificed Czechoslovakia and that held off almost too long in going to the defense of Poland.

If the American people ever take any sides in this war, they can take but one side: the side of the democratic powers—the side against Germany and against any of her allies. For the present, we should sell and give them any supplies, we should open up our credits to them. If I were President Roosevelt, I would delay invoking the embargo against the warring nations until Christmas, or until Congress has re-assembled and put brains into the law. England and France—and the others, if they can get by England and France, which we HOPE they can never do—should be permitted to bring their own ships and get supplies from us. For the present, England and France fight our battles.

SAGACIOUS SAYINGS

(Quotations from Frederick Douglas, statesman and orator)

"Poverty, ignorance and degradation are the combined evils . . . these constitute the social diseases of the free colored people of the United States.

"An educated people is needed to sustain an educated ministry. At present, we have not that among us and we value in the preacher strong lungs rather than high learning.

"It would seem that education and emigration go together with us, for as soon as a man rises among us, capable by his genius and learning to do us service, just so soon he finds that he can serve himself better by going elsewhere.

"The black man, unlike the Indian, loves civilization.

"Men who live by robbing their fellow men of their labor and liberty have forfeited their right to know anything of the thoughts, feelings, or purppses of those whom they rob and plunder."

"A man's troubles are always half disposed of when he finds endurance the only alternative . . . Frederick Douglas.

"There is no better material in the world for making a gentleman than is furnished in Africa . . . Douglas.

"Everybody in the South seems to want the privilege of whipping somebody else? . . . Douglas.

"We should get off the defensive in things that concern our present and future and begin to inaugurate everywhere an aggressive and constructive progressive policy in business, industry, education and our conduct generally . . . Booker T. Washington.

"It is a very strange thing, and not solvable by any moral law that I know of, that if a man loses his horse, the whole country will turn out to help hang the thief; but if a man but a shade or two darker than I am is himself stolen, the same crowd will hang one who aids in restoring him to liberty . . . Such are the inconsistencies of slavery where a horse is more sacred than a man . . . Abraham Lincoln.

"In all arguments sustaining the Democratic policy, and in that policy itself, there is a careful, studied exclusion of the idea that there is anything wrong with slavery" . . . Lincoln.

"I shall do less whenever I shall believe that what I am doing hurts the cause; and I shall do more whenever I shall believe doing more will help the cause . . . Lincoln.

Another Day

BY IVA O. REED

Another day to walk with God,
Another blessed day
To find, to mould, and beautify
A bit of shapeless clay.

Another day to listen to
The music of the birds,
Another day to think pure thoughts
And put them into words.

Another day to glorify
By doing helpful deeds,
Another day to righten wrongs
To dress a wound that bleeds.

Another day for recompense,
To sing your fears away,
Another dawn, another chance,
Another blessed day.

Let thy child's first lesson be obedience, and the second will be what thou wilt.—Benjamin Franklin.

PARK PLUNGE TRIAL OPENS

SUIT WOULD FORCE OPENING OF BROOKSIDE PLUNGE TO NEGROES

Plaintiffs Fight Jim Crow Policy Which Bars Negroes from Pool Six Days a Week

Trial will be continued at 10 o'clock this morning in Judge Clement D. Nye's City Hall courtroom in the suit against Pasadena city officials to force opening of Brookside Park plunge to Negroes.

Fighting a 25-year old Jim Crow policy, six Negroes are plaintiffs in a suit attacking the practice of barring Negroes, Japanese, Chinese, Filipinos, and Mexicans from the pool, excepting one day a week, Tuesday, known as "International Day."

Pasadena's 80,000 whites may swim in the city-owned pool any day in the week, Tuesday included, but the Crown City's 4,000 Negroes, only on Tuesday, it was brought out in the examining of City Manager C. W. Koiner by attorney for the petitioners, Thomas L. Griffith, president of the local branch of National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

From 1914 to 1930, Negroes were barred from the pool altogether, Park Superintendent W. H. Nichols, testified. In 1930, Nichols claimed, a Negro woman named Harris met with the Board of City Managers and agreed on Tuesday as sufficient for Negro swimmers.

PICKENS PRESENT

City Attorney Hulls will seek to prove that the pool is not tax-supported, but self-supporting by admissions paid to pool and whites would stay away, thus forcing the pool to close if Negroes admitted outside of schools, Brookside being the only public plunge within a radius of 12 miles.

William Pickens, NAACP field secretary, sat with Attorney Griffith. The courtroom was crowded with spectators, mostly Negroes.

Petitioners Harrison, real estate broker, 27-years Pasadena resident, and Stone, were questioned by Hulls as to ever having venereal diesase, tuberculosis, or to ever having been in jail or an insane asylum.

Petitioners are Charles Stone, William J. Brock, W. H. Harrison, James Price, Frederick M. James and Frederick Smith.

Defendants are City Manager C. W. Koiner, Superintendent of Parks, W. H. Nichols and Park Attendant Frank Hale. Defending them is City Attorney Harold Hulls.

A motion to dismiss the case when it opened yesterday, on the grounds that the petitioners should proceed by injunction instead of Writ of Mandamus, has been taken under submission by the Court.

RACE RESTRICTIONS

Initiated by the Arcadia chamber of commerce as a result of the current suit against Pasadena over the use of the Brookside Park plunge by Negroes, a campaign is under way to place race restrictions on virtually all property in the west end of the San Gabriel Valley.

High Masonic Rites Said for Sheffield

Masonic Leader Succumbs to Long Illness at Santa Fe

E. W. SHEFFIELD

As last rites of the impressive ceremonies of the high Masonic order were intoned by Rev. S. M. Beane, pastor of the Hamilton Methodist church, Wednesday afternoon in the lodge room of the Masonic Temple, high dignitaries of the Order surrounded the casket of their late departed brother and leader, E. W. Sheffield to form a fitting escort to Evergreen cemetery. Sheffield died Sunday, following a stroke, at the Santa Fe hospital.

The late fraternal leader was retired from the Santa Fe railway shops where he had worked for years as a mechanic. He was married and the father of three grown children. The deceased had held several high offices in the Masonic lodge as Past Deputy Commander of the Knights Templar of California; Past Grand High Priest of Royal Arch Masons; California Jurisdiction; Patron of Electa No. 3, Order of Eastern Star and Past and Present Master of Holland Lodge No. 20.

Members of the Knight Templar Commandery took part in the rites. Regally uniformed and plumed, they drew the attention of hundreds of citizens as they filed slowly out of the Temple. Members of the Blue Lodge and of the O. E. S. also participated.

The deceased, who lived with his family at 4445 Crocker street, is survived by his wife, Mrs. Marie Sheffield, sons, Milton and Herbert, and daughter Evelyn. He also leaves three brothers, Maceo B. Sheffield, former member of the Los Angeles police department; Dan B. Sheffield, S. O. Sheffield of Fresno. Sheffield was a native of Texas. A. J. Roberts was in charge.

Fire Station to Remain

Reports to the effect that 34th Street Station, manned by Negro firemen, was scheduled to be closed by the Fire Commissioners, because of the shortage of personnel, met with a storm of dissent by political, religious and civic leaders among the group. A letter directed to the Commissioners, relayed the unfavorable reception that the report received among Eastsiders as expressed by Rev. S. M. Beane, Dr. Albert Baumann, L. G. Robinson, Thomas L. Griffith, Mrs. Betty Hill, Norman O. Houston, Lieut. Homer L. Garrott and Dr. H. C. Hudson.

The Board of Fire Commissioners in its regular meeting September 7, detailed the secretary to answer the communication received from the Eastside committee to the effect that an adjustment was being made whereby vacancies were being filled in order that the station under discussion would not be closed.

Man Attempts Suicide While Drunk

To the elements that aid decay, Solomon Banks, 40, 1138 E. 47th street, this week owed his life. Banks, police reported, attempted to commit suicide by hanging while drunk last Monday evening and was saved when the rope broke.

Mrs. Virginia Banks, wife of the would be self-destroyer, told police that her husband had been drinking heavily and had come home at 6 o'clock Monday, drunk. He had removed the clothesline from its place in the back yard, looped one end around his neck and tied the other to a rafter in the garage ceiling.

When he stepped off a trunk, prepared to go to his doom, the rope, weakened by sun and rain, broke, spilling Banks unceremoniously, but unhurt, on the floor.

CLARENCE MUSE

A-TALKIN' TO YOU . . .

CLARENCE MUSE

THE MOTION PICTURE industry, the industry, the most vital element of our city of Angels, is confronted with a period of strict economy. The War has practically killed foreign business which was about 40 per cent of our income. How long this will last is any man's guess. So the only way out is in cutting the cost and sticking to American demands only. That means less English stories and more American plays and at nominal and sensible cost. To my mind, it should be a boom for Negro artistry. Negro antics, stories and music are definitely American. There is a great chance to build up patriotism thru Negro drama, because he is close to the earth and has suffered much in making this great country the finest place in the world. And again since economy is the watchword, with few artists of the Race receivng $5000 per week or $100,000 per picture, it seems to me a great field for money makers. No one, as yet, has made a real honest-to-goodness Negro story with genuine folk-lore and a true picture of a people that mean so much in the building of a country. Since the American market is the only place for distribution, it would be a smart thing to make NEGRO PICTURES. Not one or two, but many of all kinds, and I am sure that when the great tragedy of Europe clears away, the colored artist would be a definite fixture in the motion picture business and all this socalled Race prejudice scare would be "Gone With The War." It takes a great emergency for the colored artist to get a chance. When some years ago Broadway was completely gone, a dark cloud rose on upper Broadway, known as "Shuffle Along." And after cyclonic success, the skies cleared and Broadway became Negro conscious. Just last season, Ethel Waters and Bill Robinson gave the great brightway new hope and so the motion picture business that is lamenting and crying over the lost 40 per cent, can pick up a possible 90 per cent by arousing new interest, no tawdy in white audiences, but pride in a Race that always responds with its nickles and dimes when a Black hero makes the grade. Did Joe Louis do anything for the fight game? He made it a great business. He made Negroes fight conscious who before fought the foes. He made Americans love Negro physical power. Let's drive for artistic development at a time when business executives have time to listen. American pictures of another costs, portraying the true Negro as a pioneer and builder of American ideals. Do I get a second to the motion?

Charles H. Houston, special counsel of the NAACP, will handle the case of Miss Bluford at the University of Missouri.

It was also stated that Houston plans to seek further court action in the Lloyd Gaines case. The U. S. Supreme Court handed down a decision December 12, 1938, ordering the University of Missouri to open its law school to Gaines or offer him identical training within the state. Since that time, the Supreme Court of Missouri has reversed its former ruling in line with the high court's decision. The state of Missouri has appropriated some $200,000 in an effort to establish a law school at Lincoln University at Jefferson City for Negro students. Houston will seek a hearing in the State Supreme Court in an effort to determine whether the state of Missouri has complied with the high court's decision.

Thurgood Marshall, special legal counsel for the NAACP will handle the case of William Murphy, involving the University of Maryland, the NAACP stated. Murphy's case, if he is denied admission, will represent the second time that the Association has gone to court in an effort to force this border state to admit Negroes to its law school.

Urban League Concludes Meet

JACKSON (Mich.) Sept. 4—Stating that the dramatic action of the great democracies of Europe in going to war in support of their commitments to a small nation might well stimulate the American people to a review of their obligations to their own minority groups, the National Urban League and affiliated local Leagues in 44 cities throughout the United States concluded last week their 28th annual convention.

The Urban League movement, founded in 1910, aims at an inter-racial approach to the problems of Negroes who have concentrated in industrial centers. More than 200 executives and staff members held a three-day conference at the Green Pastures Camp of the Detroit Urban League, near here.

200-Gallon Limit on Family Wine

Mr. John Q. Public may manufacture wine for his family's use, but not in excess of 200 gallons, J. H. Maloney, supervisor of the 14th district Alcohol Tax unit, reported today.

Said wine must be sold or otherwise removed from the place of manufacture, Maloney said, and the operator of the home brew must register his intention with the Internal Revenue department.

Limitations on the exemption from the liquor tax included unmarried persons, unless they are heads of families; married men living apart from their families; wine made by a partnership or produced at a winery operated jointly by two or more heads of families; wine furnished to persons not members of the producer's family.

Nothing is so strong as gentleness; nothing is so gentle as real strength.—Francis de Sales.

Insurance Ass'n to Stress Collections During October

CHICAGO, Sept. 14—Having set a precedent in Negro Insurance by producing over $20,000,000 worth of new business during one week in May of this year, 44 member companies of the National Negro Insurance Association are now looking forward to setting a precedent in collections during the month of October, according to a statement issued this week by J. G. Ish, Jr., Chairman of National Negro Collection Month. Ish stated that 1939 had been a very good year for most companies and that as a matter of course, this year's National Negro Collection Month would be the best ever experienced by member companies during the three years that they have sponsored th drive.

In order to promote active competitive participation, the National Negro Insurance Association offers a trophy each year to the company having the largest collection percentage for the month. Last year, the trophy was won by the Pilgrim Health & Life Insurance Company of Augusta, Georgia.

Cooperating with Ish on the Collection Month Committee is George A. Beavers, Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company, Los Angeles, California.

GOP '40 Program to Include Problem of Unemployment

WASHINGTON (D. C.) Sept. 14—The Republican Party's 1940 program, it is hoped, will change existing conditions which disfranchise and disregard Negroes in matters of local and national governmental participation. Such was the ambition included in a lengthy statement issued today by the Republican National committee from the Publicity Division here, under the title, "Business Recovery Real Key to Success for Nation's Negroes."

"... Thoughtful Colored men and women are deeply concerned with respect to a Republican program which will change these conditions and put underway forces of progress and change," the statement read.

"The basic problem of unemployment" was named as the first objective of the Republican program as outlined by the Republican National committee and Republican Congressmen.

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Sept. 14,—1500 students were registered at Tuskegee Institute on opening day, Sept. 4. Classes began Sept. 11 and registeration will be continued until Sept. 21.

Registeration at Tuskegee includes much more than payment of fees and filling out of class schedules. Every new student must be photographed, must have a complete physical examination, be assigned to a Sunday School class, receive a meal ticket and entertainment course ticket, pay his fees and have his class schedule approved. Each male student who is physically fit must be assigned to a company in the cadet regiment.

New Work Relief Program Has Everybody Guessing

California's new Work Relief program, which combines work projects with cooperative endeavor, has civic leaders, business men and relief clients wondering when, where and how the plan will be put into operation.

The program, according to authentic sources, is definitely in the making and will carry out recommendations made in the recent report to Governor Olson's Unemployment Committee. Under the new plan, the SRA will be reorganized to create employment opportunities for skilled workers heretofore engaged as semi-skilled and unskilled labor. Relief clients with experience in managing mercantile businesses will be needed, and clerical workers will be required in the accounting and recording departments of the various cooperative projects.

HAWKINS INTERESTED

In discussing the program with a Citizens' Committee called together to acquaint the public with pending changes, Assemblyman Augustus Hawkins said, "The program in its entirety must be understood in order that relief clients may share in its benefits according to their training, experience and voluntary cooperation."

The Committee's first move will be the sponsoring of a public meeting Saturday, Sept. 23, at Phillips Temple C. M. E. Church to which high officials of the SRA will be invited to explain and interpret in detail the State's new Work Relief Program.

Montanan Had Savings Made Good By U. S.

A visitor to the EAGLE plant last Thurday was William Mundy of Helena, Montana, employe in the custodial department of the Montana Record-Herald, Helena daily paper.

Mundy attracted attention recently when fire, destroying his home, almost lost to him his life savings, hidden in a tin can in the recesses of his home. The can and its molten contents were shipped to Washington, D. Lightning Kills Slayer of 2

ATLANTA, Sept. 14—From among two-dozen quarry working convicts, lightning last week struck and killed Edgar Smith, murderer of two. For the fatal shooting of a man on January 6 and knifing a woman on Sept. 8, 1936, Smith was given 3-10 year and 1-3 year sentences, each. From the first, he secured a parole after 12 months time.

Friends and relatives of the slain man and woman, dissatisfied by the Law's penalties in both cases, felt that Smith had been punished by Divine Providence in meeting death by lightning.

With the filing of divorce papers here Friday, Mrs. Dorothy Louise Miles, made official her rumored seperation from the well known politician, Thomas "Tommy" Miles. Mrs. Miles charged her husband with "cruelty."

Food Prices And Profits

A Statement Of Safeway Policy

THE FORCES of market disturbance, fear, and speculation, are at work. Prices for some basic commodities have already gone up. Increases in Safeway's retail prices on these items reflect the rise in wholesale cost, over which Safeway has no control.

It is a fundamental Safeway policy to earn only a small profit on each sale. Safeway pledges that during the period of war emergency it will not change this policy; and that in the future, as heretofore, it will make every effort through improved methods to reduce distribution cost—the difference between what the farmer gets and the consumer pays. You will always be able to buy from Safeway at the lowest prices available anywhere.

Consumers may assist materially in preventing unwarranted price increases by continuing their purchases on a normal scale. There are adequate supplies of food stuffs for every American. Hysterical buying which strips retail and wholesale stocks creates artificial scarcity, which pushes prices to abnormal levels.

Machinery exists within the government to control production, storage and release of commodities, imports, exports, quotas and prices — if it should become necessary to employ these methods to protect the economic welfare of the country.

Safeway further pledges complete cooperation with the governmental agencies and with farmer producers in all efforts to stabilize prices; discourage profiteering; and maintain orderly facilities for food distribution.

By the way, Ora Jordan makes a swell chaperon . . . Elmer Mitchell made use of the holidays by sleeping . . . Oh yes, it wouldn't be right to finish telling about my trip without mentioning the swell people we met . . . there were three fine little queens, Misses Maxine and Lenore Hanning and Martha Ford . . . sweet but definitely . . . That war in Europe is nothing compared to the verbal bombardment I received on returning home from some of the fairer sex for writing such a complimentary article on one of the Royal 12 popularity contestants and not writing about them . . . Well, I'm sorry, "Butch," if I deprived you of publicity . . . There seems to have been a rift in the Courtney-Brantley love affair . . . L. For a long while, the picture studios have been referred to as film factories. Strictly speaking, this is a misnomer. Film isn't made here, but comes in carload lots from such places as Rochester and Binghamton, N. Y., and Pyralin, N. J., ready for exposure to such capers as imaginative scenarists can devise.

But the studios really are factories in a sense, with entertainment on celluloid as their product. And, just like the auto makers of Detroit, the meat packers of Chicago and the vast breweries of St. Louis, they draw their quota of visitors. Perhaps even more so, for the cinema has a glamour attached to it that is peculiar unto itself. Personalities are its raw material, and more fun to watch than, say, the molding of tires or the canning of vegetables.

But these would-be visitors to movie ateliers are doomed to disappointment. The studios haven't the facilities to take care of them. Working space within the sound stages is cramped, for one thing, and the danger of vagrant sneezes or other extraneous noises would be multiplied by the presence of casual visitors, for another.

So, although they have been honestly reluctant to seem inhospitable the studios have had to be firm in denying admittance to sight-seers since, in the past decade the advent of sound complicated the problem of making pictures.

With this the situation that now prevails, it is pleasant to be able to confide that one studio, at least, is about to experiment with a method whereby it hopes to open some of its picture sets to a limited number of visitors, and still not in any way hamper the business of production. The studio is Paramount, and it hopes to accomplish this at its new plant, for which ground will soon be broken at a large site on West Pico Blvd., about midway between the studios of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and 20th Century-Fox.

And they've a mighty ingenious way to go about it, proposing to install glass-enclosed balconies around the inside of several sound stages.

AT BURBANK

As one of any number attracted to prospects of seeing a midnight show, we attended the second edition of "Ecstatic Ebony in Swing" Saturday night at the New Burbank theatre on Main street. And in addition saw Nina Mae McKinney in "Straight to Heaven."

The most that can be said for this second edition of the stage show is that Ralph Cooper, Edith Wilson and Pigmeat Markham are therein. They were "Ecstatic Ebony in Swing."

"Straight to Heaven", a Million Dollar Productions opus and directed by Arthur A. Leonard, offered little to recommend it to theatre audiences. Especially is this true in photography and recording.

MASCULINIZED

Luscious feminity, says Wally Westmore, is here to stay. Mr. Westmore is in a position to know. He is makeup specialist to such glamour folk as Claudette Colbert, Madeline Carroll and Isa Miranda. And yet he advocates a masculinized aid to their beauty.

Westmore was daubing makeup the other day on Dorothy Lamour, also one of his charges and co-star to Robert Preston in "Typhoon".

"If you're really smart, Dottie," Westmore confided, "you'll use man-style shaving soap—any good brand—on your face. You, and all your girl friends, too."

"Shaving soap!" Dorothy shrieked. "Why, whoever heard of such a thing?"

"Men," said Westmore. "Men have known for a long time that nothing was so soothing on the face as shaving soap lather. They use it or suffer thru painful shaves. Good shaving soap is so mild that you can leave it on the face for 10 minutes without stinging. And that's a lot more than you can say about ordinary soaps."

WAR AND WARNERS'

Jack L. Warner, vice president in charge of production at Warner Bros.' studios in Burbank, told the press this week that his studio would continue its policy of "100 per cent neutrality" in its films, saying:

"We have a big obligation to the theatregoers of America. There are also many thousands who depend on us for a livelihood. To both of these groups we pledge that there will be no curtailment, whatsoever."

"Curtailment" in the statement referring to reduced production as a result of the European war.

WORTHY EFFORT

Halley Hardin's Colored American Cavalcade was received mighty well on Central avenue this week. Playing the Lincoln theatre, CAC's first release had to do with the recent United Golf Association tournament held here at Griffith Park.

Photography and sound was up to par and the former all-around athlete in Dixie schools deserves praise for his first effort in the short subject field. Material is not lacking, so Harding should go far on the basis of CAC's UGA tourney.

NO POSTPONMENT

Despite the uncertainity caused by war conditions, there will be no postponement of the release of "The Rains Came", the $2,300,000 production by 20th Century-Fox of Louis Bromfield's spectacular novel.

Telephonic discussion this week between Joseph H. Schenck and Darryl F. Zanuck in Hollywood and General Sales Manager Herman Wobber in New York, resulted in the decision not to hold up release of the big spectacle, which will start its run September 15, in 250 theatres throughout the nation.

It was Bromfield who introduced Marian Anderson, the noted songstress, at the Fox-Wilshire preview of "Young Mr. Lincoln" some months ago.

NO CHANGES—COHN

Harry Cohn, president of Columbia Pictures, today announced that his studio contemplated no changes of any kind in its production activities. "There will be no deviation from our regular production program with the sole exception of a temporary postponement of 'Arizona' for a period of sixty days. I have instructed all our producers, directors, and writers that full speed ahead is the working slogan of Columbia," he emphasized. We are not pulling in any horns. As a matter of fact we are spending fully five million dollars more on Columbia product this year than at any time in organization's history."

to the nation, and particularly to the Negro group is going on.

While I am leaving the scene (New York), I have not finished reporting on some of the things I have seen and heard. I realized that I already said what will be considered some hard things about some things in this great metropolis. What is happening among the Negroes in New York is identical with occurrences throughout Afro-America. Occurrences in small cities with smaller populations—with greater hazards of losing what little in business they have gained.

A PEACE NOTE was struck by President Roosevelt today in replying to the Marquis of Lothian when the new British Ambassador presented letters of credence at the White House. He asserted that the principal task of international statesmanship was to effect peaceful and constructive solutions of controversies between nations and thus to obviate the folly of war, which unhappily, seems to overshadow the world today.

Lord Lothian had stated that he was assuming office "at a time when the whole world is disturbed by war, by rumors of war, and by preparations for war." The new Ambassador assured Mr. Roosevelt that the first purpose of the British Government was "to do everything in its power to maintain peace, to bring about whatever political and economic adjustments reason and justice may require to bring the nations back to stable prosperity and stable peace."

The increasing affection between British and American foreign departments is fast becoming an item for general alarm throughout America. It is to be recalled that Mr. Roosevelt's friend and patron, Woodrow Wilson, once exhibited similar inclinations—just before U. S. implication in the last European orgy.

'Wanted to Die', Says Woman in Suicide Try

"I just wanted to die," Mrs. Ruth Romance, 24-year old maid, told police and ambulance doctors, called to her home, 4306 McKinley last Friday afternoon to investigate an attempted suicide.

Mrs. Lettie Rosco of the same address, told officers the young woman had become despondent and downed a bottle of rubbing alcohol. She was treated at Georgia Street Receiving hospital and allowed to return home.

Another woman attempted suicide with no success. After a quarrel with her husband, William, Mrs. Helen Kane, 26, 4163 Hooper avenue, drank a portion of a poison. She was treated at home by ambulance doctors.

Police Go to Hospital for Man

Police this week inquired at the receiving hospital for a man believed to be Harry Madden, 1144 E. 20th street, purportedly shot in the side by Mrs Lucille Patterson, 658 E. 36th street.

Mrs. Patterson told police that she heard someone outside her window at 4 o'clock a. m. last Friday and fired one shot just below the window sill. She said the voice that cried out resembled that of Madden with whom she had quarreled at a party the night before.

Three-Fold Fete Honors Russells

250 Persons Attend Banquet for Pastor, Wife at Elks' Hall

Over 250 persons attended the three-fold celebration banquet, honoring Rev. and Mrs. Clayton D. Russell, held last Thursday night in the Elks' Ballroom. Tendered by members of Independent Church of Christ, which he pastors, the affair was in observance of the young minister's birthday, his first wedding anniversary and his return home.

One of the youngest religious leaders on the Coast, Rev. Russell was married last year to Miss Gwendolyn Diggs, daughter of Dr. Charles Diggs. The two attended the Christian Youth Conference in Holland in mid-summer.

George R. Garner, socialite-singer, was master of ceremonies. The invocation and greetings in behalf of the Interdenominational Ministers' Alliance were brought by Rev. S. M. Beane. Greetings were also presented by various dignitaries, Assemblyman Augustus Hawkins, in behalf of the State; L. G. Robinson, for the City; Gilbert Lindsey, for officials of the Independent church; Mrs. Augustus Hawkins, for the sororities and Baxter Scruggs, in behalf of the men of Los Angeles, in general.

A special guest was Mrs. Frances Griffith, mother of the honored prelate.

Mrs. Russell, a local school teacher, wore a black crepe gown with gold brocaded jacket and gold accessories with a gardenia in her hair. In a short address, she thanked "thoughtful friends who had been kind" in receiving them.

Rev. Russell, in full dress, concluded his address by remarking, "After mingling with representatives from 70 nations, I realize more and more the challenge before the Negro of America for a more United front."

Chicago Prelate Visits Kin Here

Returning to his native city after an absence of several years, Rev. Owen A. Troy of Chicago, is visiting relatives here. Connected with the Seventh Day Adventist church, Rev. Troy is the son of Theodore W. Troy, pioneer L. A. citizen. His wife is the daughter of Rev. P. B. Bontemps, pastor of the Seventh Day Adventist church in Watts, and father, also of Arna Bontemps, famous writer.

Rev. Troy reports that he pastored five years in Chicago, after a 7-year pastorate in the West, then gave up his charge to devote his time to study. He was awarded his master's degree from the University of Chicago last year and is now working on his doctorate.

He plans to be in the City several weeks.

Seattle Religious Worker Dead

SEATTLE, Sept. 14—Word was received here of the death in Pittsburgh, Pa., of Mrs. Josephine Casmon, 55, well known local religious worker. Her husband, W. W. Casmon, adopted daughter and mother, Mrs. Mary Cooke, and Mrs. Mary W. Smith, left by motor Monday for Pittsburgh to attend the rites.

Mrs. Casmon had gone to Pittsburgh to attend the funeral of her nephew, James K. Brown, Pittsburgh organist.

Community Health Day Set Sunday at Temple Institute

Featuring an unusual program, the regular third Sunday Community Health Day, sponsored by young members of the Community Health association and the California Youth Legislature, will be held Sunday afternoon at Temple Health Institute, 4920 Central avenue.

"A Health Bar, presided over by Arnold Towns, Jr., and J. Hicks, will provide cold fruit and vegetable juices, of which patrons may drink freely without fear of a hangover," stated Dr. Ruth Temple, head of the Institute, in making the announcement.

The meeting will feature also a quiz hour with a cash prize awarded to the victorious boy or girl, led by Miss Melonee Temple and George Mathews. The regular blood tests and lessons in posture training, will be given.

Mrs. Fay Allen, recently elected member of the Board of Education, will be guest speaker, talking on "The Health of Youth."

Request Return of Bishop to New Orleans Area

WAVELAND (Miss.) Sept. 14—A petition, requesting the return of Bishop A. P. Shaw of the New Orleans area of the Methodist Church to the area for the next quadrennial, was unanimously adopted at the annual meeting here last week of the Council of Methodist churches in the states of Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi and Alabama.

Bishop Shaw was elected ex-officio chairman of the Area Council. His work was commended by Council leaders.

The Bishop formerly pastored in Los Angeles at famed Wesley Methodist church. A brother, Rev. J. Beverly Shaw, resides in Pasadena, California.

Church Has on B. V.D.'s-- Nannie Burroughs

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14—Nannie H. Burroughs, fiery leader of the Baptist women's auxiliary, declared that "the Christian Church has taken off the ideals of Christ and has on nothing but its B. V. D.'s," in an address before the Baptist convention here last week-end.

The convention was highlighted by an unsuccessful attempt to oust Miss Burroughs, head of a training school for girls, from her post as secretary of the women's auxiliary.

Calling All Twins

On Tuesday evening, October 10th, the Second Baptist Morning Choir will present an "EVENING WITH TWINS". Several versatile twins have already been secured to furnish the musical program, and all others not appearing on the program will occupy the choir loft and be presented to the audience. ALL TWINS not already registered are urged to phone the director, Mrs. Mozelle Te Outley, CEntury 21086, and she will visit you and arrange for you to share in this unique presentation.

Awakening Prayer

I banged upon God's window pane
Loudly to make him hear me.
When sleep did knit frayed, weary, nerves
He drew a trifle near me.

The burden throbbing in my breast
It some how faded with the night
The doubts and fears of yesterday,
Had no place in the morning light.

Oh, for the patience of the bee,
Who goes to work a humming,
Who never knows from hour to hour
From whence his nectar's coming.

Grant me a reservoir of faith;
Embrace me if I falter;
For I would weave a honeycomb
To place upon the alter.

Claim AME Ruling Illegal

TRENTON (N. J.) Sept. 14—The present rule under which the 1940 AME General Conference which meets in Detroit, would be made up of only three delegates from each annual conference is illegal, according to the Rev. I. W. L. Roundtree.

Rev. Roundtree pointed out that any change in the number of delegates should have been done by a two-thirds vote amending the constitution.

CONSTITUTION UNCHANGED

The last General Conference, he said, made a new rule without changing the constitution.

Should the denomination subsequently be involved in litigation, he continued, the church could not defend the legality of any of the actions of the 3-delegate General Conference.

JOHN R. HAWKINS' ESTATE VALUED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14—Total estimated valuation of the estate left by the late John R. Hawkins, financial secretary of the AME church, who died here recently, was placed at $47,900, according to a petition filed in Probate Court this week.

Whether it be for good or evil, the education of the child is principally derived from its own observation of the actions, words, voice, and looks of those with whom it lives.—The friends of the young, they cannot be too circumspect in their presence to avoid every and the least appearance of evil.—Jebb.

We have come a long way in our search for the secret of building good will for Real Estate. I hope it is less of a secret than it was before. The one thought above all other, that I should like to leave with you this afternoon, is a very cheerful one. It embodies the kernel of everything I have said. In this days' operation, service pays; the more you do for your customers, the more you will do for yourself, for of necessity, if you render service, you will put your business on a scientific and a truly professional basis, you will render more service and you will have more good will. And good will is the name of your business that brings the greatest total profit and the highest price in case of a sale.

These are the ambitions and requirements of the following members of the Central Ave. District Realty Board.

L. P. Why doesn't my daughter write to me?

Ans. Probing into this affair, it seems that you and your daughter had a misunderstanding about a year ago, and she left you feeling pretty hurt. However, all has been forgiven and forgotten, and she intends to write to you in the very near future.

E. A. M. I am writing to inform you of the wonders that your Charm Bag has brought. My luck has changed and my loved one has returned. We are planning to be married soon.

F. M. Will I be called back to my job?

Ans. In answer to your question I find that you are one of the many who have the thirty-day lay off. This is a period which you might spend looking for other employment. However, I vision your being called back to your work very soon.

R. D. S. What is my best move?

Ans.—According to your lucky stars and planet, you will receive the children, but there will be much controversy before they are granted to you.

GLOBE NEWS & GOSSIP

By Jay Gould

SAN DIEGO, September 14—Kayak II is traveling with one end East and the other West to Narranganett Park where he was beaten by the Eastern champ.

That strip tease dancer and art model of the California university whom George Dean of San Diego likes so well, is Eleanor Calhoun of San Francisco.

This writer will wave goodbye to San Diego today and say hello to the Pomona Fair, the largest County Fair in America Sept. 15 is the opening date.

That blast at John Levy, formerly of N. Y. by some guy who said that he had taken a certain L. A. socialite for 15G ride, must have been "junky". I don't think Mae would go that far.

The police had to really shoot the mob away from the box office at the Burbank theatre where Ralph Cooper presented his all-star girlie show, headlining Pigmeat Markham, comedian; starring Flora Washington, Three Hi-Hatters, Robert Jefferson, Billie Joe Bohanna, Ricky Burch and Esther Hines. Chorus lovelies are Millie Munroe, Clotilde Woodson, Louise Franklin, Aileen Williams, Annabelle Gamage, Olivetta Fields, Loraine French, Edythe Crain, Marceda Gault, Fannie Buford, and Henrietta Dean. Graceful models include Mary Ellen Britt, Suzette Johnson, Erma Small, Lupe Madrid, Jeanette Pearson, Maggie Mae Hathaway, May Pauter, Ida Coffin and Bennie Mitchell.

The biggest odds ever laid against a player in a golf tournament were chalked up against Lieut. Benny Ayers and Jordan Grant in the National tournament at L. A. The price was 5000 to 1 against each player.

Dr. R. S. Reid of Chicago, enjoying the land of sunshine and flowers looking and sight-seeing in Southern California, will leave shortly for the World Fair in San Francisco.

LOUIS KINGSIDERS

Papa Dee who has charge of the box office at the Louis and Pastor battle at Briggs Stadium in Detroit Sept. 20, has reserved seats for the following big names Della and Marshall Miles of Buffalo, Leslie Armstrong, Charlie Derrick, Black Dot McGee, Tim Stein, Johnny Walker and Teddy Horn, Artie Graves, Vernon Long, Bill McGee, Neal Johnson, Billy B. Brown, Fay Minder, Mack Harris, Sonny Lowery, Nat Earl, Bee Hill, Don Roby and TwentyNine.

Such beautiful and glamorous show lovelies ankling in and out of the late spots were Juanita Moore, Patsy Hunter, Lucy Battles, Myrtle Fortune, Mildred Moyd, Doris Ake and Louise Richie.

Dorothy Spivey of L. A. had stepped out of a taxi in front of the Dunbar Hotel and started into the lobby when the driver said "Spates" cocktail bar is next door. . . Willie Pearson and wife, Roger Price and wife, all of Cleveland, getting ready to take in the Louis-Pastor fight. Norman O. Houston, the Golden Stater and his wife, will be there too. . . Anderson Taylor of Pasadena stopped over night in San Diego on a business and pleasure trip.

Sonny Howard of poolroom fame in the 4200 block on Central avenue in L. A., was stepping out with a nice looking lady friend. It may be business but I bet he is enjoying it. . . Joe Campbell of Seattle doing the late spots with a bunch of show cuties, with one reminding us of his ex-wife, who is now in Atlantic City. . . Dolores Battles, Dunbar Hotel lobbyist, says that George Randall and Monte Hawley can only retire after they star her in their next picture. . . J. L. Ward, barber in San Diego will probably kiss and make up with his wife, suing him for an out.

The guy who said Bruce Kendley of Chicago checked out of the Dunbar hotel the wrong way around, must have been sound asleep when he walked out the front door with his pockets running over with money. . . Rooster Hammond of Detroit is betting Louis will win and taking all the Pastor money in sight, at any price. . . Al Ramsey at Del Mar lost 8 straight $6.00 bets across the board before he could make at $2.00 straight bet.

Another great show staged at the Harlem of the West (Creole Palace) by the one and only "Baby" Gertrude Cox, consists of such favorites as Norvel Reese, singer of sweet songs, Chestene Johnson, eccentric dancer, the great Baby herself, a bevy of beautiful chorines and the popular dance team Edwards and Pearson (Sepia Society).

Miss Roberta Brown of L. A. Golden State Insurance company and a former San Diegan, is spending part of her vacation with her family and renewing old acquaintances. She will continue to vacation in the Bay District ,which includes San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley and points North.

Card of Thanks

The Case family of Cleveland, Ohio and Mrs. Dovie W. Foster of Kansas City, Mo. takes this means of expressing their thanks to their many friends for the numerous expressions of sympathy shown them during the passing of the late Mrs. Emma Metcalfe, daughter and niece in Los Angeles, California.

Sketch Subject: CLARENCE H. PATTON . . . Clerk for L. A. Gas Company.

By THELMA O. DAVIS

Arriving in Los Angeles with the youthful ambition to get ahead, Clarence H. Patton lost no time on his way up the ladder of success.

Born and reared in Clarkville, West Virginia, Clarence was one of five children who after the death of their father, were forced to accept a lower scale of living. There being only two boys in the family, Clarence immediately assumed his share of responsibility and found a job after school.

After three years of high school at Kelly Miller in his home town, Patton came to Los Angeles and completed his last year at Jefferson High in 1923. In this short period of time he made a record that many never attain in four years. Respective, honest, and studious, these qualifications aided him in securing and maintaining his first position of responsibility for 10 years.

After graduation our subject was employed by the Hollywood branch of the Security First National Bank as collector and file clerk. For one so young—still in his 'teens—Patton deserves credit for the enviable record he made at the bank. His winning personality, grim determination to forge ahead and honest dealings, established for him a lasting reputation and an A-1 reference.

The next two years were spent at odd jobs and study. In 1935, however, Patton applied for and received his present position with the Los Angeles Gas Company. His four years there as a clerk have been a credit to himself and his race.

Patton has completed a course in gas utilization, sponsored by the gas company. He is still training himself for more usefulness to his employers and is attending a class which is designed to make for better relationships between consumer and supplier. This class is also sponsored by the gas company.

An active churchman and member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Patton says "Courtesy is my motto. I believe the public deserves my best and upon this foundation I hope some day to own a business myself."

Wm. Pickens Writes About Clarence Muse and Rancho

About 80 miles from Los Angeles by auto route, 8 miles beyond the beach of beautiful Lake Elsinore, Clarence Muse has acquired 180 acres of "desert" land and in two years has made it bloom about his newly constructed ranch house. World's Fair style, he has brought grown trees and planted them, mostly pepper trees, and plans to plant a great many of the eucalyptus variety,—trees that know how to fight the desert as Muse is learning to fight it.

He has chickens and pigs,—a great many chickens. In fact his chickens are paying already, some days the sales reaching as high as $40. His movie colony pals and the people of the Hollywood lots in Los Angeles are his best customers. He has a substantial house, has drilled for water, installed a gasoline pump, piped the water to a pressure tank and on from the tank to the chickens and the house. His chickens consume each day 60 gallons of that water. We helped him to do that last bit of temporary plumbing of the iron water pipe from the tank toward the chickens.

Clarence was expecting us and the barbecue was hot. He has a stone barbecue pit, and it was full of chicken, beef and pig. Mrs. Muse and daughter, Mae served an excellent meal. They were dressed as if for the beach. Clarence was dressed from the waist down, and had on no socks. He's a workin' man, and looked made up for a South Sea Island or an African jungle scene.—If the war shoots a hole in the movie business, well, Clarence Muse will be very busy just the same.

DIFFERENT PERFORMANCE

But what I am really writing to say is that this performance of Clarence Muse is quite contrary to the traditional opinion about the Negro and pioneering. It is said that the colored American wants the electric lights ready to turn on and the water piped in before he goes to a place to live. Here Clarence Muse has gone and bought a desert spot, with coyotes, sage brush, desert grass, and other creatures that have learned in a hundred thousand years how to liv where the rainy season comes once a year, and where dry death fights all life for most of the rest of the year. With water, irrigation, courage, and industry, wheat can grow in abundance on these everlasting hills. Clarence has a field of rye or barley (I am not much of a farmer since my Arkansas days) near his house, and is visioning great acres of wheat on the nearby hills.

And Mrs. Muse, "Bill", as Clarence calls her,—well, Ladies, she is certainly a great asset to this business. She is making things go at the town house and at the ranch,—and seems to like it. One simply cannot imagine Clarence Muse going forward without her. Like the best of wives, she helps Clarence by welcoming company, his company, at any time and with full heart. That

Carl Diton Victim of Poverty

Famous Composer and Wife Reveal Harrowing Story

By ANGELO HERNDON
(Crusader News Agency)

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Crippled with arthritis in his right hip, his wife suffering from a paralysis stroke, Carl Diton, nationally known musician, tells a harrowing story of fighting against tremendous odds to ward off the tragic impact of poverty which has overtaken him.

More than a year and half ago, Diton made an application for home relief on the WPA, which was promptly turned down. He was advised by relief officials to move out of the 8-room apartment which he then rented for $100 a month.

Five of the rooms were rented and Diton's share of the rent was $10.

In order to meet the requirements of relief officials he gave up the apartment and put his furniture in storage. He has surrendered all claim and hope of ever regaining possessoin of it because the storage bill already amounts to more than $500.

WENT ROOMING

After giving up the apartment, the musician and his wife moved into the one room where they now live. Upon the acceptance of his second application for relief he was certified both as a relief and non-relief client.

He told the Crusader News Agency he never received a full check, or got more than $28 during the whole time he was on relief. In April of 1938, his certification of relief was cancelled.

Several months later Diton got a job on the Federal Music Project in Brooklyn, there he worked for approximately 3 months. At the end of last February he was advised by WPA officials, against his will, to accept a job on the "Hot Mikado". Soon after he found himself without a job and ineligible for relief.

Diton is nationally known for his outstanding contributions to American music. Among his published spirituals are: I Want to Climb Jacob's Ladder; When the Train Comes Along; Every Time I Feel the Spirit; I Ain't Gwine to Grieve My Lord No More; Roll, Jordan Roll, etc.

Diton and his wife are both 53 years old, and have been married 25 years. He is a graduate of music from the University of Pennsylvania and served as director of music at Talladega college from 191-5-1918; Paine college, Augusta, Ga., 1912-14, and Wiley college, Marshall Texas, 1914-1915.

● LIBRARY BOOK NOTES

By MIRIAM MATTHEWS

Of the books published in recent years on the Far Eastern situation none have attracted such widespread attention as John Gunther's "Inside Asia". Perhaps this is due to the reputation he gained from his survey of current European problems in "Inside Europe" which has already appeared in several new editions. "Inside Asia" is a treasure-house of information on every part of Asia including China, Japan, Manchuko, India, Malaya, Siam, Persia, Palestine, the Dutch East Indies, French Indio-China, the Philippines, Iran, Iraq and Asiatic Russia. The author's fascinating presentation of the cultural and political history of each of these countries furnishes the necessary background for a clear understanding of the events, personalities, and forces which are shaping Asia today.

Claude McKay, noted Negro writer, considers "Inside Asia" of great significance for diverse groups of people and recommends it as urgent reading for every intelligent member of the colored American group. In his review of the book in the August number of Opportunity Magazine under the title: "Race and Color in East Asia," he indicates that his chief interest here is in exploitation based on race which he finds is worse in Asia than anywhere else in the world. The following is a quotation from Mr. McKay's article:

"Mr. Gunther shows that the actual condition of China under foreign exploitation and native militarists is appalling. Two million people die of starvation every year in China. Twenty-nine thousand dead bodies were picked up off the streets of Shanghai in 1935. No such horrifying conditions exist in the worst native areas in South Africa. Where Europeans control, Chinese have no social privileges.

The present prime minister of China was refused service in a passenger elevator because it was reserved for whites only, Mr. Gunther relates. Foreigners control all the wealth of Shanghai, but they pay no taxes. . . Those who have lived in colonies and seen the agents of imperialists degrade all of humanity in their treatment of weak subject peoples will understand that it is better for the cultural interest of mankind that no ind of people should dominate the entire world."

"Mad as a March Hare."

The rumor that Hitler is mad is substantiated by a leading research physician recently returned from Germany. many negro voices in comedy

Not since the filming of "Emperor Jones" have Negro voices been given the opportunity that they have in the "Marx Brothers at the Circus," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's latest madcap comedy.

For the spectacular "Swingali" number in this picture, a chorus of 96 voices—all Negro—is led by Harpo Marx, who never uttered a sound during his directing. Such well-known specialists as the fourteen "Plantation Singers," Billy Bohanan and Robert Jefferson in a "Jitterbug" variation, Eugene Henderson and Dudley Dickerson as soloists, combined to make this musical number outstanding. Among the 96 vocalists were thirty-two children.

The "Four Toppers," male quartet of Richard Davis, Steven Gibson, David Patillo and James Springs, also figure in the number, along with a children's quartet made up of Joe Anderson, Donald Brown, Cullen Morris and Gwendolyn Morris. And to provide background music for "Swingali," Les Hite's orchestra played. One of the best known swing bands in the West, Hite's orchestra had just returned from a record-breaking tour of the Middle-West, when it was engaged by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for the picture.

Another Negro to gain distinction, or rather added laurels, in "At the Circus" is comedian Willie Best, who plays the role of a Pullman porter completely upset by the antics of the Marxes loose on a circus train.

FLASH!—Red (Cass) Calandar and Lee (Drums) Young left this city the past week, their destination—New York City, reportedly slated to join one of the country's top bands. These two fine Cats will no doubt be a great asset to any band. Calandar is a very good bass man, besides having fine arranging ability. He has arranged for many outstanding bands as well as stage shows here on the Pacific Coast. Lee Young is a young drummer with good rhythm interpretations, as well as a grand personality, and a nice singing voice. Lee is the brother of the great Tenor saxaphone player, Lester Young, featured with Count Basie's band. This column is wishing the Cats the greatest of success while in the East.

The Great Count Basie and his band are definitely scheduled for the Palomar ballroom in this city around the latter part of October. It was once stated that the Count would be contracted for the Victor Hugo restaurant in Beverly Hills, but it seems those plans were canceled. There is no question that if the Count fills an engagement at the Palamor, this band will be the largest attraction that the ballroom has had, as well as the first all-colored band to swing there.

Leroy "Sneak" White deserves much credit for his band that is swinginf the New Colored Revue now on the stage of the Burbank Theatre. "Snake" is known across the country for his trumpet playing, also for his arrangements. He was formerly a member of Eddie Barefield's band and also played with Fletcher Henderson's band.

brilliant program climaxes opening week at gray's

Climaxing a week of activities with a brilliant program from the school, the Gray Conservatory of Music opened its 9th year of work.

A busy week of enrolling new students at the new location, 507 E. Jefferson blvd., ended with the program Saturday evening at the Patriotic Hall, for the Buffalo Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary.

Miss Victoria Rice, instructor of the violin, presented her "Singing Strings" in several well-played selections and was warmly applauded.

John W. Sturdevant offered clarinet and saxophone groups in a smooth and well-blended performance. They were enthusiastically received.

Maestro Andres Aragona, teacher of voice, presented his pupil, Ray Millett, who sang the "Prologue from Pagliacci" and then was heard in a duet with him from the opera, "La Forza del Destino." They were well-liked.

Prof. John A. Gray, head of the piano department, presented Phyllis Kelson and John Brown, Jr., who played several selections and received encores.

Mrs. Diette Gross, teacher of artistic whistling, gave a group of pieces and was forced to respond to a curtain call for her excellent rendition. She was accompanied by Mrs. Bernice Lawson.

Harry C. Stewart, a new teacher on the faculty, was heard in a group of varied numbers on the marimba. His performance of varied numbers 2 formance was warmly applauded. Stewart is the instructor of xylophone, drums and the marimba and hails from Santa Barbara.

A guest artist, William Wakatsuki, bass-baritone, gave an enjoyable performance with his rich and colorful voice. He was accompanied by Miss Chiyeko Endo, pianist.

Other teachers who were present, included Mrs. Zula Somerville, pianist and Henri Tardif, violinist. Tardif is a new addition to the faculty this year. A former teacher at the Zoellner Conservatory of this city, he brings a wealth of training and experience to this community.

Daily demonstration lectures were given by the different teachers of the school during the past week which gave students as well as parents a chance of becoming better acquainted with the educational methods offered by the Conservatory.

'wind' scored as slur on soldiers

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 14, (CNA)—A drive to ban the showing of the movie "Gone With the Wind", based on the novel of the same name was started this week by the Daughters of Union Veterans attending the 73rd encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The Daughters declared in a resolution that production of the movie was an "outrageous attempt to palliate the treason of the South and smirch the reputation of General Sherman."

"The war orders of the Confederate States proves conclusively the raiding and burning of the Southern homes and supplies were done by the Confederates themselves," the resolution declared.

"Were it not that young people will see the picture it could be ignored, but it is unfair that our boys and girls should be given such a distorted view of what actually took place."

The Daughters, boasting a membership of 34,000, voted to have each of their State departments confer with local censors and "endeavor to stop the showing of the picture."

muse and his rancho

certainly is co-operation in the arts, business, and anywhere else.

This ranch was not in existence when I was last here, three years ago. In fact, Muse had not bought the land at that time. It was "virgin" hill and valley and sun and coyote run, where nothing had ever grown except such things as nature had sown. And the coyotes are there yet. They travel from afar at night, looking for chicken and pig. Sometimes they meet Clarence lying in wait. But coyotes are children of nature that can fairly "smell" an attack before it is made. Scenting a human, they howl and turn and leave, before getting in gunrange.—

It seems to us that Muse has stuck it out toward success in the moving picture business better than any other Negro so far. The Negro role is a compromise always in the theatre and show business. The movie concerns are great business concerns. And the business success is a part of the consideration. The movies cannot separate themselves from the current of national or local life. Neither the actor nor the director can have his own way. They must get together. As long as there is prejudice against the Negroes, effective in the general life of the people, the movie business must take account of it.

Perhaps that is why Clarence Muse takes time out for interest in social movements; The last great campaign of the Los Angeles Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People was conducted under his directorship. Like Florence Mills of years ago, he always has in his professional mind a notion that this or that will have an influence for good on the fortunes of his race. Like Florence, Clarence is a same citizen, and knows that MUCH is desired but that only a LITTLE of it can be achieved in a day.—Perhaps he will build up that ranch in the same philosophy. We hope to see it, from time to time as the years come and go.

Stocks Loses to McDaniels in Exhibition

Suburban Tennis Club Presents 'Grudge Match'

BY ALMENA DAVIS

It remained for a group of 20 youngsters of 'teen age, organized into the Surburban Tennis club, to launch tennis on a commercial basis here. Executing a master strok over their elders, the youngsters presented the Season's first and only exhibition tournament last Sunday afternoon to well over 100 cash customers.

The private court at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Hardy, 9305 Compton avenue, was the scene and the long-awaited "grudge" match between "Slick" Stocks and Jimmy McDaniels, the feature. Mrs. Hardy is the sponsor of the Club.

In a couple of hard sets, McDaniels proved his victory over Stocks a year ago in the Pacific Coast tournament at Griffith Park, was no fluke. Sporting a beautiful, forehand, McDaniels who leaves home shortly for New Orleans, La., where he attends Xavier university, took Stocks, 6-4, 11-9. Teamed with Jackie Robinson, Pasadena ace, Stocks, also of Pasadena, came back a few minutes later, to whip McDaniels and his brother, Al, in doubles, 6-3, 6-2.

FAST CEMENT

The Hardy court, possibly the only private court owned by Negroes in the city, is a fast cement affair, set in the middle of a big backyard. Spectators lounged comfortably in swings, on garden benches and on the grass surrounding the central attraction.

Despite a few minor advantages, both boys played some fast and thrilling tennis. Seldom of late, has Stocks been seen to "put as much on the ball." A set of balls, incidentally, was worn out at each set. With blistering line drives, a hard-to-handle serve and neat placements, the ex-champ made the new national champion fight every inch of the way.

McDaniels employed the same stuff as Stocks, only he had more of it. He kept the fat little Pasadenan scurrying from corner to corner, baseline to mid-court . . . one thing about Stocks, he'll run. In hot pursuit of a ball, he fell twice, but bounced up again, unhurt.

Edward Bell "called" the singles match and Miss Juliette Harris, the doubles.

Gil Cruter Goes to Southern As Assistant Athletic Head

DENVER, Sept. 14—Gilbert Cruter, high jump star, formerly of Colorado U., this week became assistant athletic director of Southern university at Scottlandville, La.

Cruter brings an outstanding athletic record to Southern. For four years no national track meet has failed to include his name as a winner. He has been a member of American track teams which toured Europe and has been assistant coach of the Freshman football, basketball and track teams at the University of Colorado for three years. During that time the football team won two pennants. Cruter has published one book, two pamphlets and co-author of several articles on high-jumps.

The Colorado high jumper won his event in 30 of 32 European meets; won the championship in the Mountain States Conference; the Colorado relays; the AAU; the National Intercollegiate; the Kansas relays; the 100 meter swimming championship; the bob-sled championship; the Saloam championship; and the Colorado University ping-pong championship. He also won the motor boat race in Colorado in 1936 and the surf board races in 1936 and 1937.

That outstanding athletes do not have to be void of academic accomplishments is exemplified in Cruter's receiving the Colo-

Thompson, Bray Win at Olympic

A fistic jamboree of four 10-round bouts was held at the Olympic auditorium Tuesday night and the above-named gladiators came out on top and in the win column.

Thompson (the "Turkey") and Bobby Pacho met in the first 10-heater and for 30 minutes the "Turkey" and Bobby, a veteran of many wars, had at each other with Thompson having the better of the argument. Referee Charley Randolph awarded the decision to Turkey. It was the latter's first fight over the 10-round route.

Then came Big Boy Bray and Odell Polee and after 9 rounds, referee Lieut. Jack Kennedy halted the scrap and out went Polee, loser by a technical knockout. Bray thus became holder of the California colored heavyweight championship, whatever that means.

Tommy Tucker, whose claim to fame is a win over Yancey Henry, and Jack Dallas, staged a rough brawl for 10 rounds. Referee Randolph, alternating with Kennedy, awarded the nod to Tucker.

Number four bout, featured Baby Arizmendi and Joey Silva for the California Mexican championship and the Baby won the title, surviving butts, backhands, etc. According to Kennedy's count, the bout wasn't close although it was interesting from start to finish.

Matchmaker Jimmy Murray, who staged this fistic jamboree, told swatatorium patrons thru his boxing programs to watch "their local papers" for the card of next Tuesday night. He apparently meant dailies for the EAGLE went to press with no word of the contemplated card.

UCLA Football Squad Made Up of 'Home Town' Talent

UCLA's 1939 football squad is going to be pretty much of a "home town" team as shown by the fact that all but four gridders listed on the Bruin first and second string elevens graduated from high schools in Los Angeles or nearby cities and only two hail from out of state. The Bruin squad will appear in uniform for Press pictures at 9 a. m. today and for workout at 2:30 today, tomorrow and Saturday.

Center: Sherman Phinny, Fairfax and Martin Matheson, Hamilton.

Right guard: Frawley and Robin Williams, Los Angeles.

Right tackle: Mladin Zarubica, Hollywood, and Jack Cohen, Roosevelt.

Right end: Don Macpherson, University, and Bob Simpson, Manual Arts.

Quarter: Ned Mathews, Manual Arts and Ben Kvitky, Roosevelt.

Full: Bill Overlin, Manual Arts and Leo Cantor, Roosevelt.

In addition, John Wynn, fourth Negro on the squad and Ray Bartlett, fifth, hail from Manual Arts and Pasadena respectively.

Oakland Dailies Give Coast Tournament Full Coverage

OAKLAND, Sept. 14—The 18th annual Pacific Coast Tennis championships held here Labor Day week-end, made the daily papers, the Oakland Tribune especially, in a "great big way." Generous coverage of the three-day tournament by the Tribune was climaxed in the edition of Tuesday, Sept. 5, by a detailed summary of the finals. The Tournament's main event, the men's singles, was won by an Oakland youth, Harold Mitchell.

Stories written on the matches noticeably avoided constant mention of race. The final piece, under the by-line of Avrum Stroll, failed to point out, in any wise, that the players were Negroes, or that the Tournament was not cosmopolitan. Not once were individuals described by any of the slang terms for racial designation.

LAUDS ROBINSON

Stroll, pinch-hitting for Art Cohn, vacationing sports editor, in the Sept. 5 "Cohning Tower," devoted 10 paragraphs to Southern California's all-star athlete, Jackie Robinson, under the caption, "There Isn't Very Much This Boy Can't Do." Robinson went to the quarter finals in the Championships, eliminated by James "Slick" Stocks, 9 times champion. Summarizing the youth's exploits, Stroll said in part:

". . . He broadjumps approximately 25 feet, six inches.

"Jackie even tried a turn at baseball, and as he has done with every other sport, conquered it.

"And now we notice he plays tennis. "Slick" Stocks, who whipped him Sunday, had a difficult time doing so. Robinson fought the ex-champ some two hours before finally bowing to experience.

"If you can imagine a combination of Jesse Owens, Don Budge, Hank Luisetti, Ty Cobb and Jim Thorpe, you can adequately describe Robinson. But he's far greater than anyone of them.

"Thorpe couldn't play tennis and Budge couldn't jump 10 feet if three yards of that distance were downhill. And we can't imagine Cobb's going through tackle for a touchdown, or Luisetti's playing in the All-Star game. And Jesse Owens couldn't even make the basketball team he finances.

"But Robinson could do all of 'em . . . if he had time.

"Ironically enough, Jack is entering UCLA this Fall where he will be a cinch to earn a position in the backfield, a fact that is ironic especially since the Berkeley branch of the State University could have had Negro Robinson for the asking."

JOE WILL CONTINUE AS FIGHTER IF HE WINS OR LOSES TO PASTOR

Sparring Partners Have 'Field Day', But Blackburn Says Champion is "Ready"

DETROIT, Sept. 14.—Heavyweight champion Joe Louis resumes his final training sessions today in preparation for his September 20 title defense against Bob Pastor of New York.

At Northville, site of a race-track where the champion is training, sparring partners had all the better of sessions Tuesday. George Nicholson, who has been with the champion longer than any other partner, scored repeatedly with a left jab, as did Monroe Harrison, of St. Louis, a speedy lightheavyweight.

A query put to trainer Jack Blackburn for the seeming vulnerability of Louis brought the retort: "Joe is ready and I know he's ready—so why beat up sparring partners?"

Louis will continue his sparring sessions until Monday.

Whether Louis wins or loses his title come next Wednesday night, he will continue campaigning. So says Louis and co-manager John Roxborough.

"Joe won't fight again in 1939 after the Pastor scrap because another big purse would boost his earnings to a point where the Government would be collecting most of the money," Roxborough said.

For a little more than five years of professional boxing, Joe has collected in purses approximately $1,500,000.

The 35 men, seeking places on the squad are working out twice daily—early morning and late in the afternoon this week. After the first week the two practice sessions will be discontinued. Candidates must undergo considerable intensive work in order to be ready to meet LeMoyne College of Memphis in the Bowl on the afternoon of Saturday, Sept. 23.

The coaching staff will consist of Cleve L. Abbott, who enters upon his 16th year as director of athletics and head coach; Edward H. Adams, and Guy Trammell. John H. Brown, line coach at the Institute for a long number of years, has formed a connection elsewhere. BEER and ALE that are too cold when poured do not produce the proper "head" and do not release the rare aroma which is an important part of the enjoyment of taste. Watch temperature carefully. If too cold, dip container in warm water.

What Brand Loyalty?

The question of who is and who isn't loyal to the nation was vividly called to the attention of the editor a few days ago.

While stopping in the nation's biggest city, this question was popped: "What do you think of the war?"

"Looks like we are in for one." replied Ye Ed—and continued—"and you, I presume, will be among the first to enlist?"

"No, I no fight for this country. My home is Peru. My country will be Germany."

"I thought President Roosevelt had been so kind to the South American Republics that in his recent visit there you had pledged him not only your friendship, but support in case of war."

"We no sign nothing", was the caustic South American's retort.

Abruptly breaking off conversation with the foreign friend, the editor hastened to catch a street car and found a seat directly behind two stalwart Black American youths. "France and England had just announced that these nations had declared war on Germany, hence everywhere the talk was war.

"If this country gets in it, I'm ready to fight," said one of the Negro youths. This statement attracted the editor's attention. "But", said the latter, "what about the way Negroes have been treated after the World War when they fought along with others for democracy?"

"Just because some people below the Mason Dixon Line aren't civilized is no reason why I shouldn't be loyal to my country, which I consider the best in the whole world," was the rebuttal offered by the first speaker.

Quietly seated in the rear of the speakers, the western editor in the eastern metropolis, started comparing notes and digesting facts. Here was on the one hand a young South American who, because of his white skin, enjoyed all the rights and privileges granted under the constitution and took all, offering nothing in return.

"A black man, American by right of birth and tradition, denied nearly every right and privilege guaranteed to him by the 14th amendment of the constitution, declares that even though my nation disclaims me as its legitimate child, I shall still give unstintingly that service in time of war and that loyalty in peace that answers the definition of good Americanism.

"I do this believing that the time will yet come when the pendulum will swing and the hands of time restore liberty and freedom for all not only in words, but in reality!"

Hitler Breaks Another Treaty

Perhaps few people remember the London Naval Treaty of 1930. It was a ponderous document that delineated the boundaries of "civilized warfare". For instance, it was conceded that your enemy could sink merchant ships—but only after passengers and passengers had been deposited in a place of safety. Ruthless submarine warfare, the type that outraged the world in 1914, was declared taboo. This treaty bore the signatures of Herr Von Ribbentrop, German foreign secretary acting under orders from Hitler.

The sinking of the Athenia by German submarines was a direct violation of this treaty signed with great solemnity by the Third Reich only a few years ago. Thus Adolph Hitler adds to his amazing list of scrapped pacts and agreements.

It is easier for most of us to recall the altruistic statement of Der Feuhrere just before he nvaded Poland, to wit: "I will not bomb defenseless women and children."

Since that time, of course, Warsaw has been devastated with no quarter given its civilian populations —no consideration directed toward its thousands of children; for, indeed, Warsaw has the highest birth rate of any city in the world.

So, once again Hitler has violated plighted word. Certainly no statesman in the history of world politics has so consistently or successfully lied upon himself.

Check Lending and Spending

(Chicago Daily News, Sept. 8)

Sales of state and municipal bonds this year fail to indicate much local response to the popular revolt against governmental extravagance, which did register in the closing days of the last congressional session in the defeat of the spend-lend bill.

Of course, bond issues nowadays represent refunding operations to a considerable degree, and they have also been in large measure a result of "matching" federal PWA grants and other New Deal devices for pump priming. But the marked increase this year comes at a time when PWA has passed its peak and private capital investment should be given a chance to take up the slack.

The compilations of the Commercial and Financial Chronicle show that the output of the state and municipal bond shops in the first seven months of 1939 were $254,642,266 ahead of last year's corresponding period and $169,425,401 ahead of the relatively flush times in the first half of 1927.

With Europe and the Far East ablaze, this is a time to husband every credit resource for such needs as may develop—and they may be gigantic needs, indeed, needs that will admit of no delay.

The huge appropriations for national defense made in the last sessions of Congress with the approval of both parties will quite likely be continued and even enlarged. With war started anywhere, commodity prices naturally rise and it takes more money to finance the production and distribution of a given quantity of goods. That growth in the demand for money causes interest rates to rise.

Future expenditures for defense will cost more. It is folly bordering on unpatriotic conduct to accelerate such a cost boost by governmental spending on anything that is not imperatively needed. Later on, of course, the capital markets may be placed under rigid control as in the last war, to prevent the diversion of money to objects not of primary patriotic concern.

We all hope we will not have to come to that kind of financial regimentation. But to prevent it, it is necessary to practice frugality in all departments of public financing.

THE DICTATORSHIP "BUG"

The world is receiving an object lesson in the folly of dictatorship as the the thundering guns of Europe again utter their grim requiem to peace.

The all powerful dictator is a law unto himself. Surrounded by "yes" men, shut off from the wise counsel and helpful criticism which normal persons encounter in their daily lives it is little wonder the dictator becomes irresponsibly and dangerously drunk with illusions of his power.

Germany's chancellor is not the first to be bitten by the dictatorship "bug". So cool-headed a statesman, scholar, and soldier as Caesar succumbed to its deadly bite.

DIPLOMATS PLAY "POST OFFICE"

"Post-Offices" now proves to be a game that nations, as well as youngsters, like to play. The letter-writing marathon with which Prime Minister Chamberlain and Adolf Hitler held the attention of the world last week kept the statesmen of Germany and England thoroughly busy dipping their pens in ink—or was it water?—but left the rest of the world thoroughly uninformed. The veil of secrecy, in the best, or worst, tradition of European diplomacy, descended upon this interchange of correspondence between the heads of the two great nations. Whatever their content, whether of peace, war, or appeasement, they treated a vital issue of fateful importance to everyone, yet the people were rigorously excluded from any access to authoritative facts. Such closed-shop diplomacy is not calculated to make for fair and open dealings between nations, or allay the fears of their peoples. It has, at any rate, never done so i nthe past. The exposure of pre-war Europe's secretive and sinister diplomatic games in the years following the World War's armistice gave rise to the hope that diplomacy would henceforth desert its dark, whispering chambers and conduct its affairs in broad daylight. But that hope of the man in the street has not prevailed. Last week he saw diplomacy had only advanced to the stage where it was discussing affairs, of momentous concern to him, in tightly sealed envelopes.

CALIFORNIA IN BUSINESS

"A nation half free, half slave" posed a serious dilemma for pre-Civil War America.

On a lesser scale, America wrestles with another contradictory dilemma today, seeking a just solution to the problem of how long the nation's 25 million producing families can support 5 million non-producing families without eventually going into bankruptcy themselves.

On the recommendation of his Commission on Re-employment, Governon Olson has this week launched California into a large-scale production for use program in the belief consuming and producing cooperatives provide a key to this problem. Southern California becomes the first testing-ground of this plan which ultimately envisions placing 250,000 relief clients in production-for-use units, each unit requiring an outlay of $350,000 and comprising 5000 relief clients. Members of the consumer co-ops will buy their clothing, household goods, and food, directly from these consumer stores just as they do now at privately managed ones. That, in brief, is the plan.

The unanswered question is whether private enterprise can long survive against state subsidized enterprise. If a private enterpriser fails, he is through. If a state enterprise fails, it requests another appropriation—derived from tax funds paid by the private businessman! Logically, there is no limit to the expansion of state-operated businesses. Waste and inefficiency which penalize private enterprise, do not deter its course. Can California wage-earners and taxpayers, whose incomes are entirely derived from private business, put state enterprise into direct competition with the source of their own livelihood, and yet feel no harmful effects?

There are those who say "Yes!" However, it has never yet proved possible to milk a cow at both ends!

ADMISSION DAY

California was 89 years young last week!

With four score and nine shining candles on her birthday cake California honored her birth as a State of the Union on September 9.

The adventurous road California has traveled since 1850 provides a story of epic proportions. Gold, it is said, made California, and the aura of those pioneer days still hovers over its name. Gold from the earth and rivers is still a source of riches to be reckoned with, but in the black gold of her oil resources and in the free gold of her agricultural lands the State has broadened the domain of her empire far beyond the dreams of the early Mission padres and the first settlers.

From the pastoral age of a century ago when this territory was an isolated outpost on the the Western frontier, California has grown to be one of the most productive and wealthiest of States. It took men of courage and vision to make it so. Being still rich in vast resources, with that same courage and vision California can look confidently toward the future. A state only 89 years young has only begun to make history.

CUPID'S QUIZ

"The keynote of marriage is sacrifice!" states Dr. Knight Dunlap, psychology professor of the University of California at Los Angeles.

And if this be true, sacrifice is losing its one-time popularity.

Whereas the number of divorces for every hundred marriages 50 years ago was less than six, it is to day more than 16.

To remedy the situation, Dr. Dunlap advances a list of eight questions on pending marriage to be posed by the undecided swain just to encourage a look before the leap.

Sample testing points: Do I love her just as she is, with all her faults included? Do I like her family, or if not, is it certain that I shall not have to associate with them? Would I be not willing but glad to spend my life with her, sacrificing all activities not compatible with married life for her?

Meet "Economy Ed" Smith's Family

By WILLIAM L. PATTERSON, CNA Associate Editor.

Cotton Ed Smith, Democratic Senator from South Carolina, is one of the most vicious foes of progress in our Congressional halls.

He is the man who opposed 30 cents an hour for Southern mill hands. He fought the extension of government electric ownership in the South. He has been against WPA and the projects which would enable Southern white and Negro sharecroppers to secure a piece of land which they could call their own. These projects were killed by Smith and his colleagues.

This is the man who in "righteous" anger walked out of a Democratic convention because a Negro was to pray for the prosperity and well-being of our country. Smith is for the continuance of lynching in all its varied forms. He is against any kind of anti-lynching bill.

It was this man whom President Roosevelt sought to remove from the national law-making body. The President spoke directly to those who live in the territory from which Smith comes.

But the landlords and industrialists who hand-picked the Cotton-Ed have done their work well. They have disfranchised the majority of those over 21 years in South Carolina—white and black alike.

Their poll tax laws have driven the "poor whites" from the polls, and their shot guns and hooded gangs have sought to terrorize the Negro people.

During this congress, Cotton Ed was a stalwart of the "economy" bloc. Smith wanted to save the government money. He also wanted to save money and so he fought the Wages and Hours law and the Wagner Labor Relations Act.

But one thing this South Carolinian saw to was that his family was in the dough. Look at this record:

"Cotton Ed", salary only (mileage and other prerequisites not included)—$10,000; Charles E. Jackson, cousin, deputy commissioner of the Bureau of Fisheries, $7,461; C. Alfred Lawton, son-in-law, secretary, $3,900; Isobel Jewel, daughter, clerk, $1,800; Anna B. Pierce, daughter, clerk, $2,299; Mrs. Pierce's husband, R. F. C. clerk, $1,400; Albert T. Moore, cousin, Capitol doorkeeper, $1,740; Mrs. Charles Jackson, wife of cousin Charles, assistant in Smith's office, $2,200. Total, 8 jobs, $30,800.

• The LAUNDRYMAN

IT HAS become extremely fashionable nowadays for WHITE nations to use soldiers of Negroid extraction as SHOCK troops in their military operations. General Franco set the style in the late Spanish war, during which frequent mention was made of the Moorish legions which almost always formed the spear-head of his offensive thrusts.

The French seem to be following in his footsteps. Only yesterday I read that Moroccan soldiers, garbed in red pantaloons, were heading one of the main offensive drives in the Saar valley section. As I read, I began to puzzle over the question as to why French Army heads send these men to the front line of battle, garbed in such a manner as to make them most vivid targets for machine-gun fire.

Most modern nations dress their soldiers nowadays in the most neutral colors, green-gray, khaki ,etc., in order to render them least visible to the enemy. I presume that the white French soldiers are garbed in the generally accepted manned. Not since Napoleon's time, have the French soldiers marched to battle in striking colors, with hussar dolmans, flaming colpacks, grenadier bear-skins, and red boots with endless wrinkles. The aim of modern military science is to minimize the slaughter as much as possible by rendering the combatants as nearly invisible as human ingenuity can devise.

Making such an exception in the case of Negroid troops strikes this writer as being very callous. It is bad enough to have to be in the front line battling to perpetuate the dominion of one's masters, let alone being made triply conspicuous by being attired in the most glaring of all colors. Just what the idea of the French military heads is, I confess I cannot surmise. But from a civilian standpoint it seems a very poor one.

This war so far, from the American ring-sider point of view, has considerable of the earmarks of a "fixed" fight, I fancy, I can almost hear some of our bloodthirsty newspaper addicts growling; "Throw 'em out, the bums".

Fed daily for months on bloodcurdling propaganda fore-telling how ferocious and ruthless this expected war would be; about the pitiful shambles that would be all that was left of London, Paris, Berlin, the average American newspaper reader feels that there is something about this fight that is "Smelly", as far as the Big Three powers are concerned. Not that he is naturally a blood-thirsty animal, but rather that he has been led—for newspaper sales purposes—to expect a holocaust, and now the show utterly fails to come up to expectations.

The truth of the matter seems to be that in this latest of wars, owin gto the extensive remifications of the radio, a new technique has arisen. Each of the Imperial prize-fighters is striving to gain the sympathies of the millions of American ringsiders. Each one wants to appear as an honest, peace-loving individual who respects the sanctity of the other one's home and property, who will wage ruthless war only when the other party strikes the first ruthless blow. In short, this apparent reluctance is only a play-act, ehearsed for the especial benefit of formerly gullible Americans. Let us hope that we have not so soon forgotten the aftermath of the last war, and that we will unanimously refuse to let the "Same Bee Sting Us Twice."

• OTHER PAPERS SAY:

The Negro Press

By (the late) FLOYD J. CALVIN, condensed from The Catholic Interracial Review.

The growing importance of the Negro Press in the American social order is attested by a number of factors: the publication each year by the Department of Commerce of a list of Negro newspapers and supporting data on plant-valuation, number of employees, etc.; the listing of all Negro newspapers in the International Year Book of Editor and Publisher. the care given to the cultivation of the Negro newspapers by the major political parties during national and some local campaigns, and the emphasis being placed on journalism by the majority of the Negro colleges of higher grade.

The Negro press is now of

age. It is well over one hundred year old, having celebrated its tentennial in 1927. Its first editor was J. B. Russworm, first Negro college gradute in America.

There are about 150 Negro publications of varying importance, practically all of them weekly except one daily, the Atlanta Daily World, of Atlanta, Ga., founded March 13, 1932, by the late W. A. Scott. There are about 15 national weeklies—that is, papers edited in approved journalistic technique, issued in some instances from plants valued near six figures, with trained staffs, and some of the staffs, mechanical and editorial are unionized. The national weeklies carry from 20 to 32 pages, cover elaborately major news and events of special interest to Negro readers like Joe Louis fights. Negro college football classics, and extraordinary phenomenons like the Ethiopian war.

WHY THE NEGRO PRESS?

Simply because the white press does not carry Negro social news and is not interested in developing the Negro group as a social entity. The Negro press serves this special need of stimulating the morale of the Negro for progress in the American social order, and in keeping step with modern civilization. Nowhere else does the Negro get news of his special events, encouragement, stimulation and laudation for his achievements. And nowhere else is the fight for his civic, social and cultural progress more vigorously championed, as a perennial theme, and with more vitality, because the approach there is always from the intensely personal angle.

It may not cross the mind of the average white American that the Negro thinks in terms of the beauty of his women, the social future of his children, and the social, cultural and spiritual contacts afforded by his group. Any Negro paper reflects, first of all, the outlines of this picture in a given locality. No other paper gives this reflection of Negro life, so the Negro turns to his paper to know what is going on of first importance to him. Of course the Negro reads the white press too, for he must if he is to know what is happening in the world at large. Another penalty of being colored—you must buy two newspapers and keep up with two worlds."

ODDITIES IN THE NEGRO PRESS.

The press of a group is expected to reflect the thinking of the group. This is true of the Negro group. However peculiar conditions in the Negro group make for oddities in the Negro press. Some white readers feel that it distorts news, discredits its own people, and altogether gives too much space to unwholesome news.

This is attributed to a limited experience in building a society. The tendency too has an economic background. For instance, color prejudice not only blocks the Negro wage earner when he seeks a job, but it blocks the Negro editor when he seeks national advertising. The lack of advertising makes the Negro editor a marginal man—he must live on "short rations", the pennies his consumers pay for his product, rather than an advertising revenue, as is correct in the publishing business. This abnormal conditions causes the Negro editor to present his views from the more shocking angle, to make more of his own people buy his product so the business will pay.

WILL STAND FOR . . . DEMOCRACY

. . . When we look abroad and see how hate has climbed into high places we shudder for our own country. We do not believe such will ever happen here; but we ought to use every precaution to safeguard our own liberties. To be effective against intolerance, white and colored of like mind and heart must work together to stem the unholy tide. The Negro press can be counted to stand firm for the principles of democracy. But the Negro editor is logical. He wants the right hand of true fellowship for his own group so that his arguments for fairplay will not sound hollow in his own ears. After all, the Negro editor must live with himself. If he is convinced that America is moving steadily toward the light of tolerance and fairplay for ALL, he will throw the full force of his strength on the side of social justice.

Son of a Slave or Son of Ham?

From The Voice of Ethiopia

When a Black man in the West attains eminence in some field, it is frequently pointed out that either his parents or grandparents were slaves. We know that in part this is intended as a tribute to the ambition and courage of Blacks in advancing themselves. But there is a diabolical factor, a degrading and malignant intent in this saying that such and such a one was the son or grandson of slaves. There is this important psychological effect: that such a reference tends to fix the origin, the genesis, the foundation, the beginning of Blacks, in slavery.

Blacks were not born to hew wood and draw water and humble themselves before others. The beginning of Black men was not in servitude.

Slavery was an interruption of the course of the lives of some of our people in Africa. Our ancestors were brought here by fraud and made to till the soil without compensation.

Maybe a wise Providence decreed it so. We do not know. However, we, the descendants of those Africans, stolen from their country and enslaved in the West, find ourselves in a position of knowing the ways of the West. If these ways are of use to Africa, we are the ones who can apply them there.

Let us not think of ourselves as the children of slaves, but as the sons of Kush, the son Ham, the son of Noah. A great line. We are descended from the ancient and honorable. We have overcome slavery. Our patience, and strength and endurance carried us though the years of suffering, and sorrow and tribulation. Let us not stop here. Let us push forward. Let us reclaim our ancient heritage, for we are the sons of Ham, we are the sons of God.

NO RACIAL CRIMES

(From the Atlanta Daily World)

Many Atlantans have been heard to express the opinion that the murderer, who after killing his victim, stuffed her in a trunk at Washington and shipped it via baggage check to Atlanta, could not have been a Negro, because Negroes just don't do things like that.

While it is not our desire to contend that the slayer was red, white, black or any other color, the argument that the crime could not have been committed by a Negro struck us as being very foolish. It is the same argument, the [illegible] of which has reacted so unfavorably against American Negroes for lo, these many years.

This same belief that certain crimes can be generally laid at the door of certain races, has resulted in the totally untrue yet universal assumption of many police officials that every time someone is criminally attacked, the assailant's face must have been black; that every time someone is murdered with a razor, the racial identity of the killer is fairly certain; that every time chickens chance to be missing, the thief is sure to be found in a colored district.

This effort to label certain crimes as racial has resulted in many an innocent person's life being taken either by the state or a mob, and many more cases of innocent individuals being deprived of their liberty for long periods.

Criminals or other races have been known to take advantage of this stupid belief in racial crimes. Daily one can read in the newspapers where crimes charged to Negroes, have later been discovered to have been perpetuated by individuals who found burnt cork an extremely convenient disguise.

Criminologists have long ago concluded that there are no racial crimes, that the tendency to criminal acts is no more prevalent in one race than it is in the other. Environment and economics are the twin determiners of criminal tendencies, not race.

It is just an absurd fallacy then for our people to conclude that the trunk murderer was white, merely because he devised the ingenious plan of disposing of his victim's body as it is for other people to foolishly assert that certain crimes are definitely Negroid.

Dear Editor:

As you know, the Board of Public Works refused the request of the Bureau of Engineering for the installation of one-man trucks for city refuse collection. The Municipal Refuse Collectors Relief Association feels that your help was invaluable in defeating this measure. As attorney for the Association, I wish to extend to you, and thru you to your organization, our sincerest thanks for your aid.

Louis Successfully Defends His Title for Eighth Time

BRIGGS STADIUM, DETROIT, Sept. 21. (Special). — Dark Dynamite exploded here last night and left Bob Pastor, challenger for the heavyweight championship, groveling in the resin.

Dark dynamite is Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world, who defended his crown the eighth consecutive time successfully last night against the game a stand as he had faced.

JOE LOUIS "Stops Pastor"

tor.

The end came unexpectedly in the early moments of the 11th round, 38 seconds to be exact. It was unexpected because it appeared that Pastor had overcome the effects of four earlier visitations to the canvas and was well on his way to staying the limit a second time with the Brown Bomber.

45,000 PRESENT

Approximately 45,000 cheering spectators saw Jolting Joe floor Pastor three times in the first heat and once in the second. As the fight wore on, especially in the eighth and ninth rounds, Pastor began to make a better showing against Louis. Employing the same tactics that he used in 1937 against Louis in New York, in a bout in which he stayed the distance but lost the decision, Bob was able to bob and weave and stay out of harm's reach for the most part.

Louis changed his tactics. He was constantly boring in, taking advantage of every opening. Pastor made his mistake in the eleventh and that was all. Pastor rose to both knees, when referee Sam Hennessy neared "10" but he could not rise.

PRAISES FOE

Following the battle Louis had nothing but praise for Pastor saying the challenger put up as game a stand he had faced.

The champion's next appearance will be in June, probably against Tony Galento who last week technically knocked out Lou Nova to earn his second shot at the title.

Clarence Muse Boosts Vets'

Clarence Muse, stage, screen, radio veteran, writes: The Veterans of Foreign Wars Col. Jas. erans of Foreign Wars, Col. James M. Beck Post, will offer a benefit show on October 15, at the Savoy Theatre to interest civic loving citizens. The boys are creating their own play among the ranks called "Fall In," written by Seargent Gus Robinson. This is unique because I am sure soldiers of the World War have plenty to tell that the average novelist might miss. And in as much as war is on the horizon again it might be a good thing to go and hear what the soldier of the last war has to say before we get into another one. I am sure no citizen has more reasons than an ex-soldier, why we should not go to war or become entangled in European politics. The proceeds will be for the relief fund among needy and sick.

I, Clarence Muse, say go to this benefit, it is worthy.

Warning to Housewives

Police this week warned housewives to be careful of awarding free access to their homes to burglars by leaving windows and screens raised and unlocked in efforts to gain relief from the extreme heat.

"If windows which are accessible from the ground must be raised", authorities warned, "keep screens securely locked, and keep a light near the open window.

"Above all do not go away from home and leave windows open or unlocked."

The warning grew out of the burglary of the home of Mrs. Gladys Reed, 3727 Paloma street among other victims. While bathing last Thursday night Mrs. Reed told officers she heard a noise in her bedroom. After her bath was finished, she went into the bedroom and found the screen raised and her purse containing $10.00 gone.

Mills Killed as 2 Trucks Collide

Pasadena Realty Broker Prominent in Tennis Circles

Traffic collisions claimed the life of the second prominent Pasadenan in shortly over two months with the death Tuesday of Clarence Mills, Pasadena realty broker and prominent figure in West Coast tennis.

Mills died at the General hospital of injuries received when a truck he was driving collided with another on a Pico Park boulevard. Last July 10, Frank Robinson of Pasadena, brother of famed athletes Mack and Jackie Robinson, was killed in a motorcycle-automobile collision.

Mills was one of five traffic deaths in Los Angeles County on Tuesday alone. His truck struck one driven by Albert G. Vollmer, 42, of 1766 E. 21st street, at Rosemead blvd. and Gallatin Road. Unhurt, Vollmer was not

Lawyer Raps Vice Squad Agents

Attacks System of "Plants" in Woman's Defense

"Stool-pigeon vice squad investigators were hotly denounced in the prostitution trial of Mrs. Esther Smith, of 140 Pasadena Avenue, by her attorney William W. Larson, who combined wizardry with words in violent pleas for his client, last week.

Larson bitterly attacked the system of undercover police "plants" in vice cases and labeled the two investigators involved in the Smith affair as "rats".

Attorney Larson scornfully referred to the fact that, from the witness stand, one of the agents, who are both white, admitted an affair with the woman in the line of duty.

MIXES MAGIC WITH LAW

Hinting that the marked $1 bill which was found between mattresses of Mrs. Smith's bed when vice squad members broke into her house on the night of August 14 and which one of the secret agents said Mrs. Smith accepted from him might easily have been planted by the "stool-pigeon." Attorney Larson highlighted the accusation with a bit of magic and drew a dollar bill from beneath one of the surprised juror's hat.

DEFENDS AGENTS

In his speech to the jury, City Prosecutor John Joslyn explained that the use of undercover agents "is a necessary phase of police investigation" and that the agents, who are usually gentlemen, "often lose their lives while doing their distasteful duties".

Joslyn also reminded the jury that Mrs. Smith pleaded guilty to a similar charge a year ago and paid a $50 fine rather than spend 25 days in the county jail.

Deliberations of the jury which contained seven men and five women required an hour and 40 minutes before a verdict of guilty was returned.

SENTENCED TO JAIL

Mrs. Smith, who, in her testimony claimed that the undercover agent told her that he had a job for her husband and that she was washing dishes all the time that he was in her house, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail by Acting Police Judge James P. Mackel.

Young Socialites Prepare Appeal to Superior Court

With two Municipal Court judges at variance on identical cases, five young socialites, jim-crowed at two Griffith Park Riding Academies, this week prepared to appeal to the Superior Court for an interpretation of the Civil Code.

After more than a month's consideration, Judge Mae Leahey, Municipal Court justice, Saturday ruled that the DuBrock Riding academy, adjacent to Griffith Park, had not violated the State's Civil Code when it refused service to the five because they are Negroes.

A month previous, without hearing the defense of the Flores Riding academy, also adjoining Griffith Park, Judge Hames Pope, in Dept. 14 of the Municipal Court, had ruled in favor of the quintet.

UCLAN GRADS

Plaintiffs in both cases are three girls and two men all U. C. L. A. graduates and all employed in the Post Office: Adele Matthews, cousin of Deputy District Attorney Charles Matthews; Muriel Brewer, Ethel Carter, Tillman Thomas and Earl Lewis.

Through Attorney David W. Williams, the five claim to have gone one Sunday morning, attired in correct riding clothes, first to the Flores Academy and second to DuBrock, seeking to rent horses. At both places they were refused on grounds of their color.

When the case against the Flores academy was presented Judge Pope he said he was satisfied the Civil Code which provides for non-discrimination on grounds of color in restaurants, soft drink parlors or other "places of public accomodation", included riding academies.

In her contrary decision, rendered in the DuBrock case, Judge Leahey said she did not feel that the clause, "places of public accomodation", included the academies.

"We are pressing the case", Attorney Williams stated, "to the Superior Court in order that minority groups at large may have

Reveal Dramatic Elements in Coming Murder Trial

Prisoner facing death penalty on perjured testimony by the murder victim.

Prisoner saved through sensational testimony by victim's daughter, accusing another man.

These are the dramatic elements of the case of Thomas Traylor, charged with the murder of Elizabeth Franklin of 1814 E. 53rd street, August 16, according to reports issued late yesterday afternoon. If the allegations prove true, this case threatens to become one of the most spectacular exposes of a miscarriage of justice in the history of Southern California courts, involving special Grand Jury indictments of several persons.

Scheduled for trial in Department 40 of the Superior Court before Judge Frank M. Smith, Traylor is represented by young criminal lawyer, Walter L. Gordon. Gordon and his aide, James Garcia, investigater and member of the Republican County Central Committee, promise "that all these matters will be aired at the trial and the guilty parties revealed."

QUARELLED WITH DEAD WOMAN

Testimony at the Coroner's inquest assertedly revealed that Thomas McKnight, alleged lover of the deceased woman, had quarreled with Mrs. Franklin up to twenty minutes prior to her being shot in the back at 25th and Hooper. It has been stated that the victim's daughter will testify that McKnight instructed Mrs. Franklin in the deathbed falsehood that accused Traylor of attacking her and sent the defendant to jail charged with murder in the first degree. Defenders hope to prove that Traylor was innocently at his home during time the killing took place.

WOMAN'S LOVER

McKnight was further pictured as having carried on an af-

A-TALKIN' TO YOU . . .

CLARENCE MUSE

CLARENCE MUSE

YOU JUST CAN'T THINK when the thermometer reads 104 degrees. So if I am a little off color as to logic, reason or truth, I am safe in blaming it on the heat. But militant Dean Pickens said rather forcefully Sunday, "the only way to stop the swimming pool prejudice of Pasadena is to have some big boys or girls walk into Brookside Park, offer the 25-cent admission to the city ticket collectors and if they refuse, go in, take off their clothes with the bathing suits underneath and swim. Then if Mr. Pasadena, a part of this glorious democracy, feels like arresting them, accept the arrest with a smile. The NAACP case would be a cinch, in the local courts or the Supreme Courts. Can you imagine the high class city of Pasadena telling some poor child that he should wait until next Tuesday to go swimming during these hot days? How inhuman and what an unAmerican attitude for a city-owned park! Equal rights in the United States are not measured by the amount of taxes you pay, they are measured on one great principle—ARE YOU AN AMERICAN CITIZEN? We should look around and clean house a little before we get ready to clean house for the bad boys in Europe. It is hard for me to believe and understand that the high-bred citizens of Pasadena, one of the richest residential spots in America, should tolerate such foolishness. First place, most of them have their private swimming pools and that in itself leaves the public one for poor people. And I am sure the high-class Pasadena citizen is not interested in Race prejudice. So I think before this thing is made a disgraceful front page item in every newspaper in the country, I hope the good citizens with money and power will step in and put an abrupt stop to it. Pasadena is not Georgia, it has mental balance on the question of Race. If the many thousand colored employes of Pasadena would drop this article where their fair-minded bosses could see it, I am sure this thing would be knocked out in the first round. Yet if this peaceful method should fail, I am with Dean Pickens. Let's get in and show those folks a real good American fight. Get into the pool! Get arrested not once, but many times. Stay in all the courts, paint it across all papers until those rascals who are responsible bow their heads to the doctrines of true democracy. Pasadena is headed for shame if this gang wants further.

BUSINESS HOUSES WELCOME EDITOR ON RETURN

Eagle Editor-Publisher Returns to Los Angeles After Absence of 4 Months

Home again after a 7,800 mile auto-jaunt is the California Eagle's editor-publisher, Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass. Accompanied by her nephew, John Kinloch, the editor arrived last Thursday night after an absence of four months.

Their tour made in a dusty Jay Ford, 1937 model, which ran better on the highway than on Los Angeles city streets, the intinent-scanning journalists visited in 18 states and were on the scene of some of the Sum-mer's biggest news beats.

In New York, they covered the Links' and Delta Sigma Theta sorority conventions; surveyed Harlem, largest Negro communi-ty in the U. S.; and previewed the "World of Tomorrow" at Flushing Island, scene of Man-hattan's World Fair.

In Richmond, Va., Mrs. Bass was Los Angeles' only delegate to the 30th annual convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Young Kinloch had press ac-commodations directly behind Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt and famed Miss Marian Anderson on that history-making occasion.

VISITS HOME

John Kinloch, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kinloch of New York, vis-ited his home after some years absence. Prior to leaving Los Angeles, he had graduated from Polytechnic High school and this week entered UCLA to carry on his studies. Accompanying the trio East was Kinloch's mother, Mrs. Bass' sister, Mrs. Victorine Kinloch, who had wintered here. Mrs. Bass was paying her first visit to her home, Providence, Rhode Island, since 1930. Other visits of call included Chicago and Springfield, Illinois; Boston, Massachusetts; Cleveland, Ohio; Baltimore, Md.; and the Na-tion's capital.

The editor was generous in her praise of the capable manner in which the EAGLE staff "car-ried on" during her absence.

"I wish also, to take this op-portunity to thank subscribers, advertisers and well-wishers of the West's Best, whose kind co-operation was in a great measure responsible for the staff's suc-cess," she stated in an inter-view.

Train Porters Restored on 22 Trains

MOBILE (Ala.) Sept. 21—Train porter service, which had been curtailed in the past, has now been restored on 22 passen-ger trains of the Southern Rail-way system, officials of the rail-road announced here recently.

Expansion of this service, which following strong pressure brought to bear by the southern conference of NAACP branches, represents a victory in that more jobs will be opened to Negroes, J. L. LeFlore, chairman of the conference said. According to LeFlore, discussions have been held between conference officials and officers of the Gulf, Mobile and Northern Railroad with a view to employing Negro agents on that road.

AFL Organizer Sent to Probe Jim Crow in Florida Unions

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—First step in the investigation by the American Federation of Labor into Jim Crow practices of its affiliated unions in Tampa, Fla., by means of which 500 Negro pioneer union men in the ship-building industry were frozen out of their jobs, has been tak-en, William L. Green told the NAACP here this week.

The A. F. of L. president made the statement in a letter to the association dated Sept. 11, in which he said that he was as-signing George L. Googe, Atlan-ta, Georgia A. F. of L. organizer, to investigate the Tampa situa-tion personally.

The unions involved are local 1207 of the International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers Union of America, which was formed after twelve Negro and one white worker went out on strike at the Tampa Shipbuilding Company some-time prior to June 1, 1938; and a local of the International Bro-therhood of Boilermakers, Iron Shipbuilders and Helpers of America.

3 Boys Held on Murder Charge

MILLEDGEVILLE, Sept. 21—Three boys, the eldest 11-years old, are being held in county jail here this week for murder, growing out of the drowning of their playmate 9-year old Willie Frank Taylor.

The three boys assertedly fought with young Taylor, un-dressed him and pushed him into the Owonee river, standing by while he struggled futilely against the current.

After their victim had gone down, the three slayers, self-confessed, said they buried his clothing beside the river. A search party recovered the body and the boys led police to the cached clothing.

El Centro Pair Escape Death in Collision

A bus-truck collision nearly claimed the lives of Sidney Cur-tis, 53, and his wife, Ophelia, 49, last Thursday when a bus filled with Republic Studio hill-billy extras bound for a Keen's camp location near Murietta Hot Springs rounded a curve on the highway and struck the truck driven by Curtis, who lives in El Centro.

Flames enveloped both vehic-les. Several extras, thrown clear of the wreckage, performing yeo-man service, rescued other ex-tras and the El Centro couple who were treated for serious in-juries at Covina Valley hospital and later removed to the Gen-eral hospital.

The injured extras, following emergency treatment, were re-moved to the Cedars of Lebanon hospital.

Better Business Bureau Plans Program

The Executtive Council of the Southeast Better Business Bu-reau in a recent meeting planned a cooperative program calculat-ed to bring increased patronage to local merchants and at the same time assist the local churches in carrying out their programs for community better-ment.

A huge banquet is planned in the near future at which all the pastors of local churches will be invited as guests and all business and professional people will act as hosts. The plan will be pres-ented in detail and all will be invited to participate. Reserva-tions will also be available to the community-minded citizenry.

Judge Davies Denies Poll Tax Ban in Federal Elections

NASHVILLE (Tenn.) Sept. 21—A petition for an injunction against payment of a poll tax as a prerequisite for voting in a Federal election, was denied here Sept. 12 by Judge Elmer D. Da-vies, whose recent appointment to a federal judgeship, confirmed by the U. S. Senate, was vigorously opposed by the National Asso-ciation for the Advancement of Colored People because of the jurist's alleged former connection with the Ku Klux Klan.

The petition, filed by Henry Pirtle, was designed to have ef-fect in the federal election of a Congressional Representative from the Third District, to be held Sept. 28.

This case and a similar one now being heard before Judge Leslie R. Darr, who is sitting with Judge Davies, are sponsored by the civil liberties committee of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare, whose presi-dent is Dr. Frank R. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina.

Far from seeing defeat in the decision, Joseph C. Gelders, secretary of the committee said the way is now paved for a U. S. Supreme Court rul-ing on the whole question of poll taxes in the South.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Spt. 21—Thirty-five low-rent housing projects for predominant Negro occupancy are now under con-struction in 33 cities, Dr. Robert C. Weaver, Special Assistant to the Administrator of the United States Housing Authority, told the National Catholic Interracial Federation at its eleventh annual convention in Pittsburgh, Satur-day.

SELF-CONFESSED WIFE-SLAYER BEATS MURDER RAP

JURY FINDS JOHN HOPE GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Accused Man Thanks Jury as Verdict Read; Jury Shakes Hands With Him

John R. Hope, self-confessed killer of his wife on the eve of her divorce plea, was absolved of charges of murder, but convicted of manslaughter in a jury verdict returned late Monday evening.

After four hours' deliberation at the conclusion of a three-day trial, the jury acted on instruction of Judge Charles Fricke to return a verdict of manslaughter if they could not find the defendant guilty of murder in either the first or second degree.

A first degree murder conviction and the death penalty had been asked by Deputy District Attorney John Hopkins. Hope shot and killed his estranged wife, Mrs. Dora Hope July 6 at 22nd and Central avenue. The shooting threw lower Central avenue into a turmoil and tied up Avenue traffic for hours after.

PHILANDERING

A pathetic picture of sorrow and disappointment brought Hope by his assertedly philandering wife, was drawn by Defense Attorney Curtis C. Taylor. Giving himself up to police two hours after the shooting, Hope had told a drama-filled story of his broken home in confessing the killing.

During the trial which began Friday morning, Hope sat weeping at the counsel table. When the verdict was read, however, he stood up, smiling broadly and thanked the jury. At the conclusion of the trial, the jury filed by and shook hands with the slayer and his attorney.

A sentence to San Quentin of one to ten years' imprisonment was pronounced this week by Judge Fricke. With good behavior, however, Hope should gain his freedom in less than two years.

4 Try Suicide Over Week-End Here

Chided for Buying Unneeded Groceries, Man Takes Poison

A 50 year old man hovered between life and death this week after an attempt on his own life. Out of work and despondent, Roy Sanders, 1627 Paloma street became morbid when his wife, Mrs. W. Sanders, chided him last Friday afternoon for buying unneeded groceries, went into his bedroom and took 15 antiseptic tablets.

The fact that he took so many instead of half or a third the number, hospital officials opined, may save his life. The poison, intended for external treatment of a skin disease, may counteract its own effects. Hospital authorities said Sanders was resting quietly, but his condition could not be determined for 8 or 10 days.

THREE MORE

Three more would-be suicides sent ambulances careening to the rescue. Mrs. Ella Elijah, 1121 E. Washington, Apt. 1, drunk and despondent, mixed her own poison last Saturday afternoon and drank a generous portion of it.

First aid was rendered by Mrs. Joe Gazit, Apt. 3 of the same building, and Joe Clements, of 1225½ E. 23rd street. Removed to the hospital the woman, 34-years old and a relief client, may recover.

In a serious condition at the General hospital is Miss Alma Mitchell, 31, 1132 E. 47th street. Despondent over the recent death of a brother in San Diego, Miss Mitchell ate some ant paste last Sunday morning.

Police said she left a note, addressed to one Thelma Ashley, requesting that her body be sent to her mother, but no address for the parents was given or is known.

24-year old Lena Douglass, 1126 E. 42nd place, changed her mind about death after swallowing about two ounces of a poison. Calling police and the ambulance she said she wanted to live. She will recover.

Report Campaigns to 'Freeze Out' Negro Property Owners

Reported underway throughout all of the west San Gabriel Valley areas, a monster campaign to freeze out Negro property owners appears imminent in Southern California.

Cropping out as a result of Pasadena's fight for admittance of Negro citizens to the Brookside Park Plunge, the Arcadia chamber of commerce initiated a restrictive campaign and circulated petitions among Arcadia property holders begging them only to negotiate with Caucasians, according to latest reports.

MONROVIA CAMPAIGN

Chamber of Commerce officials there predict a 100 percent success for their program and it is said that already four-fifths of Arcadia property holders have signed up.

Spreading fast, the campaign has been taken up by Monrovians and it is indicated that public sentiment in that city also favors restrictive measures.

In Sierra Madra it was learned that the Arcadia boosters had appealed to the Sierra Madre chamber of commerce last week to support the campaign and sponsor petition-circulations of its own. The appeal was taken under advisement, but members were reported favorable to it.

INTEREST IN CAMPAIGN

It has been hinted that real estate dealers throughout the San Gabriel Valley district are real instigators of the anti-Negro campaign. Brokers apparently were aroused by the vigorous protests and legal action instituted by Pasadena Negroes to obtain equal privileges in the Brookside Park plunge. It was feared that similar disturbances might result throughout the Pasadena area if colored settlement was not discouraged. Protests by Monrovia Negroes against alleged discrimination at a city plunge there was pointed to as proof of increased unrest among colored property holders.

Meanwhile Pasadena's court battle remained in litigation.

NAACP Wins 1st Round in Beach Case

Right of Negroes to Use Beaches in New Jersey Uphold

LONG BRANCH (N. J.) Sept. 21—The right of Negro citizens to use the public beaches of this city was upheld by the State Supreme Court in a decision handed down last week, which at the same time, denied a court action brought against the city by Mrs. Allie Bullock, a taxpayer, charging that Negroes were limited to the use of only one of the city's beaches.

Judge Joseph B. Perksie, in his decision, advised Mrs. Bullock that she could bring a mandamous action against the City Clerk, and the City of Long Branch, to get the relief to which she was entitled.

Mrs. Bullock applied for a permit July 17 to use the bathing facilities and access to one of the city beaches. The city clerk refused to issue her a permit to any of the four beaches save that of No. 3, to which all colored persons had been exclusively assigned.

In an opinion handed down Sept. 11, Judge Perksie of the N. J. Supreme Court, said:

"It is clear that the agreed and determined policy or plan of regulation is based upon the admitted premise that the governing authorities did not want members of the black race to intermingle with members of the white race, while using the beach and bathing facilities of the City of Long Branch. The fact that these ordinances are illegally administered does not render them void in toto; but it is settled that the dignities, equalities and rights of citizenship cannot legally be denied to members of the Negro race."

despatches from the Western front give much of the credit for French successes along the Siegfried line to staunch Senegalese warriors from Northern Africa.

If more proof be needed to establish the fact of French tolerance, we suggest a visit to the New York World's Fair. Of all the foreign concessions, France is the only one which features its colonial domains. Not only are the French imperial possessions represented, but they are represented with dignity and respect. There are elaborate displays of black craftsmanship, and general recognition given to the high standards of native culture.

CHATTER & SOME NEWS

By HELEN F. CHAPPELL, Society Editor

If you have been able to think your way out of this heat or philosophize yourself into comfort, it is very selfish not to pass the formula on. In the very midst of it, I must give attention to society goings-on.

May as well start with heat news: Edythe Houston cards from St. Louis that it could hardly be hotter anywhere than there although she's been informed it's hotter in Chicago . . . the news is it's even hotter here. I think the Chamber of Commerce should send out bulletins that it is unusual and the reputation of California's mild climate will in no way be jeopardized. Oh, no.

Dan Cupid doesn't mind a little thing like a thermometer acting up. It usually does when he's around anyway. Last Thursday night he smiled on the wedding of Evelyn I. James to Jesse L. Thierry in her parents' — Mr. and Mrs. I. H. Treadwell — home at 845 E. 28th St. . . . The groom's the son of Mrs. Laura Thierry . . . and a very lucky fellow. The bride a Jefferson High and L. A. C. C. grad, wore a smart street dress of blue silk crepe with blue accessories and a corsage of sweetpeas and gardenias. She was attended by Mrs. Jeanette Garnershire.

The groom, attired in a brown pin-striped suit with tan, was attended by Robert Atkins . . . Lauretta Butler played the accompaniment for the duet by Helen and Nettie Mitchell who sang "I Love You Truly" just before the bride appeared. Mrs. Sarah Nicols of Pasadena, played the wedding march. A very pretty informal ceremony . . . and here's our wish for many happy years to Mr. and Mrs. Thierry.

NEWS TID-BITS:

Sonola Maxwell Reeves and Al Green became Mr. and Mrs. via Las Vegas, Nevada . . . which is the reason for the news being so late in getting around. Rumor that elusive lady who struts with her head above the clouds and feet on the ground . . . has it that the Gary Raglands (Rhetta Stone) have come to the parting of the ways . . . but I hardly believe it's true.

Jessica Ryan is vacationing at Elsinore. Los Angeles wasn't hot enough. Among new co-eds invading UCLA are Jean Gross, Helen Burkhalter and Wilma Mack, chums of high school days . . . Clara Fentress is entering LACC. Laura Slayton the extension of UCLA . . . and scores of others are rushing here and there registering. Maxine Sides and Porter Mann are off to Wilberforce. Jo Gaines should be back in town for UCLA . . . she's from Denver . . . and her brother is heading for West Virginia State.

Of course, rush affairs are in order, the Kappa dance Saturday (of which you'll hear more later) was the opener . . . Zeta Phi Beta sorors are inviting all freshman co-eds to breakfast Sunday morning, October 1, at 3582 Budlong . . . the Indian summer furnishes a motif. Freshman women who have not already been contacted are asked to call Mrs. Gertrude Smith at ADams 8731 . . . I'm asking all Greeks to please notify this column of rush affairs and we'll pass it on . . . graciously.

SATURDAY NIGHT, SUNDAY MORNING:

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. "Kelly" Williams entertained with cocktails Saturday evening for Mrs. Williams' sister, Mrs. Eulah Pharr of Carmel Valley. Saturday morning, Mrs. Pharr was honoree with Mrs. John Fisher of San Francisco at breakfast hosted by Mrs. Dorothy Johnson, chairman of the New Negro Theatre promotion committee.

Getting to Sunday morning: The alpha and omega of all social events — the cocktail parties before and breakfasts afterwards — was the Kappa Alpha Psi black and white formal from 12:30 to 4:30 a. m. . . . Sorry that I missed it — for the first time — but all reports have it that it was a most informal formal . . . with the hosts outdoing themselves to keep it informal . . . with the bottle replacing the traditional Kappa loving cup when the fraters did their intermission number.

Grace Williams says it was the best formal the Kappas have had . . . Verna Hickman, who wore white taffeta said "Oh, yes" with all praise for the affair. J. Sengestacke of Chicago reported it to be beautiful and lovely . . . and co-worker Almena Davis was one of those who had a marvelous time.

This week we replace our usual "Bye now" with adios . . . and the sincere hope that you have enjoyed this column as much in the last two years as I've enjoyed writing it. Adios.

DR. AND MRS. H. CLAUDE HUDSON, who celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their embarkation on the Sea of Matrimony Sunday afternoon. Present to congratulate the charming couple were five of their six children, Gloria, Melba, Elbert, Thaddeus and Berry; along with most Los Angeles social and civic leaders.

Dean Pickens and Roy Wilkins Honored Guests at Popular Fete Attended By 150 Southlanders

In one of the season's most successful and spectacular affairs, Attorney and Mrs. T. L. Griffith Jr. entertained some 150 guests at their beautiful home at 5000 Wall street in honor of visiting NAACP national officers Dean Wm. Pickens and "Crisis" editor Roy Wilkins, Saturday evening.

The Griffith residence, one of the most striking owned in Southern California by Negroes, was a scene of grace and beauty as the cream of local social-civic worlds congregated there. Proof of the affair's great success was its actual length compared with the scheduled time. They commenced brightly at the early hour; ended almost as brightly at 2:45 Sunday morning.

Roy Wilkins, co-guest of honor, did not appear until very late, having become enmeshed in traffic difficulties in L. A.'s ubiquitous environs. It seems Mr. Wilkins, driving down from San Francisco with his wife and a friend, Mrs. K. Duncan, thought he had achieved Los Angeles when he ran into the city limits some thirty miles out. Disillusionment, sure and ruthless, soon followed.

DECIDED TRIUMPH

Meanwhile the Griffith's party was scoring a decided triumph. The scores of guests at one point invaded Atty. Griffith's spacious—and attractive—back lawn to pose for an alert EAGLE photographer. Bringing to bear his vast experience as a stage figure, actor-director Clarence Muse helped arrange guests for the picture in order that EAGLE readers might find artistic perfection as well as prompt news coverage in the photo.

Charming hostess was Mrs. Griffith in a white mock colonial gown with black dots hither and yon (we are masculine and cannot properly describe these sacred things of women's-world). Her hair was—er—sort of up and then down—well, it LOOKED stunning.

Mr. Pickens, whose address at the National Association meeting Sunday afternoon has been widely heralded, was accompanied by Mrs. F. Long, lyricist, and Mr. K. Pettis, well-known financier. Dean Pickens was both honored guest at the party—and the life of it.

Refreshments were served buffet style, with punch in the den. Consistent visitations upon the amassed food-stuffs were inaudible tributes to Mrs. Griffith's edibles.

MANY GUESTS

Incidentally, when sufficiently revived by punch and sandwiches, motorist Wilkins was overheard mumbling incoherently "Los Angeles City Limits—boo, hiss!" (So, it could have happened.)

Among noted guests present were William Pickens, Mrs. F. Long, K. Pettis, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wilkins, Mrs. K. Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Griffith, Mr. and Mrs. George Garner, Mr. and Ms. J. L. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harvey, Jr. and Mrs. Eldridge Lee, Miss Alma Thomas and her mother; Mrs. Gwendolyn Gordon, Byron Kenneth, Mrs. Ethyl Bell and her mother, Mrs. Lulu Asbury; Miss Naida McCullough, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hopkins.

Gives Report on General Hospital

After completing five weeks' study of conditions and administrative procedure at the General hospital, Rex Thomson, superintendent of the County Charities, reported this week to Supervisor Gordon L. McDonough, chairman of the Board of Supervisors Institutions' committee, that constructive adjustments will be made to produce a maximum of service and safety at reasonable costs.

Nursing service in a majority of instances has been raised to the degree considered adequate, the report stated. The charity superintendent pointed out, however, that in certain wards of the hospital, the nursing service will be further improved by proper re-assignment and distribution of personnel.

The report also stated that considerable attention is being given to refining present procedures to permit "the graduate nursing staff a much greater proportion of their time to their true professional responsibility—the care of the sick—by their release from apparently avoidable administrative functions now definitely detracting them."

McDonough's request that eligible patients be admitted with the minimum amount of delay is also another point which the present study covers. Speeding up admitting procedures so that those acutely ill will receive immediate attention, is assured by the plan of providing adequate medical service at outside medical relief districts for those whose ills are not of a severe or acute nature, demanding institutional care at the hospital.

Commenting on Thomson's report, Supervisor McDonough declared: "It shows that the problem of administering efficiently the hospital is being approached with every caution so that vital service to patients will not be disrupted or diminished." The cooperation of the majority of the hospital employees, which the report highly commends, assures satisfactory progress, McDonough said.

This is the only church of the Eastside conducting its own Christian day school —see it", stated Elder Rogers.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

These words from Isaiah, "Since the beginning of the world men have not heard, nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye seen O God, beside thee, what he hath prepared for him that waiteth for him," are the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Reality" on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

The Lesson-Sermon includes also these passages from John: "So Jesus came again into Cana of Galilee, . . . And there was a certain nobleman, whose son was sick at Capernaum. . . . The nobleman saith unto him, Sir, come down ere my child die. Jesus saith unto him, Go thy way; thy son liveth. And the man believed the word that Jesus had spoken unto him, and he went his way. And as he was now going down, his servants met him, and told him, saying, Thy son liveth. Then enquired he of them the hour when he began to amend. And they said unto him, Yesterday at the seventh hour the fever left him. So the father knew that it was at the same hour, in the which Jesus said unto him, Thy son liveth: and himself believed, and his whole house."

Among the selections from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy are the statements: "Mentally insist that harmony is the fact, and that sickness is a temporal dream. Realize the presence of health and the fact of harmonious being, until the body corresponds with the normal conditions of health and harmony."

At the morning worship at Wesley Methodist church, Rev. E. W. Rakestraw, pastor, will speak Sunday on the subject "Lucky People". The Women's Progressive club will be in charge of evening service, presenting a biblical drama "Lydia, Seller of Purple". Norton K. Dennis, newly appointed choir master and musical director, will assume his duties.

Homecoming or Rally Day will be observed at Lincoln Memorial Congregational church, Vernon and Hooper avenues, Sunday. In the morning, the pastor, Rev. E. F. Lightner will speak on "A Successful Enterprise, It's a Secret". Special music will be heard. In the evening a musical program will be featured with Mrs. C. D. Frederick as director.

Revival services are attracting crowds to Wesley Methodist church, 8th and San Julian streets. Dr. W. Scott Chinn of New Orleans is conducting the services. Rev. E.W. Rakestraw is pastor of the church. The revival will close Friday evening with a sermon by Dr. Chinn from the subject, "After the Ball".

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE LECTURE RADIOCAST

Local radio listeners may hear an authorized Christian Science lecture Friday at 12:10 p. m. when Judge Frederick C. Hill, C. S. B., a member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. lectures over KFAC (1300kc), from Philharmonic Auditorium, for Ninth Church of Christ Scientist, Los Angeles.

Woman's Day at First AME Zion Sunday

'All eyes are turned upon the women, and anticipation runs high as we approach Sunday, the 24th, Annual Woman's Day and Missionary Day. Strenuous efforts are being made by the ladies with Jean Willa Holmes as program director and Mamie V. White, chairman of finance. Arrangements have been made and very unique announcments published for a very elaborate though beautifully sacred service at 11 a. m., and a most novel presentation of talent at 7:30 p. m.

"Links of Gold" is the title of the morning presentation, to which all are cordially invited, reserved seats being provided for ladies. The setting, music, speakers and all that makes for a superfine service are promised. The "Starlit Night", at 7:30 o'clock, will prove as appealing as the title itself. This restful and refreshing program will appropriately feature the end of a Perfect Day. Lovers of music and dramatic art are urged to attend. All planing to attend each service are urged to be on time and get all that has been planned for you.

Calvary Plans Homecoming

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 21—Sunday, Rev. W. P. Carter, executive secretary of the Western Baptist convention and pastor of Calvary Baptist church, will return home from an Eastern tour and the National Baptist convention, held in Philadelphia.

Officers and members have planned an all-day program of welcome. Speaking, singing by both choirs and basket lunches will be outstanding features of this glorious homecoming welcome.

All members and friends are urged to join in this celebration at Calvary, 20th street, just north of Pico blvd., in Santa Monica.

Young Women of Hamilton Will Present Artist

In keeping with its tradition of presenting the best in artistic and cultural programs to the community, the Young Women's club of Hamilton Methodist church, East 18th and Naomi avenue, is looking forward to the presentation of Zelma Watson Duke, in a program of song by Negro composers.

Many people do not know about some of the fine things done by Negroes and think their work has been confined entirely to the arrangement of spirituals. To those who have had this idea, a special invitation is extended to be present the evening of October 23 and share in the treat which is in store for all who will attend.

MISSIONARY UNION TO MEET SUNDAY

The Interdenominational Missionary union will meet Sunday afternoon from three to five p. m. at First AME Zion chuch, Pico and Paloma streets. Rev. Pearl Woods will be guest speaker and the public is invited.

An Open Letter

Dear Editor:

Am a steady listener of your radio broadcast, also read the paper which I enjoy very much.

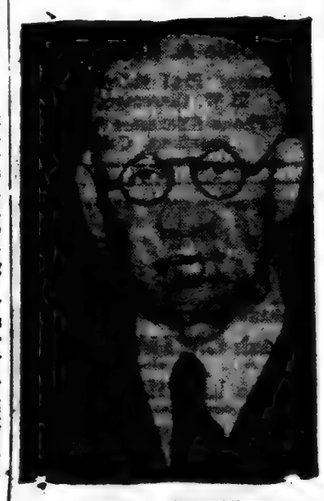
You might have thought of this before, but chances are that you haven't. Since all races are segregated except the whites, why not get a representative or leader of each and cooperate in the nomination and election of another Negro official. No telling, you may have no limit.

JOHN.

BISHOP NOAH D. WILLIAMS, ecclesiastical big-wig of the AME's recently in the city to preside at a sectional Conference in Pasadena and generally review the local religious situation—which, we understand, is well in hand.

Joseph Crawford Presents Choral Group Friday Eve

Joseph Crawford of Hall Johnson choir presents his choral group of Nash Studio, augmented by members of First AME Young People's choir in Recital Friday evening, Sept. 22nd, 8:15 p. m. at First AME church, 8th and Towne.



Mr. Crawford, a graduate of Curtiss School of Music and assistant director of Hall Johnson, has worked very hard to give music lovers a real treat.

Mr. Crawford has served this community for the past two years and has sung in various churches in the city.

Many churches have called on him to sing his arrangement of "Amen". This is Mr. Crawford's first appeal to the public for their support.

Othr outstanding numbers will be solos, dramatic reading and piano pupils of Luvenia Harper Dones. All choral numbers will be arrangements of Mr. Crawford and Hall Johnson.

Remember the date Friday evening, September 22, Place 1st AME church, 8th and Towne, Time 8:15 p. m.

REV. T. L. GRIFFITH, pastor of 2nd Baptist church, recently returned from a sojourn in the East just in time to host the highly successful Baptist convention held in Los Angeles recently.

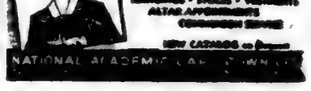
Baptist Official to Preach in Berkeley

Rev. W. M. Bennett of Chicago, ranking official in the National Baptist convention, was a recent visitor in Los Angeles. Rev. Bennett is pastor of International Baptist church of Chicago and former president of the Illinois Baptist State convention. He is now superintendent of missions of the Baptist Missionary and Educational convention of Illinois.



Well known here, Rev. Bennett was lavishly entertained. Among those feting him were: Mr. and Mrs. Small, 9500 Pace avenue; Mrs. Etta Quinton, E. 41st street; Henry Young, E. 32th street; Mr. and Mrs. McKay, E. 20th street; Mrs. Rebecca Messet, E. 48th street; Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Adams, Bandera street. Enroute to Chicago, Rev. Bennett is scheduled to preach in Berkeley.

WILLIAM PICKENS, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People executive, who set L. A. on its collective ear Sunday with his sensational address on the foreign situation at the 2nd Baptist church Sunday. List o' Pickens' sentiments run parallel with those of another gentleman well known to us all, Mr. Neville Chamberlain—to quote: "We must stop Hitler!"

AN INVITATION! A CHALLENGE!!! A QUESTION???

Rev. Russell especially invites you to attend services at this church Sunday, September 24, at 10:45 a. m. or 6:30 p. m., if you are interested in the inauguration of a movement to help the unemployed men and women of all races in our community.

"AM I MY BROTHER'S KEEPER?" Certainly you should be his helper. There is something that every employed Christian can do through the church. Rev. Russell has made a personal tour of the living conditions of many in this community who need your help—not charity, but an opportunity that you can give. WILL YOU HELP?

Central Ave. District Realty Board

We have come a long way in our search for the secret of building good will for Real Estate. I hope it is less of a secret than it was before. The one thought above all other, that I should like to leave with you this afternoon, is a very cheerful one. It embodies the kernel of everything I have said. In this days' generation, service pays; the more you do for your customers, the more you will do for yourself, for of necessity, if you render service, you will put your business on a scientific and a truly professional basis, you will render more service and you will have more good will. And good will is the asset of your business that brings the greatest total profit and the highest price in case of a sale.

These are the ambitions and requirements of the following members of the Central Ave. District Realty Board. Members as follows:
Walter L. Gordon, President, 4065 S. Central Ave., ADams 3193.
Geo. W. City, Vice-President, 816 E. 40th Pl., ADams 13702.

The ASTROLOGER

To Assist You In Making Wise Decisions

Specialized Study of Your Personal Problems

ARE YOU MISUNDERSTOOD?

What ever field of endeavor you may be in, there are always trivial incidents which arise and cause misunderstandings. Great care must be exercised by the man or woman who must tackle these obstacles. Certainly a hot temper won't clear up the situation. No, I'm afraid only a clear, steady, sincere approach to the problem will get you the desired results.

The trouble with most individuals is that they fail to avoid misunderstandings. They are blinded in contempt and conceit and fail to let the virtues of love, affection and understanding enter into their lives.

Prof. Herman, who has made an extensive study of Human Nature, offers a splendid opportunity for you to cultivate that which is lacking in your life, in order for you to be understood. Why not write him today?

P. W. S. Dear Prof: Your letter was received and I am pleased with the results. I have sold my property and have received word from the Estate. I am telling my friends about you and hope you will hear from them soon. I will remember you always.

H. P. Due to the limited amount of space in the column, I am unable to give you an adequate answer to your questions. If you will write in for a private reply I will give you the full particulars in regard to this matter.

E. R. D. Will my mother care for my baby?

Ans. In bringing you the true facts I find that your baby is to be born the latter part of this month. Your mother will be very fond of the child, but it will take a large part of her time to care for it, while you are working. It would be wise to place it in a home until you are in a position to remain with it, unless your mother changes her plans.

M. S. S. Why can't I get my rest?

Ans. It would be wise to follow the counsel of your physician in regards to the condition you are now in. Worry often results in a serious condition of the nerves, for this reason the matter should be taken care of promptly.

O. B. S. Will I meet the one who will make me happy?

Ans. Concentrating upon your question I find that you will have a romantic meeting with someone whom you will love soon.

J. M. J. Will we be successful?

Ans. I vision your husband succeeding in St. Louis if he is prepared for something other than his farming. Work is hard to find everywhere so you must have an adequate income to last until work is found. You will succeed.

I. G. Dear Prof. I received the Charm Bag, and was glad to get it. Oh! I can't tell you how I appreciate your work for it is turning out just fine, and just as you said it would. I am telling my friends and shall continue to do so.

S. V. G., What is wrong with my mother?

Ans. It appears that your mother has been ill for sometime and you have been worrying quite a bit about it. I would advise you to consult a specialist in regard to her condition and follow his advice.

R. M. Where is F. M.?

Ans. It comes to me that your son F. M. left home nineteen years ago and has not been seen since. If you will get in touch with the bureau of Missing Persons you will be aided in your search, as I vision him being near your home.

C. A. T. Will I be successful?

Ans. My Psycho-Mentalist Crystal reveals that you are planning to go on a new job soon and you are wondering if you would meet the requirements. You will be successful if you make the most of your briilliant abilities with which you are endowed.

FREE: Your question will be answered in this column ONLY when a clipping of this feature is enclosed with your QUESTION, YOUR FULL NAME, BIRTHDATE and CORRECT ADDRESS. For private reply, send twenty-five cents in coin and stamped envelope for my ASTROLOGY READING and receive by return mail my FREE OPINIONS on any THREE QUESTIONS. Address all communications to PROF. HERMAN, the ASTROLOGER, care of THE CALIFORNIA EAGLE, 4075 So. Central Ave., Los Angeles, California.

FOR BEST RESULTS— ADVERTISE IN THE CALIFORNIA EAGLE CLASSIFIED SECTION

STILL CHAMPEEN JOE LOUIE!—On the scene of his last visitation to California when he trained at Murray's Dude Ranch in Victorville. Top photo shows the champ, Mrs. Murray, Jack Blackburn and assorted stooges. Lower picture reveals the dynamic Victorville-ite welcoming Josephus as he alighted from the Santa Fe's "Chief", which made its lone historic hesitation at Victorville to deposit the champ. Recently there have been dark, mysterious hints from the East that scenes similar to these are in the offing for California very soon. This time, a wag has suggested, the Hermit of Hollywood may challenge our Brown Bomber. At any rate, even the rumor has spread great joy and anticipation in the hearts of Southland sports fans, west coast championship aspirants and the Victorville Chamber of Commerce.

LEADERS' WAR OPINION

With the European war and the local heat vying with each other for front page prominence, we are granting the European war the edge, telling of a poll of Negro leaders conducted recently by the Associated Negro Press which offers some food for thought, in our opinion, with reference to the present conflict across the seas.

It is the opinion of these leaders that if the war continues in Europe for any appreciable length of time, the United States will be drawn into it.

These leaders are only divided on the advisability of separate Negro divisions and the benefits that would come to the race as a result of such a conflict if the U. S. was drawn therein. These leaders stood side by side in stating that any attempts to segregate the Negro into labor battalions should be fought.

While on the subject of the European war, a perusal of eastern newspapers reveals pictures and stories of the part France's colonials are playing in hostilities to date. These black colonials go to make France's army what it is considered to be — "the greatest fighting force in Europe.

IT HAPPENED

The thing that a committee of citizens has been working on all summer, the curbing of asserted acts of rowdyism and vandalism in connection with local high school activities, cropped up on opening day at an Eastside high school.

Acts of rowdyism were reported by Board of Education officials and the school principal. And as was called to the attention of the civic-minded citizens during the summer, the majority of these acts of rowdyism, et al, were engineered by youths other than those attending the high school in question.

The school authorities are aware of the problem and all of its aspects, especially that of creating an unjustified black mark against the school.

THE LOS ANGELES RAILWAY pays nearly $25,000.00 every day for purchases in Los Angeles, paid for in Los Angeles.

This means that Los Angeles Railway pays over Nine Million dollars a year for Los Angeles purchases.

This amount does not include taxes, interest on funded debt, payments on new cars and coaches or employees' insurance.

It is money that is paid for printing, tires, gasoline, wages, repair parts, etc., and this money that stays in Los Angeles, circulates in Los Angeles and goes far toward assisting in the general welfare of the community, as well as to furnish the best possible transportation at the lowest possible cost to its thousands of daily riders.

Quite an asset to any city.

All of us in Los Angeles would go a long way to get another business, that would spend over nine million a year locally, to locate here.

9 Mobbists Plead Guilty in New Jersey Attack Case

NEW BRUNSWICK (N. J.) Sept. 21—Nine members of the mob of whites who brutally attacked 7 Negro potato pickers, including a woman, Aug. 11, on the farm of Raymond Dey, white landowner near Cranbury, N. J., pleaded guilty this morning in Middlesex County Courthouse to charges of assault and battery.

The mobbists, all of whom were men, will be sentenced here by the Court Friday. A tenth member of the mob, a white boy, is scheduled to appear before the Juvenile Court here sometime next week. The NAACP learned that police are seeking two unidentified members of the mob who have escaped capture to date.

Pleading guilty and throwing themselves on the mercy of the Court, members of the mob forestalled possible indictments by the Middlesex grand jury and a trial.

● LIBRARY BOOK NOTES

BY MIRIAM MATTHEWS

The following brief notes include a number of fiction titles by well-known authors which have been received at the library recently.

Louis Golding, author of "Magnolia Street" has just written "Mr. Emmanuel," the magnificent story of a kind old Magnolia Street Jew who ventured boldly into Germany to search for a little refugee boy's mother. When his mail was returned, "Address unknown," his friends in England notified the British Foreign Office in Berlin and the "Emmanuel Affair" became headline news in two countries. This is an unusually exciting story which will be eagerly sought by those who read "The Mortal Storm," by Bottome and "Address Unknown," by Taylor.

"The Web and the Rock" is a posthumous volume by Thomas Wolfe, author of "Look Homeward Angel" and "Of Time and the River" who died about 10 months ago at the age of 38. In his last book, Thomas Wolfe has again told his own story—that of a boy eager for a full understanding of life who goes from his small-town home to college, then to Europe and on to a sad, turbulent love affair. One critic writes: "Thomas Wolfe is an author every American must read. His abounding energy and enthusiasm for life are communicated to his readers and his writing is some of the finest that has been produced in our country."

ON AFRICA

Stuart Cloete, author of "The Turning Wheels" has just published another exciting novel on Africa called "Watch for the Dawn." It is centered around a young Boer, Kaspar van der Berg who was accidentally involved in the unsuccessful rebellion of the northern Boers against England in 1816. This book describes him as a fugitive from justice, seeking refuge with outlaws, fighting with Bushmen, living with the Zulus where he accepts the love of the King's concubine, and going on an exciting elephant hunt. Scores of splendid characters, both black and white, are created against this colorful background, and each one stands out as an individual. A book which will not soon be forgotten.

"Anne Minton's Life" is the new novel by Byron Brinig, author of "The Sisters." Undoubtedly based on a true life story which recently appeared in the newspapers, Mr. Brinig describes Anne Minton while she stood on the window ledge of a Los Angeles hotel deciding whether to jump or go on living. The lives of many people who were watching her also approached and passed a crisis. The story is cleverly told and the suspense held to the very last.

With "Shanghai '37" Vicki Baum has achieved another "Grand Hotel." The scene this time in Shanghai in 1937 when the Japanese bombs falling on a hotel brought death and disaster to nine people whose lives had been inextricably tangled.

"A Book of Miracles," Ben Hecht's latest fiction contribution consists of a group of allegorical stories, each one dealing with a miracle. They are subtle, penetrating and very cynical. Not recommended for the very religious.

Borrow these books from the Vernon Branch Library, 4504 S. Central avenue and the Hel[illegible]on Library, 2230 Naomi avenue.

CALIFORNIA EAGLE

VOL. 60 — NO. 24 LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, SEPT. 21, 1939 PRICE 5 CENTS

LARY Expenditures Would Support 7,518 Families

Local expenditures of the Los Angeles Railway total more than 9 million dollars each year, statistics indicated in a report release by the company this week.

"We have purposely refrained from including any figures except those representing sums actually spent here," the report stated. "The total expenditures of the Los Angeles Railway are, of course, much larger. These figures do not include any monies expended for taxes, interest on funded debt, payments on new cars or coaches or employee insurance."

Nine million dollars per year, company officials pointed out, is approximately $25,000.00 per day and is a sum sufficient to take care of 7,518 families or a total of about 30,000 persons. In terms of cities the amount expended by the Los Angeles Railway would support all of the inhabitants of Bakersfield or Santa Barbara. (1930 census)

Of the thousands of dollars spent here by the company daily, research indicates that more than 90 per cent of the entire amount remains in Los Angeles where it increases purchasing power in and around the city.

FDR Asked to Remove Army, Navy Jim Crow

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—President Roosevelt, in his capacity as commander in chief of the United States army and navy, has been asked to appoint a mixed commission "to make a a thorough investigation of the nature and extent of racial discrimination now existing in the armed forces" of the country.

The request, which came from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, was contained in a letter sent to the nation's Chief Executive, Sept. 15. The letter states unequivocally that, despite the fact that this country faces the possibility of being drawn into a second world war, the barbarism of which already appalls the world, "democracy is still denied to Negro Americans in the armed forces of the United States." The letter, which is signed by Walter White, executive secretary of the association, calls upon President Roosevelt to use his powers to remove these racial barriers before this country is drawn into war.

INVENTS OIL FIELD DETECTOR

O. S. STRICKLAND, Secretary-General Manager of the Universal Oil, Gas & Mining Company, Inc., a Negro Oil Company of Shreveport, Louisiana, shown above with his invention, the Electronometer, which reportedly has proven to be 97 per cent accurate in locating and defining metes and bounds of oil and gas fields.

Strickland's invention is the result of nearly four years of careful and technical study of electrical currents being generated and produced in various oil and gas fields in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Illinois, Kansas and Southern California.

The accuracy of his invention has been determined by staking, in the past two years, 16 locations for the drilling of wells which resulted in 13 of the 16 locations producing oil, and predicting 107 wells being drilled by other concerns to be producers and of the 107 predicted 101 were producers.

Wiley Freshmen Represent Widely Separated Sections

MARSHALL (Tex.) Sept. 21—It has been nearly 10 years, according to the Wiley College News Bureau since the Freshman class represented so widely distributed a territory as the present class: New York, California, Nebraska, Illinois, Kansas, Colorado, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Missouri are a few of the states included. Thirty Texas cities are represented and among out of state cities represented in the Freshmen enrollment are: Chicago and East St. Louis, Ill.; East Chicago and Gary, Ind.; Oklahoma City, Idabel, Ardmore, Lehigh, Tulsa, Boley, Okmulgee, Eufaula, Oklahoma; Shreveport and New Iberia, La.; Los Angeles and Modesto, Calif.

President Dogan in the course of his orientation address to the Freshmen on Wednesday, said: the large number of second generation students in the current Freshman class is significant of the growing confidence in, loyalty to, and appreciation of the school's ideals, policies and objectives. He referred to the excellent record made in the placement tests by this year's freshmen.

For general alertness, the Dallas, Houston groups and students from such cities as New York, Los Angeles, Chicago, St. Louis, and Denver showed an edge over the rest. Oklahoma students exhibit special artistic bent.

aubrey blair accepts new labor post

BY LAWRENCE F. LAMAR

To the sepia actor in Hollywood, the sudden resignation of Aubrey Blair as assistant executive secretary of the Screen Actors Guild, was a distinct loss. Blair was part of the organizing force which brought the Screen Actors Guild into being. He had charge of organizing the difficult-to-handle Junior Guild, to which the bulk of the sepia screen players belong.

For years Blair has been one of the most consistent fighters for the rights brought sepia film extras steadily forward to gradual recognition as a definite part of the vast film industry.

Preceding the establishment of the Screen Actors Guild as a bargaining authority for actors in the film industry, all extras, especially those of the sepia group, were often badly handled by casting directors. Since then, adjustments and other beneficial gains have come their way. Blair's efforts are generally known and accepted as being the best for all concerned.

The resignation of Blair as assistant executive secretary of the Screen Actors Guild, followed his acceptance of an A. F. of L. post as organizer in the field of legitimate and vaudeville stage. This post was created by the A. A. A. A., parent body of all actors' groups, following the truce with the I. A. T. S. E. after the jurisdictional controversy recently settled in New York.

Bob Elsworth, one of the chief adjusters for the Screen Actors Guild, now handling the independent studios, will incorporate most of the outside work formerly handled by Blair. The old post handled by Blair is being left vacant. Jesse Graves, sepia member of the Council of the Screen Actors Guild, said the new post accepted by Blair was a promotion for the veteran film labor man, and stated sepia actors may expect the same conscientious cooperation from Bob Ellsworth in his added capacity.

There is need, strong need for efficient Negro servants. But, where are you going to get 'em. The Negro has long been kidded out of working towards attaining any efficiency as a servant by certain misguided educators in our group, until now it is almost impossible to find any in a field in which he was once preeminent . . . Hollyday (Cookie) Thompson, currently enjoying a vacation . . . on Mrs. Daisy Spaulding's vacant "Ramona," gave this column some idea of the requirements of a first class servant seeking employment among America's first class families. All of which seems to make for a better class citizen once this efficiency is attained . . . A smile I'll never forget: It belongs to Georgia "Pat" Patton, of the Rose Marie beauty salon in the 4000 block along the Avenida Central. Besides, she bragged to me about my column . . . joan crawford's 'bubble bath' highlights 'the women' film

A bathtub which is said to out-DeMille anything ever placed before the cameras by that expert on exotic tubs, offers one of the colorful highlights in the intimate feminine scenes of "The Women", filmization of Clara Boothe's Broadway stage success, now being held over for a third week at the United Artists theatre, 933 S. Broadway, with Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford and Rosalind Russell starred in a cast comprising no less than 135 women.

The tub, in which Miss Crawford plays a scene while in the process of taking a bubble bath, is a 1939 deluxe model constructed entirely of glass 8 inches thick. Slightly frosted it carries an undersea design etched on its surface. Epitomizing the height of luxury, the tub is fitted with such accessories as a make-up tray resting on braces and provided with a mirror, soap, powder, sponge trays, cigarette holder and even a telephone which Miss Crawford uses in the scene.

The bathtub sequence was responsible for the creation of another unusual Hollywood job, that of "bath bubbler". It was the duty of this technician to keep the foam high in the glass tub. Hollywood's first "bath bubbler" is Herb Hatfield, Jr. In detail his job consisted of dunking a long aluminum tube into the bath water, turning on a stream of compressed air and thus causing a foam to rise high in the tub, the foam completely covered Miss Crawford with the exception of head and arms.

Miss Crawford was required to spend 11 hours in the foam bath, losing 11 pounds as a result. Only one mishap occurred. On the second day's shooting the water suddenly began leaking out of the tub and the crew tossed the star towels in which to clothe herself until the suds were restored.

troy brown signed for role in new york stage play

Hollywood agents for the group who are backing the New York stage production "Midsummer Night's Dream in Swing," being readied for a Broadway showing next month, this week notified Troy Brown, hefty stage and screen sepia comic, that his contract had been accepted. He is awaiting assignment to one of the six principal roles in the famed production now tuned to swing tempo.

Benny Goodman's famed orchestra is preparing swing tunes for the production recently screened in Hollywood and later played to huge audiences thruout the country. Maxine Sullivan, sepia songstress, whose style sent the nation on a frenzy of swingitis, will sing the stellar role in the piece.

Brown, clever stage comic who has made good in pictures here, is set for one of his biggest roles. He expects hourly to receive notice to cut short his nightly engagement at the Hollywood Onyx Club and hurry on to New York for rehearsals.

hattie noels scores in new universal film

"Little Accident" is the title of the latest Hattie Noels film triumph in Hollywood. She completed an excellent maid role in the Universal studio production early this week. The piece stars Baby Sandy.

Following completion of the role in the Universal film flicker, Ben Carter, sepia film agent, informed Miss Noels that he was dickering for a role in a forthcoming Paramount studio picture, "The Biscuit Eater."

Calvin (drums) Smith and his trio are swinging nightly at the K-9 Klub out Pico way. Calvin and his gang have contracted for a long engagement at this very popular night spot. The young maestro is very well known in that vicinity for his fine drumming. He has played with many of the major bands on the Coast and there is no doubt he will reach the "top". Supporting Calvin at the piano is none other than that little ace ivory plunker, Geo. (piano) Crawford. This cat is solid in this outfit and I don't believe that a finer piano man could have been selected. Last, but not least, is that ace trumpeter, a fine young man who plays a nice horn, as well as having a first rate voice and can de a little "riffing" on his shoe soles, Jessie (tru.) Perdue. Calvin and his gang should have no reasons for not making the K-9 Klub one of the outstanding night spots. Also adding to the enjoyment of the patrons is that very "hipped" little entertainer Billie (sweet voice) Brown.

Mrs. Edyth (piano) Turnham and her band of 9 men with Chas. (trumpet) Echols swinging the baton, have finished their first week's engagement at the Wave Cafe in Long Beach. Edyth is contracted for an unlimited engagement at this very popular cafe, and there is no doubt that this great collection of sharp cats will do good business. This is the first time in a few years that the Wave has booked a colored band.

Three Chocolateers, excellent dance team of national reputation, dropped anchor here at home after New York where they have the past season been featured at the Cotton Club. This is the first time these boys have been home since they made their big time debut a few years ago with their own original business called "pecking", which later took the country by storm. They are due back in New York City the last of this month to open at the Paramount theatre with Cab Calloway.

Girl, 5, Steals Show on CBS's "We the People"

NEW YORK, Sept. 21—Hailed as an intellectual prodigy, a precocious 5-year old colored girl from Atlanta, Ga., stole the show on CBS's famous "We, the People" broadcast last week from such personages as Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., Pietro di Donato, author of a best seller, and William Holden, "Golden Boy" discovery.

The youngster, who answers readily several hundred encyclopedic questions, is Marlene White, daughter of a WPA worker on an Adult Education project in Atlanta. Discovered by white reporters in her home state, she favorably impressed Georgia's Governor E. D. Rivers in a personal interview.

Marlene's mother said the child crawled at the age of three weeks, sat alone at four months, walked unaided at 9 months.

Several movie contracts have reportedly been refused by the Whites who plan to educate their daughter extensively, then permit her to choose her own career.

FLOYD RAY, whose pulsating rhythms have been crowding "The Vogue," Ninth and Grand, recently. Ray's highly successful eastern tour added a great deal of prestige to his organization's already mighty "rep" on the West Coast.

JIM CROW IN L. A. BOXING HIT BY STATE COMMISSION

DOWN IN FRONT

With J. CULLEN FENTRESS

SAYS JOE COULD HAVE WHIPPED 'EM ALL

Jack Blackburn, trainer of Joe Louis, thinks the heavyweight champion could have licked all of the great heavyweights of yesteryear in their prime.

We gather as much from reading an Associated Negro Press dispatch with a Northville, Michigan date-line attached thereto. That was the training camp site the Brown Bomber used to ready himself for the Bob Pastor tiff of last night. Since this is written before the Pastor bout and since, too, the remarks attributed to Blackburn were made a few days past also, we doubt that there is any reason why we shouldn't present Blackburn's case. Regardless of the Louis-Pastor outcome, he would probably feel the same way about Joe — that is, whether Louis won or lost.

Included in the list of old-time greats Joe could have taken, as Blackburn sees it, is Sam Langford. Of Sam, Blackburn says, "Old Sam was a real fighter. He and Joe would be a whale of a battle".

Blackburn does not disregard the fact that his position as trainer of Louis might have a tendency to color his opinions a bit. "It may sound like applesauce because I'm the boy's trainer," he says, "but I honestly believe he's the greatest heavyweight who ever lived and could have licked all the other champions in their prime."

Telling how Louis has improved in boxing and hitting ability, Blackburn says "He's changed all around. He doesn't fool around any more. He goes out and fires instead of letting the other guy do it".

Going down the list of the great heavyweights of the past, Blackburn said (1) "Sullivan was big and slow and easy to hit. Joe couldn't have missed him"; (2) and (3) "Corbett was a good boxer, but couldn't keep a hard hitter away from him. Fitzsimmons proved that when he knocked Corbett out and I think Joe hits harder than Fitz did. Fitz could hit all right but he had long arms and Joe would have got inside of him easy then hooked until he quit"; (4) "Jeffries was too slow and he was muscle-bound. Maybe he would have given Joe trouble fighting from a crouch but when he straightened up, Joe would have nailed him"; (5) "Jack Johnson was next. He couldn't punch. He was a waiter. Joe would have walked into him like he did last summer against Schmeling. It wouldn't have taken long"; (6) "Willard was big and slow and it would have been only a matter of time for Joe, just like it was when he fought Carnera"; (7) "Dempsey would have given Joe a great fight but I think Joe would have beaten him to the punch, for Dempsey was a hooker and Joe punches straight. A straight puncher wins every time".

Being a yesteryear battler himself, Blackburn should know whereof he speaks. In tabbing Galento as the toughest man Joe had met, Blackburn certainly saw his impressions borne out in Tony's defeat last Friday night of Lou Nova. And since, as generally admitted, Joe is conservatively granted five more years as ruler of the heavyweights, Blackburn's sallies lauding his "Chappie's" prowess are not amiss. "Long live the king!"

A COLORFUL OUTFIT

Whether the UCLA entry in the Coast conference football race this Fall finishes first, last, or in-between, the fact remains that the Bruins will probably be the most colorful outfit in the loop and the most likely to score an upset where least expected.

Admittedly the Bruin backfield shapes up as the trickiest and speediest foursome on the coast. The line, to date, is the only question mark. The added fact that UCLA will be short on tried reserves in the line will also have a lot to do with their chances. Given their share of the "breaks", the Bruins may start with Texas Christian Friday night week and not let up until they have raised havoc with the title aspirations of any and all other entries, including highly touted USC Trojans.

THE BOILING POT

Chairman Jerry Giesler and his State Athletic Commission have wasted no time in getting down to cases. Here they have assumed their duties only a few weeks ago and already started getting to the bottom of asserted discrimination of colored boxers at Hollywood Legion stadium. Something finally seems about to be done anent the boiling pot on an otherwise calm local boxing stove. Whether results from the coming November 17 public hearing on the matter are favorable or not, as far as the interests of the colored fighter is concerned, the fact remains that Jerry Giesler and his capable commissioners are on the job to see that all get their just deserts.

COMMISSION TO HOLD HEARING ON JIM CROW AT HOLLYWOOD LEGION

Charges and Counter-Charges of Discrimination Against Negro Boxer at Film City Arena to Be Publicly Aired November 17

By J. CULLEN FENTRESS

In a move to ascertain why Negro boxers are kept from fighting at Hollywood Legion stadium, the State Athletic commission in its meeting last Friday morning in the State building voted to hold a public hearing on the asserted discrimination at its next meeting, November 17.

A precedent-shattering stand, the commission, thru its chairman, Jerry Giesler, told the assembled audience of matchmakers, referees, managers, boxers, sportsmen and newspapermen that the present commission proposes to uphold the principles of democracy and Americanism in all its dealings.

Since late in the 1920's when the asserted discrimination of Negro fighters at Hollywood Legion first came to the attention of the public, moves to air the charges and counter-charges have met with little success.

LETTERS READ

Harry Levette, then sports editor of the EAGLE; and Dan Shaw, sports editor of the old California News, were leaders in directing the spotlight on the policy that assertedly kept Negro fighters out of the Legion stadium.

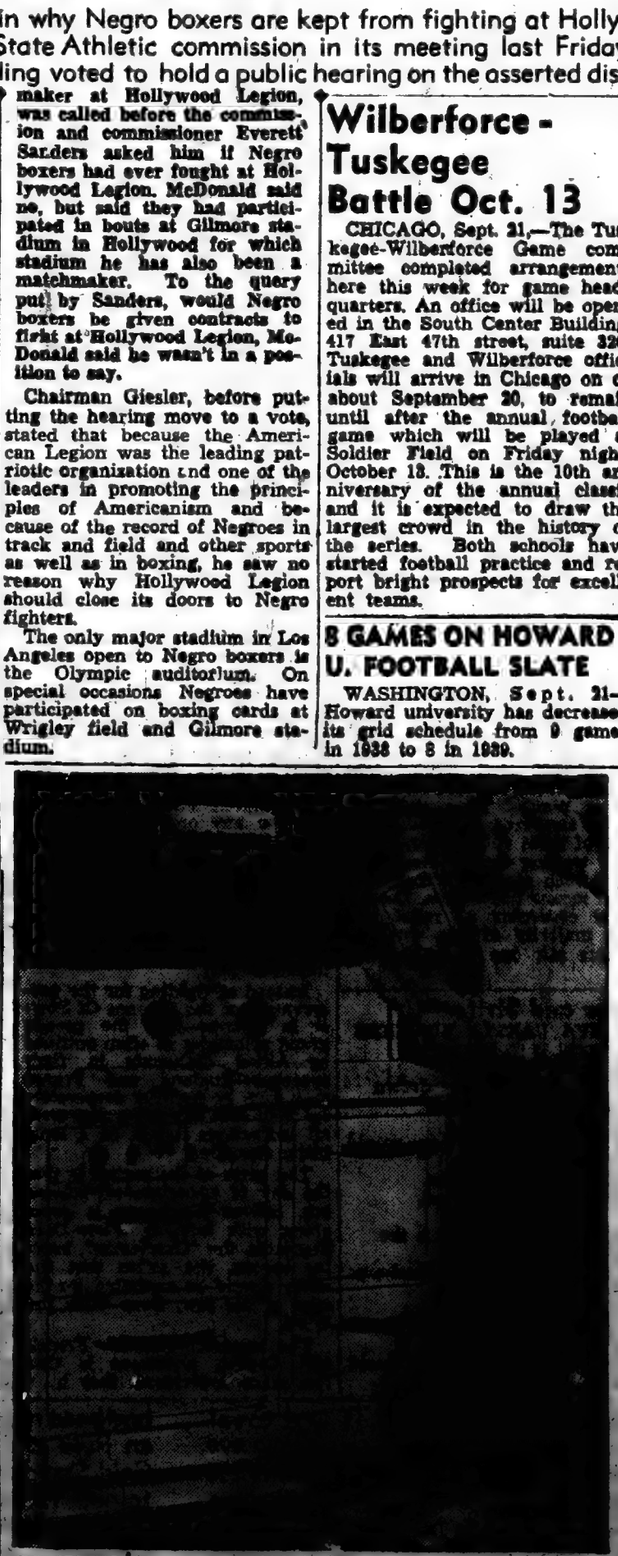
Commission chairman Giesler said that letters had been received from Governor Culbert Olson and State Senator Robert W. Kenny regarding the situation at Hollywood. Excerpts from these letters were read, together with a letter from Shaw to the Governor which stated conditions that have arisen as a result of the asserted discriminatory policy.

In support of the charges of discrimination, Attorney Hugh E. MacBeth, a practicing attorney here for approximately 25 years, told the commission that as coordinator of the Community Builders, a civic organization, he had tried for the past 18 months to confer with stadium officials anent the charges but the "net result was nothing". An impassioned plea for fair play, MacBeth asked the commission to appoint a time and place for a hearing and said that "the enemies of democracy are being given aid and comfort in light of this discrimination."

A round of applause followed his remarks.

McDONALD PRESENT

Commissioner Archie Closson of Lodi, stated that he was a member of the American Legion and that the matter had come up in the recent American Legion convention in Oakland. He said that the Legion is an organization has no power to tell a subordinate post who must or who must not be employed.



The commission, however, had the power, Giesler said, to revoke the license of any licensee in its jurisdiction on proof that such licensee was violating the rules and regulations of the commission.

Hollywood Post No. 43 operates the Hollywood Legion stadium.

Charley McDonald, matchmaker at Hollywood Legion, was called before the commission and commissioner Everett Sanders asked him if Negro boxers had ever fought at Hollywood Legion. McDonald said no, but said they had participated in bouts at Gilmore stadium in Hollywood for which stadium he has also been a matchmaker. To the query put by Sanders, would Negro boxers be given contracts to fight at Hollywood Legion, McDonald said he wasn't in a position to say.

Chairman Giesler, before putting the hearing move to a vote, stated that because the American Legion was the leading patriotic organization and one of the leaders in promoting the principles of Americanism and because of the record of Negroes in track and field and other sports as well as in boxing, he saw no reason why Hollywood Legion should close its doors to Negro fighters.

The only major stadium in Los Angeles open to Negro boxers is the Olympic auditorium. On special occasions Negroes have participated on boxing cards at Wrigley field and Gilmore stadium.

The institution will operate on a Junior-Senior College Plan, in which the first two years of college work will be devoted to general education and the last two years will be devoted primarily to two major and allied fields.

Small Squad Answers Grid Call at Wiley

MARSHALL (Tex.) Sept. 21—Gloom prevails on the campus of the Wiley college as after a week of practice, only 30 candidates have turned out for the 1939 edition of the erstwhile famous Purple and White eleven. The loss of Blesant, Venthis, Hurt, Chandler and Brown, name players on the Wildcat team, through graduation has been expected, but when only three of the 8 remaining lettermen showed up to say nothing of three missing capable reserves from last season's squad, it was quite apparent that the coaching staff was perturbed.

Hicks, Jerry Johnson and Bill Carr, ends of the '38 eleven, apparently have decided to go elsewhere, while "Peewee" Patton, the giant Ardmore tackle, and Czar Ingram, freshman right half sensation, have not been heard from. These lettermen were being expected to form the nucleus of the Methodists' forward wall.

Register! Register! Register . . . etc.

There are ten more days to register for voting in the special Ham and Eggs election which California soon will be facing. The franchise is every citizen's most valuable privilege—but in this case the value of that vote is not only theoretical but intensely important to the Average Man and his most senstive nerve, the pocketbook.

The Ham-and-Eggs, Thirty Dollars Every Thursday proposal is pure legislative bilge. It boasts not one ounce of economic sanity or practicability. For the most complete argument against the measure, we refer you to the proposal itself. In black and white, it demands that the state pay citizens thirty dollars in warrants every Thursday. All business houses are supposed to accept this script as legitimate U. S. currency. Of course, the merchants will not be able to buy anything with these warrants from out-of-state suppliers because they have all announced that California script will not be acceptable to them. That is, your grocer will not be able to purchase any of the nationally advertised foods to which you are accustomed—you will be able to purchase nothing produced outside of the state with warrants. It is very likely that you will not be able to purchase anything produced in the state, since most merchants have already announced they will not take California cript under any circumstances.

The state at present is in a wild borrowing spree in order to maintain current payrolls of state employes. A few weeks ago, our State government simply ran out of funds. California was unable to pay its debts to citizens employed by it. Yet, Ham-and-Eggs advocates can seriously ask us to adopt a scheme calling for an added weekly expenditure estimated far in the millions of dollars — since the paper warrants are to be valid as payment of taxes to the state government. Or does this sound right? How can a State manufacture money to pay itself? Frankly, we don't know. It is one of the greatest political mysteries of the age!

VOTE "NO" ON HAM-AND-EGGS!

Golden Rule and War

The present world horror that has started in Europe is the strangest conflict in the history of mankind. On neither side is there the familiar fanfare and razzledazzle that has marked the wars of the past. This time we find no martial music, no cheering throngs, no "marching off to glory".

In one of the most dramatic episodes in modern history, both French and German lines on the western front refused to fire upon one another for two days after the solemn declaration of war — each fearing to expose the initial barrage that would set the world into its worst orgy of slaughter and destruction.

Hitler's six fanatical years of war-talk and war-preparation have not been able to surmount the awful memory most Germans hold of the last world conflagration. Even as news of Polish downfall is released in Berlin, there is no rejoicing in that city. The heralds of victory on the eastern front are neglected as harried mothers and wives search endlessly for beloved names in official casualty lists. The reassuring news that Herr Hitler has transported himself and his inspiration to the front lines calls forth little gayety in Berlin, according to authentic reports. Perhaps the most ill-informed capitol in the world, goal of the most concentrated propaganda machine in existence — Berlin has refused to react, has remained sullenly cold to the mongers of war-fever.

And in London, where justifiable indignation is most to be expected, we find grim calm. The giant international broadcasts that have come to us recently from London, Paris, Berlin and beleaguered Warsaw have not told of riotous mobs and enthusiastic armies — the two outstanding "news features" at the start of the war of 1914.

Always the announcers that speak to us from overseas say, "There is not much excitement here . . . The people are taking it calmly" . . . Always there is the uncanny assertion that civilian populations, facing possible death by bombing, "are taking it calmly . . . are not aroused".

There must be some potent reason for this complete reversal in public reaction since 1914. Perhaps the peoples of Europe — in Germany as well as England — realize the futility of conflict. Perhaps the fatalism that enshrouded Europe just after the World War has borne fruit in this new war generation. No matter for what cause, European masses probably realize that the inadequacies of modern statesmanship have turned them into murderers—fiends who wage war upon defenseless women and children. Men who are aware that they are murderers cannot be expected to parade and trumpet-toot as did their forbears. This time the various departments of propaganda throughout Europe, laboring under different titles have not been able to resurrect the fiction that was is synonomous with glory, courage and immortality. The distressing fact that modern conflict is none of these things is too well-known by the majority of Europeans. War is no longer glory; it is dying in a muddy shell hole. War is no longer courage; it is bombing a woman and her infant child. War is no longer immortality; it is needlessly perishing for unknown or confused causes.

As never before, this world conflict will change the CHARACTERS of men. This time there is no illusion of righteous slaughter. This time there is no myth of "Christian duty and national honor". Europe no longer aspries to Victory--only Peace.

It will be interesting to watch what sort of civilization is salvaged from Europe as we've known it in the past. Will disilusioned masses turn to anarchy as a rebuke to the hightoned statesmanship that brought them their sorrow? Will the nations once again resolve themselves into bitterly jealous entities, suspicious and belligerent? Or will there be an earnest endeavor to construct a new and valid plan for living? A pattern that will eliminate the necessity for periodic debauches with human blood and human flesh?

Such speculations bridge many years and perhaps look too far into the future. However, when Europe sits itself down to deal out justice at some future date, it had best concern itself with more than one continent. Asia and Africa, divided like stolen loot among the nations of Europe must be dealt with justly. For in reality these are the true causes for continued unrest among the great imperialistic nations. No country can expect honest treatment from a neighbor when itself exploits and demoralizes a weaker land. Deep in the heart of European politics is the ever-present question of colonization and exploitation in foreign, dominated lands. England that professes an abundant and purifying democracy is perhaps the most ruthlessly cruel subjugator of simple and guileless peoples in the world. It was Great Britain that winked a ponderous eye when Mussolini attacked defenseless Ethiopia. The Law of Retribution seemingly is an inexorable standard in human affairs. Perhaps if Europe had been more interested in the Golden Rule and less captivated by the Gold Standard, which England maintained through its African mines, August, 1939, would not have meant tragedy.

• WORLD THIS WEEK
By Robert Patterson

The humble porker comes into his own again!

From Calipatria to Bangor, America ushers in a new season over which King Football holds full sway.

His loyal followers are at work on the practice fields of a thousand schools and colleges, and on game days others of his supporters will be jamming the stadiums of the nation millions strong.

Youngsters of the sandlot gridiron are hurling their wobbly forward passes through the air. Monday morning the quarterbacks are sagely assessing the outcome of future games, and the coaches—let's not forget those hard pressed souls!—are again worrying how to bring home the bacon, on home-coming day at least!

There goes the referee's whistle. It's kick-off time!

NEWS HAPPENS HERE

Though there's war across the Atlantic let's not forget life on a dozen fronts over here is swinging along in its accustomed style.

Even in this world of turbulence and change, the weather man is giving his word of honor Autumn will arrive September 21, on the dot.

The week's good news certainly brought evidence that a nation of 130 million can keep two fairs going successfully at the same time, with New York attendance soaring to new peaks and the San Francisco Fair at last climbing out of the red and into the black.

Despite the boom of Europe's war guns there's news on the home front. Let's not overlook it!

ANOTHER CUP OF COOFFEE!

One of those indefatigable inquiring agencies has now rounded up enough evidence on America's drinking habits to show there is more fact than fancy in the general belief that we are a nation of inveterate coffer consumers.

In 92 percent of all homes in the country, this survey discloses, coffee is served daily. Two servings a day is the average, with milk trailing second place with one and a half servings, and tea far behind with only half a serving daily.

Whether the rigorous winters of the North Central States account for it, we don't know but that section of the country is the heaviest consumer of the coffee bean. New England, being partial to tea, is by far the lowest. The Boston Tea Party, it is now clear, expressed no distaste for the beverage. New Englanders are still clinging firmly to their tea cups in the midst of this coffee consuming nation.

BORROWING TO SUCCEED

The more an individual can borrow, the greater his prestige—in the Fiji Islands, reports Dr. Cecil W. Mann of the University of Denver. Instead of winning deference by amassing great wealth, a Fiji Islander can acquire it by borrowing from his neighbors. And the more he can borrow, the greater respect he enjoys. A world hard-pressed by bills, rent payments and taxes will unanimously support the song writer who first called the South Seas "paradise". A place where unlimited borrowing brings honor, instead of the sheriff, qualifies for the title.

REGISTER NOW

To the time-tested declaration that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty, should be added this corollary: that the price of democracy is the wholehearted participation of its citizens in determining the affairs of democracy. With that in mind, let Californians ponder one of the most serious news items of recent weeks County clerks of the state declare at least 20 per cent of those voting last November wil be ineligible to cast their ballots when they go to the polls this November 7. Legal registration is now less than 3 million. Last year it was 3,611,416. And the disturbing truth is that most of those hundreds of thousands of missing voters are not sleeping like Rip Van Winkle. If you are among them register NOW! It is not yet too late. The deadline is September 28. Democratic government grants the vote of every adult citizen. Good citizenship demands that you use it. Register now!

THEY ASK FOR WORK!

Work, not relief, is still what most Americans want. The other day a city in the Middle West announced 600 civil service jobs were available under a new city charter plan. Nine thousand people answered the call, and many of them stood in line anxiously waiting through an entire night. Such stories as these are by no means uncommon. Despite a few careerists on relief, the large majority of our workless workers ask one thing only—a job

Peace and Strife
By EVA CARTER BUCKNER

The world is so beautiful,
So full of life,
The peace and the joy drown
The din and the strife.

If hills were all paved, we would
Not have to plod.
If life was all sunshine,
We might forget God.

As gold and alloy make the Ring we admire,
The peace and the strife make us
Look to One higher.

We see in His planning, He Knows what is best.
We'll stand for right always, and
He'll do the rest.

How Do You Adapt?
By HELEN MAY

Very few of us know anything about our adaptive mechanism--man's most potent force.

It is our power of adaption that causes us to conques disease, to adapt to new countries and climates--and most important, to adapt to life. It is this one quality that insures progress or the lack of which causes decay. Like our brains and muscles, our adaptive mechanism does not wear out with use, but grows and expands.

Elementary man survived mostly because of his power of adaptation which called forth his innate potentialities when he was confronted with danger or with the necessity of vicariously obobtaining food. Any person, even now, who is compelled, through circumstances to lead a dangerous or difficult life, is more virile and more energetic than the person who has a comparatively easy existence, simply because he has had to use all of his resources. As the adaptive system is developed, the human being becomes a more complete integrated individual who confronts his problems and overcomes them, who never side steps or runs away. The unfortunate part o fthis system is that while it brings on complete development if brought into constant usage it brings about decay and mental apathy if not used. This accounts for the many mental levels of people. Some fight and develop themselves, others run away from life, taking to drink or dope, or living in a world of dreams. Still others descend to levels of less competition where they can earn a living with not too much effort.

Rough conditions of life and more responsibility also tone up our moral energy and develop audacity—that quality which gives man the courage to dispute old theories and build up new sciences and which causes him to go out and create a new job for himself if he can get one in no other way.

Today the lives of most people are comparatively easy, because modern science has created so much protection and artificial care. Fortunately for the colored man, this ease is not always his without a struggle. He still has numerous things to conquer. He has just begun to reap in many fields a harvest, which is the resul of his powers having to be used to the utmost in order to obtain even the smallest success. Many doors are closed to him which he has to pry open a tiny fraction at a time. As a result many colored men and women are rising today who far excell in their work those of other races who have had centuies of advancement and culture behind them.

TWO POSITIONS

It is not uncommon for a Colored man who aspires to become a professional to hold two positins at the same time—his profession and a job which supports him until he is on his feet. How could this help but call forth all of his forces? In addition, in order to receive any recognition, even from his own people he has to be better than the average in his chosen line.

Some are inclined to feel sorry for themselves because of their many difficulties. They allow opostunities to slip through their fingers and spend their time loafing, bewailing the unjust lot of the colored man who can do so little because of prejudice.

If prejudice were going to keep a people from advancing, the Jew, who has no home land and who because of his religion for centuries was regarded as an untouchable—and is even today in many countries—would still be a wandering tribe of nomads. Instead, they have faced the opposition, taken advantage of nature's marvelous gift of adaptation, and have almost taken possession of the most difficult fields of science, music and the stage.

Any supreme strugg is both a marvelous and a potent destructive force—it is how we meet our situation that is all important.

The future of the colored race lies in its powers to accept, and develop its adaptive mechanism which has been excluded from no man. Anyone can run away—and disintegrate—it takes the man with courage and audacity and mental stamina to succeed in spite of opposition and prejudice.

• The LAUNDRYMAN

THE invasion of Poland on a 200 mile front by the Red Army illustrates all too plainly how often "The best laid plan of Men and Mice gang aft agley." It is a thundering climax to the addle-pated, childish, blundering diplomacy which England's premier has been displaying for the last four years.

The slight offered the peasant-born Stalin at Munich, has proven a mortal affront, a boomerang destined to shake European democracy to its very foundations. Millions of innocent men, women and children will die because of it. How any one in their right senses—let alone diplomats who are supposed to be masters of human psychology—could snub a peasant dictator one month, and then blithely ask his aid in a momentous undertaking the next month, is beyond my proletarian understanding.

Instead of fighting for the preservation of the Balance Of Power in Europe—and the pseudo grand principles so often outlined by Allied diplomats in fiery speeches—England and France may soon be fighting desperately for their own existence. And from all indications it will be a long, bitter struggle.

The truth of the matter is that the day of underhanded, scheming, callous diplomacy is gone; along with buggies, Flora-Dora Sextettes, the "Charleston", bootleg barons, the notion that the many should be exploited for the sake of the few, Gone With the Wind.

The trouble with the French and English statesmen is that like many individuals they h a gotten to the place where they can think only in Set Groves, formed by years of selfish concentration upon personal aggrandizement, with never a thought of the Other Fellow, his problems and needs, his coul-cravings for Opportunity, for expression.

The United States will do well to heed the warning spoken by Colonel Lindbergh the other day, and exert every means to stay out of this titanic combat. I say titanic, because concealed within its environs is more force than merely the armed might of the nations engaged.

This is no time for mincing words, but rather, for facing cold, hard, facts. The present European wa promises to be a death struggle between Democracy (as practiced in England and France,) and a strange, new, fanatical ideology exemplified by Germany and Russia. As to the tremendous energy these ideologies are capable of generating, we have only to pause and consider the distance they have come since the year 1920. Regardless of the possibility that this tremendous energy may have been diverted by their respective dictators into nefarious channels, still, any doctrine or ideology capable of welding a people into such formidable nationa units as Russia and Germany present to the world today, MUST have some fundamental principles of universay appeal encouched in their psychologies.

Whatever the outcome, our duty lies in making the American Continent the abiding haven of true Democracy, and in letting England and France wash their own dirty linen.

• OTHER PAPERS SAY:

A Hero in Zion Has Fallen
By RALPH MATTHEWS, from "Walking the Big Parade", The Baltimore Afro-American.

While I make no pretense at being thoroughly conversant with all of the mysterious undercover functionings of the Improved Benevolent, Protective Order of Elks of the World I do know that some of the goings on at the recent Harlem convention left a foul odor.

The ouster of the Grand Esteemed Leading Knight Roy S. Bond, Baltimore's rotound high priest of the purple fez, who was to Grand Exalted Ruler J. Finley Wilson what Herman Goering is to Fuehrer Hitler, was not the least of these noxious incidents.

The purge of Mr. Bond in itself was not so important, because in a fraternity the size of Elkdom, which touches so many supposedly free and equal souls, it is to be expected that there will be a normal rotation of office.

The forces, however, which caused this particular rotation are worthy of scrutiny and to the eye of a disinterested observer reveal the weakness not only of the order, but of the grand exalted ruler himself, and proves what we have contended on numer occasions that fraternalism can be one of the biggest misnomers in sepia America.

Had Mr. Bond been voted out in a rise of righteous indignation for malfeasance in office, that brought him into disrepute with the rank and file of the order, there would be no cause for these observations, but he was ousted because he performed his task too well. This is a crime.

LET'S SEE THE RECORD

Let us examine the rceord. For more than 14 years Mr. Bond and Mr. Wilson were inseperable companions, in and out of the course of their fraternal relationships. They cavorted together at home and abroad and were considered kindred souls. They ate together, slept together, and their homes were open one to the other.

Last yeart, at the insistence of Mr. Wilson, Mr. Bond became host to the Elks in Baltimore, a Baltimore that had been gunning for the Wilson scalp ever since he usurped the throne and had left no stone unturned to boot him out of office.

For this reason, Mr. Wilson had expertly kept the convention out of Monumental clutches for 15 years, much to the chagrin of the Maryland shopkeepers, petty hustlers and hangers-on who felt they were entitled to a chance at the swag and an opportunity to loot the pilgrims who made the annual trek to the herding place.

MADE A PLEDGE

In bringing the convention to Baltimore, Mr. Bond in a magnanimous gesture of friendship, whipped the townspeople into line and made them pledge to a man that no effort would be made to dethrone Fuehrer Wilson while he was a guest within their borders. This pledge was given by the grateful inhabitants, who had been on short rations for many moons and Comrade Bond assumed the role of High Protector of the Wilson sovereignty.

But things began to happen and happen fast. Mr. Wilson, surrounded by a corps of yesmen marched on the city hall, bedecked in morning trousers and top fedora and asked that the mayor and city council turn over to him whatever cash the municipality had planned to dish out.

Mr. Bond, a local favorite son, refused to accompany this delegation and the mayor became suspicious when he saw nothing but foreigners. This caused the first breach and the two partners operated on a basis of strained neutrality.

The contention of Comrade Bond was that since his committee was playing host to the invader, there was no point in the grand officer's marching in and carting off the taxpayers money.

He stuck to his high stand, even when the grand ball was staged and insisted that all debts be paid out of the proceeds before there was any divvying up.

This was contrary to previous practice, as it had alway been customary for the convention to have a deficit and leave the local folk to stew in their own juices after the joymakers had departed.

For this crime against Elkdom, Mr. Bond was put on the block—because he had manipulated things so expertly that the local tradesmen collected all their honest debts and only a few dribblings, if any, found their way to the grand lodge coffers.

But for this defiance of national edicts, Mr. Bond found himself persona non grata with the powers that be and was left with the modest reward of being singled out by his neighbors, who said, 'There goes an honest man.'

HONOR COSTLY

But this honor cost him his hide in Elkdom and reduced him to the rank of commoner.

It is, of course, high time that the boys at the trough were given a going over. Many officials with high-sounding titles are paid much more than they are worth and many of them draw bigger plums by licking the Fuehrer's boots than they could earn through any personal enterprise of their own, simply because the rank and file have no voice in their own affairs.

Like good cattle, they come to the corral at milking time and then are turned back to pasture.

All of the possible aspirants for the throne are handled in one of two ways, dependent on their strength.

If the aspirant is smart enough to be palmed off on the mob as some sort of wizard, a sugar teat is put into his mouth to keep him quiet. But if he is weak, he is driven out the order to the hoots of his brethren, who heard their master's voice.

A COMPARISON

In the lower brackets Elkdom operates very much like some branches of organized religion. That is, the con men in the various communities get control and bleed the chumps for what they will stand, and that is usually plenty.

Next to some church members, there is no more naive a creature alive than one who has been soothed to sleep by the mysticism of the password.

But unlike some of the more orthodox fraternities, Elkdom leaves little to chance.

It has been charged that guests at a wedding generally shake their heads with sorrow if the bridegroom sports an Elk tooth on his watch chain. Some of the boys have a pretty bad reputation in the more cultured circles.

In justice to Finley, I must point out that during his reign, he has lifted some of the stigma by their force of numbers, but still the survivors of any late lamented brother feel safer for the soul of their departed if he is laid away by the Masons.

EYE ON THE CASH

With the exception of the yokels, it is a known fact that evey intelligent man who "jines" up has one ear for the password and one eye on the treasury.

The women's branches are hardly better, with every daughter anxious to put her finger in the pie.

In spite of the words "benevolent" and "protective" in the name, nobody does any favors. The officers are even paid for sitting up with the sick and burying the dead. The big shots turn in expense vouchers for attending funerals, the secretary gets paid for keeping the minutes and even the inner and outer doormen get theirs.

The house committees account to nobody and each succeeding set of officers seems to try to vote the treasury dry before their administration changes, leaving their successors to begin fresh.

Mr. Bond was guilty of the unspeakable apostasy of staging his convention on a cash and carry basis for the obviously selfish purpose of protecting his good name in hi community.

This was unthinkable and he was justly purged, as will all others who dare inject such pernicious doctrines into Elkdom after all these fruitful years.

WAR VIEWS

Dear Editor:

Herewith are my views on the European War.

WILL THE UNITED STATES GO TO WAR?

If we send war supplies to Europe, then we will soon be fighting their battles, so I say stay in our own back yards. I hope Roosevelt will keep us out of war. It is true enough that we disagree with some of the political ideals of Germany, however, we should not begin fighting until some European power begins fighting us.

It will do the whole world good to have a war. Because there are too many people n the world. It is sad that the young people will have to go into war before they have a chance to live their lives out.

And I also hope that the Negro people will have sense enough to stick up for their rights. We have very intelligent people in our race. Now that this is a clean up year, let us get what belongs to us, so that we will know that we are Americans.

It will be a sad state of affairs, if the Negro people commit the same blunder as they did in 1914. For the benefit of themselves, I for one do hope that they do not. I hope that I have caused the thinking element of the Negro people to take this matter into consideration.

EASTSIDERS RAP VICE SQUAD

VOL. 60 — NO. 25 LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, SEPT. 28, 1939 PRICE 5 CENTS

on the sidewalk

by c. a. b.

IN THIS travelogue, the last account of our home-bound journey stopped at Baltimore, Md. In this great southern metropolis we spent one night at the 1200 Druid Hill Ave. Y. W. C. A., where Mrs. Alice B. Irvington is executive secretary and Mrs. Margaret Frazie housekeeper.

We reached Baltimore in the midst of a terrific thunder storm. Folk who know me understand just how much I love lightning and thunder.

As John drew the car close to the curb and I hastened to shelter, a streak of lightning so fierce and powerful struck nearby that even after I had been conducted to my room and comfort by the very gracious housekeeper, so frightened was I that I made my way underneath instead of into the bed.

The storm, with its roaring thunder, great flashes of lightning and steady rainfall lasted until midnight. From that time until 5 A. M. I slept.

Stopping at Baltimore was merely an incident. I was bound for Washington, D. C. At the break of day no semblance of the storm remained. The Ford, even though it had had a drenching, seemed none the worse, and was ready to go after a little wiping, greasing and oiling. Hence, as the golden rays of sun polished the dew drops upon the velvet green sloping hills of that gorgeous Maryland country, we nosed in and out of the complex automotive flow that enters the capitol of the nation daily, and to a stop in front of that beautiful marble monument, the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture headquarters. As we hesitated here to get our bearings, an individual, clothed in rags, his hair dishevelled and standing stiff on his neck, a bloated face that looked like steak ready for a "Chicken Fried" concoction, poked his head in the open window and whined "Lady won't you give a world-war veteran something to eat?"

While I have not seen the capitols of Europe and the other Americas, I am satisfied that there is not a more beautiful city in the world than our Washington.

My one day stay in the capitol city was brim full. A visit to the Republican National Committee Headquarters revealed that those who shape the destiny of political parties have at least come to understand that the people who make up the body politic welcome the appearance of new faces in Presidential campaign setups. Hence at Jackson Place I found Emmett Scott, eminent scholar and astute stateman, in charge. John Hamilton, chairman of the National Committee was detained in Europe at that time.

A brief discussion of political affairs in the nation revealed that this noted educator of Tuskegee and Howard University fame is on his toes in matters that affect the social and economic status of Black America.

When I divided my meagre travelling income with the pudgy drink-bloated World War veteran-vagabond, I did so with the full realization that even this remnant of what was a man prior to 1914, could enter any Cafe or eating place in Washington and satisfy his hunger, but that I, because of my identification with the Black American group, would be denied this privilege.

From Jackson Place I went in pursuit of my California friends. I had seen Clarence Johnson at Richmond and assured him that I would see him again before leaving for the West Coast.

As the day grew older, so grew the heat, but this condition, while it dampened my brow, did not dampen my ardor. In the United States Department of the Interior I found young Mr. Johnson, stalwart and strong, holding down his desk in the Race Relations Dept. Johnson, even while quite young, was a serious student of conditions social and otherwise as they affected his group. Hence I was not surprised to note his serious approach to the subject of adjustment of racial issues as they relate to governmental affairs.

As I ended my visit which included an introduction to at least a half dozen other workers in the Race Relations Dept., Mr. Johnson personally escorted me into the office of the real head of the Department, Dr. Robert C. Weaver.

A short chat with this splendidly equipped young man, brought forth this information: All employees whose compensation is in excess of $1950 per annum are subject to civil service requirements in the U. S. Housing Authority. When the U. S. H. A. was established in November, 1937, approximately 600 employees were transferred. Among these employees transferred from WPA, there were 15 Negro messengers (among the Negro employees); in addition to these, three Negro mess-

Letter States 'Force to Be Met By Force'

Letter Grows Out of Attack By Officer of Man in His Home

An indignant letter reportedly had been written this week to the vice squad of the Los Angeles Police department, warning that Eastsiders "intend to meet force with force" and the wanton invasion of private homes by police officers, without warrants, with gunfire.

Intentions of going before the Grand Jury in an effort to secure complaints against three white officers, working on vice out of Newton Street station, were also announced in the letter. Signatures to the missive, believed to be over two dozen, were kept secret by the source of information.

The letter assertedly grew out of a fight last Friday night at the home of Clifton Lester, 1310 E. 17th street, in which H. R. Heineman, Newton Street police officer, was beaten and Lester, also beaten, arrested for "assault with a deadly weapon".

COMMISSIONER ON DEFENSE

Represented by two attorneys, one of them commissioner of the City Health department, Maurice C. Sparling, retained by Lester's employers, and the other, Walter L. Gordon jr., Central avenue attorney, engaged by Mrs. Lester, Lester was ordered freed by Judge Wm. Curtis, and the case dismissed.

According to Lester's story, Heineman, whom he said he had not recognized as a police officer, invaded his home, seeking a prostitute, a Mrs. Lee, of whom the station assertedly had complaints. Told that no Mrs. Lee had ever lived there, Heineman is alleged to have approached Mrs. Lester to arrest her, saying "Well, that's all right, You'll do as well".

Lester said he grabbed a baseball bat when his wife screamed and beat the officer from the house, believing him to have been a "degenerate who was making improper advances to my wife".

At Heineman's shout for help, his brother officers, Stewart Jones and J. J. Menogue rushed in, Lester testified, beat him "unmercifully" and arrested him.

Prepare to Fight U. of Missouri Jim Crow

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 28—With Missouri and Kansas branches of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People voting upwards of $150.00 a piece to the Gaines Case Defense Fund, preparations went ahead this week to fight the University of Missouri in its refusal to recognize the Supreme Court decision.

In refusing to admit Miss Lucille Bluford of Kansas City to its School of Journalism, the University continued to ignore the decision of the U. S. high court which said that it should admit Negroes for graduate and professional studies not offered at Negro schools, or maintain separate, but equal facilities for them.

Maryland Buys Morgan College

BALTIMORE, Sept. 28,—Morgan college, one of the oldest Negro institutions of higher learing, will become Morgan State college Oct. 1, following sale of the school to the State of Maryland last week.

Following a recommendation by Governor Herbert R. O'Conner's commission, negotiations were instituted early this year for the sale. The College board of trustees received $225,000 for the school.

Race Seamen Rescue Stranded Americans

NAT'L MARITIME UNION WINS BIG VICTORY OVER SHIP JIM CROW POLICY

462 Negro Seamen Employed on Rescue Ships; NMU Official Answers Nazi Charge

By FAY M. JACKSON

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Close on the heels of press reports that pro-German sympathy of many seamen on American liners were making it difficult for the Government to bring stranded Americans back from Europe, the National Maritime Union announced this week that 462 colored seamen were registered and employed last fortnight on four ships engaged in rescue work.

Employment of these men, many of whom had been thrown out of work after the Munson and Red D Lines went out of business and the American Republic and Grace Lines, respectively, took over the routes, marks a distinct victory for the N. M. U.

The Seafarers International Union, an AFL affiliate, assertedly failed to break up discrimination suffered by the Negro unionists.

Entire crews of the S. S. St. John and Acadia are colored, it was learned today. The Iroquois and Orizaba have 126 Negro seamen on deck. Ratings of the men range from Able Bodied and ordinary seamen, bakers, lounge stewards, pantrymen, head hallmen, waiters, chefs, stweards, to all forms of services aboard ship.

It was explained to the writer that while the S. S. St. John and Acadia were sailing under Eastern Lines they carried an S. I. U. crew. When these ships were chartered by the U. S. Lines, the S. I. U. crew had to abandon ship for the N. M. U. crew.

"This action", declared Ferdinand Smith, Negro, national vice-president of the NMU, "strongly emphasizes the necessity for one unit of seamen.

"Had these SIU men been members of the NMU, they would have been transferred with their vessels when the new charters were effected.

"Action of the NMU in breaking up U. S. Lines discriminatory policy should demonstrate to colored seamen that their place is with the National Maritime Union." Smith stated.

When word flashed at waterfront headquarters that ships were sailing with NMU crews, Septimus Rutherford, secretary-treasurer of the Stewards Division, rushed the highways and byways of Harlem and other Eastern seaboard centers where the rejected race men had gathered, enlisted them for work.

Vice-president Smith issued a statement today to the NAACP and the Industrial Relations Department of the Urban League denying that Nazi or Nazi sympathizers influenced the policy of the union and clarified the union's stand with regard to the rescue of stranded Americans.

"The NMU Constitution expressly forbids discrimination against members of the union for reasons of race, religion or political creed," he said.

"The American seamen who are members of the NMU have constantly made clear to the American public that they stand four-square against fascism, against aggression of all kinds. It is essentially true that the United States Line has made a practice of hiring German stewards for the last ten years. Possibly some of these German stewards are Nazis. However, a handful of Nazis working on the United States Lines can not make the National Maritime Union a Nazi sympathizer.

"Our controversy with the ship owners over non-discrimination revolves entirely around our determination to protect our families in case our lives are lost due to war, or our livelihoods are cut off due to capture by one of the belligerents.

"Already American ships are being stopped on the high seas," Smith continued. "Tomorrow these ships may be sunk or captured and their crews interned as "prisoners of war."

"The National Maritime Union is prepared to supply seamen who will work without wages to man ships bringing back Americans provided that no cargoes will be carried by the ships and that no fares will be charged the returning Americans.

"At the present time, some of the companies are charging double fares for cots aboard the rescue ships."

Since the bars have been let down against Negro seamen, it is believed that steamship companies aligning themselves with the NMU policy of hiring Negroes in the emergency will find out that the colored personnel aboard their vessels are as efficient as any. New employment opportunities for all classes of seamen have thus been opened by the NMU and a welcome has extended to all bona fide seamen who want to ship.

Sentence of Nine Jersey Mobbists Postponed

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—Sentencing of the nine white defendants who pleaded no defense in New Brunswick, N. J. last week before Judge Adrian Lyon to the charge of brutally attacking 7 Negro potato pickers, including a woman, near Cranbury, N. J. last Aug. 11 has been postponed.

A further and more thorough investigation into the case has been promised by the prosecutor's office and the probation department of the court before Judge Lyon pronounces sentence.

2ND NEGRO NAMED TO BALTIMORE JURY

BALTIMORE, Sept. 28—A second Negro was named to the Baltimore Criminal Court grand jury this week. Dr. James D. Carr received the appointment to the September term, following Howard H. Murphy, a member of the May term.

Supporters of Mob Bill May Push Fight

Will Act if Special Session is Not Limited to Neutrality

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—In reply to inquiries from members of Congress and newspapers as to the position of supporters of the anti-lynrhing bill in relation to neutrality and other legislation dealing with the national welfare in light of the war in Europe, the Naitonal Association for the Advancement of Colored People, coordinating agency of organizations and individuals supporting federal anti-lynching legislation, made the following statement at its national office in New York City today:

"Supporters of the anti-lynching bill are more convinced than ever of the necessity for the enactment of a law to end this horrible practice. Because of their apprehension about the fate of democracy in America, they are particularly concerned with legislation to be considered by the special session of Congress dealing with neutrality. If the President's request of the Congress that the special session be confined to legislation dealing with the war in Europe is agreed to, then, of course, supporters of the anti-lynching bill will submit to the judgment of the Congress and wait until the regular session in January.

NOT JEOPARDIZE

"If, however, the Congress does not agree to limit the special session to consideration of war legislation, supporters of the anti-lynching bill who have worked for it for so many years will most certainly not jeopardize the present position of the bill which has the highest parliamentary status in the House of Representatives.

"It is our conviction that before the United States sets forth again, directly or indirectly, to preserve democracy beyond the borders of the United States, it must wipe out such undemocratic practices as lynching in the United States. Negroes, who are the chief

A. PHILLIP RANDOLPH HERE NEXT MONTH

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—A Philip Randolph, president of the International Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, will visit the Pacific Coast in October, it was announced today.

CALIFORNIA VERSUS FLORIDA—Interest in the rivalry between the two states is well represented in the latter state's daughter, Margaret G. Simms, prominent contralto, who is from Jacksonville. Mrs. Simms is visiting on the coast.

Soldier Takes Death Calmly in Arizona State Prison

FLORENCE (Ariz.) Sept. 28—Said by prison officials to be the "calmest condemned man in the history of the prison," Frank Connor, 23-year old soldier, marched into the state prison gas chambers here last Friday morning at five o'clock and was executed for the hold-up murder of Tracy Bird, city clerk of Nogales.

Connor, clad in trunks and slippers, strode without aid along the corridor, where many men previously had been half carried. He knelt at the door of the gas chamber and prayed.

As he was being strapped to a bench, he framed a last "goodbye" thru a window to the priest. The warden tripped 13 cyanide pellets into a pan of sulphuric acid and nine minutes later Connor was declared dead.

An infantryman at Fort Huachuca, Connor shot Bird and took his wallet while in Nogales on a liquor and marihuana spree Oct. October 16, 1938.

A square of khaki cloth, torn from his uniform as he was fleeing, identified Connor when he was picked up later for questioning. He confessed.

Grants Reprieve

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 28—William Green, of Fresno, one of two men scheduled to die in the gas chamber within the next few days, was granted a reprieve last Thursday by Gov. Culbert Olson.

The scheduled execution of Green, who was convicted of the murder of George W. Lesk, elderly recluse who lived in the hobo jungles outside of Fresno was extended from last Friday to Friday, October 20.

Wm. Murphy Admitted to Maryland University

BALTIMORE, Sept. 28,—William H. Murphy of Baltimore, became the third colored student to be admitted to the University of Maryland Law School Tuesday after the N.A.A.C.P. threatened to institute suit to compel the university to admit him.

Murphy, a graduate of Oberlin college, applied to the law school in February, 1939. He was called for a conference with President D. C. Byrd on Sept. 6.

The University of Maryland would go so far as to turn its plant over to private management rather than admit colored students to its law school, President Byrd told the youth in the conference.

Threatening suit, with the aid of the NAACP, Murphy finally was notified of his admission Sept. 19.

Donald H. Murray, Amherst graduate, first Negro student to gain admission to the school, has graduated and last month passed the Maryland Bar examination. Calvin C. Douglas, graduate of Shaw university, is still enrolled.

Seven Lawyers Defend N.Y. Man

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—Frederick Evans, 50, charged with disorderly conduct, set a dubious record when he appeared in police court here last Thursday. His defense counsel was composed of seven lawyers, one of them a woman for whom he had worked at various times as a process server. It was probably the largest legal force to ever represent a person on such charges.

Incidentally, Evans beat the "rap."

F-L-A-S-H ! !

A late unconfirmed report, reaching the EAGLE minutes before last night's deadline, stated that a Mrs. McCarther, charwoman on the 14th floor of the Los Angeles Federal building, had been brutally slapped during an argument with her superior, Mrs. Nattie Stanton, white.

It was said that the colored woman was struck three times in the mouth; the alleged altercation taking place between 7:30 and 8:00 o'clock last night.

Mrs. Stanton and Mrs. McCarther, according to statements, had been "fussing and fighting" for two weeks. Mrs. McCarther assertedly had offered to give up her position in order to solve the difficulties, however, other employes in the Federal buildings are said to have prevailed upon her not to "give in".

Further charges hold that Mrs. Stanton is fanatically prejudiced and has been a continuous source of trouble since her employment. Organizations, among them the Veterans of Foreign Wars, have attempted to have the woman ousted because of her "unfair attitude" according to statements.

An EAGLE informant also contended that Mrs. Stanton had been investigated thrice by agents from Washington, but in each case "nothing has happened."

SPECIAL SESSION CALLED BY FDR TO CONSIDER REVISION OF NEUTRALITY

Solons Expected to Settle Questions of Internal and International Policy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. (CNA)—Congress likely will be called on to settle momentous questions of internal as well as international policy at the special session which started last Thursday.

The special session was called by President Roosevelt to consider revision of the Neutrality Act, but it appeared probable this week that the session will also consider several explosive domestic issues, including relief, WPA, profiteering and anti-lynching legislation.

A move for additional relief, because of war time increases in the prices of commodities, and to "correct the injustices" of the Woodrum Bill which effected drastic cuts on WPA, will be made by Representative Jerry Voorhis, the California New Dealer initiated this week.

FIGHT ISOLATIONISTS

The President has strong popular support in his fight on isolationists who last session blocked the Administration's efforts to revise the Neutrality Act to permit a "cash and carry" arrangement for the sale of arms to belligerent nations. Recent polls conducted by the Gallup Survey show an overwhelming majority of the American people in favor of revising the Act, which, it is contended, plays into the hands of the fascist aggressor nations by negating the superior sea power of the European democracies.

Revision, however, is hotly opposed by Senator Borah and other isolationists. Borah has indicated that he will filibuster against the President's proposals.

Father Divine Hosts 24-Hr. Banquet

(L. A. Times)

NEW YORK, Sept. 24 (Exclusive)—About 3000 followers of Father Divine gathered today for a 24-hour banquet in the Rockland Palace on W. 155th St. with Divine at the head of the U-shaped table.

The marathon meal began at midnight Saturday, with the angels eating in relays.

Divine read to his cheering followers a telegram he had sent to President Roosevelt warning against repeal of the arms embargo and urging strictest neutrality.

The President has not yet replied, Divine said.

Dewey's First Client A Negro

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Racket-busting District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, who has been mentioned as Republican standard bearer in 1940, received his first fee from a colored janitor in a Broadway building, it was learned here this week.

Dewey's first client was the colored janitor, involved in a rent dispute. Dewey won.

CLARENCE MUSE A-TALKIN' TO YOU . . .

CLARENCE MUSE

MANY TIMES YOU will hear people say, that the Motion Picture Industry is the back-bone of California. That is the money exchanged and circulated in this state thru this industry is responsible for the great progress of California. I think that is about true. So it is important and fitting that when a great pioneer of the motion picture business passes, we should pay tribute. "Uncle Carl" Laemmle, the creator of Universal City and the great Universal Studios passed this week. I had the honor to pay tribute on a special memorial broadcast over KFWB the other night and I felt that it was no more than my great moral duty to say more. Motion pictures have been very kind to me and many of my group. It is still one of the best opportunities for Race artists and the great pioneering period for the Negro is just beginning. When you look back and think that a little German-Jew over thirty years ago conceived that there was a big future for motion pictures, but it needed organization and good business administration. And from that decision this man started to work surrounding himself with people who remained with him nearly all of that time and stopped only a few days ago, after he had seen a toy business grow into one of the giants of the world and also put California on the map. I humbly pay tribute to this great little man. He gave us great pictures many of which our group appeared in—to great advantage, and above all the entire world recognizes the fact that this man remained human. He did things for people, and never asked anything in return, but a smile. The irony of it all is that his home, Germany, is today a very unhealthy place for a Jew. Still he fought on, producing and loving mankind. To me, he is an inspiration to every Negro in the world. A race that is persecuted in many places by prejudice, robbed of opportunity many times, can only go on and up with a spirit like "Uncle Carl" Laemmle. Push ahead regardless, believe in yourself, and what ever you do, don't forget humanity. It is your every duty. The industry needs more men of the high calibre of the little German-Jew. Rabbi Dubov, David Wark Griffith, the director of the "Birth of a Nation," were among those who paid tribute over the radio. Even the late David Wark Griffith won over his start in this business—he learned the value of humanity. And today you could not pay him enough money to make another "Birth of a Nation." He has learned [illegible] sufferers from lynching, will be among those American citizens called upon once again to fight for democracy. Congress must see to it that there is no repitition of what took place during the first world war when relatives of Negro soldiers, fighting in France for democracy, were seized by mobs in the United States and lynched, some of them being burned at the stake."

"A LOAN AT LAST!" cried the happy young couple when California Bank rushed through a loan "to build a home of our own where we can be ALONE AT LAST." Dutifully we laughed the hollow laugh people expect when they make puns and then reminded them: "Don't forget now—if you have any friends who want to build, buy or refinance, be sure to tell them that California Bank is the bank to see for loans." Late Clarence Mills Held Up as Model for Youth Assembled hundreds in the auditorium of Friendship Baptist church in Pasadena last Friday afternoon heard Rev. W. R. Carter, pastor, hold up Clarence E. Mills, late president-emeritus of the Western Federation of Tennis clubs, as a model "worthy of emulation by the youth of the land". The body of the late churchman, businessman and sportsman lying in a casket literally banked with flowers, Rev. Carter was delivering the funeral oration.

In a tragedy that shocked national tennis circles and brought sorrow to Southern California where the deceased and his family had lived for 32 years, Mills, 48 years old, died Tuesday of last week from injuries received in a head-on truck collision. With him at the time of the accident and seriously injured, was a family friend, Mrs. Hazel Purdue. Her condition is yet "uncertain", General hospital authorities stated.

NOT BLAMED

A coroner's jury, conducting an inquest into the accident, Thursday, absolved of blame Albert G. Volmer, white, with whose truck Mills collided on Rosemead boulevard. Unhurt, Volmer testified, and was corroborated by R. F. Skinner of El Monte, that Mills swerved head-into him, making a left turn.

The impact threw Mills and his companion from the truck, the former sustaining a compound fracture of the skull from which he died. Deputy District Attorney Charles Matthews, only Negro in the District Attorney's office, represented that office at the inquest.

Chairman of the American Tennis Association Advisory board, Mills had been active in West coast tennis for almost two decades. Injured several years ago while riding a motorcycle, he limped when walking and for that reason had not recently played.

An enormous wreath was sent from the American Tennis association, as well as from the WFTC and numerous other clubs and organizations.

Widow of John Stocks, pioneer Californian, she came to California 34 years ago from Bryant, Texas. Burial was at Mountain View cemetery with James Woods mortuary in charge.

Five and Over Program Declared Finest in History

Despite Sunday's downpour, the Five and Over Charity Club program at the Progressive Baptist church, 1201 E. Vernon avenue, was chalked up as one of the outstanding affairs in the worthy organization's lengthy history.

Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, editor-publisher of The EAGLE, was guest speaker, and found high favor with a very appreciative audience.

Many complimentary and encouraging remarks were voiced by various speakers commenting upon Mrs. Mabel Gray's administration as president of the Five and Over Charity club. Outstanding services to the community and progressive welfare work over a long period were cited among the contributions of the unique organization.

Rev. R. B. Porter, pastor of the Progressive Baptist, spoke briefly but eloquently at the close of the meeting.

Strickland's Sacred orchestra rendered a well-balanced musical presentation and was roundly applauded by the large audience.

After the meeting at Progressive Baptist, there was a reception at 'God's Guest House', 1345 E. Vernon avenue, with Mother Pearl Woods presiding as hostess. God's Guest House (King Daughters' Rest Home) has been called one of the most striking residences on the Eastside, and is well known for its spaciousness and beauty. Particularly attractive, according to visitors, is the fine furniture which graces all parts of the rest home.

Mother Woods shares with the rest home fame as an "institution" for betterment of the religious life of the community.

Among honored guests upon the platform at the afternoon meeting were Mrs. Ardella Anglin, Mrs. Gertrude Hicks, Bishop Sarah Butler, Mrs. Esther McFarland, Mrs. Hattie Williams, Mother Jennings, Mrs. Rhoda Goodwin, Mrs. Sarah Devine, Mrs. Gertrude Settles, Mr. and Mrs. Primmer, Mrs. Suzie Kirtley, and others.

Committee members who composed the now famous Five and Over Charity club telegram to President Roosevelt, demanding that the USA be kept out of war, include Mesdames McFarland, Kirtley and Bass.

Members of the club who attained distinction in the past few months were honored. Among them: Honorary members Ardelia Anglin, vice president of the California Association of Colored Women; Mrs. Bass, Carl Gross, recreational director.

Active members are Ida Mae Robertson, G. W. M., OES; Hattie Williams, vice president; Frankie Mack and Anna Danforth Brazier, grand officers, Knights and Daughters of Tabor; Bishop Sarah Butler, Louise Fulghum, Grand Elks; Irene Freeman, manager, Lincoln Memorial cemetery; Adele B. Ashford, secretary, California Eagle; Rev. Anna McMillan, Rev. Mabel Oliver and Mme. Elizabeth Ford.

Religious degrees: Billie McFarland, president California Women's Council; Gertrude Hicks, president Sojourner Truth Home; Gertrude Settles, president Classic Literary and Art club.

Silver offering was lifted to be used in purchasing and making baby layettes for indigent mothers. Club members wish to announce that Thanksgiving basket donations from friends will be greatly appreciated.

Volunteer Club

The annual picnic of the Volunteer club was held at Val Verde on Labor Day. About 40 guests and members attended. About 40 guests and members attended. A caravan of cars left the home of Mrs. Graves at 4 a. m., led by Mrs. P. H. Wiggins, president.

MAYOR URGES UNITED VOTE IN SPECIAL ELECTION

WAR TALK

The oceans seem to be the most advantageous points of destruction in time of war; and as this is my second experience playing the seas during such conflict it is more of great interest rather than excitement.

It is interesting note that such a contrast today from that of the World War of 1918, when the United States was an ally to Democracy, and today when they are standing by, wishing them well, but not definitely concerned or involved in the argument so far.

Our ship, the U. S. S. Army Transport Republic, enroute from San Francisco to Hawaii, our country's principal military base, although thousands of miles from the scene of battle, has taken on a few extra precautions, quite noticeable.

Huge bright colored American flags have been painted on either side of the vessel amidship, with illuminated lights, while Old Glory flutters in the breeze from her after mass, with flood lights playing its rays upon the stars and stripes, plainly bestowing the dove of peace to foreign nations.

During my time in the U. S. Navy, Uncle Sam's ships had an entirely different aspect. They paced feverishly across the seas in total darkness, with subdued lights, and even a cigarette glow was a cue to the enemy, while now they proudly display the red, white and blue with deliberation. Leaving the Port of San Francisco, however, our ship was escorted to high seas by a military convoy, just how far we do not know.

I find great pleasure during this voyage in reminiscing incidents of the World War days to many of my shipmates of the Republic, who listen with eagerness, as I relate to them the remarkable changes in the modernization of the old customs and routine of yesteryear.

Most of these young fellows, who scarcely remember, if at all, the war days of yore, look with grim seriousness to the present world upheavel, while the oldtimers swap yarns and sigh with the satisfaction and security that it all happens in a lifetime. If something happens what's the use of worrying; as there's nothing we can do about it, but wait and see.

BEAUTIFUL HAWAII

I have long enjoyed the many beautiful songs written in verse of Hawaii, and its dreamy music has thrilled me over and over; and now it comes to pass that I will see it for myself in all its exquisite grandeur. Our ship has just arrived in Honolulu (September 14-21); then we return to New York via San Francisco and the Panama Canal.

The Hawaiian Islands are called the "Paradise of the Pacific." Mark Twain has aptly described them as "the loveliest fleet of islands anchored in any ocean."

While the islands are in the tropics the soothing trade winds keep them refreshingly cool and comfortable. The temperature ranges from 56 to 88 degrees throughout the year. Add to this wonderful climate, the bountiful array of flowers, the gorgeous sunsets, the many perfect rainbows, both solar and lunar, and are rare jade shores skirting the many excellent beaches, and it can be easily understood why Hawaii has attracted by the thousands from all parts of the world.

Hawaii is located 2100 miles southwest of San Francisco, 160 degrees west longitude and 22 degrees north latitude. Mail and passenger service is made by Transpacific "Clipper" airplanes in 18 hours to San Francisco; steamships from four to seven days, which is just a nice voyage outside of the three mile limit. Hawaii is to the west coast what Bermuda is to the easterners, yet Hawaii is far more ideal.

There are eight main islands of the group with innumerable smaller islands and rocks jutting out of the ocean, and strung along the Pacific for hundreds of miles. Hawaii, the largest of the group, from which they get their name, is active of volcanoes, with an area of 4,030 square miles. Other main islands are: Maui, Oahu, Kauai, Molokai, and Kahoolawe, with a total area of 6,435 square miles. Total population, 421,485.

HONOLULU

The main port of call is Honolulu, a city of 163,073, located on the island of Oahu. It is the capital and principal seaport. Here the U. S. Army, Navy military personnel are garrisoned and the important industries have their headquarters. Here too is located the famous Waikiki Beach, that is so widely known far and near. Molokai, known as the friendship island, where the large leper colony is maintained. Kauai, known as the garden island, boasts a miniature Grand Canyon. Hawaiian Islands are rich in vegetation and produce an abundance of pineapples and sugar cane.

The population of Hawaii is composed of mixed groups of nationalities, including many half-caste. Hawaiians themselves represent a minority—about five per cent. Others, Japanese, in majority, about 40 per cent; Caucasian, Filipino, Portugese, Chinese, Porto Rican, Spanish, Koreans listed in order of proportion.

Hawaii was made a territory of the United State July 7, 1898, when the American flag replaced the Hawaiian flag of the former Republic. The president of the U. S. appoints the governor and secretary of the territory. Hon. Joseph B. Poindexter (D) was appointed in 1934, is present governor. The president also appoints the justices of the Supreme Courts, but all other territorial officials are elected. Hawaii has one delegate in Congress at Washington who represents the interests of the Islands, but has no vote.

SAN FRANCISCO

Dating back to the "Gay Nineties," the "Klondike Gold Rush" of 1902 and the time of increased output of the precious yellow metal in California, and up to th. time of the Earthquake and Fire catastrophe of 1906, San Francisco was the gayest city in America. The underworld held full sway, politics and home-rule were studded with gold nuggets, and the city was a conglomeration of everything but righteousness. The glitter of gold kept old 'Frisco aglow and the old Barbary Coast was a Hell-hole of gambling dens, bawdy houses, master-mind crooks, confidence touts, white slavery, extortionists and sharks that rivalled the most sinister caches of the world's underworld.

The movie film 'San Francisco,' a few years ago, starring Clark Gable and Jeanette McDonald gave a flagrant expose of the deplorable scene, that was just a diluted story. It must have been an act of God, when the destruction of the great city wiped out the vast iniquity and vice.

Today, San Francisco is a virtual Paradise as compared to the above mentioned condition. To me, it appears to be clean, wholesome and a veritable garden spot of abode. The once evil existence seems to have been entirely improved, and the Golden Gate International Exposition is in a bed of roses.

NIGHT LIFE

The tourist, pleasureseeker, as well as ye moderns never fail to include the gaiety and frivolity of night life—just before the dawn in their sightseeing jaunts; and oftimes the "glamour" section makes lasting impression. 'Frisco's night life appears to be on the up-and-up, far superior to most large cities I have visited. They were quiet, dignified and sophisticated, and yet offered amusement and laughter n a conservative atmosphere.

Some of the resorts in the sections patronized mainly by our people included Jack's Tavern, 1931 Sutter street, W. C. Clark, manager; Club Alabam, 1820 Post street, Vernon Brown, Louis Verrett, managers; Town Club, 1963 Sutter street, Jas. Roberts, manager; Buford Hotel, 1969 Sutter street, Wm. Martin, proprietor. Across the bay in Oakland, I also visited the 49'ers Tavern, Frank Boulter, proprietor, and Slim Jenkins' Bar & Grill on Seventh street, both are more or less headquarters for railroad men.

All of these establishments, operated by members of the race, were well equipped with the latest modernistic cocktail lounges, bars and entertainment; with a congenial staff of affable attendants. Prices were practically the same as we have in Harlem.

AROUND THE DECK

It was quite a night when a fleet of U. S. Army bombing planes met our ship about 200 miles at sea yesterday from the Honolulu Army Base. They circled the ship several times, flying a few hundred feet close to us, and disappeared for home. Picture machines and cameras got into action.

Many pleasant friendships are made aboard ocean liners, and it seems just as folks begin to know each other and become fast friends, the journey ends, probably never to meet again. And so it was aboard our ship the Republic; I met many fine fellows from various cities over the country and we had much in common, and had mutual friends. We have been on the ship since Aug. 15, when we left New York, just a full month of the voyage.

Speaking of "fast friends," if you have ever visited 'Frisco, you might have become acquainted with the California fleas. They are very cordial to strangers, and like to hide away in the most dainty wardrobes, where things are sweet. Now ladies, I don't care to frighten you about sunny California, but just let you know that there are other things famous in the Golden State other than oranges, grapes and flowers.

I happen to be a radio addict, and try to be a professional dialer of the ether waves. My set is working fine, with these Hawaiian programs; and about now I'm fed up on Hawaiian music. Every now and then, Fats Waller's music bobs up; and I heard Lionel Hampton with Benny Goodman, too.

Wearing clothes is a busy job on the ocean. I left New York burning up in the heat, which continued in Panama, and we dressed in all white. But lo and behold, when we struck the vicinity of Frisco, we changed to blue, as the weather was like late Fall; now we're back in white, with all the electric fans turned on in full force .... And just think, we'll have to do that same thing all over again on our return to New York.

Mayor Urges All Citizens to Vote

Election Should Be Expression of All People, Says Mayor

"The most important decision probably ever made in the history of California," was the description of the proposed "30-Thursday" scri plan applied by Mayor Bowron last night in an urgent appeal for all citizens to register and vote at the special election on Nov. 7.

PART OF CONSTITUTION

Stressing the point that, if adopted, "30-Thursday" will become a part of the State Constitution, Mayor Bowron emphasized that the outcome of the election should be an expression of all the people rather than that of any particular class.

"The intensive campaign now under way relating to the Retirement Life Payments Act, to be submitted to the voters of California on Nov. 7, next, has developed some startling facts that threaten the very principles of American democracy. I do not refer to the merits or demerits of the Ham and Eggs plan" the Mayor said.

LEGITIMATE CAMPAIGN

"Whatever may be one's conviction relative to the ultimate success or failure of the $30-every-Thursday scheme, we all must admit that the campaign to adopt the plan in this State is in accordance with strict American democratic principles. The people themselves are asked to incorporate the provisions into the organic law of the commonwealth by amending the Constitution.

"If adopted, the pension plan will be a part of the State Constitution through which are exercised all of those reserved powers not delegated to the Federal government by the Constitution of the United States. We, as Americans, can have no quarrel with that, because it is merely a submission to the people for popular determination—for in America, thank God, the people rule, and our laws, our constitutions—good or bad—are the expression of the popular will.

PEOPLE HAVE POWER

"Democracy is nothing more than a form of government in which the supreme power is retained by the people and exercised by them either directly or indirectly; indirectly when through representatives in Congress, Legislatures Boards of Supervisors or City Councils; directly when the people themselves speak, as in the case of the adoption of an initiative measure or amendment of the Constitution as provided in this State. The principle on which our government is based is popular sovereignty, and if the majority feel that the Ham and Eggs plan will bring Utopia to California, then the plan must be adopted and followed.

UP TO PEOPLE

"If, on the other hand, the majority of the people feel that the plan is contrary to recognized economic principles and that it cannot and will not work; that it will bankrupt the State, counties and cities and cause a general breaking down of public service and fail to accomplish its intended purpose—then the amendment to the Constitution must be defeated! But in either event, the principles of American democracy demand that the majority of the people should make the decision.

For something really different for a dinner gown this model on the left is just THE thing. "Build-Up": Way To Relieve Women's Pain

Many weak, run-down women are in a vicious circle. Their undernourishment often leads to what is called functional dysmenorrhea and its symptoms—headaches, nervousness, irritability, intermittent cramp-like pains—from which many women suffer. Surest way to break the vicious circle is by building strength and energy, which so many find may be done with the help of CARDUI. It stimulates appetite, aids digestion, and thus helps in this "build-up" of physical resistance. Women also report that, if taken just before and during "the time", CARDUI lessens the pain and discomfort of the period.

THIS CARE WORKS WONDERS

FOR SKIN TROUBLED BY PIMPLES OF EXTERNAL ORIGIN

● Regular care can make a wonderful difference in the "feel" and comfort of a skin bothered with the pimply trouble mentioned above. Proper cleansing with Black and White Skin Soap is highly recommended. And then rub on Black and White Ointment. The Ointment acts as an antiseptic, germicidal dressing which goes right to work on the itching, soreness and burning of these externally-caused pimples.

When these discomforts become less and less noticeable, you feel different about your skin. You face the world with a different feeling. You get a chance to forget those embarrassing, disfiguring blemishes when the discomfort is relieved.

The 50c size of Black and White Ointment contains more than twice as much as the 25c size. Large bar of Black and White Skin Soap, 25c. Trial sizes both Ointment and Skin Soap, 10c. At five and ten cent stores everywhere.

'Frisco Hotels Bar James Ford

2-Times Candidate for Vice President Denied Courtesies

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28, (CNA)—Far-famed hostelries in this city, renowned for its hospitality the world over, this week had refused to accomodate a man who twice has been a candidate for the Vice Presidency of the United States.

The man is James W. Ford, twice standard bearer for the Communist Party in national elections and chairman of the Harlem Division, New York City of the Communist Party. Ford came here to address a mass meeting.

The clerk at the Governor Hotel prepared eagerly to take the reservation for Ford's accomodations until the Ford Committee informed him that his guest-to-be was a Negro, it was reported. Then the clerk 'recalled' that several conventions would be held in the city during the days Ford would be here, and all reservations for that period had been taken.

The manager of the Oxford Hotel, Mason at Market Street, was not so polite. Neither was the Ford committee so naive. They made reservations for Ford paid a deposit of $2.50, obtained the receipt, and then informed the clerk that the visitor to San Francisco was a Negro.

The Oxford manager assertedly grew indignant. He had been deceived, he asserted. It was a dirty trick. Under no circumstances would the Oxford accommodate a Negro.

"Not even after you've given us a receipt for a deposit on the reservation?" inquired the committee spokesman.

"Not even then." the manager stated. "But", he added, "if you EAGLE NEILE give me $15.00 or $20.00 we'll consider it."

THERE IS A LAW

But the Ford committee recalled a section in the California civil code, allowing legal action for discrimination by places of public accommodation on the basis of race or color. The section provides for payment of nominal damages of $100.00 should the plaintiff prove his case.

Late this week the committee was considering the next step in what appears to be developing into a campaign to stop discrimination against Negroes in San Francisco.

Book Exhibit on Race Opened at New York Fair

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—A special exhibit of books and original charts analyzing the scientific and democratic truths about race and race prejudice was opened in the Hall of Science and Education of the New York World's Fair last week by Dr. Gerald Wendt, the Fair's director of science and education, and Professor Franz Boas, world renowned expert on racial questions.

The exhibit, which includes Ralph J. Bunche's "A World View of Race" (Associates in Negro Folk Education), was prepared by the American Committee for Democracy and Intellectual Freedom as a feature of its American Rediscovery Week program.

The committee announced that similar exhibits will be set up in hundreds of college and general book stores, libraries, and class rooms throughout the country, as part of its campaign "to lay bare the sources of prejudice" which threaten American democratic institutions.

YOUR CROWNING GLORY

More letters come to me every day regarding the care of the hair than on any one other subject. For this reason I am going to make this an open letter to all those who have problems concerning their hair.

First and foremost, shining, lustrous hair is not acquired over night. Hair requires daily care just as the skin does. Most of you wait until your hair has become dull, dry and brittle and then, in despair, you write for a quick cure. And there is no quick cure for lifeless hair.

Diet and Sleep Affect Condition of Hair

Your diet and the life you lead affect the condition of your hair. If you want the kind of hair that men admire and women envy, you must lead a sane, healthy life. None of this burning the candle at both ends. I don't mean you must go to bed every night with the chickens, but you must average at least eight hours sleep every night in a well-ventilated room and get an hour's healthful exercise, preferably out of doors. And you must watch your diet. Eat plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables rather than sticking to a heavy meal of starches and sweets. And drink lots of water. Beauty and health go hand in hand and if you take good care of your health, it will be reflected in your hair, skin and eyes, as well as in your frame of mind.

Brushing your hair every day is one of the most important external beauty treatments for your hair. Brushing keeps the hair free of dust, stimulates the natural oil in the scalp and gives it a natural sheen. Set aside ten minutes every day for vigorous brushing.

If your hair is dried out and lifeless, treat yourself to a series of oil shampoos, either professional or at home. Olive oil, rubbed into the scalp, will help to correct the dry condition while you are brushing regularly to stimulate the natural oil.

Streaked Hair Unattractive

If your hair is streaked or graying, you can improve its appearance with a good coloring. Streaked, graying hair seldom looks sleek or well-groomed and it is foolish to take the chance of looking old unnecessarily when it is so easily avoided.

And remember to keep your hair and scalp clean. Wash your hair at least every two weeks with a good shampoo if you would keep it lustrous.

Try these simple suggestions and see if the results aren't well worth the try—daily brushing, oil treatments for dryness, a good coloring for drabness, and frequent shampoos. And if you have the time, let me hear about the results of the treatment.

What are your beauty problems? Write Marie Downing, Larieuse Beauty Foundation, Room 521—519 North Fourth St., St. Louis, Mo., and she will be glad to answer them. Be sure to enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

500 Voices Sing in 'Night of Music' in Chicago

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—A combined chorus of more than 500 voices made up of musical talent from all the Baptist Churches of Chicago will present a "Night of Negro Music" to the music lovers of Chicago Tuesday, Oct. 3, at Progressive Baptist church.

Famous robed choirs, popular soloists, well known directors will appear in the singing of new and old favorites in the world of religious music.

The program is for the benefit of the Building Fund of the Chicago Baptist Institute. It will make possible "A Baptist Center in Chicago for the Service of all the people," sponsors stated.

BISHOP GRACE TELLS OF $4,000 THEFT

Baptist Ministers Union Will Meet

Re-convening of the Baptist Ministers' Union of Los Angeles City and County was announced today by Rev. J. L. Caston, president. The first meeting will be held Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock at Second Baptist church, 24th and Griffith avenue, and will feature an exhange of vation experiences, and address by the President on the Union's program and the opening sermon by Dr. A. W. Ross, pastor of Pleasant Hill Baptist church.

Among important matters to be discussed, it was stated, are: continuance of the Ministerial Relief Project; city-wide "evangelistic and social action" in the interest of world peace and the "Ham and Eggs" proposition.

Zelma W. Duke Recital Date Changed

The recital of Zelma Watson Duke sponsored by the Young Women's club of Hamilton Methodist church will be given on Monday evening, October 30, 1939 instead of October 23rd as previously announced. This change has been made because of the conflicts of several programs scheduled on the October 23rd date thus affording an opportunity for all music lovers of Los Angeles and vicinity to share in the enjoyment of this program.

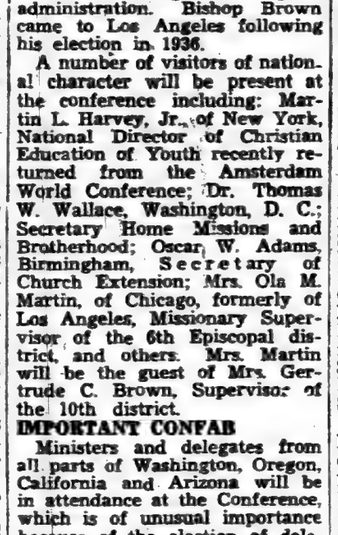
Mrs. Duke will present a program of compositions by Negro musicians which will portray some of the finest artistry of musical compositions. The ease with which handled the great variety of songs she sings will be one of the outstanding features of this recital.

Remember the date, October 23, at Hamilton Methodist church.

Let the child's first lesson be obedience, and the second will be what thou will. —Benjamin Franklin.

AMEZ Meet Opens Here Wednesday

Bishop Brown Will Preside at Sessions at First Church



The 19th annual session of the Southwest Rocky Mountain conference of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church will open Wednesday in a five day session at First Church, Pico Blvd. at Paloma street, according to announcement today by Rev. Walter R. Lovell, pastor. Bishop William C. Brown, of Los Angeles, will preside at this session, which is the first to meet in Los Angeles during his administration. Bishop Brown came to Los Angeles following his election in 1936.

A number of visitors of national character will be present at the conference including: Martin L. Harvey, Jr., of New York, National Director of Christian Education of Youth recently returned from the Amsterdam World Conference; Dr. Thomas W. Wallace, Washington, D. C.; Secretary Home Missions and Brotherhood; Oscar W. Adams, Birmingham, Secretary of Church Extension; Mrs. Ola M. Martin, of Chicago, formerly of Los Angeles, Missionary Supervisor of the 6th Episcopal district, and others. Mrs. Martin will be the guest of Mrs. Gertrude C. Brown, Supervisor of the 10th district.

IMPORTANT CONFAB

Ministers and delegates from all parts of Washington, Oregon, California and Arizona will be in attendance at the Conference, which is of unusual importance because of the election of delegates to the General Conference to meet at Washington, next May.

Much speculation is abroad regarding the successor to Dr. Walter R. Lovell at First Church, who was recently appointed editor of the Star of Zion, published at Charlotte, N. C.

PAUL H. CASSELL, heads "Homecoming Day" at Trinity Baptist.

THE SENIOR CHOIR of Trinity Baptist church, shown above, will be augmented by the Gospel Chorus of 40 voices, under the direction of Virdes Shortridge and the Junior Choir, under Elmoraine Smith, to present the music for Homecoming Day" at Trinity Sunday morning. Marguerite Allard directs the Senior Choir. Rev. J. L. Caston is pastor of the church, located at W. 36th and Normandie.

Dr. Morris to Speak at 1st AMEZ

Dr. Charles Satchell Morris, II, professor of English and director of publicity at Tennessee State college, Nashville, has been granted a leave of absence from his post for the Fall quarter it was announced here today. He returned to Los Angeles late last week from Northern California where he had spoken in San Francisco, Oakland, Berkeley, San Mateo, Palo Alto and San Jose.

Saturday night, Dr. Morris delivered a 15-minute radio address over Station KGFJ during the presentation of the Gold Hour program. He paid tribute to Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, editor-publisher of the California Eagle, as "One of the genuinely great women of our time." The speaker further stated that Tennessee State college had kept in touch with the Far West thru the columns of the EAGLE.

At First AME Zion Sunday morning, Dr. Morris will be the special speaker at Men's Day at the church, corner Pico and Paloma streets.

Sunday, Oct. 8, Dr. Morris will be heard at the Second Baptist church at both regular worship services. His late father, the Rev. Charles Satchell Morris, Sr., who pastored at one time the Abyssinian Baptist church of New York and Dr. T. L. Griffith, pastor of Second Baptist, were friends for more than 40 years.

It is reported that Dr. Morris expects to reside permanently in Los Angeles and that he has been offered a Baptist pastorate in this immediate section.

This nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth. —Abraham Lincoln.

I expect to pass through life but once. If therefore, there be any kindness I can show, or any good thing I can do to any fellow-being, let me do it now, and not defer or neglect it, as I shall not pass this way again.—Penn.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"There is that maketh himself rich, yet hath nothing: there is that maketh himself poor yet hath great riches." This verse from Proverbs is the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Unreality" on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist.

One of the Scriptural selections in the Lesson-Sermon includes these passages from James: "From whence come wars and fightings among you? come they not hence, even of your lusts that war in your members? . . . ye fight and war, yet ye have not, because ye ask not. Ye ask, and receive not; because ye ask amiss, that ye may consume it upon your lusts. . . . Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you. . . . Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up." This verse from Colossians is also presented: "Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth."

The Lesson-Sermon includes also these statements from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Hold thought steadfastly to the enduring, the good, and the true, and you will bring these into your experience proportionably to their occupancy of your thoughts. . . . Good demands of man every hour, in which to work out the problem of being. Consecration to good does not lessen man's dependence on God, but heightens it."

PASTORS WIRE FDR IN WAR EMERGENCY

CHICAGO, Sept. 28—A strong telegram condemning racial injustice in the United States of America and pledging Negro loyalty to America, was sent to President Roosevelt on behalf of 110,000 Negro Baptists in Chicago by the Baptists Ministers Conference. The signature of Dr. L. K. Williams, president of the National Baptist Convention, Inc., headed the list of signers.

Central Ave. District Realty Board

—We have come a long way in our search for the secret of building good will for Real Estate. I hope it is less of a secret than it was before. The one thought above all other, that I should like to leave with you this afternoon, is a very cheerful one. It embodies the kernel of everything I have said. In this days' operation, service pays; the more you do for your customers, the more you will do for yourself, for of necessity, if you render service, you will put your business on a scientific and a truly professional basis, you will render more service and you will have more good will. And good will is the asset of your business that brings the greatest total profit and the highest price in case of a sale.

These are the ambitions and requirements of the following members of the Central Ave. District Realty Board.

Members as follows:
Walter L. Gordon, President, 4065 S. Central Ave., ADams 3193.
Geo. W. City, Vice-President, 816 E. 40th Pl., ADams 13702.

A RAINY DAY

It is a good plan to save for the future, for days when things may not work out so well financially. But do not miss entirely the sunshine while you are about it.

According to ancient philosophy, "no days are promised to us, so gather your fun and enjoyment while you may." That does not necessarily mean all pleasure with no future or foresight. Oftimes, this saving habit becomes an obsession, and we find that every day we are depriving ourselves of little things that bring us sunshine and happiness.

Constantly people are writing in asking me to help them find the solution to their many problems. And one of the most common troubles is, folks who seem to be living above the average, are not getting as much out of life as those in lower circumstances. They haven't learned the art of providing themselves with sunshine, and still being prepared for the showers.

For an analysis of your personal problems, write Prof. Herman today.

L. D.—Does this woman mean me any good?

Ans.—It appears to me that you love this woman, and you are not sure as to her opinion of you. You need not have any fears, she thinks a great deal of you and would make you a good wife.

C. B.—What will be done about my coat?

Ans.—My Psycho-Mentalist Crystal reveals that your coat was lost in a check room, and they promised to repay you. If this is not taken care of within the next few weeks, consult a lawyer as you are entitled to some consideration.

J. T.—Will I marry?

Ans.—According to your Zodiacal sign, you are destined to marry within the next 2 years. You have a charming personality and would be much happier as a wife, than in your present capacity.

M. B.—Can you tell me what is wrong with my life, as I am not happy?

Ans.—Concentrating upon your question, I find that you wish to marry a certain W. M., and there are so many complications, that it has been impossible. Do not let these minor things stand in the way of your happiness. You will not regret marrying this man.

S. M. H. A.—We are interested in a certain type of job, will we get it?

Ans.—It comes to me that you and your husband are trying to get a couple job, and have not been successful so far. Do not get discouraged as you will be surprised in a few days at your good luck.

F. M.—Will I ever receive the help promised?

Ans.—Probing into this matter I find that your father promised you a sum of money sometime ago to aid you in completing your education. Since that time, his job has been lost and financial aid is now out of the question. He will keep his promise as soon as he is able to send the money.

P. M.—Dear Prof: I want to thank you for your help and kindness in my times of trouble. And just as you said, I was able to take the trip and enjoyed myself very much. I shall tell my friends about you and hope that your good work continues.

M. E. A.—What was wrong with this woman?

Ans.—It appears that the woman you were living with stopped speaking to you sometime before you moved. She was told by one of her friends that you said something about her and instead of asking you about it, she preferred to pout and stop talking.

C. M.—Where are my keys?

Ans.—It seems that you have been very careless with your keys, and they were found by a person that does not know you. If you will run an ad in the paper you will find them.

M. B. C.—Will we get the job we have in mind?

Ans.—My Psycho-Mentalist Crystal reveals that sometime ago you and your husband were keeping an apartment, and you are now trying to get another such job. If you will inquire at the place where you last worked, I am sure you will receive some consideration, as you were well thought of.

Fifth Street Store Birthday Sale Will Start Saturday

Celebrating 64 years of value-giving in the popular-price field the Fifth Street Store, founded in 1905, launches its annual Birthday Sale Saturday, Sept. 30 at 9 a. m. For months, the store has been making preparations for this event. Thousands of dollars' worth of brand-new merchandise for now, for the season ahead and for Christmas, are being offered at amazing savings.

The sale this year, takes on added importance because the merchandise was bought before the upswing of the market and the sale brings you old-time bargains at popular prices. "Although every day brings news of withdrawals of price quotations, or wholesale price rises," states Mr. W. A. Paris, president of the Fifth Street Store, "we pledge that no increases will be made on prices of merchandise now in our stocks and that every price advantage available will be passed on to our customers." The Birthday Salesmdhews to this policy."

MAMMOTH CAKE ON DISPLAY

Following the custom of years, a giant cake baked by the Premiere Baking Company and weighing nearly a ton, will be on display in the Broadway windows of the Fifth Street Store. At a later date, the cake will be cut and distributed to the stores customers.

On Saturday, opening day of the Birthday Sale, the store will remain open in the evening until 9 o'clock, thus giving employment to many additional salespeople. The extra hours of business in no way affects the working time of the store's regular employees.

Knights and Daughters of Tabor Entertain in Honor of W. L. Martin

Calazona Tabernacle No. 29 of the youngest in the California-Arizona jurisdiction of the International Order of Twelve, Knights and Daughters of Tabor, was brought very prominently to public and fraternal notice last Thursday evening when it entertained in honor of the Chief Grand Mentor Sir W. L. Martin.

Sir Martin was elected International Vice Grand Mentor of the World at the convention held in August in Vicksburg, Miss.

The entertainment was held in the Taborian Hall at the conclusion of the regular business meeting. Sir Martin entered the Hall with an escort of past grand officers, wearing a new uniform, the gift of the Knights and Daughters of Oakland and Berkeley. Daughter Hattie Williams performed the introductions. A program, highlighted by Sir Martin's address, was enjoyed by all.

LAUDS JURISDICTION

Sir Martin spoke at length on his 7,240 mile trip in the interest of the Taborian order as well as the jurisdiction. He paid honor to his jurisdiction, saying:

"You have not only honored me, but yourselves. Through your activities, the fraternal world is looking toward California." A vocal solo was rendered by Daughter Hattie B. Norwood known as the "Song bird of Tabor." A purse of $21.50, made up by members and friends of the Order, was presented the honor guest by Daughter Daisy Williams, under auspices of Calazona Tabernacle.

Gift of LaVeta Tent No. 29 was a hand made scroll, inscribed W. L. Martin, I. V. S. M. Young Charles Daniels, a page in LaVeta Tent made the presentation in a three-minute speech, concluding with a piano solo dedicated to the "Tent Father," Daughter Josephine McClelland is queen mother of the Tent. Concluding the program an instrumental solo was presented by little Miss Eloise Moffett.

Not only in fraternal but in religious work has Sir Martin been recognized a leader. It was announced that Bishop Noah Williams, presiding elder of the 5th Episcopal district, has appointed him special agent in the jurisdiction of the Southern California conference of the AME church.

Horace P. Clark Announces 'Blue Room' Opening

Horace P. Clark, known thruout the nation as the 'genial host of the Coast', has just informed the EAGLE that his new and fashionable Blue Room will be opened to the public beginning Wednesday, Sept. 27.

Stepping off with an individual press preview dinner on Monday evening the opening is scheduled to last one week. Much stress is put on the fact that it will be most necessary to make reservations ahead of time to have dinner in the new dining room this coming Wednesday and Thursday nights.

The scheme carried out is typically modern and fashionable with a touch of modified dignity. The coloring used is a deep blue upper wall with a draped ceiling of eggshell. The lower wall is biege and the carpeting is deep red. Artistic lighting effects ably done by Virgil Morrow, electrical contractor.

When asked why the simplicity, Mr. Clark went at length to explain. In inquiring of the various guests as to what they thought would be nice in a dining room motif for a new setup, in each individual case the suggestion was for something plain or to that effect.

Although decorators and designers offered plans of various kinds including Arabian, Hawaiian, Colonial, Chinese, Spanish and Modernistic, streamline and a number of other motifs, something less tiring to the eyes with a bit of warmness was to be the objective.

Hence, with a fashionable setting, delightful surroundings, genial hospitality, fast and accurate service, excellent cuisine and a friendly, dignified atmosphere are all yours when dining at the Clark Blue Room.

Mr. Clark announces this week's program will be: Monday night: Private banquet, sponsored by Atty. H. E. MacBeth; Tuesday night: strictly invitational Press Preview; Wednesday night: Dinner by reservation only; Thursday night: dinner by reservation only; Friday night, Honoring Club representatives; Saturday night: Souvenir Night to Dinner Guest; Saturday night: Conventional.

In conjunction with the regular dinner menu the feature of the new Blue Room will be steaks, chops and fried chicken.

Says Oil Control Bill Should Be Defeated

Assemblywoman Jeanette Daley of San Diego last night told 500 members of the California

Dr. Leonard to Open Modern Offices

During a recent visit to Boston, Mass., he inspected the Forsyth Dental Infirmary.

One-Time Office Boy Celebrates Long Career

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28—Twenty-five years ago Hayden Joseph Christophe (above) began working around the drug store and insurance company of the late Walter Cohen, prominent customs inspector and politician of Louisiana and one of the South's most influential Negroes. Today he is the secretary-treasurer of the People's Insurance company of this city. Last week an impressive observance of his long years of constructive service to and with the company was observed in grand fashion.

Christophe says his hobby is insurance. He represented his company at the recent national confab of the National Negro Insurance Association in Los Angeles.

Business Women's Council has that "unless the Oil Control Bill Proposition No. 5 on the November ballot is defeated, the State will be faced with the threat of an oil monopoly.

"Once the politicians are made dictators of this important industry we can expect conditions similar to those in Louisiana where control laws are in effect.

"The Louisiana oil control scandal caused the resignation of the Governor while the director of the control commission killed himself. The temptations surrounding a controlled oil industry, the chance for corruption and graft, are simply too great for mortal men."

Mrs. Daley explained the features of the Bill and pointed out that the independents were in unanimous opposition since they fear they will be driven from business under competition controlled under the regulation of politicians.

If the competition of the independent oil men is ever eliminated, watch the price of gasoline go up," she declared.

FIGHT AFTERMATH

The heat floored Central avenue way before Joe Louis floored Bob Pastor Wednesday night of last week.

Usually, following the fights of Louis and Henry "The Hammer" Armstrong, the Eastside runs amuck with whoops and shouts, the ringing of trolley bells and blowing of automobile horns. This is more true of the Brown Bomber's battles than those of Hank, who approximates the native son.

Suffering its hottest day in 26 years with the mercury up 107 point 2 degrees, locals were too warm apparently to exert themselves in celebrating Jolting Joe's title defense.

CURRENT DEBATE

From looking over the nation's weekly press for the past several days, it appears that the current question for debate isn't so much that which revolves around U. S. participation in the European war, or that which has to do with neutrality as it affects this country. On the contrary it has to do with the purported statement of the Rev. L. K. Williams, president of the National Baptist convention, made in an address before that body recently in Philadelphia.

One side is of the opinion that Rev. Williams, in a tirade against Father Divine, said he "would call no Negro God". The other side is of the opinion that he said, "I will call no man God".

GABBY BITS:

In the mail from Honolulu, comes a word or two about the activity of one Floyd G. Snelson, nationally known writer. Snelson, who has been with the Federal Writers' Project for most of the past three years, is now a steward aboard the United States Army Transport "Republic". He says he left New York August 15 on his way to the base in Honolulu via the Panama Canal and San Francisco, and left the islands on the 20th of September to return to Gotham over the same route. His column, "Harlem", appearing elsewhere in this issue, contains his impressions of life on the sea, at the moment, and on the islands. He sends greetings to L. A. pals, including veteran newsman Lawrence LaMar . . .

The world's biggest county fair, at Pomona, will hold forth until Oct. 1 . . . Howard "Skip" Smith and Mack "Skippy" Gravelly, the two lads who spent most of the summer trying to get back East for various air meets, haven't lost any of their enthusiasm. Howard is taking a three months' course in parachute rigging, while Mack is enrolled at Frank Wiggins . . .

A medal to her: The presence of mind of a 16-year old girl, Lucy Watson, saved the collective lives of 47 classmates, riding in a school bus last week in Longview, Wash. Reports of discrimination because of color and race at the funhouse on Venice Pier were bruited about in the past fortnight. An attendant at the goings-on on the pier reported that a group of Americans were denied admittance because of their color . . .

On her recent visit to Tuskegee Institute, Ala., Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, America's First Lady, is reported to have told the 3,000 or more students: "Though I never minimize the difficulties which this generation has to face, I say to you, good luck; you are fortunate to be here, fortunate in the background of this institution. I hope that as the years go on the young people of both races will have a better place in which to live" . . . Scheduled to appear here at the Palomar next month, Count Basie, noted orchestra leader, is seriously ill, according to advices from the East. 6 Murals Hung in Baltimore High BALTIMORE, Sept. 28.—With just two years of high school art training to his credit, William Smith, 16, had six murals hung in the corridor of Douglass High school here last week.

Done in vivid oils and captioned "Inheritance," "Survival" and "Aspiration", the paintings show the history of the colored race, from Africa to the occasion when Miss Marian Anderson sang in Washington last Spring.

OCCUPATIONAL SKETCHES of interesting work

Sketch Subject: WINCE V. KING . . . General Building Contractor.

By LILLIAN JONES

Active in building construction in Los Angeles for the past sixteen years has been Wince V. King, general building contractor. Builder of some of the city's most beautiful residences, his work stands as an example of the high quality of his craftsmanship.

King, born into a family of builders, has never done any other kind of work. He says that his occupational career began when he was only nine years old! King's father was a contractor in Crockett, Texas, and his two older brothers were also engaged in building construction. King was thus fortunate in having adequate opportunity for serving his apprenticeship. He decided to specialize in carpentry.

Although knowing that his many years of practical experience gave him some advantage over the trade-school carpenter, King has not been satisfied to stand on this experience alone. He has always sought improvement in his craft through self-study, and endeavors to keep up with all the latest developments in the building construction field. Study of technical works on building, such as those published by the Chicago Technical Society, have served to supplement his practical experience.

King left Crockett, Texas when twenty-five years old, and went to Chicago, then later, to Kansas City, where he worked as a carpenter.

He came to Los Angeles in 1923 and was first engaged to do building repair work for the Harvey Sand and Gravel Company.

After about six months residence in California he secured a state license for general contracting.

After alternating for two or three years between general contracting on his own, and working as a carpenter for other contractors, King decided to go in for general contracting all together.

One of his first jobs as a general contractor was the building of a large plant for the Harvey Sand and Gravel Company, in Los Angeles. He later built a similar plant for this same company in Monrovia.

King has done a good deal of small-type commercial building but is most widely known for residential construction. Some outstanding residences built by King include a $17,000 home on Seventh Avenue for Frank Harvey; a seven room residence costing $12,500 on E. 46th street for the B. H. Grahams; a ten room house costing $7,500 on 20th street in Santa Monica, for Dr. Marcus O. Tucker; and the $6,300, six room residence of Rich Baker, in Los Angeles.

Alteration and repair work is for King as important an activity as new construction.

Pointing out that the majority of residences in the Central Avenue District are not less than fifty years old, King foresees a continuous need for building activity in this community.

Although qualified workers in all building construction trades are needed, King emphasizes that architects and general contractors, particularly, are fewer by far than are needed to adequately serve the community.

"How did your crop turn out", asked the white farmer, and received the following amazing answer:

"I planted my cotton; den I weeded it; raised it, baled it and den de ducks ate it all up."

The startled white man wanted to know, "How". And the Negro farmer replied:

"It was dis way. I sent them bales to Memfis, Tennessee to be sold. NEW YORK, Sept. 28—"I think it is time Harlem stopped permitting white writers to enjoy its hospitality and then go back and write articles and books ridiculing them".

That was the statement made this week by Jay Clifford, Harlem "host" and intimate of celebrities of both races, in commenting on the half-million dollar libel suit he has filed against famed English art-photographer, Cecil Beaton. leigh whipper says screen work easy

Leigh Whipper, a trouper of 29-years experience, is in motion pictures at last, and making a vacation out of it.

Whipper is Crooks, the Negro stable-hand in the Hal Roach picture, "Of Mice and Men," which is being produced and directed by Lewis Milestone.

"This is the softest job of acting I've had," enthused Whipper. "It's much easier than the stage. You don't have to do any work at all. The director does everything." rector does everything."

IN STAGE VERSION

Whipper played Crooks in the stage version of John Steinbeck's novel since it opened in New York in November, 1937.

A native of Bethesda, Maryland, Whipper was schooled at St. Paul's Parochial academy there, getting the equivalent of a two-years' college course

"I was one of three colored boys admitted to the school, an episcopal institution," he said.

Whipper began his stage career as a monologist. He plays the deadliest game of bridge in the entire cast of the picture. The group is currently on location at Aguora Ranch, 40 miles north of Hollywood.

cab gives 'minnie' a birthday party

NEW YORK, Sept. 28,—The 10th birthday of a famous lady, "Minnie, the Moocher", was celebrated here with a party in the Cotton Club last Friday by her father, Cab Calloway, famous band leader.

The celebration marked a decade of popularity for Cab's radio theme song. He estimated he has played the tune and shouted the raucous words over 25,000 times.

maid with o'sullivan on plane arriving in u. s. from europe

"Frst Negro girl to fly across the Atlantic ocean" is the distinction held by Miss Elaine Frances Ross, personal maid of Maureen O'Sullivan, who returned with the star last week from war-torn Europe.

Miss Ross flew from England on the Yankee Clipper. Last minute trouble with the plane's motor limited the number of passengers to fifteen.

Elaine's selection among the lucky fifteen caused great excitement among Americans left behind many of whom threatened suit. The return trip was made in twenty two hours.

"It was thrilling", said Miss Ross in an exclusive Eagle interview this week. She explained however, "Miss O'Sullivan and I are happy to be back, even though all our luggage had to be left behind."

FINE TREATMENT

When queried as to her treatment during the trip, Miss Ross, who is only twenty-one years old stated "On the boat in Europe, and returning on the plane, I had the finest treatment and met very lovely people."

While in England Miss Ross reported, she experienced three false air raids. London is very depressing, "being torn up with machine guns." All stores are closed--no light is allowed in homes, automobiles, street cars, or stores. Gas masks, reports Miss Ross, are as common as women's purses, having special cases of gay colors. Children take the masks along whenever they go out doors. Hundreds of airplanes are suspended over London as a protection against air raids.

Miss O'Sullivan and her maid left Los Angeles August 19th, sailing from New York on the Queen Mary. First stop was in Ireland, the star's native land. Miss O'Sullivan was scheduled to appear opposite Robert Montgomery in the proposed British made MGM flicker, "Busman's Holiday". She arrived dramatically in London the day after war was declared. At this point, the ladies O'Sullivan and Ross had only one idea: return to the USA. Passage on the Clipper was very difficult to obtain, explains Miss Ross.

ben carter gets role in new film

Anything Can Happen in Hollywood! But it is most unusual when a casting director is chosen to portray a role in a motion picture instead of the actors he has been trying to sell.

Such was the case Friday when Ben Carter, well-known colored booking agent was chosen by 20th Century-Fox studios to play a big role.

Carter was trying his "darndest" to sell Napoleon Simpson and Bud Harris to 20th Century-Fox. Prior to this, Ben Carter had cast Simpson into the only colored role in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," starring Raymond Massey.

Carter, in his zeal to aid Simpson and Harris, demonstrated how to portray the scene. He did it so well that the director asked him to make a screen test—and Darryl F. Zanuck okayed the test.

Shooting title of the picture is "Little Ole New York."

urban league film exhibited at new york world's fair

NEW YORK, Sept. 28,—Among the educational motion pictures on daily display at the New York World's Fair is "Let My People Live," a two-reel film made last year through the cooperation of the National Urban League and Tuskegee Institute with the National Tuberculosis Association.

This picture, which stars Rex Ingram and Peggy Howard, is one of the few Negro exhibits at the Fair. It vividly demonstrates the effect of tuberculosis and warns all who have any symptoms of the disease to seek treatment immediately.

j-bug requests lionel's tie

NEW YORK, Sept. 28,—"Give me your tie", My brother thinks you're solid and he wants to frame it." That was the peculiar request made of Lionel Hampton, drummer and vibraharpist with Benny Goodman's swing band, by a white girl jitterbug at the World's Fair last week.

The J-bugs mobbed Hampton at the conclusion of the swing concert.

films offering wide choice of ocean voyages

The Atlantic and the Pacific are veey fine, Grade A, No. 1, first class oceans and Americans are not likely to forget them in these particularly hectic days of war across the seas. Neither is Hollywood—but for an entirely different reason.

For Hollywood, it is evident from a studio survey today, has embarked on a series of voyages (cinematically, of course) utilizing the big ponds in 10 movies —not to mention a trio of films of nautical nature which makes use of rivers whose waters eventually tomble into one or the other of the big ponds. That is really getting to the source of things.

Paramount must be given a 21-gun salute because it is, at the moment, winner of the cinematic regatta with three super-epics of the sea ready for release. First of these is "Jamaica Inn", produced by Erich Pommer and Charles Laughton (who is also the star), and relating the enormously exciting story of nineteenth century smugglers, villainous and cruel, who spend their time wrecking merchant ships off the desolate Cornish coast by snuffing out the lighthouse lamps.

Directed by Alfred Hitchcock, England's finest director, "Jamaica Inn" gives Laughton the type of role he had in "Mutiny on the Bounty".

Second in Paramount's nautical parade is "Rulers of the Sea" telling of the first crossing of the Atlantic by a steamboat. Completing the trio is Dorothy Lamour's "Typhoon", in which the nasty old Pacific is obviously, a leading character.

Warner's is going down to sea, pictorially, with the "Sea Hawk" starring Errol Flyn, and in 'Gambling Ship on the High Seas." They are considering also a thing called "Coney Island." This may be termed a sea story, inasmuch as the Atlantic will at least have a big part in the production.

RKO-Radio is manufacturing "The Swiss Family Robinson"; MGM has "Thunder Afloat" and Edward Small is producing "South of Pago Pago." Twentieth Century-Fox has "Swanee River," a musical which is the heretofore mentioned film utilizing a river for a locale. It's water, isn't it?

Producers' Pictures, a new concern, is going grimly about the business of filming Jack London's "Torture Ship." And last but not least, to coin a cliche, is Mr. Samuel Goldwyn's "The Fleet's In" co-starring Andrea Leeds and Jon Hall.

hall johnson choir under contract

Twentieth Century-Fox has placed the famous Hall-Johnson choir under contract for "Swanee River", the Technicolor production based on the life of Stephen Foster, the great song writer who was the first to popularize Negro music. The choir, perhaps the most unique organization of its kind in the world, will render several of Foster's most famous Negro ballads for the screen, among them "My Old Kentucky Home," "Old Black Joe" and "Old Folks at Home."

new studio safari to film in africa

As a result of the spectacular success of 'Stanley and Livingstone", 20th Century-Fox will send another expedition into Africa early next year to film what was perhaps the most amazing single exploit of the World War.

Darryl F. Zanuck, dynamic production chief at the studio, revealed this week that he had purchased the film rights to "The Tanganyika Exploit" and that Director Otto Brower will head another safari into the Dark Continent during the dry season in January to film the strange adventure.

The tale is a factual account of a battle fought on Lake Tanganyika between a British and three German gunboats in East Africa which gave England control of that whole vast territory in the last war.

The picture, Zanuck revealed, will probably be made in Technicolor and show Africa in all its natural beauty for the first time. Zanuck also announced that he may accompany the African expedition and thus combine a long-needed vacation with work.

In January, he is scheduled for appearances in the North Central States, where he will give recitals in Minneapolis, St. Cloud, Minn., and Fargo, N. D., following which he will be heard in Salt Lake City. From there he proceeds to the Pacific Coast, returning again for appearances in the East in March and April.

FLASH!

What relaxation from that torrid heat wave that we had here in So. Calif. this past week! I know all you cats didn't have to "get hot" with those instruments, because tht weather looked out for you. Well, we can forget the heat now and get back in the groove again, because the weather-man says that everything will be mellow from now on.

FLASH!

Wilton (sax) Johnson has been back in his home town, Sacramento, the past few months. As the most of you cats know, Wilton has been a proud papa for the past five months, his very charming wife, Mazie, presenting him with a beautiful baby girl. Wilton is a very fine musician as well as arranger. He is a graduate of Sacramento Jr. college where he studied music and also attended the U. of So. California School of Music. He has played with all the major bands on the Pacific Coast and spent two years in the East with Curtis Mosby's band when that band a few years ago was such a terrific hit. At the present time Wilton is doing some fine swinging at the Florida Inn cafe, swanky night spot outside of Sacramento.

Little Miss Le (Armistic) Brooks and Miss Rena Clark, the two majorettes who swing such a fine baton in front of the Ben Bowie Post band of the American Legion, deserve much praise for their ability. Everyone knows that in order to swing that long baton, a person must have a knowledge of music as well as physical ability. One evening last week when the Ben Bowie Post featured a parade on Central avenue for the benefit of their carnival, I really got my "kicks" watching these little ladies from Jefferson High School swing in the "groove".

UCLA BRUIN STARTERS AGAINST T.C.U. ANNOUNCED

DOWN IN FRONT

With J. CULLEN FENTRESS

OH, HE IS, IS HE?

Some members of the sports writing fraternity are of the opinion that heavyweight champion Joe Louis is slipping. Slipping because he apparently took longer than usual to keep Bob Pastor down for good one night last week.

They are also of the opinion that the next time Joe meets Bob the odds on the champion won't be quite as long as they were this last time they touched gloves.

From where we sit it appears that there is some truth in the first statement if one is to believe that slipping means when a boxer bides his time until he sees an opening. If slipping means that, well Joe IS slipping because it took him 11 rounds to find an opening in a defense which consisted mainly of backing away.

And then, if slipping means lack of steam in punches that allow an opponent to keep rising after being set on his pants, Joe may or may not be slipping. Some of Joe's opponents possess powers to come back for more after being hit.

Those opponents may offer some proof to the claims of slipping. But if slipping means this, it's because Joe isn't by himself in establishing this proof. In other words, it takes Joe plus a tough-jawed opponent to establish any claims of slipping.

If Joe hits any of the toughies enough, however it all adds up to the same thing — KNOCKOUTS.

One thing the bout of last week did show and that was, once the Brown Bomber sees a flaw in a defense he's quick to take advantage of it — be it in the first round or the 11th.

THOSE ENTHUSED BRUINS

A trip, last Saturday, out to the UCLA Bruin practice field, convinced us of two things:

(1) The 1939 edition is possessed of gobs and gobs of enthusiasm.

(2) There's more deception in the attack of this year's coast conference representative.

We devote a lot of space to the UCLA entry because it is the only major institution on the coast on whose football squad there are four Negro athletes. We hope that in the future other institutions will follow the Westwood lead.

This enthusiasm we are talking about is very apparent. When Coach "Babe" Horrell blew his whistle Saturday for the boys to face each other in the season's first scrimmage there was so much whooping and hollering you would have thought a bunch of Indians had gone into a war dance. As the lines charged, their first taste of bodily contact was as though they had been inoculated with some fluid designed to make them anxious for more.

The Bruins will use the single wing-back style of offense this year. And it was surprising to note the various formations coming out of it. There is no need to go into that but be satisfied to know that the '39 Bruin backfields will use plenty of deception.

The battle tomorrow night under the arcs at the Coliseum, between the Bruins and the Horned Frogs of Texas Christian university, may well develop into a battle of backfields, bothing being possessed with power and versatility. UCLA's line is untried; TCU's is the same.

Although the Horned Frogs will be favored to lambast the Bruins, don't be too surprised if the Uclans begin their season with a victory.

STRODE, ROBINSON NOT IN OPENING LINEUP AS PART OF UCLA STRATEGY

Veterans to Take Field Against Horned Frogs at Coliseum Tomorrow Night

When the UCLA Bruins take the field tomorrow night at the Coliseum against the Horned Frogs of Texas Christian university, several familiar faces will be missing — missing from the starting line-up.

Woodrow Wilson Strode, beginning his third year as varsity end, will be absent from the firing line. And Jackie Robinson, although yet to appear in a Bruin uniform before the public, will not be in the backfield.

These changes, among others, were announced yesterday by Coach Babe Horrell, who apparently is contemplating some strategy to befuddle the strong invader from Texas.

HORRELL'S LINE-UP

With secret practice sessions the order of the day since the press preview last Saturday of a scrimmage between the regulars and the Red Shirts, Coach Horrell announced the following tentative line-up:

Mitchell and Cascales, ends; Hill and Zarubica, tackles; Frawley and Kyzivat, guards; and Matheson, center. The backfield boasts Mathews at quarter; Washington and Gilmore at the halfback posts, and Overlin, fullback.

IT'S STRATEGY

Coach Horrell did say, however, that the tentative line-up was subject to change without notice.

It is believed that he plans to start the veterans to smother any TCU flurries goalward at the start and then substitute his pass-snatching ends and fireball backfield ace, Jackie Robinson.

The Bruins were in good spirits as the EAGLE went to press. Although in again out again Johnny Wynne, the soph fullback, has had to quit school to take a job, Kenny Washington, who was limping after Saturday's session, appears to be hale and hearty again and is taking part in workouts.

Mayor Fletcher Bowron is scheduled to lead a parade this morning at 11 o'clock when the TCU band, rooters and team arrive from Fort Worth.

BECOMES BENEDICT

TALLAHASSEE (Fla.) Sept. 28—Horace Bell, kicking star of Minnesota's 1938 football team, became a benedict last week. Bell's marriage to Miss Gwendolyn Ruth Hamlin of Indianapolis, was announced here where the football ace has accepted a line coaching and biology instructorship at Florida A. and M. college.

Jesse Owens Still Gets Over Cinders

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 28,—Jesse Owens, world's fastest human, demonstrated here last week that he still has the stuff that gave him that title. Appearing on a barnstorming tour with the Kansas City Monarchs and the Memphis Red Sox, Owens gave Andrew Miles, Xavier university athlete, a 10-yard handicap, then won the 100 yard dash in 9.8s.; the 100 yard low hurdles in 10.3 and circled the bases in 14s.

Redlands' Stars Hold Loyola to 6-0 Win

Stocky, substitute fullback Al Norman played his first game for Redlands university last Friday night at Gilmore stadium and caused considerable inconvenience to Loyola, which might have been his alma mater.

Norman transferred from Loyola to Redlands last year. Hailing from Belmont High where he was the fastest thing on the football team, the youth played frosh ball for the Lions.

Through the good offices of Norman and Nate Moreland, right end, the Lions were held to a 6-0 win. Moreland, a speedy, pass snatching lineman, hails from Pasadena and is one of Redland's ace baseball players.

Cheyney Teacher '11' Plays Howard U. Bisons Oct. 7

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 28,—Perfect weather and a spirited group of Howard University gridders greeted head coach Harry Payne at the third wtek of practice last Monday morning. Captain Arthur Elliott, vetern quarterback from Cincinnati, Ohio, was on hand to lead the Bisons through their conditioning exercises.

With Cheyney Teachers scheduled for the first game on Oct. 7, the Bisons will begin the season with four weeks of practice under their gridiron belts. Cheyney usually presents a scrappy outfit and the local team looks forward to a strenuous game. Of the many new men on the Bison team, only 17 are veterans. Some of the newcomers have shown great prorise and some have all-star rating from their home towns, but older players will get first call on the varsity eleven. Newcomers lacking college experience, will substitute until they are grounded in C. I. A. A. competition.

New style uniforms will be used this season. The jersies are of solid navy blue with 8 inch white numerals on the back and front; khaki colored pants with blue insets on the back and socks with white stripes complete the outfit. The colorful white jersies trimmed in blue which were worn last year will be reserved this year for the games away from the university.

Prairie View and Wiley Meet at State Fair

MARSHALL, Tex., Sept. 28,—The Annual Wiley-Prairie View gridiron attraction will again be staged at the State Fair of Texas in Dallas on Monday afternoon of October 16. This will be the eleventh time that the Wildcats and the Panthers have met in the Cotton Bowl.

Last year the two teams battled to a 6-6 draw when Prairie View scored early in the first quarter and Wiley came from behind in the third period to knot the count.

This year's game promises to be an even greater battle with Prairie View putting a veteran team on the field, and Wiley, despite Coach Long's moan "We haven't got a thing," is expecting to be one of the top-notchers of the Southwestern Conference.

Prairie View and Wiley teams have met annually since 1918.

Lightning Shocks 8 Footballers

SCOTLANDVILLE, (La.), Sept. 28,—Eight youths reporting for football practice, were seriously menaced here last week by lightning which struck dangerously near them, knocking two unconscious and stunning the other six.

Rain came up in the midst of football practice and the boys were dismissed to the showers. As they walked off the field, lightning flashed. Six of the youths were stunned by the flash and impact. When they regained their feet, they reeled as if drunk. The remaining two, "Pelican" Hill and Obie Harrison, veteran players did not get up. President Clark was burned slightly. All are confined to the University hispital.

Bray-Henry Bout Stopped; Commission May Probe It

That California state colored heavyweight championship seems to be playing tricks on everybody —including its holder.

Big Boy Bray, the titleholder, and Yancey Henry met Tuesday night at the Olympic and they may as well have shaken hands and went their respective ways.

Because:

(1) Referee Jack Kennedy, in the final seconds of the ninth round, stopped the alleged battle and announced that (a) Henry couldn't fight if he wanted to because of a split thumbnail; (b) that the purses would be held up pending an investigation by the State Athletic Commission; (c) the smallest house in years had hoped it had been stopped in the first round, for all the action they got.

It appears that several days before his scheduled appearance at the downtown swatatorium, Henry's thumb had become entangled in the blades of an electric fan. The house physician, however, gave him an okay for his go with Bray.

Weighing 214 to Henry's 195½, Bray enjoyed a substantial lead when referee Kennedy essayed his mercy errand.

In the supporting bouts, all of which were six-rounders, Francis Jacques tko'ed Pio Pico in the second round when the latter suffered a bad gash over his right eye; Chico Romo drew with Henry Majcher; Memo Llannes nodded Frankie Kainrath and Hut Thompson outpointed Miller Fonseca in the opener.

NEXT TUESDAY

The Hogue twins, Big Boy and Shorty, feature next Tuesday night's bill at the Olympic against standout opponents. An innovation, aimed to create new fans, will take effect also when ladies will be admitted free with escorts in reserved sections.

Hitler

All Europe has vibrated with the news of two particular, important deaths among the thousands of other less significant demises this week.

In Rumania, veteran anti-nazi Premier Calinescue was murdered by a group of six Nazis.

On the outskirts of beleaguered Warsaw, German Col. Gen. Werner Von Fritsch was mysteriously killed by a stray bullet.

According to authentic reports from Rumania, the assassins of Calinescue have been established as Nazi agents. It is no new trick for Adolph Hitler to murder political enemies in a foreign land, so there was not too much surprize throughout Europe over the Rumanian executive's death. However, in this case Herr Hitler's strategy has back-fired.

Most observers agree that Calinescue's removal was part of an elaborate scheme to reinstate Rumania's ancient Iron Guard, pro-nazi and opposed to democratic King Carol. The late prime minister, of course, was a self made man, a product of the great Rumanian peasant class, and one of the bitterest enemines of National Socialism in Europe.

But the ruthless assassination has failed completely to strengthen the position of the Old Guard. When at some future date historians compile the record of Hitler's diplomatic coups, this one will probably go down as an outstanding flop. For, within twenty-four hours after Calinescue's death a new cabinet had been formed which is more thoroughly anti-nazi than any in recent Rumanian history. The assassins have been executed along with scores of nazi sympathizers whom it is suspected were involved in the plot.
